COOLIDGE DEDICATES MOUNTAIN MEMORIAL TO FOUR PRESIDENTS

He Lauds the Achievements of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Roosevelt.

CEREMONY IN BLACK HILLS

President Says Figures to Be Carved on Stone Wall Will Be a National Shrine.

AVIATOR DROPS MESSAGES

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 10.—In this Western empire a colossal national memorial to Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt was dedicated today by President Coolidge, who in a speech sketched the epochal achievements of those outstanding American leaders, whose figures are to appear in stone on the granite face of Mount Rushmore.

Standing at the base of the mountain President Coolidge told of the place in history of Washington, his struggles, in behalf of independence, constitutional government and liberty, declaring him the "foremost disciple of ordered liberty, a statesman with an inspired vision who is not outranked by any mortal greatness."

Jefferson, he said, emphasized the element of self-government and demonstrated that "it was practical and would be permanent"; he likewise embodied the spirit of expansion, and recognized the destiny of the country, the President said.

Lincoln demonstrated the permanency of the Union and extended the principle of freedom to all the inhabitants of our land, declared the President.

"Above all other national figures, he holds the love of his fellow-countrymen," he added. "The work which Washington and Jefferson began, he extended to its logical conclusion. Roosevelt strove to add economic freedom to the political freedom already existing, and by building the Panama Canal brought into closer relationship the East and the West.

After the President had spoken before the hundreds assembled Gutzon Borglum carved the first lines of the profile of George Washington. Messages were dropped from an airplane at the ceremonies from Governors of many States and flags recalling the history of the several periods and its wars were unfurled.

President in Cowboy Attire.

President Coolidge made the ascent of three miles by horseback. Riding with him were Senator S. D. Fess of Ohio, Colonel Winship, Major Coupal and Secret Service men.

Mr. Coolidge wore a high cowboy hat, cowboy boots, with Mexican spurs and buckskin gloves. Arriving at the stone plateau, where the exercises were held, he discarded the spurs but appeared on the stage to deliver his speech in real Western attire. He was greeted with cheers as he arose to speak, his cowboy boots with yellow tops and his sandy hair glistening in the sunlight.

As the President dismounted in real cowboy style and slowly ascended the stone theatre to face fully 2,000 persons, who had climbed to the mountain top, the Presidential salute was fired by the explosion of dynamite in the far distant canyon. The echos reverberated through the valley, resembling the stage sounds familiar in "Rip Van Winkle."

It was one of the most imposing scenes the President has viewed in the West, unique in its settings and natural beauty. Fifty voices sang "The Marseillaise," "America," "Hail, Columbia," and "The Star-Spangled Banner" and their notes echoed through the mountains.

Text of President's Address.

President Coolidge spoke as follows:

We have come here to dedicate a cornerstone that was laid by the hand of the Almighty. On this towering wall of Rushmore, in the heart of the Black Hills, is to be inscribed a memorial which will represent some of the outstanding events of American history by portraying with suitable inscription the features of four of our Presidents, laid on by the hand of a great artist in sculpture. This memorial will crown the height of land between the Rocky Mountains and the Atlantic seaboard, where coming generations may view it for all time.

It is but natural that such a design should begin with George Washington, for with him begins

2 HONOLULU FLIERS KILLED IN A CRASH

BODIES CAUGHT IN FLAMES

Machine Was in Trouble at the Hop-Off—Mechanics Warned of Fueling Defect.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 10.—Two of the contestants in the San Francisco-Honolulu flight for the Dole prize were killed today when the low-winged monoplane entered by Lieutenants George W. D. Covell and Richard S. Waggener, Navy fliers, crashed into an embankment on Point Loma and burst into flames, burning the fliers to death.

Laughing at the fact that they had drawn position number 13 in the Hawaiian race, Lieutenants Covell and Waggener took off from North Island Naval Air Base at 7:18 o'clock this morning for Oakland.

According to word from North Island, the fliers disregarded advice of the mechanics who worked most of last night attempting to remedy a defect in the fueling system. The mechanics advised them against starting until a thorough test had been made. From the start, according to those who witnessed the take-off, Covell, who was piloting, was in trouble.

Apparently Tried to Turn Back.

The plane taxied for more than a mile and a half across the island, its low wings almost flapping the ground before it gained sufficient momentum to rise above the bay as it headed toward Point Loma. The airplane was skimming the water and an apparent attempt was being made to turn back toward the island when the crash came.

Some of those who saw the accident were of the opinion the fliers were attempting to make a forced landing on the point just above the entrance to Fort Rosecrans. The plane made a nose dive, turning completely over in the air. It struck fifty feet from the edge of an embankment, just in the rear and to the left of the home of Mrs. Maude McKim, 306 San Fernandino Street, La Playa.

The plane hit the bank with such force that it split off the edge of the cliff, then dropped back into a hollow, where an explosion buried both the machine and the bodies in loose earth. The machine was a snarled heap, half in the earth and half out, flames breaking out spasmodically with small explosions of flares that had been aboard. Bits of the craft were hurled to the roof of the McKim home, and fire spread over an acre of brush at the top of the embankment. Mrs. McKim, who is Principal of the Loma Portal school, was not at home.

Boy Runs to the Rescue.

The McKim home is above and to the left of the home of M. C. Tombler, 310 San Fernandino Street. Both Mr. and Mrs. Tombler said they heard the roar of the plane and the crash. Mrs. Tombler ran to a rear window just in time to see the wreckage burst into flames. The noise and smoke brought Morris Tombler, 15, rushing from his home in his stocking feet. With a garden hose the lad ran to the edge of the embankment, and, crying for help, began playing water over the burning wreckage.

Word of the accident was telephoned into the city and fire apparatus and ambulances were dispatched.

Only one small hose could play on the wreck, and this was stretched up the cliff from the Tombler garden faucet. The pressure was too feeble to make much impression on the flames for a long time, nor could the metal be immediately lifted off the bodies because of the heat. Spectators, including women and children, climbed a ledge-like trail to view the wreck. One of the bodies was in plain sight. It was not until 10 o'clock, about two hours and a half after the accident, that stretchers could be brought up the cliff to take out the bodies.

The funerals will be held from the

WALKER SIGNS FRANCHISE

NO ONE SOUGHT TO SPEAK

Court Rejects Charge That Offer Was Less Advantageous to City —Appeal to Be Taken.

The application for an injunction to restrain the city from carrying out the award of a bus franchise for Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens to the Equitable Coach Company and to prevent Mayor Walker from signing the franchise voted by the Board of Estimate, brought by Stewart Browne, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, was denied yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Curtis A. Peters.

Immediately after receiving word officially of Justice Peters's decision, Mayor Walker signed the franchise at 3:30 o'clock in his office at City Hall.

The Mayor several days ago signed the contracts for the Surface Transportation Corporation, a subsidiary of the Third Avenue Railway Company, for the bus franchise in the Bronx and of the Tompkins Bus Corporation for the bus franchise in Richmond, so he departs for Europe with the bus matter seemingly settled so far as he can settle it.

Serves Notice of Appeal.

Although Mayor Walker had signed the franchise contract, Mr. Browne said last night that he intended to appeal from Justice Peters's decision, and had served a notice of appeal on the Corporation Counsel.

"We did not receive notice of the decision until after 3:30, the time at which I am informed Mayor Walker signed the franchise," Mr. Browne said. "We will ask the Court for a stay in the morning. I suppose the Mayor by signing the franchise contract has complicated matters. I am not enough of a lawyer to say."

Individual routes in the franchise granted to the Equitable Company are still subject to attack before the Transit Commission in the hearing on the application which the company will have to make for certificates of convenience and necessity, and it is understood that the B. M. T. will attack certain routes in Brooklyn on the ground that they would compete with existing surface lines.

Justice Peters held that Mr. Browne had failed to prove his charge that Mayor Walker had denied a public hearing on the Equitable Company's amended application for a franchise and said the preponderance of the evidence was that the Mayor had not, as alleged by Mr. Browne, called the item on the Board of Estimate calendar in "a low tone of voice." Justice Peters also ruled that Mr. Browne had failed to prove that the offer of the Equitable Company was less favorable to the city than the offers of other companies and that in any event he had not made any charge of fraud against the Mayor and other city officials, who were vested with a certain amount of discretion.

Quotes Secretary's Report.

Justice Peters quoted the testimony of the secretary of the Board of Estimate to support his decision that the Mayor had denied a public hearing on the Equitable Company's application. "The secretary of the Board of Estimate has sworn in an affidavit," Justice Peters said in his opinion, "that the following is a correct tran-

Lightning Stuns 35 Soldiers Of Polish Regiment on Hike

Copyright, 1927, by The New York Times Co. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Aug. 10.—Lightning struck in the midst of the Sixteenth Infantry as they were hiking through the woods near Tarnow. Thirty-five soldiers were rendered unconscious by the bolt and were removed to a hospital. Fifteen of them are in a serious condition, from which their recovery is very doubtful.

The accident caused a stampede, the soldiers scattering in all directions and throwing their guns and accoutrements away. It was hours before the troops were reassembled.

WALLIS QUITS POST; SUCCESSOR IS NAMED

WALKER ACTS QUICKLY

Appoints R. C. Patterson Jr., an Engineer, Former Secretary of Fire Department.

Commissioner of Correction Frederick A. Wallis, appointed by Mayor Hylan on Jan. 1, 1923, has resigned, and Mayor Walker has appointed as his successor Richard C. Patterson Jr., an engineer, at one time Secretary of the Fire Department. The resignation and appointment, announced by Mayor Walker last evening just before he left City Hall for his trip to Europe, are effective Aug. 15.

The action announced by the Mayor was unexpected. Early in the year the resignation of Commissioner Wallis was fully expected, following a report practically recommending that such resignation be requested, made by Joseph A. Warren, then Commission of Accounts and now Police Commissioner. Commissioner Warren made his report after an investigation of the Tombs jail-break attempt last November, which resulted in the loss of five lives and showed rather plainly that it was comparatively easy for prisoners in the Tombs to obtain firearms.

Mayor Walker took no action on the report and the matter was virtually forgotten in official circles. It appears, however, from the correspondence made public yesterday that Commissioner Wallis has been anxious to resign. In fact he will, as the Mayor says in his letter accepting the resignation, hold office until Aug. 15 at some inconvenience to himself and at the Mayor's request. The letter of resignation is dated July 15.

Commissioner Wallis's Letter.

The letter of resignation reads:

July 15, 1927.

Hon. James J. Walker,
Mayor, City of New York.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Late last Summer during the survey visit of your Honor and party to Riker's and Welfare Island, I reiterated that, when my program for the Department of Correction had been adopted and the work actually under way, I would feel entitled to request release from my duties as Commissioner.

May I take this occasion to express again appreciation of your approval of the program, and the using of your influence with the Board of Estimate in securing initial appropriations to carry out the physical units of the plan, viz.:

(a) Sixty-two thousand dollars for personnel and equipment for receiving and distributing at Riker's Island the earth from subway excavations, heretofore dumped at sea. The material from the Fulton Street subway will afford a reported saving and asset to the city of over $2,000,000; that from Nassau and Sixth Avenue subways to be of much greater value.

(b) Forty-six thousand dollars for

PARADED AT STATE HOUSE

CITY IS QUIET DURING DAY

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—While the fate of Sacco and Vanzetti hung in the balance throughout the day here, Boston was calm. Excitement reigned for a few minutes this afternoon when the police repeated yesterday's action of arresting picketers before the State House, but aside from this there was little reflection of the high feelings that have taxed police powers in New York and in foreign countries.

The elaborate measures taken by the police to avert a demonstration before the Charlestown State Prison were in working order early in the afternoon, with uniformed officers and plain-clothes men posted at intervals along a line two blocks from the jail. The precautions had been widely announced, and few persons ventured that way who were not upon business.

At Sacco-Vanzetti defense headquarters, a dingy little room up a long flight of stairs in a building in the North End, the great mobilization of protesters that had been advertised failed to materialize to any impressive degree. Several groups of men and women from New York and elsewhere who arrived on the scene were directed to Socialist headquarters.

The parade that resulted in the arrests was organized there in a little meeting room. Forty-three men and women and a girl 15 years old were equipped with a number of placards denouncing the course of justice in the Sacco-Vanzetti case and criticising Governor Fuller and his Advisory Committee.

March in Front of State House.

They walked in orderly fashion up to Tremont Street, thence up the hill to the State House. Small groups of persons had collected on the streets and on the Common adjacent to the State House grounds, awaiting the decision of the Governor's Council, which had been expected to decide early in the day whether the condemned men should receive reprieves.

Four or five policemen standing at intervals about the State House apparently took no notice when the group of protestants formed in a single file and proceeded to march up and down at a slow pace displaying placards. A crowd collected rapidly, however, and there soon appeared on the scene Captain James F. Devitt. He stepped up to the head of the little procession and shouted:

"Loitering and sauntering is against the law. You have seven minutes in which to disperse. Move on."

The little parade continued, drawing an ever-increasing throng, which blocked the sidewalks and halted traffic. The seven minutes passed and seven more.

Then two patrol wagons full of uniformed policemen rolled up. The police dashed forth, each man "collaring" as many marchers as he could. Assurances of the picketers that they would make no efforts to escape failed to convince the officers of the law, who dug their hands into the men's coat collars so as to clinch a square of cloth and held on to the arms of women and girl prisoners with muscular gripe.

New York Women Arrested.

Of the forty-four, thirty-nine were arrested, eleven women, a girl and twenty-seven men. Among the women were Dorothy Parker of New York, writer of humorous verse; Miss Peggy Tucker, Secretary of the New York Civic Club; Rosie Kimmelman, Secretary of the Cleveland (Ohio) Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committe, and Rose Pesotta of the New York committee.

John Dos Passos, artist and novelist, of New York, was another arrested. He almost escaped by dashing off at top speed when he saw the police coming. His headlong flight was interrupted by a member of the State police force, whom he bumped into. The collision attracted a city policeman, who grabbed him.

There being insufficient room in the patrol wagons, a number of the prisoners were escorted four blocks to the Joy Street station by police officers, who did not relinquish their

Gov. Fuller Reveals Reasons for Giving a Stay; Attorney General of State Advised the Action

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Thursday, Aug. 11.—Governor Fuller's statement on the twelve-day stay in the execution of Nicola Sacco, Bartolomeo Vanzetti and Celestino Madeiros, as given out at midnight, reads as follows:

The courts of the Commonwealth are actively engaged in the work of considering and deciding the various motions and petitions filed by the counsel in these cases. The courts themselves have no power to grant a respite.

To afford the courts an opportunity to complete the consideration of the proceedings now pending and render their decision thereon, I have recommended to the Executive Council that the sentences of Sacco, Vanzetti and Madeiros be respited for twelve days, or until midnight on Monday, Aug. 22, 1927.

The Council has unanimously adopted this recommendation.

Prior to its adoption it was recommended by the Attorney General.

MANY MARCHERS ARE HURT

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Egged on by a bobbed-haired girl, 10,000 sympathizers of Sacco and Vanzetti marched on the American Embassy tonight and were only dispersed after police charges in which thirty persons were injured.

The disorders were preceded by a meeting in Hyde Park, which was addressed by "Emperor" Cook, leader of last year's coal strike, and other labor leaders.

"I warn you and I warn America," shouted Cook, "that if they murder those two men we will get even with them. I ask you to take off your hats and pledge yourselves to get even. If America kills these men it will be murder and we will repay."

At the conclusion of his speech Cook pulled out a red flag, which was the signal for singing "The Red Flag" and "Internationale."

March on Embassy Started.

Mrs. Pollitt, wife of the Communist, and other speakers addressed the gathering, the last orator declaring, "the time has now come to march on the American Embassy."

Then the huge crowd immediately rushed to the Marble Arch, and, forming in procession, marched with red flags aloft toward Hyde Park Corner. The procession was led by twenty mounted police and watched by so many thousands of spectators that traffic in Oxford Street came to a standstill for half an hour and hundreds of taxicabs filled with theatregoers in evening dress had to wait in Park Lane until the procession filed into Grosvenor Gardens.

'Twas a heterogeneous assemblage of young girls, white-haired women, workingmen in working clothes and smartly dressed youths. The young, bobbed-haired girl rushed about at the head of the procession, gesticulating wildly and screaming: "The American torturers are not going to kill our Sacco and Vanzetti!"

When the procession reached Grosvenor Gardens, where the Embassy is situated, the police in attendance, numbering about 500, closed in on the procession and mounted police began to disperse the demonstrators.

A wild stampede ensued amid shouts and cries of women unable to escape. A number of demonstrators were pushed through railings and thirty-five of them fell into a basement entrance, many being injured.

The crowd dispersed, but just before midnight regathered and a second police charge took place.

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP). — Huge crowds which, after meetings in Hyde Park, marched on the American Consulate tonight were dispersed by a strong force of foot and mounted police.

The demonstrators, who were singing "The Internationale" and carrying red banners, became packed and immovable when they joined thousands of other spectators in Grosvenor Gardens, opposite the embassy.

Mounted police, riding four and six abreast, charged at a canter into the throng. The people fled in a panic as fast as the human masses could be dissolved, amid the screams of women and the oaterics and curses of men.

Scores of people were crushed into doorways, where cries of distress arose, and shouts of "There are children here!"

Without drawing their clubs, the mounted police, supported by hundreds of police on foot, pushed through the mob, which retired shouting in the various streets as the "bobbies" tugged at them and exhorted them to "come along." The traffic movement presently was restored, over caps, hats and remnants of clothing which had been abandoned by the crowd.

CROWDS HERE CHEER NEWS OF REPRIEVE

APPEAL IS SENT TO POPE

Mrs. Coolidge Also Asked to Help by Urging President to Intercede in Case.

Sacco and Vanzetti sympathizers waited anxiously in New York last night for news of the condemned men, and when definite word of the reprieve granted by Governor Fuller was received there were demonstrations in several parts of the city where crowds had gathered to get the latest news of the two condemned radicals.

The largest crowd was one of about 2,000 persons that assembled in Union Square to receive bulletins. The gathering there broke into loud cheering at 11:45 o'clock when news came of the reprieve.

The jubilation of the throngs, many of the men and women having waited for many hours to learn the fate of the condemned radicals, quickly spread throughout the neighborhood. In Fourteenth Street, between Irving Place and Fourth Avenue, there were several smaller groups of sympathizers. When the news reached them they, too, began to cheer. The cheering continued around Union Square for ten minutes or more and then the throngs disappeared.

Crowd Gathers Quickly.

The crowd had begun to assemble in front of the Jewish Daily Freiheit about 9 o'clock and grew quickly. The police had some trouble keeping the sidewalks clear. Early bulletins which were pessimistic in tone, brought boos and hisses. Then came the first report of the reprieve. There were cheers. Next there was a bulletin saying that the report of the reprieve was untrue. A chorus of jeers and shouts greeted this. Within a short time, however, the definite news of the reprieve was posted.

At midnight last night the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee issued the following statement:

"Organized labor has stayed the hand of the executioner. The mass strength of the international working class, all liberal minded men and women throughout the world, has halted the slaughter of our comrades, Sacco and Vanzetti.

"The Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee warns the workers of the City of New York that the struggle is not over. The fight must be continued with the same determination that has marked organized labor's fight in the past two weeks.

"Workers of New York, continue the fight with renewed vigor. Urge your comrades to participate in demonstrations between now and Aug. 22, on which day the respite forced from Governor Fuller expires. Do not allow the enemies of labor to delude you. This truce is American labor's hard-won victory; only by your vigilance will the truce become an absolute victory.

"This temporary victory is the result, primarily, of the hundreds of strikes and mass demonstrations which marked the activities of the past week. This is a warning to the American Federation of Labor bureaucracy that militant labor will fight its own battles in the future.

"The Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee calls on the workers of New York City to consolidate their position. It calls upon all those who aided in this gigantic struggle to close ranks and carry this truce on to its logical conclusion—the liberation of Sacco and Vanzetti.

"We urge our hundreds of thousands of New York sympathizers to guard jealously this bitterly contested victory. To the thousands of unknown friends who aided us in this fight we extend our thanks and appreciation. On with the fight!"

Six Arrests Are Made.

While several hundred persons were quietly celebrating the news of the reprieve, six men, including two reporters who were on duty, were

DECISION LATE AT NIGHT

COUNCIL IN LONG SESSION

MEN TAKE NOTICE CALMLY

With Madeiros, Also Getting Stay, They Will Be Removed From Death House Today.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

BOSTON, Thursday, Aug. 11.—At 11:24 last night, less than an hour before they were to go to the death chamber, Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti received announcement from Warden William Hendry that Governor Fuller had respited their sentence until midnight of Monday, Aug. 22.

Governor Fuller, with the approval of the Executive Council, stayed the executions of the two men and of Celestino Madeiros, sentenced on a separate murder charge to die at the same time, to allow a ruling on a writ of error by State Supreme Court Judge Sanderson, which, if approved, will take the case to the full bench of the Supreme Court.

At five minutes past 12 when the first of the condemned men was to have walked to the electric chair, Governor Fuller announced that he had recommended to the Executive Council the respite so as to permit the courts to complete consideration of the case. The recommendation was adopted unanimously.

Federal Court Writ Denied.

With his announcement there was also made public statements by United States Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes and Circuit Court Judge George W. Anderson, who denied application for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that they had no right to issue the writ unless it was shown that the court which tried the case lacked jurisdiction. Prejudice on the part of a presiding judge, no matter how strong, would not deprive the court of jurisdiction, said Justice Holmes.

In another statement Attorney General Arthur E. Reading pointed out that Justice Holmes did not find that Justice Thayer had been prejudiced.

Although defense counsel failed to obtain the writ of habeas corpus, they are not debarred from reaching the United States Supreme Court in appealing from the decision of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts.

Less than a minute after Captain Charles R. Beaupre and Sergeant Harold MacFarlane of the State Police left for the prison at Charlestown with the three official reprieves, telegrams were sent from the Governor's office to five of the seven Justices of the State Supreme Court informing them of the respite.

Notifies Supreme Court Justices.

Deputy Sheriff Richard J. Murray had been at the executive offices since 2 o'clock in the afternoon waiting for the action of the Governor and the council. It was not until 11:45 P. M. that Herman Macdonald, secretary to Governor Fuller, called for Mr. Murray. He then wired the Justices Henry Braley, who is at the South Shore; Edward P. Pierce, who is vacationing in Maine; James B. Carroll, in Springfield; William C. Waft, who is in Maine, and George W. Sanderson, who stopped at a hotel near the State House.

It was said the five Justices would convene in the Supreme Court Monday or Tuesday. It was the first time in the memory of local court attaches that members of the Supreme Court have been called in from vacation to sit in any case.

The formal document delaying the execution was rushed from the State House to the State Prison in the hands of Captain Beaupre, who delivered it to Warden Hendry at twenty minutes before midnight. The warden, a heavy, slow-moving man with a dark mustache, took it with a twinkle in his eye and proceeded at once down the long cement corridors that lead from his office to the death house.

"It's all off, boys," he said.

Three Men Awaiting Reprieves.

The three men were sitting on cots in adjoining cells expecting in a few minutes to be marched forth to the electric chair. Preparations for the electrocution, such as slitting trousers legs to receive the metal strips through which the current would pass, had not yet been made.

The news that this was not, after all, to be their last night on earth failed to stir the emotions of any one of the condemned men, said the Warden. Only one of them, as much as

As women and children crowded around a man in the lobby of the Supreme Motion Picture Theatre, Livonia and Williams Avenues, Brooklyn, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, tugging and striking at him while an usher struggled to eject him, the man drew a pistol and fired three shots. One bullet struck the usher, Isadore Mayer, 22 years old, of 263 Nostrand Avenue, Brooklyn, passing through the left side of his body but missing the lung, physicians said later. Although the lobby was tightly packed with a struggling crowd, none of the other bullets found a mark.

The man jerked loose from Meyer's grasp as the crowd fell back at the sound of the shots and started for Williams Avenue. The district at that hour was crowded and many took up the chase, but the assailant held back his pursuers at the point of the pistol, disappeared into a cellar and escaped over back fences to a house under construction in Alabama Avenue. A barber who ran into the street with a pistol at the tumult refrained from shooting for fearing of hitting one of the many women in the street.

Meyer's attention was attracted to the man when Mrs. Pauline Friedman of 602 Georgia Avenue, Brooklyn, who had gone to the theatre with her two children, complained that he was annoying her. She had demanded that he cease his attentions and the altercation turned all eyes from the screen. The audience was composed largely of women and children.

As Meyer ushered the man to the door a number of indignant women and curious children followed. Soldier women began to strike at him and the man started to wrestle with Meyer to get free. He drew the pistol when Meyer held fast and asked some one to call a policeman. At the sounds of the shots there was a rush for the exit. This was halted and order restored by theatre attendants and the arrival of the police.

spoke. This one was Vanzetti, who, throughout the imprisonment, has maintained a less melancholy attitude than Sacco.

Vanzetti arose slowly from his cot and came over to the cell door. Gripping the bars with his hands he leaned forward.

"I'm damned glad of that. I'd like to see my sister before I die," Warden Hendry quoted him as saying.

This was the only response. The Warden said he urged Sacco and Vanzetti to eat. Although meals had been served to both at 6 o'clock last night, neither had touched his food. The Warden said he told them, "Be men now and start eating for a change."

Neither of them replied. The Warden turned and walked off.

"If they want food they can ask for it," he said. He indicated he doubted they would.

The Warden evidenced his satisfaction with the Governor's action by passing cigars around to all in his office. He asked an assistant to read the respite, replete with "Whereases" and "Know ye alls," and smiled with satisfaction as he listened.

Taken From Death House Today.

The condemned men remained in the death house over night, as there were no cells ready for them elsewhere in the prison. Later this morning, the Warden said, they will be removed to the Cherry Hill section of the jail.

A battalion of mounted policemen were stationed directly before the prison gates. Except for them the little square was deserted, all traffic being diverted a quarter of a mile off at Cambridge Street by a dozen policemen stationed there who halted pedestrians and automobilists and formed a cordon across the roadway to the prison.

Nowhere in Boston streets was there any evidence of high interest, far less mob excitement, at the outcome of the proceedings.

As the respite was announced, Superintendent of Police Crowley issued orders which called off the extra guards, machine gun squads and other precautionary measures at the prison.

Sacco and Vanzetti were sentenced to die in the electric chair on conviction of the murder of a paymaster and his guard at South Braintree on April 15, 1920. Madeiros was convicted of the murder of a Wrentham bank cashier in November, 1924, and had made a "confession" asserting the innocence of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Madeiros was to go to the chair first, then Sacco, and Vanzetti third.

Defense Counsel Wins Struggle.

The Warden's announcement came after a day of hectic and extraordinary events, during which the lives of the condemned men hung in the balance. Arthur D. Hill, chief of defense counsel, fought a superhuman battle to save his clients. Yesterday morning he succeeded in obtaining a promise from State Supreme Court Judge Sanderson for a ruling this morning on the question of an appeal to the full bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

Papers were prepared for an appeal on the writ of habeas corpus and rushed to the death house for the signatures of the men. Governor Fuller, for the first time in the history of the commonwealth, convened a conference of seven of the eight living Attorneys General of the State to assist him in acting on the request for a respite. He also summoned a special meeting of his Executive Council to pass upon his decision.

In the afternoon Mr. Hill, following an urgent plea before the Governor for a respite, made a dramatic dash by automobile to the Summer home of United States Supreme Court Justice Holmes at Beverly Farms, thirty miles away. The venerable jurist found himself unable to grant a writ of habeas corpus.

Mr. Hill flung himself into the car and drove madly to the home of Circuit Court Judge Anderson. Again he failed. Only one hope remained. That was Governor Fuller.

At 7:30 P. M., Mr. Hill return to Boston. An hour later he was addressing the Executive Council at the State House.

The Council was reluctant to grant a respite. Mr. Hill, a former district attorney of Suffolk County (Boston), made a final plea. He was haggard and worn from the day's exertions. But, summoning all his eloquence (he is a master of oratory and an of a former professor of literature at Harvard), he swayed the Council and the Governor to give his clients a respite. His victory in their fight for time had been won when he emerged from the Council Chamber at 11:12 P. M.

Ruling of Justice Holmes.

Here is the ruling of Supreme Court Justice Holmes:

Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, petitioners for habeas corpus:

This petition was presented to me this tenth day of August, 1927, and was argued by counsel for the petitioners. I am unable to find in the petition or affidavits, as I understand them, any facts that would warrant my issuing the writ. I have no authority to issue it, unless it appears that the Court had not jurisdiction of the case in a real sense. To that no more than the form of a court was there. But I cannot think that prejudice on the part of the presiding judge, however strong, would deprive the Court of jurisdiction, that is, of legal power to decide the case, and in my opinion nothing short of a want of legal power to decide the case authorizes me to interfere in this summary way with the proceedings of the State Court.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES,
Associate Justice Supreme Court of the United States.

Opinion of Judge Anderson.

Circuit Judge Anderson's ruling was as follows:

Sacco and Vanzetti, petitioners for habeas corpus.

This petition was this tenth day of August, 1927, presented to Mr. Justice Holmes and denied by him in a memorandum, a copy of which is hereto attached. I assume that, strange as it may seem, a Circuit Judge might take a different view and issue the writ. But I am unable to take a different view Moore v. Dempsey, 261 U. S. 86, relied upon by petitioners, I think conclusive against them when read with the petition and its supporting affidavits. I have on this record no right to interfere with the legal processes of the courts of Massachusetts.

GEORGE W. ANDERSON,
Judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the First Circuit of the United States.

Attorney General's Statement.

Attorney General Reading's statement follows:

This afternoon Mr. Arthur D. Hill, Mr. William O. Thompson and Mr. Elias Field waited upon Mr. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme Court of the United States at Beverly, and presented to the Justice a petition for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti. They argued the petition at length. This was an ex parte hearing and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts was not represented by counsel. Mr. Justice Holmes, after hearing Mr. Hill and Mr. Thompson, decided that as he understood the petition and affidavits they contained no facts that would warrant his issuing the writ, and ruled that, even if Judge Thayer had been strongly prejudiced against Sacco and Vanzetti, that fact would not deprive Judge Thayer of jurisdiction and legal power to decide the case, because, in Mr. Justice Holmes opinion, nothing short of a want of legal power to decide the case would authorize him (Mr. Justice Holmes) to interfere in a summary manner with the proceedings of the State court.

The Attorney General stated that it should not be understood that Mr. Justice Holmes found, or was even ready to find, that Judge Thayer had been prejudiced, but simply ruled that, even if it should be found that Judge Thayer was prejudiced, still there would be no occasion for Mr. Justice Holmes to interfere.

ARTHUR K. READING,
Attorney General.

Intimation Comes at 11:15 P. M.

A respite had seemed certain at 11:15 when Mr. Hill announced that as soon as he could prepare them statements by Governor Fuller, Circuit Court Judge George W. Anderson, United States Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes and Attorney General Arthur K. Reading would be given out.

While Governor Fuller and the Executive Council sat in session at the State House, at the end of a day of hasty appeals and consultations, to decide the question of a reprieve, Warden Hendry at Charleston State Prison at 10:22 P. M. announced that he had received word that a respite had been granted to the condemned men.

A few minutes later Warden Hendry said he was sorry, but he would have to take back his announcement and that he had no statement to make.

When the Warden's telephone bell rang at 10:22 he answered it and had a brief conversation. Then he turned to the reporters and said:

"Boys, there's a respite for two men."

"Who are they and for how long?" asked the reporters.

Warden Reverses Announcement.

The telephone rang again and once more Warden Hendry answered it. He turned to the reporters and said:

"Boys, I want to correct that statement. There's a respite for all three men."

He started toward the death house when the bell rang a third time. This time when he turned away from the telephone the Warden said:

"Boys, I'll have to take it all back. I guess I was premature. I can't make any announcement now."

At the State House the Governor's Council had began a sitting delayed from noon. The members were listening to Arthur D. Hill, chief counsel for the defense.

At 10:55 Governor Fuller came out of the council chamber and said:

"The Executive Council has taken no action on a respite and Mr. Hill is still arguing his plea for a stay of execution."

Air Was Tense All Day.

The events of the day before the final decision was made known had a cumulative effect that strained nerves to the breaking point. An hour after hour passed and move after move was made in an effort to save Sacco and Vanzetti the air of tensity in every quarter increased.

At the State House a large group of newspaper correspondents besieged every visiting official for news. Attachés of the defense lawyers were on edge. At the headquarters of the Defense Committee there was little or no activity for the first time in seven years. Battered typewriters which had about been used up were allowed to rest, and the general feeling prevailed that there was nothing more to be done unless a respite were granted.

The events of the day began with the filing of a bill of exceptions to Supreme Court Judge George A. Sanderson's denial on Monday of a writ of error. The bill was filed by Richard C. Evarts, associate counsel to Arthur D. Hill, as supplementary to the petition for appeal filed Tuesday in the same courts.

At 10 A. M. Mr. Hill, accompanied by Elias Field, also of counsel for the defense, appeared at the Court House and went before Judge Sanderson. Attorney General Arthur K. Reading also was present. Nearly two hours were spent by Mr. Reading in checking over records of the hearing on Monday, and then the lawyers went into conference with Judge Sanderson.

Half an hour later they emerged and Mr. Hill dictated the following statement:

"We have been in conference with Mr. Justice Sanderson of the Supreme Court on the bill of exceptions. We have substantially agreed upon the form in which the case shall go to the full bench if Judge Sanderson decides that he has the power and duty to allow it.

Reports Decision Due "Tomorrow."

"Today we are to put the bill in final shape, which means having it written out and being sure that the proper affidavits are attached.

"We expect to see Judge Sanderson tomorrow morning and obtain his final decision."

The word "tomorrow" was the first intimation that there might be a respite for Sacco and Vanzetti, even if but for a day. Mr. Hill also added that he appreciated the Attorney General's courtesy and fairness in all the conferences in which he had taken part.

In the meantime, the extraordinary convocation of seven of the eight living former Attorneys General of the Commonwealth was being held in Governor Fuller's office. There were present J. Weston Allen, Albert E. Pillsbury, Herbert Parker, James M. Swift, Henry A. Wyman, Thomas J. Boynton and Jay R. Benton. The only absentee was Harry Atwell, who could not be reached.

The Governor conferred with the legal advisers in this extraordinary session until nearly 1 P. M. Following the meeting, none of the former chief law officers would make any comment.

Mr. Hill arrived at the Governor's office while the conference was in progress. He said that he went to the Governor's office on the understanding that he would have a hearing. He was accompanied by Michael A. Musmanno, a Pittsburgh lawyer associated with him, who said that if no respite were forthcoming a writ of habeas corpus would be sought in the Federal court.

Goes to See Justice Holmes.

Mr. Hill conferred with the Governor and the Attorney General. When he emerged at 1:30 o'clock he waved newspaper men aside and referred them to the Attorney General, who stated that an announcement must come from the Governor. The latter remained in his office inaccessible to reporters.

Mr. Hill hurried away to the office of Mr. Fields, where he remained at work on some legal papers and then went to Beverly Farms to call on Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

The Governor's council had been waiting to open the special meeting called for noon by the Governor. He had decided to place before the council the request of Mr. Hill for a respite pending further legal steps on behalf of the condemned men.

At 1 P. M. it was announced that the Council would leave for lunch and return at 3:30. The Council returned at that time and did not go into session. Hour after hour passed and no intimation of what was going on in the Governor's office came to the throng of fifty newspaper men. Official action of some sort involving the decision of Judge Sanderson was rumored when Clerk of Court Walter Frederick and Richard Murray, a messenger attached to Judge Sanderson's court, arrived at the Governor's office at 5 o'clock. They had with them what was apparently a legal paper.

An hour later Peter Carney, Second Deputy Secretary of State, stepped into the Executive Office with an engrossed document. The rumor that there would be a respite continued to spread, as it seemed evident that the paper was for the Governor's signature. Frederick W. Cook, Secretary of State, presented the paper to the Governor's Secretary, who took it in to Mr. Fuller.

Sacco Refuses to Sign Petition.

A few minutes later, the Council emerged from the executive chamber. It was learned that no meeting had been held, but that the meeting would be called to order at 8:30, when there might be an announcement.

Counsel for the condemned men had difficulty in obtaining their signatures to the petition for the writ of habeas corpus. Alphonso Gagliolo, a notary public, acting for the defense, visited Sacco in the death house at the State prison, but the condemned man, on the twenty-fifth day of his hunger strike, shook his head.

Vanzetti was more willing, but signed the petition only on condition that the appeal should cover the case of Sacco as well as his own. Just before noon, Mr. Musmanno, visited Sacco and tried to persuade him to sign the petition, but met with no success.

"Sacco positively refuses to sign the petition," said Mr. Musmanno. "He says, 'They have nailed me to the cross for seven years. They can't expect me to sign any papers now.'"

Vanzetti autographed two books for Musmanno and wrote a farewell message on the fly leaves. The lawyer refused to accept the gift, explaining to Vanzetti that if he did so, it would be a confession that he had given up all hope in connection with the fight for a reprieve. The books were two volumes of Charles A. Beard's "The Rise of American Civilization."

Vanzetti told the lawyer that while in the death house he had been enjoying Emerson's essays and has also read some books on philosophy.

Arrangements Completed at Prison.

While the conferences were being held in the Governor's office, Warden William Hendry in Charlestown State Prison was going ahead with the plans for the execution of Sacco, Vanzetti and Madeiros.

It was reported that the Warden would delay the execution only on the request, written or verbal, of Governor Fuller. There were also rumors that he would delay the final act at least until Thursday night because of the action of Supreme Court Judge Sanderson earlier in the day in making an appointment with defense counsel. The Warden declined to commit himself during the day, pending instructions from Governor Fuller.

Defense counsel's efforts during the day were to seek an early adjudication of the appeals before the full bench of the State Supreme Court, although that court has twice passed on the case, each time adversely. This time it is hoped to have the Supreme Court rule on questions of fact as well as law, the previous decisions having been only on questions of law.

The exceptions taken to Judge Sanderson's ruling were on the writ of error which he denied. Judge Sanderson, it appeared, could allow the exceptions to go before the full bench of the Supreme Court or he could deny them. Denial would permit the defense to bring a petition for leave of proof of the exceptions and this would be heard before the full bench.

Plan Appeal on Thayer's Rulings.

There are two more sets of exceptions which defense counsel hopes may be brought to the full bench of the Supreme Court if there is time. These are concerned with the exceptions to Judge Webster Thayer's rulings on Monday when the trial judge at Dedham denied the motion for a new trial. He also later denied a petition for stay of execution and revocation of sentence.

For the first time since Sacco and Vanzetti were removed to the death house, Mrs. Sacco failed to visit her husband during the day. No explanation was offered for her absence on what might be his last day of life.

Dr. Joseph McLaughlin, the prison physician, said that both men were weak, but showed no change from the day before. He said the men were haggard and emaciated. They were able to walk a little in their cells, but Sacco was not able to stand for five minutes without support.

During the evening, all preparations were ready for going ahead with the execution. Vehicles were diverted four blocks from the prison and none but residents of the homes within the deadline were permitted to enter, each under escort of a patrolman.

Police Head Takes Charge at Prison.

Superintendent of Police William H. Crowley went to Charlestown State Prison at 9 P. M. to take personal charge of the police arrangements. He was accompanied by Deputy Superintendent Thomas F. Goode and Captain Michael J. Goff. The Boston patrolmen were augmented by several squads of Metropolitan Park police at the scene.

In the recreation house of the prison guards, a few steps from the Warden's office, telegraph wires were strung so that word of the executions might be flashed speedily. The plan at that time was to have the witnesses gather about 11 o'clock and to wait for orders from Warden Hendry.

Prison chaplains waited nearby for possible changes of mind on the part of the three condemned men, who had signified no desire for religious consolation. The march to the chair is thirteen steps from Madeiro's cell, seventeen from Sacco's cell and twenty-one from Vanzetti's cell.

The procedure planned was for the men to march quietly into the death chamber where the witnesses were to have gathered. The guards would then strap the condemned man to the chair, applying a leather cap like a football player's guard to the head and an electrode to the left leg. A saline solution is placed in the head covering to keep the body from being burned and a covering is placed over the eyes.

Mussolini Wrote to the State Department Personal Plea on Behalf of Condemned Men

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—At the State Department today it was said that long ago a personal letter from Premier Mussolini in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti had been forwarded to the department through the Italian Embassy. This, it was insisted, was the only representation that had been made by Italy in the matter.

Mention of the case was made at the department today by Nobile Giacomo de Martino, the Italian Ambassador, during a conference with William R. Castle Jr., Assistant Secretary of State in charge of European affairs, but it was said afterward that the reference was only an incidental one in the course of a conversation on many subjects and was in the form of an inquiry as to the status of the case.

The Ambassador, it was said, went to the department only in accordance with his custom of conferring with officials there at least once a week. On his arrival he found several doors locked and barred and special guards about the offices of important officials.

Officials of the Italian Embassy denied emphatically that they had been instructed to make renewed formal protest against the execution.

JUDGE THAYER ON LINKS.

His Son and a Policeman Go With Him to a Club.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 10 (AP).—Judge Webster Thayer passed the forenoon today on the porch of his home here, reading and smoking, while a guard of two police officers did duty around the house.

Trunks from the Judge's Summer home in Maine arrived about 10 o'clock and he left the porch to inspect them. Shortly before noon Judge Thayer decided it was to be good golf weather. Accompanied by his son and the State policeman who has been acting as his personal bodyguard for several weeks, he drove to a country club for a round of golf.

Philippines Labor Leader Protests.

MANILA, Aug. 10.—Francisco Tirona, editor of El Debate, head of the Philippine Labor Congress and member of the executive committee has drafted a resolution protesting to Governor Fuller of Massachusetts against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Copenhagen Legation Threatened.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 10 (AP).—The American Minister, H. P. Dodge, and members of the legation have received letters purporting to come from Communists threatening vengeance against the American officials if Sacco and Vanzetti are executed.

ARRESTS PUT CHECK ON SACCO PICKETING

tight grips the entire way. There they were herded in before Captain Devitt to be booked and be placed in cells, several to each cell.

A crowd of men and children had trailed excitedly along after those who were escorted to the station house afoot. There, another crowd had already assembled. As the police cleared the way to the entrance, there were faint shouts of "Give them six months." Another voice called, "Kill them," and another, perhaps ironically, shouted, "Lynch them."

Among the first to come to their rescue with money for bail was Ruth Hale, wife of Heywood Broun and President of the Lucy Stone League, who bemoaned the fact that she had missed being arrested. Another with bail money was Seward Collins, new owner of The Bookman, who also said he regretted exceedingly his having arrived too late to be arrested.

Nat Kay, a reporter for a radical newspaper, who arrived late, succeeded in being arrested by staging a "one-man parade."

Complains at Rough Treatment.

After a delay of an hour, bail bonds were made out and one by one the prisoners were released in $25 each. They were charged with "loitering and sauntering" and ordered to appear in the municipal court at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Some of them were inclined to take their arrest lightly. Miss Parker complained that she had been treated roughly by the police, Rubbing the arm by which she had been escorted to the station house, she said: "The big stiffs."

She added that while the prisoners were in the cells a policeman had brought in a plain clothes man and told them that he was a Federal agent. She quoted the Federal agent as announcing that "any aliens in this mob will be deported." There were very few American citizens in the group, she said.

Two of those arrested were among the thirty-nine arrested yesterday and charged with "obstruction," in addition to sauntering and loitering. Three of those arrested yesterday were found guilty this morning and were held in bail for sentence Friday, at which time thirty other cases are scheduled to come up. The three convicted were Herman Kobbe of Nassau, N. Y., an architect, and Mrs. Grace Hutchins and William Murdock of Boston.

Objection in court this morning of Joseph Bearack, counsel for the pickets, to the charge of obstructing traffic, was credited with the absence of that charge in this afternoon's arrests. The obstruction charge was added to those of loitering and sauntering yesterday after the prisoners had been booked.

Taken Casually on the Streets.

The march before the State House was the only one of many proposed demonstrations that had materialized late this evening. The Sacco-Vanzetti case was discussed casually on the streets and in stores and offices but no excited arguments were heard.

The only point in Boston where the outcome of the day's manoeuvres by defense counsel for a stay seemed to create any noticeable reaction was in the anteroom of the Executive Offices in the State House, where reporters and lawyers from many points gathered to wait hour after hour.

The long, carpeted room, with solid mahogany tables and oil paintings adorning the walls, was in sharp contrast to the Sacco-Vanzetti headquarters, where three or four sympathisers sat amidst a litter of handbills and posters and discussed in Italian the probable outcome.

THOMPSON ATTACKS TESTS BY GODDARD

Says Gov. Fuller Told Him No Attention Was Paid to Bullet Report.

MAKES HOSTILITY CHARGE

Declares New York Expert Admitted Opinion Adverse to Sacco Before Experiments.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—William G. Thompson, former counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti, took exception today to the report of Major Calvin H. Goddard, New York ballistic expert, made to Governor Fuller, that tests showed the bullet that killed Alessandro Berardelli was fired from Sacco's pistol.

Herbert B. Ehrmann, formerly associated with Mr. Thompson, agreed with his statement.

In his statement made to The Boston Transcript, Mr. Thompson related that a New York newspaper man prior to last June asked him to consent to a test of the so-called mortal bullet and the Fraher shell by Major Goddard. This newspaper man was contemptuous of the ballistic experts of the defense, Messrs. Hamilton and Turner, wrote Mr. Thompson, but he had confidence in them and refused, for the time being, to cooperate in any tests by Major Goddard, although putting no obstacles in their way.

After stating that both he and Mr. Ehrmann doubted the genuineness of the Fraher shell and the so-called mortal bullet, alleged to have been fired through Sacco's pistol, Mr. Thompson continued:

"I heard nothing more about Major Goddard until about noon on Friday, June 3, when Professor Gill telephoned me that he and Major Goddard were going out to Dedham at 2 o'clock to experiment with the bullet and shell. He did not tell me that Mr. Ranney and a stenographer were to be present, or that Major Goddard had previously been in conference with Mr. Ranney.

"I accordingly made no objection to the proposed experiment. About half an hour later I was informed of those facts by The Boston Herald. Having a court engagement, I could not go myself, but succeeded with great difficulty in getting in touch with Mr. Ehrmann who was able to reach Dedham in time to witness the experiment.

"There were also present Mr. Buxton and Mr. Carens of The Boston Herald.

"Mr. Ehrmann reported to me that heand Mr. Buxton and Mr. Carens were not impressed by the bullet test, but that the similarity between file marks on the so-called Fraher shell and on shells fired through Sacco's pistol were somewhat striking. As the same similarity had already appeared on enlarged photographs made by Mr. Turner, which were fully discussed at the hearing before Judge Thayer, I was not disturbed by the result of the experiments, although I was disturbed by the circumstances under which it was made.

"Mr. Ehrmann reported also that Professor Gill, whose remarks were taken down by a stenographer, after witnessing the experiments, expressed doubt as to the correctness of his former view. This led to an exchange of letters between Professor Gill and myself to which it is unnecessary for present purposes to refer further.

"I then called the matter to the attention of Messrs. Turner and Hamilton, both of whom assured me that they were familiar with Professor Goddard's methods, which were untrustworthy except when checked by careful micrometer measurements such as had been made by Messrs. Turner and Hamilton in this case.

After quoting letters written by Major Goddard to Mr. Hamilton, in which the former sought the latter's advice as to studying to become a ballistic expert, Mr. Thompson wrote:

"At my argument before the Governor I was assured by him that he had not paid any attention to Mr. Goddard's report, and I was given a similar assurance by the committee.

"I therefore made no argument about Mr. Goddard's methods or his conclusions.

Mr. Thompson then described as follows part of a conversation he had with Major Goddard on June 6:

"Mr. Goddard then stated that before making his experiment he had seen at Bridgeport, Conn., certain photographs taken by a Government expert and had formed from them a preliminary opinion adverse to Sacco. He stated that while he could not be sure, he might have communicated this adverse opinion to Mr. Ranney before Mr. Ranney consented to permit the experiment.

"Mr. Goddard asked me if I would consent to further experimentation by him in the presence of other experts. This I declined with emphasis, stating that I felt that there had been a lack of frankness and an attempt to take advantage of me in the making of the experiment, and also that I would not cooperate with anyone who denounced as crooks experts in whom I had confidence.

"In answer to a direct inquiry by me, Mr. Goddard stated that if he knew that Sacco and Vanzetti were guilty, it would be a matter of indifference to him whether they had had a fair trial or not.

"In the light of these facts, we submit that we cannot properly be charged either with having shown any improper reluctance to cooperate with Major Goddard, or with having raised a baseless doubt of the genuineness of the exhibits. Guilt must be shown beyond a reasonable doubt, and we felt justified in arguing that there was a reasonable doubt as to the genuineness of these two exhibits."

BLASTS SHAKE FITCHBURG.

Dynamite Is Exploded Following Threats to Blow Up City Hall.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Aug. 10 (AP).—Two deafening explosions tonight shook the City Hall and neighboring buildings. A squad of police under Chief Thomas J. Godley rushed to the City Hall, believing that previous threats made to wreck it had been carried out, but their fears proved groundless.

Investigation led the police to believe that the explosions took place on the side of Rollstone Hill and that two sticks of dynamite were detonated. A guard was placed in the neighborhood.

Chief Godley announced that an armed guard has been stationed at the buildings of the Fitchburg Gas and Electric Company as a result of a telephone call received late this afternoon at the office of the company stating that it could expect trouble.

arrested in Sheridan Square, Christopher and Fourth Streets.

The arrests followed the turning in of a riot call to the Charles Street Station by a patrolman on duty in the Square when he saw a small group gathered around a speaker waving an early edition of a local paper from a park bench and cheering for Sacco and Vanzetti. Before the arrival of the Riot Squad, however, Patrolmen Meldrum and Renschler broke up the gathering and arrested the following who were charged with disorderly conduct:

Seek News by Telephone.

Hundreds of persons interested in the fate of the men called THE NEW YORK TIMES by telephone in the two hours before midnight to inquire if the Governor had granted a respite. Three special operators were assigned to receive the calls, which were transferred to the editorial room, where reporters informed the callers of the latest developments in Boston.

Throughout the day and into the night sympathisers of Sacco and Vanzetti had continued their efforts to save the two condemned anarchists. Appeals were sent by wire to the Pope and to Mrs. Coolidge asking them to intercede in the case.

The cablegram to the Pope was sent by the Sacco-Vanzetti Liberation Committee. The text of the cable follows:

"Sacco and Vanzetti are as innocent as Jesus Christ. The Pharisees of Massachusetts will kill them over the protests of the people which is the voice of God. Your intervention would be in keeping with the Christian religion."

The appeal to Mrs. Coolidge was telegraphed by Rose Baron, Secretary of the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee. It read:

"The working-class family of Nicola Sacco will be rendered fatherless at midnight tonight unless the hand of the Massachusetts executioner is stayed. We appeal to you as one of our countrywomen to urge your husband, the President, to follow the Wilson-Mooney precedent and thus prevent the crime of judicial murder.

Belief in Their Innocence.

"Millions of our fellow-citizens, both men and women, are emphatic in their belief that Sacco and Vanzetti are innocent. We are certain that the files of the Department of Justice will yield documents which prove the innocence of these men. Failure to act on the President's part will result in international complications much to this country's disadvantage.

"Show by your appeal to the President that in a critical moment we women can rise superior to the blind unreasonableness of legal error. We urge you to raise your voice on behalf of these two innocent men. But a few hours intervene between life and the hour of execution. Please act before an irremediable crime of omission is committed by the Federal Government."

Former Mayor John F. Hylan sent the following telegram to Governor Fuller appealing for a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti:

"Irrespective of the legal red tape, the mere fact that tens of millions of people throughout the world, representing all classes and ranks, maintain that Sacco and Vanzetti are innocent, should move you to at least grant these men a new trial."

The National Save-a-Life League, with offices at 80 East Forty-second Street, sent a telegram to Governor Fuller requesting that Sacco and Vanzetti be sentenced to life imprisonment. The telegram was signed by Dr. H. W. Warren, President of the league.

Assails Aide of Fuller.

Another appeal written to Governor Fuller was that of Alexander Kadison, author, who challenged the fitness of Robert Grant as an unbiased member of the Governor's Advisory Committee because of references to the Italians in a book which Grant wrote under the title "Convictions of a Grandfather."

The American Civil Liberties Union made public a letter of protest to the Newark police for interfering with a Sacco-Vanzetti meeting on Tuesday.

More than 5,000 silk workers in Paterson, N. J., walked out on a one-day strike as a protest against the pending execution of Sacco and Vanzetti. In the afternoon they held a mass meeting at the auditorium of the Associated Silk Workers and drafted resolutions which they sent to Governor Fuller. The police of Paterson refused to permit the workers to parade.

The police of Trenton refused to issue a permit to Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers who said they had organized a parade of 10,000 men and women.

In Newark, Director Gillen of the Parks Department, refused to issue a permit for a Sacco-Vanzetti mass meeting to a group of sympathizers.

Friedman Case Dismissed.

Samuel Friedman of 229 Stuyvesant Avenue, Brooklyn, associate editor of the New Leader, a labor weekly, who was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct following the Sacco-Vanzetti meeting at Union Square, was discharged by Magistrate Stern in the Tombs Court, who held that there was reasonable doubt of his guilt. Algernon Lee, Director of the Rand School appeared as a witness.

Police Commissioner Warren said that the police had adopted the only course open to them when they broke up the impromptu parades in Fifth Avenue and in Mulberry Street following the Union Square meeting. "The paraders had no permit," he said, "and as a consequence the police had to break up the parade."

Rose Baron, before starting for Boston yesterday, said: "The Union Square meeting was orderly and forceful to the highest degree. It was only natural that with the atmosphere being what it was the demonstrators would become a little exuberant. It is not really worth talking about. The meeting was an unqualified success."

Dorthy Parker was the centre of another scene when she was ejected from the State prison office at Charlestown late tonight. She had been admitted there, prison officers said, as the representative of a New York weekly paper. About 11 P. M. she was heard calling the office of the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee over the prison telephone, and was hustled away from the telephone and out of the prison grounds.

OPPOSE DEMONSTRATIONS

Ex-Secretary of Italian Consulate in Boston Asserts Sacco Was There on Day of Murders.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Aug. 10.—Newspapers are full of reports, telegrams and news concerning Sacco and Vanzetti.

The Popolo d'Italia, the leading Fascist organ of Italy, sent a reporter to Torre Maggiore, where Sacco's family lives and where Sacco himself was born. The reporter said he found the village and even Sacco's family perfectly tranquil, indeed serene, all trusting in American justice and all confident that Mussolini and the Fascist Government would do all possible to save the condemned men if their innocence was proved. They believed that any demonstration of protest or display of resentment would be entirely useless and indeed injurious to chances of clemency.

The reporter wrote:

"Sacco's father is 73 years old and lives there with two sons and three daughters, all still trusting to execution would occur."

Sabino, one of Sacco's brothers, was also in America but returned home and, speaking to the reporter, said:

"It was a terrible destiny, that of by brother Nicola. One month before the crime for which he was condemned our mother died and he was so disturbed by her loss that he decided to return home. The very day on which the crime was committed my brother, according to unimpeachable witnesses, was at the Italian Consulate in Boston to obtain his passport in order to return to Italy.

"My brother, even when as a leader in important organizations of workmen, has always worked, being well paid because he is able, intelligent and efficient and therefore commanded good wages. He had no reason to commit the crime imputed to him."

Questioned by the reporter, Sabino declared:

"Yes, even in this extreme moment we trust American justice. During these seven years when execution seemed imminent we have hoped, as we how hope, and our confidence was rewarded. Why should we despair today? We are awaiting my brother as though we were expecting him to return home at any moment."

At this point the old father intervened in the conversation, explaining:

"I am sure they won't kill my child, because he is as innocent as it is true that I am his father."

The Giornale d'Italia publishes a statement given by Giuseppe Adrower, who in 1920 was secretary of the Italian Consulate in Boston. Adrower says that April 15, 1920, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and twenty-five miles distant from the place where the crime was committed for which Sacco and Vanzetti have been condemned, Sacco was in the consulate asking for a passport.

The Tribuna publishes an interview with Count Thaon di Revel, President of the Fascist League of North America. The Count observed that the league's members were ready to give their lives in combating the ideas held by Sacco and Vanzetti. Nevertheless, the league had appealed to Governer Fuller to give the men every possible opportunity to prove their innocence.

FOUR ARRESTS IN WARSAW.

Loiterers Are Seized by the Police Guarding American Legation.

WARSAW, Poland, Aug. 10 (AP).—A force of twenty policemen, who went on duty last night, today guarded the American Legation, in course of the day arresting four passers-by who seemed suspicious.

The American Legation has received, in all, five protests against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti It was stated that this was considered unusually small, inasmuch as hundreds of letters and telegrams have been received on occasions when any American issue occupied much attention here.

SWISS VOTE PROTEST.

Italian Society Sends Appeal to Bishop Brent.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 10.—In seven principal Swiss towns public meetings were held yesterday and resolutions were adopted protesting against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti. They were sent to the American Minister at Berne, with the request that they be forwarded to Washington.

The protest was so strongly worded that the telegraph department held up the message, but it was released later. The police have taken measures to protect the American consulates.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Aug. 10 (AP).—An appeal for intervention in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti from the Society of St. Francis of Assisi in Italy has been received by Bishop Charles H. Brent of Western New York, as President of the World Conference on Faith and Order, now in session here.

BOMB FOUND IN MONTEVIDEO.

Sacco General Protest Strike Ends Without Disorder.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Aug 10 (AP).—The police have announced that they found an unexploded bomb in the centre of the city.

The twenty-four-hour general strike called yesterday in protest against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti terminated at midnight. Some cafés, theatres and motion picture houses opened in the course of the evening. Complete order prevailed.

The only vehicles which circulated yesterday were the trams. They were heavily guarded by soldiers of the regular army, fully armed. All commercial establishments were closed and the city presented a holiday aspect. No newspapers were published.

A labor meeting was staged in the afternoon. It assumed large proportions, but everything proceeded in an orderly manner.

DEMONSTRATION IN TORONTO.

Five Men and Two Women Arrested in Front of Our Consulate.

TORONTO, Ontario, Aug. 10 (AP).—Seven workers, five men and two women who carried banners along the street in front of the United States Consulate here this afternoon while a committee presented a petition for a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti, were arrested and hurried to a police station for examination. The men were charged with being disorderly, but no charge had yet been laid against the women.

The arrest broke up a small crowd, mostly onlookers, which had gathered before the consulate. The workers carried banners bearing such inscriptions as "Stop this judicial murder," "Release Sacco and Vanzetti" and "Sacco and Vanzetti must not die."

ARGENTINE CHEERS NEWS OF RESPITE

Bomb Explosions Damage Buenos Aires Court House and a Railroad Station.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 10 (AP).—The anxiously awaited news of a respite for Sacco and Vanzetti was greeted almost instantly through special signals used by several newspapers in Buenos Aires. Crowds rushed to the bulletin boards and cheered, shouting "Long live Sacco and Vanzetti!"

In the interior places the people heard the news over the radio.

A bomb exploded at the Palace of Justice early this morning. The damage was slight and no one was injured.

The explosion of this bomb came a short time after an explosion of what is believed to have been a petard at the railway station of Velez Sarsfield, near Buenos Aires, which was slightly damaged. There were no victims, but a few freight cars were damaged.

Another supposed bomb was found on the tracks of the Southern Railway. It had not exploded and was taken to the Police Department for analysis.

The general strike called in protest against the executions has resulted in some incidents, one bus being burned and others stoned. Many commercial establishments were closed, while others barred their shop windows, only keeping their doors open. Many workers have been arrested for inciting others to go on strike.

The city presents an extraordinary aspect, the streets being almost deserted by vehicles with the exception of street cars and a few automobile buses.

PARIS REDS' EFFORTS VAIN.

Fail to Incite Crowds to Violence Against American Embassy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—No incident of any violent character has so far marred Paris protests against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti. During all the past week large forces of police have guarded the embassy and consulate buildings, but no attempt of any kind has been made to commit damage.

Those of moderate opinion who in the press and at many protest meeting condemned the execution of the men so long after their first trial have seemed latterly to accept the situation. They, with the large majority of French people, disapprove the execution, but recognize that it is not for them to do more than protest.

The extreme Reds, on the other hand, have sought to exploit to the fullest limit this general disapproval. They have tried in their newspaper Humanité and in many meetings to incite to violence, but their attempts have failed. Today Humanité carried on its front page its own revised version of the American flag, representing as the arms of America in the midst of the Stars and Stripes an electric chair, skull and crossbones.

To the violent appeals for hysterical action there has, however, been practically no response. There have been no strikes and no concerted organized movement except last Sunday's manifestation, when the Red element was a very secondary part.

PORTO RICANS SEND PLEA.

San Juan Editors Cable Sacco Message to Governor Fuller.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 10.—Porto Rico today joined in the last-hour pleas for Sacco and Vanzetti, when the editors of five daily papers in San Juan united in a cable message urging Governor Fuller not to permit the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to commit "an irreparable judicial crime" by the execution of the two men. In the message they asserted that the question was not one of clemency, but one of doubt.

Following a mass meeting last night in the Plaza Colon, a labor group cabled to Governor Fuller that the execution of the death penalty, while there was great doubt of guilt, would be to the shame of American institutions.

Borah Urges Publicity of All Sacco Records; Attacks Secrecy of Federal Proceedings

Senator William E. Borah offered yesterday to join movement to obtain publicity for the files of the Attorney General on the Sacco-Vanzetti case, but refused to sign a petition to the President, Secretary Kellogg and Attorney General Sargent, asking that the files be made public immediately.

Senator Borah was asked to sign the petition by Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, and Morris L. Ernst, an attorney for the Civil Liberties Union, who prepared the petition, which was sent to a dozen Senators, Congressmen and Governors. The petition asserted that "foreign Governments and people * * * blame the United States as a nation with some justice as long as the defendants can urge that the Federal Government maintains secrecy as to these files."

Senator Borah alone of the twelve Senators, Congressmen and Governors refused to sign the petition, said Mr. Ernst. Some of those who did sign it, he said, were Senators Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota, Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota and Congressman George Huddleston of Alabama.

Senator Borah in his telegram said: "Satisfied too late to secure publicity prior to execution of judgment. Later will join in effort to secure publicity of files, not in deference to foreign criticism, but because we owe it to ourselves to prevent establishment, in so far as we can, of such a practice. I would only be interested in attacking the practice or preventing precedent. Am sure any action now would be regarded as an effort to embarrass execution and would be disregarded."

Explaining the reason for the petition, Mr. Ernst said: "The nation cannot shift the responsibility as long as these files are secret. The clamor from abroad should not be disregarded by President Coolidge, because we should remember that this country's protests in the Dreyfus case and in connection with the Russian pogroms were heeded."

In an editorial in the Nation Mr. Villard predicted that the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti would have consequences as far-reaching as the hanging of John Brown, and that if precedents held true monuments would be erected to the two anarchists. The editorial said that Governor Fuller missed an opportunity to rise above the point of view of his surroundings of wealth and class, and that the Governor's Advisory Committee was of one type mind—"conventional gentlemen, two chosen from the highest Boston social circles, not one of them representing the vast groups that have felt from the first that they had a vital stake in the fate of these men."

COMMUNISTS' PARTY GOES TO BOSTON EARLY

The "On-to-Boston" movement organized by Communists in New York City who staged the Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration in Union Square on Tuesday got under way when a bus filled with sympathizers started from Union Square for Boston before the needle-trades workers who had taken part in the numerous one-day strikes on Tuesday, were on their way back to work. After the departure of the first bus load, it was announced that additional sympathizers by bus and train from New York and elsewhere would number approximately 1,000 when they reached Boston to take part in the protest demonstration at the Charlestown Prison if the police permit such a protest.

The motor bus New York started from headquarters of the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee at 80 East Eleventh Street at 7:30 o'clock in the morning. Twenty passengers were taken aboard the bus at the committee headquarters, and the few remaining seats of the bus were filled by a stop at the Hotel Astor. On the sides of the bus were streamers reading, "Sacco-Vanzetti Freedom Delegation. Sent by the New York Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee."

Among those who went by rail were Miss Rose Baron, Secretary of the committee; Charles Nemeroff, organizer, and Pearl Halperin, both of the United Workers' Cooperative Association.

Those making the trip by motor bus included Rex Stout of the American Civil Liberties Union, William Patterson, President of the American Negro Labor Congress; Harriet Silverman of the Workers' Health Bureau; William Gropper, caricaturist; James Greshberg and J. Frischman of the Amalgamated Food Workers, J. Offbau of the Iron and Bronze Workers' Union, Clarinea Michelson of the Paper Box Workers' Union, and Carlo Tresca, director, of the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee; Ellen Dawson, Secretary, and Gus Deake, President of the Textile Workers' Union, and Alfred Wagenknecht of the Passaic International Labor Defense.

GOV. BALZAR BACKS FULLER.

Nevada Executive Says Facts Justify Sacco-Vanzetti Decision.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 10 (AP).—Governor Balzar of Nevada has telegraphed to Governor Fuller of Massachusetts commending his decision in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. The dispatch says:

"I have refused requests to wire you asking postponement of execution of Sacco and Vanzetti. I believe your decision was right and fully justified by the facts of the case and you are backed by every loyal American."

At the same time Governor Balzar telegraphed a New York paper that proposed a committee of Governors to investigate the findings that he had already approved Governor Fuller's action and declined to be a member of the committee.

BOMB HURTS 15 IN BASLE.

Is Exploded at Street Car Station in the Swiss City.

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 10 (AP).—A bomb exploded in a street car station at Basle tonight, injuring fifteen persons, one of them seriously.

The police believe the bomb was placed by Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers.

Buffalo Redoubles Its Guard.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP).—Heavy guard was placed today on all Federal buildings in Buffalo and Niagara Falls, every bridge approach and ferry landing along the Niagara River and the hydraulic canals, dams and power stations at Niagara Falls to forestall any possible trouble from radical sympathizers of Sacco and Vanzetti. The guards were doubled tonight and will remain on duty for the next forty-eight hours. The commandant of the State troopers barracks at Batavia received orders to detail fifty men to guard structures on the main highways leading to Buffalo.

Precautions in Cuba.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 10 (AP).—Special protection was given today to the United States Embassy in Havana, the homes of embassy employes, United States Consulates throughout the island and American property in the interior to prevent any demonstration or acts of violence in connection with the Sacco-Vanzetti case. At a meeting last night of representatives of various trade bodies of Havana a resolution was adopted protesting against sending the condemned men to the electric chair.

Protest Meeting in Belfast.

BELFAST, Ireland, Aug. 10 (AP).—What was styled a protest meeting against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti was held in Telegraph Square, Belfast, last night. It was an orderly affair, attended by about twoscore persons.

ARTISTS AND WRITERS APPEAL FOR SACCO

Margaret Wilson Is One Signer of Plea to Fuller for an "Unprejudiced" Trial.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Walter W. Liggett of New York presented an appeal at Governor Fuller's office today signed by artists, writers and poets, including Miss Margaret B. Wilson, daughter of Woodrow Wilson. The appeal follows:

Aivan T. Fuller,
Governor of Massachusetts.

We, the undersigned citizens of the United States, protest against the legalized lynching of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti and demand that you exercise your power of reprieve to prevent this monstrous perversion of justice.

Your own opinion and the so-called review of your advisory committee signally fail to convince fair-minded persons that Sacco and Vanzetti are guilty. On the contrary, the evidence in the two reports contains the strongest possible proof of their entire innocence.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts cannot afford to murder two innocent men. You have power to halt this disgraceful proceeding.

We appeal to you in the name of justice and humanity to reprieve Sacco and Vanzetti so that the overwhelming evidence proving their innocence may be heard in the open by an unprejudiced Court as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States and of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ALL POLICE MOBILIZED AFTER ROCHESTER RIOT

Second Day of Sacco-Vanzetti Strike Ends in Street Fight—Policeman Badly Hurt.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP).—Every law enforcement agency in this city was mobilized at full strength tonight, following the second day's strike of between 15,000 and 20,000 Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers. The day was featured by two public demonstrations, a mass meeting, a parade which ended in a riot, the serious injury of a policeman and the arrest of two strikers on charges of assault.

The trouble started when the parade, on its way to Convention Hall for a mass meeting, passed the Eastman Kodak Company's plant in State Street. Employes of the company hurled small missiles upon the heads of the parading strikers, one of whom moved to throw a club toward the building.

Officer John McGrath, motorcycle policeman, seized the man, and as he did so the entire crowd bore down upon the officer, beating him into unconsciousness. A riot call brought the police reserves, who dispersed the mob. Officer McGrath is in St. Mary's Hospital, suffering from concussion of the brain, cuts and bruises.

The day platoon was ordered to remain on duty with the night force, giving the city the protection of full police strength.

POLICE GUARD ALERT FOR ANY EMERGENCY

Vigilance Won't Be Relaxed Despite News of Reprieve, Headquarters Says.

BOMB INSURANCE INCREASES

N. Y. University Receives Warning of Threat—More Protection for Public Structures.

The police of New York City and its suburbs redoubled their vigilance yesterday in guarding transit lines, public buildings and other places as the hour that had been set for the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti in Boston approached. They reported little progress toward a solution of the two subway bomb explosions last week.

It was announced at police headquarters shortly after midnight that there would be no relaxation in the police guard in the city, despite word from Boston of the reprieve for Sacco and Vanzetti, at least until Commissioner Warren arrived at headquarters.

Insurance underwriters reported that there had been a large increase in the number of inquiries for bomb or explosion insurance, but none would estimate the amount of the risks taken, or say that it was greater or less than the $100,000,000 risks reported to have been taken by Boston underwriters on the eve of the Sacco-Vanzetti executions.

"We have had a number of inquiries for rates," said an official of the Home Insurance Company, "and about 50 per cent. of the inquiries result in bona fide risks. They cover bank buildings, office buildings, hotels, libraries and other buildings of that class for the most part. The rates for bomb insurance are 5 cents per $100 on buildings of the office and bank building type, and 10 cents for industrial buildings."

Threat to New York University.

While 14,000 policemen were on guard headquarters was asked to investigate three new bomb threats, supposedly from cranks. One threat was received in an anonymous telephone message at the administration building of New York University in Washington Square. The person talking warned that the university was in danger of being blown up during the day. The message was received by Alice Kelly, a switchboard operator, who notified Walter S. L. Cleverdon, superintendent of properties of the university. He reported the matter to the police.

According to the operator, the call was made by a man who said he was a friend of the university and that he wanted to warn the university authorities. The police sent extra guards to all the buildings of the university, from the southern tip of Manhattan to the Bronx, where the main structures are grouped beside the Hall of Fame on University Heights.

A police guard was furnished for the building of the I. Miller Shoe Company at Harris and Ely Streets, Long Island City, following receipt of a letter by I. Miller, President, and signed "The Traitor," which said that the plant would be blown up at 10 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Miller said the letter probably was sent by some crank as his employes had not taken part in the Sacco-Vanzetti one-day strike on Tuesday.

Police reserves and a dozen detectives were rushed to the Astor Place station of the east side line of the I. R. T. subway late last night after an anonymous letter had been received at Police Headquarters telling of a threat to bomb the station shortly after midnight.

The letter was received by Detective James McCartney of the bomb squad, who informed Lieutenant Reynolds, in charge of the squad, as soon as he had opened the letter. Lieutenant Reynolds at once sent six detectives of his squad to the subway station and soon after Captain Patrick Brady of the Fifth Street Station sent reserves and more detectives.

Police Guards Increased.

Police guards at many of the public and office buildings and subway and elevated railway stations in the downtown section of Brooklyn were doubled, and extra policemen patrolled the new Municipal Building, the Interborough subway station beneath it, the Court House, Hall of Records, Borough Hall, Federal Building and other large structures in that section. Deputy United States Marshals were added to the police guard in the Federal Building.

Patrolmen of the Fifty-sixth Precinct in Richmond Hill, remained on guard at the home of Robert Elliot, the official executioner. His eldest daughter and son said they had no fear and that their mother is the only one worrying because of the publicity.

Special guards were placed on duty at the Westchester County Court House by Sheriff Thomas V. Underhill to prevent any demonstrations by sympathizers of Sacco and Vanzetti. The guard from the Sheriff's office also was extended to all county buildings, including Grasslands Hospital and the county penitentiary at Eastview.

In Yonkers, New Rochelle, Mount Vernon and White Plains the police were orderd to maintain a careful watch on all public buildings.

Held for Carrying Weapon.

Antonio Peternastro, a grocer, of 423 East Eighteenth Street, who was arrested on a charge of violating the Sullivan law at Eighteenth Street and First Avenue, following the Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration in Union Square on Tuesday afternoon, was held in $500 bail for Special Sessions by Magistrate Earl A. Smith in Yorkville Court, after he had pleaded guilty.

Labruna Crecenso, who said he had no home, was sentenced to a day in jail by Magistrate John V. Flood, in Jefferson Market Court, on a charge of vagrancy. He was arrested early Tuesday morning on the elevated railway structure at Thirtieth Street and Ninth Avenue, where he was found with a three-foot iron bar. Robert Wier, Probation Officer, said he had investigated the case and had found nothing to indicate that Wier was a dangerous character or might have had any connection with the subway bomb explosions.

Roe, Banker, Still Unconscious.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 10.—The condition of Fred Roe, Texas banker, who was seriously injured Sunday while playing polo, was reported to be improved tonight in the Nassau Hospital. While Mr. Roe, who has been unconscious since the accident, had not recovered consciousness tonight, physicians attending him were said to be "quite pleased" at the improvement in his condition.

BRITAIN WON'T RACE US ON ARMAMENTS

War Minister Declares Failure of Geneva Parley Will Not Speed Up Naval Building.

MAY EVEN RETARD PROGRAM

LONDON, Aug. 10.—No race in armaments would be started by Great Britain because of failure of the Tri-Power Naval Limitation Conference at Geneva last week, Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Secretary of State for War, declared in a speech at Watford tonight. Not only would the British naval program not be increased, but its execution might be delayed, the Secretary added.

This pronouncement of Sir Laming is regarded here as peculiarly timely in view of Secretary Wilbur's conference on naval affairs with President Coolidge yesterday.

The War Minister declared that the Geneva conference, far from being a failure, might prove to be the first step toward a final agreement.

"Don't let any one think that because Geneva did not arrive at an agreement an agreement is impossible," he warned. "I think it quite probable that as the viewpoints of the two nations are better understood there will be opportunity later of again considering how best the objects of both nations, which is limitation of expenditure on armaments, may be carried out.

Holds Bigger Program Unneeded.

"Don't let it be thought that because we have not agreed we are less good friends with America or are starting a new race in armaments. We are doing nothing of the kind. Our program has been public for several years, and as far as one can see there certainly is no need to increase it, while there may, in fact, be a possibility of postponing some of the expenses of carrying it out."

Announcement of the American cruiser-building program is awaited here with the keenest interest. There is a general expectation that it will be designed to achieve parity with Great Britain in heavy cruisers, but it is hoped that nothing more challenging than this will be undertaken.

Great Britain has at present fifty modern cruisers in service, ranging from 9,700 to 3 00 tons. There are also in various stages of construction eleven of the Kent class, 10,000-ton cruisers with eight-inch guns. An order has recently been placed for three of the Norfolk class, of 8,000 tons with the same size guns.

Grey Predicts Ill Effects

The hope that the conference at Geneva will be resumed at an early date is not shared by Viscount Grey of Fallodon, who was Foreign Secretary during the World War.

In a letter to The London Times, Viscount Grey says that the result of the naval discussions between England and the United States will prove neither wholesome nor profitable.

The theory of parity would inevitably work to the disadvantage of Great Britain because she needs a different kind of navy from the United States, says Lord Grey, and no British Government would sign an agreement accepting naval inferiority. On the other hand, he continues, the trend of American public opinion seems to be against giving up potential naval superiority.

Viscount Grey argues that a better approach to a future naval conference would be through arbitration or an agreement outlawing war. Such an agreement between France and America was proposed recently by Aristide Briand, the French Foreign Minister.

The idea that Great Britain, in calculating her naval needs, should leave the American Navy out of consideration is also advanced by Lord Grey.

Text of Lord Grey's Letter.

The text of his letter is as follows:

"The Geneva Conference on naval limitation separated with expressions of hope that it might be resumed at some not very distant date. This hope will not be shared unreservedly by those who followed the proceedings of the last seven weeks.

"Many of us who welcomed the conference at first must have come to feel it to be a misfortune that it ever met. Indeed, if an agreement had been reached at the end, it would have camouflaged and not retrieved the situation.

"It would be well to consider why the late conference has failed before we exult in hopes of another. The rock on which the conference was wrecked at Geneva is the theory of parity between the British and American navies; this theory is working badly, and there is every sign that it will cause friction and not harmony between the two countries.

"It was, I believe, a proposal of the Government of the United States. It was, very naturally, accepted by the British Government. It was proposed and accepted in all good faith.

"Being an American proposal, it was a self-imposed restriction on the power of the United States, with its great population and resources, to build the biggest navy in the world What has passed at Geneva shows that a considerable section of American public opinion will not welcome a new agreement which makes this restriction more comprehensive than the Washington agreement.

"The danger is that if the theory of parity is felt to be irksome, it will come to be regarded as a British and not American-imposed restriction upon the American Navy. This view would be most illogical, but logic does not prevent what is felt to b irksome from being resented.

"If this be the trend of public opinion in the United States, it will prove a still more potent influence at the next naval conference than it has been at Geneva. It will thus become increasingly difficult for any President of the United States to present to his country any agreement that would limit its right, while it has the power, to build the biggest navy in the world.

"A further difficulty is that the British Empire needs a navy of a different kind from that of the United States. The latter Government measures the strength of a navy by total tonnage. The theory of parity applied on this principle to each category of ships must work out inevitably to our disadvantage. It will involve the sacrifice either of our fighting strength or our power to protect our trade routes.

Parity Implies Rivalry, He Says.

"Finally, parity which is designed to avoid competition does, in fact, imply rivalry. It means that it is true that neither country is to have a bigger navy than the other, but it also means that each country must have as large a navy as the other. It is, in fact, a state of rivalry between the fleets of two great English-speaking nations, a condition which is not edifying.

"The conclusion is that the naval discussions between the two countries will prove neither wholesome nor profitable. It is impossible for any British Government to set its hand to an agreement binding us to naval inferiority, and it is becoming difficult for the United States Government to bind its people to anything that is not naval superiority.

"This was illustrated at Geneva this Summer, where the difficulty was perceptibly greater than it was a few years ago at Washington.

"Is it not possible to get back to the axiom on which the British Government tacitly acted before the war—that of not taking account of the American Navy in calculating the requirements of the British Empire?

"In accepting this as an axiom we were moved by two considerations. One was the belief that if we acted as if war between the United States and Great Britain were impossible, it would in very truth become unthinkable on both sides of the Atlantic.

"The other consideration was of a lower order, but not less conclusive. It was that competition with the United States in shipbuilding was a race in which the United States must certainly win and in which other competitors must certainly lose. If this was true before the war, it is just as true and still more demonstrable now.

Urges Outlawing War First.

"If in calculating the naval requirements of the British Empire we avowedly rule out all contingency of war with the United States there will be more economy in both the British and American fleets than will ever be obtained by literal, binding naval agreements. I would add that there would also be no sacrifice of real security.

"It does not follow that naval agreements with other countries are impossible. The proceedings at Geneva showed that we might have reached a naval agreement with Japan alone. It seems equally true that the United States could have done this also.

"Where it is a question of proportion between two fleets, one fleet to be admittedly larger than the other, it is easier to adjust a little more or a little less than when it is a question of parity. Small variations in proportions do not excite the sense of prestige which the least departure from parity does.

"Another moral may be drawn from the Geneva conference. It is that limitation of armaments should be preceded by agreements against war. Without these, discussion of armaments is apt to be sterile. The Japanese delegates at Geneva appeared at the outset to grasp this point. According to newspaper reports, they did put it to us tentatively and unofficially but dropped it when it met with no response.

"Let me conclude by urging that the better way of approach to the next armaments conference will be by way of arbitration or other agreements which rule out between the conferring nations the possibility of war."

DAVIS STARTS CHECK ON ALIEN SMUGGLING

Secretary Wants More Help and Asks Industry to Extend Its Aid.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Secretary of Labor Davis made an unexpected trip to Washington today to take steps for a closer check-up in the country, with the aid of the army and industry, on thousands of aliens believed to have entered unlawfully. Immigration authorities find themselves greatly in need of more officers to enforce the laws against alien smuggling, and this handicap has made it necessary to appeal to employers for assistance.

It was declared today that the personnel of the Bureau of Immigration is far too small to take care of the tremendous task that Congress has imposed upon it. There are about 800 agents on the borders attempting to check the tide of aliens who enter through smuggling or other methods, and they have their hands full without attempting to go through the country to see who is here illegally.

The steps started today were in continuation of plans already worked out by the Department and not due at all to the agitation that has broken out over the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

When it was found that the forces would have to be doubled to keep anything like a close inspection of aliens Secretary Davis and his officials determined to ask all employers to make sure that those they hire have the right to be in the United States. The plan is similar to one followed in the plants of Henry Ford.

Scores of thousands of foreigners are believed to have slipped through the inadequately guarded borders in the last few months, or since Congress tightened up the immigration laws. It is thought that many of those who have thus come through are radicals. Not only have aliens been smuggled across the Mexican and Canadian borders, but they have been shipped from islands in the Caribbean.

Secretary Davis believes that once employers refuse to hire men when they have no legal rights to citizenship, there will be a great improvement in the situation.

Wanderer's Jail Term Here Perfects Record in 48 States

A perfect record was attained yesterday by "Mike" Luscovich, 39-year-old follower of the open road, with the assistance of Magistrate Douras in Morrisania Court. "Mike" was charged with vagrancy.

After telling the court that his home was in the forty-eight States of the Union and that he could not remember where or when he last worked, "Mike" said he had been arrested in every State but New York. He seemed crestfallen that his record was not complete.

Magistrate Douras said:

"We have some very nice jails here. I'll give you six months in the workhouse."

"Mike" replied: "I'm used to it, Judge."

FESS URGES NAVY EQUAL TO BRITAIN'S

Senator Visiting Coolidge Says Congress Will Insist on Extending 5-5-3 Ratio.

NAVY TO PUSH AIR PROGRAM

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 10.—Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, regarded as an Administration Senate leader, here to confer with the President on railroad consolidation legislation, stated in an interview today that the American Congress would initiate a naval program which would place the American Navy on an equality with that of Great Britain, despite the efforts of President Coolidge or any other leader.

In his opinion, the next Congress will not delay in authorizing a naval program which would provide for the construction of auxiliary craft sufficient to give the United States the same relative strength in fighting power as Great Britain. This, he said, would be done unless the naval powers which participated in the unsuccessful Geneva limitation conference agreed to a naval treaty that restricted naval building to the 5-5-3 ratio for auxiliary craft included in the 1922 Washington treaties.

The failure of the conference, the Senator said, would be the signal for a movement, which even President Coolidge could not stop, for naval building halted by the conference.

This building program would include, he declared, the rounding out of the American navy and the construction of as many light cruisers and destroyers as Great Britain has in her fleet.

"The American people will demand a navy equally as effective as that of Great Britain," Senator Fess said. "That is the sentiment I find. I know that President Coolidge is opposed to naval competition and opposed to expending vast sums for naval armaments. He cannot very easily oppose Congress if it should enter on a naval program that would extend the spirit of the 1922 naval treaty to auxiliary craft. He may do so, and, therefore, in order to prevent it, I am confident that he will make every effort to bring about another naval conference."

It has been made known here that the Administration, in favoring a "moderate" naval program, will propose to Congress plans for aviation building designed to give this country proper defense in the matter of aircraft.

Secretary Wilbur declined to reveal the details of the program which the General Board will recommend but insisted that the United States will not embark upon a building program greater than had already been contemplated before the Geneva Conference met.

Apparently the President delayed pushing the naval building program to await the outcome of the conference, and these delayed plans, it is said, will be carried out over a five-year period in such a way as not to arouse competition in naval construction and without seeking to approach the relative strength of Great Britain's naval power.

The decision to go ahead with the program outlined by the General Board for American naval construction is explained to be without regard to the results of the Geneva Conference and will, in no sense, be a competitive building scheme. It was reached at the conferences here between President Coolidge and Secretary Wilbur.

Five-Year Aircraft Program.

Without regard to the army program which calls for 1,800 planes, and without considering what is being accomplished by the encouragement of commercial aviation by the Postoffice Department, the navy will build during a five-year period 1,000 planes and it is proposed as soon as contract difficulties can be worked out, to construct a huge dirigible.

The navy strength will be maintained, it is stated, in accordance with plans which have been proposed by the General Board, and will be within what is regarded as the needs of the country.

In this respect, it is realized, it will not meet the approval of the men who believe the British program should be equalled, and a vigorous fight in Congress, therefore, is expected.

While it is stressed that there will be no radical change in the program which had been adopted before the Naval Conference was held, it is made clear that the program, which had been held in abeyance pending the outcome of the conference will now be pushed forward. Congress has instructed the President to withhold construction of eight 10,000-ton cruisers if the Geneva Conference had been successful. It will now be full speed ahead on this program.

Coolidge Opposes "Big Navy."

The President in the closing period of his Administration will hold out against the demands of the "big navy" men that this Government should proceed at once to outstrip other countries in a naval program. His goal is not different from theirs. He wants the navy rounded out with a proper supply of cruisers to supplement the battleships.

He feels he could not do less than that. He has made a genuine effort to bring about limitation of naval armament by agreement. This effort has failed for the time being. The General Board's program has been held up pending the conference. Now, it is pointed out, the program will be carried out, but without change. The President will resist efforts to enlarge the cruiser program and that of other auxiliary craft.

Eighteen Cruisers as Maximum.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP).—While no official statement has been made, it is understood here that in proposing a cruiser tonnage of from 250,000 to 300,000 at Geneva the American Government figured upon a maximum of eighteen 10,000-ton cruisers for this country.

Eight such craft now have been contracted for and the other ten undoubtedly will be authorized by Congress in the near future. The speed with which they are to be built probably was one of the subjects discussed by President Coolidge and Secretary Wilbur at Rapid City.

Naval thought here now is that two of these craft should be laid down each year, spreading their construction over a five-year period. If that plan is followed, the cruiser fleet would not be completed until 1935.

Eighteen 10,000-ton cruisers would total 180,000 tons, which, added to the 75,000 tons in the ten light cruisers of the Memphis type now in commission, would give the United States a grand total of 255,000 tons.

Great Britain sought to limit sharply the 10,000-ton class of craft, proposing only twelve each for itself and the United States, with eight for Japan. In addition it proposed that each country be permitted to build a large fleet of 6,000-ton craft mounting 6-inch guns as against 8-inch guns on the larger vessels.

To this the United States dissented, its representatives holding that this country was so situated geographically that the smaller vessels would not meet America's peculiar needs.

IRISH REPUBLICANS TO TAKE DAIL SEATS

Decide to Subscribe to Oath and Enter Free State Parliament Tomorrow.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The Free State Republican Party tonight issued a statement announcing that they would take the oath of allegiance and their seats in the Dail Eireann on Friday. The statement, which was signed by all forty-five members, including de Valera, is believed to mean the advent of a Labor Government.

The addition of this solid body to the present Opposition will leave the Cosgrave Government in a minority even if it retains the support of the Farmers' Party and the majority of Independents.

It is understood that an arrangement has been made between the Republicans and Labor Party whereby the latter will be asked to form a Government aided by Captain Redmond and the National League. No Republican will take a seat in the Executive Council.

A government of this kind would have a working majority but depend almost entirely upon the good-will of Captain Redmond, who would thus be in the position his father occupied for so many years in the House of Commons. Its power to legislate would be further crippled by the right of the Senate to suspend legislation for nine months. Therefore, if a Labor Government is formed, it will merely mark time until another general election.

The main object of such a government, it is taken for granted, would be to secure modification of the oath of allegiance in consultation with the British Government and pave the way for the ultimate entry into the Dail of de Valera himself. If a Labor Government is formed, at least one well-known business man will be asked to accept a portfolio so that public confidence in the Administration may remain unimpaired.

STEW 'RDESS ABSOLVED BY CORONER IN LONDON

Inquest Finds That Acid She Threw on Man Caused Fright, Not Death—Deportation Ordered.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Mary B. Waites, stewardess on the Shipping Board vessel, American Trader, charged with throwing acid on Lewis Fisher, member of the crew, was taken today on a deportation order to Southampton whence she will sail tomorrow to America. Mr. Fisher died ten minutes after the acid was thrown in his face. At the inquest over Mr. Fisher's death today the coroner's jury found that he had died from natural causes after the fright caused by the stewardess's act and that Miss Waites did not intend to do the man serious harm.

According to the story told by Miss Waites, which Captain Hubbard C. Fish of the American Trader related at the inquest she merely wanted temporarily to disfigure Mr. Fisher while he was in London to prevent his going ashore to see another woman.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—A British War Office pamphlet entitled "Defense Against Gas" is prefaced by a statement that the British Government has entered an undertaking to endeavor to obtain from enemies on the outbreak of war an agreement not to use poison gas.

"But in the event of failure to obtain such an engagement, the Government will be free to take the action that the circumstances demand," the statement says.

The booklet states that air gas attacks must be anticipated, a possible method being the spraying of liquid poison, such as mustard gas, from tanks carried by aircraft, from which it will fall like rain.

Respirators for individual protection and gas-proof shelters for collective protection are fully described.

Undaunted by the rough sea, the two girls had a three-hour training swim today under the guidance of the veteran trainer, T. W. Burgess. The young swimmers paced each other in turn. The onlookers were much struck with the girls' grit and power of endurance.

LAUSANNE JUBILANT AS ITS BOARDS AGREE

Three Commissions on Church Problems Reach Accord on Reports to Conference.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Aug. 10 (AP).—Great enthusiasm was shown tonight by the delegates to the World Conference on Faith and Order when the three commissions which have been working in private to prepare reports on important subjects announced that they had reached agreement. This meant that they have found a common basis for their reports tomorrow to the full conference on the weighty and difficult questions of "The Church's Message to the World," "The Nature of the Church," and "The Church's Common Confession of Faith."

The spectacle of American Bishops, orthodox patriarchs, and clergymen and laymen from more than fifty Christian religions, waiting, like crowds outside a jury room, for a verdict from the commissions showed the intense interest which the deliberations have aroused. When, after their long vigil, the doors were opened and the delegates announced that they had agreed, the watchers showed undisguised pleasure. Many Europeans and Easterners embraced each other, while the Americans and English showed their satisfaction by shaking hands.

It is said that no legal documents ever were prepared with greater care than these reports. The commissions had divided the work into as many as twenty subcommittees. Each committee reported the results of its labors to the full commissions. A majority of the committees met in Lausanne churches.

The commission which was dealing with "The Church's Confession of Faith" was generally held to have had a most difficult problem before it. This subject involves the creeds, and was said by many delegates to be the most combustible material before the conference. The Right Rev. Charles Gore, Bishop of Oxford, England, had declared that unless the delegates could agree to accept the Apostles' Creed and the Nicene Creed as authoritative statements of common faith in Christ, they might as well abandon their endeavors for unity, and rest content with the earnest pursuit of the moral and social aims of Christianity.

PRINTERS VOTE A RULE ON DISCHARGED MEN

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 10 (AP).—A new rule which vitally affects the relationship between employer and employe was adopted at the Diamond Jubilee Convention of the International Typographical Union here today. The rule provides that in case of discharge of an employe by a publisher, when the subordinate union, following an appeal, reinstates a discharged employe, the reinstatement must be complied with by the newspaper. This rule does not hold good where such controversies are specifically provided for in contracts between subordinate unions and publishers.

The rule, which was backed by President Charles P. Howard, leader of the Progressive wing of the union, was adopted only after a stiff battle and a roll-call demanded by James J. Hoban of Cleveland, "Administration" leader. The roll-call resulted in a victory for the Progressives by a margin of 295 to 245.

All of the officers except Mr. Howard and the majority of the Executive Council are members of the "Administration" forces. In all controversies that have come up during the present convention, however, the Progressives have been victorious.

In another important victory today the Progressives brought about the adoption of a resolution endorsing the action of Mr. Howard some time ago in discharging twelve organizers of the union. The convention also adopted a Progressive resolution which required the paying of old age and mortuary assessments by all members who retain active membership in the union, but who are not engaged in the trade.

Three cities were nominated today for the 1928 convention. They were Charleston, S. C., Chattanooga, Tenn., and Seattle, Wash. The convention city will be selected tomorrow.

DIVORCE TO BE SOUGHT BY MISS TALMADGE

"Just Can't Live" With Captain MacIntosh, Says Mother in Paris With Actress.

PARIS, Aug. 10 (AP).—Constance Talmadge proposes to seek a divorce from Captain Alastair W. MacIntosh some time in the future, but her present trip to Paris was not made for that purpose, her mother, Mrs. Talmadge, stated today. Mrs. Talmadge and her daughter plan a two months' stay in France.

"Captain MacIntosh called this morning," said Mrs. Talmadge. "He flew to London, but is returning in a few days. Constance and he are the best of friends, but it is inevitable that there will be a divorce. There has been no quarrel, but they just can't live together. He is the most charming man in the world, and we all admire him sincerely.

"Constance never thinks of divorce proceedings, but she told me the other day, 'I suppose I must start them some time.' I assure you there is no chance of anything being started during our present visit—perhaps in a few months."

Miss Talmadge and Captain MacIntosh were married at San Mateo, Cal., in February of last year. He is a member of a prominent Scottish family.

TREASURY TO BUY IN SECOND LIBERTIES

TERM ENDS IN NOVEMBER

$1,276,000,000 of Them Are Still Out, Many of Them in Hands of Small Holders.

PLAN WELL RECEIVED HERE

Financial Circles Had Awaited Government Statement on Calling In of Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 10.—Plans of the Treasury Department for the redemption of about $1,276,000,000 outstanding of the Second Liberty loan were disclosed by Ogden L. Mills, Under Secretary of the Treasury, in an address before the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia today. He stated that further reductions in the amount outstanding were likely before Nov. 15, and that funds necessary to retire the rest of the issue on that date would be obtained by the sale of short-term securities carrying a low rate of interest.

Mr. Mills's announcement came in the course of a talk on Treasury financing concerning its efforts not to inconvenience the public in the refunding of war bonds. He said:

"It is obvious that, with the annual surpluses which we have enjoyed in recent years, the excess of revenue receipts would rapidly have extinguished the floating debt were it not for the fact that it was undesirable to permit this process to take place, and had not the maturity of the Victory notes and of the notes issued in exchange for Victory notes, and more recently, the calling of the Second Liberty Loan bonds, enabled us to keep an adequate supply of short-term paper outstanding. As it was convenient during the war to anticipate receipts of Liberty Loan bonds by the issuance of certificates, so it is convenient and economical to finance the maturities of these war-time issues, in part at least, by short-term paper that bears a low rate of interest, and which can subsequently be gradually redeemed at convenient dates.

Function of Short-Term Debt.

"But, in addition, our short-term debt performs a very important function. It furnishes the machinery which enables the Treasury Department to keep Government cash balances at a minimum, and to carry on its financial operations without major disturbances in the money market every quarter-day.

"The Federal Reserve banks are the fiscal agents of the Treasury and its payments are generally made through them. Treasury balances in the Federal Reserve banks represent money withdrawn from the market. In view of the very heavy income-tax payments made on the 15th of March, June, September and December, unless some offset is devised and maintained, cash balances with the Federal Reserve Banks would rise to a peak on the quarterly dates and would drop to a minimum just before the next quarterly date.

"So, once every three months, great sums of money, running as high at $400,000,000, would be taken from the commercial banks by the taxpayers and paid into the Federal Reserve banks to the Treasury's account, thereby taking that amount of money out of the money market, with all of the consequences to interest rates that must follow.

"If, however, on each quarter-day, the certificates mature in an amount approximately equal to tax payments, it is obvious that the two transactions wash. The tax checks drawn upon the commercial banks are deposited with the Federal Reserve banks to the Treasury's account, but, at the same time, there is paid to the commercial banks a like amount of payment of interest and maturing securities."

Plan of Redemption Announced.

Mr. Mills said as to the redemption of the Second Liberties:

"Through purchases from surplus moneys we reduced the amount outstanding so that, whereas, when the operation was begun in March there were $3,104,000,000 of Second Liberty Loan bonds in the hands of the public, on June 30 the amount had been reduced to approximately $1,276,000,000, and there will, of course, be further reductions prior to the maturity date, on Nov. 15 next.

"The funds necessary to meet those presented for cash payment on that date will be obtained by the sale of obligations maturing either on one or several of the future quarterly tax payment dates. At the same time these obligations will be offered in exchange for maturing Second Liberty Loan bonds, and unquestionably a number of the holders of seconds will avail themselves of the exchange privilege."

Mr. Mills declared that the public debt was the governing factor in Treasury financing, that it was the policy of the Treasury to reduce the war debt at a reasonably rapid rate and to relieve the burden by replacing high interest-bearing securities with others carrying a lower rate whenever opportunity offers.

He described the short term debt devised to avoid disturbance of the financial market on quarter days as "not complicated, but by no means an automatic process."

"It implies a definite policy, sound judgment in carrying it out," Mr. Mills said, "and a highly competent organization to deal promptly and accurately with the many details involved in transaction which not only involve huge totals but the handling of thousands of separate individual accounts. Being a comparatively recent addition to the Treasury staff, I think I can say without trespassing on the boundaries of good taste that I have never seen two more competent business organizations than those of the Federal Reserve banks and the United States Treasury Department."

Announcement Is Welcomed Here.

The announcement of Under Secretary Mills of the program for the retirement of the $1,276,000,000 of Second Liberty bonds still outstanding was welcomed in the financial district, as it cleared up a point concerning which considerable uncertainty had arisen. Previous exchange offers and cash purchases by the Government had not done much more than cut the issue in half so far this year, and many guesses had been made as to the methods to be followed in retiring the balance before the redemption date, Nov. 15, next.

A new exchange offer had been expected, but there was a wide divergence of views as to the type of security to be offered. The indication that short-term financing has been chosen was welcomed as a favorable argument for long-term Government bonds, as it had been supposed that the new securities to be offered might carry a long maturity, which would have added greatly to the supply of bonds in the market. The details of the Treasury plan were received here too late to have much of an effect on the bond market, but it is expected to increase the demand for long-term Government bonds. United States Treasury securities now are only fractionally below their highest levels of the year.

The Treasury started last March to call in Second Liberty bonds in anticipation of retirement of the entire issue by Nov. 15, the first optional redemption date. The Treasury offered in March to exchange new 3¼ per cent. five-year notes for the Second Liberty bonds. Offsetting the lower interest rate offered by the Government was the fact that two extra months of interest on the 4¼s was provided. This offer resulted in the retirement of $1,300,000,000 of the Liberty Seconds.

Small Investors Hold Many Seconds.

In June a new offer was made to exchange 3% per cent. bonds for the Second Liberty bonds, and this resulted in the retirement of $244,000,000 of the latter. In addition, the Treasury invited holders to sell their Second Liberty bonds direct to the Government. Holders were asked for tenders of the bonds, with the understanding that those offered at the lowest prices would be purchased. Of a total of $72,000,000 of tenders, about $63,000,000 were accepted.

A variety of reasons have been advanced to account for the amount of Second Liberty bonds still outstanding despite the various offers made by the Government. Banks and other large institutions to a great extent have turned in their seconds, but a tremendous amount have been held by small investors, many of whom either are unwilling to accept a lower interest rate until compelled to do so on the final redemption date, or hope to get better terms from the Government in a later offer.

Wall Street expects the new offer to contain attractive terms, as it is considered that the line as to price might have been a little too finely drawn in the previous exchange offers.

'CANDY MAN' A BEGGAR, BROOKLYN BRIDE FINDS

She Sees Him in Detroit Street, Posing as Blind—Marriage Is Annulled for Fraud.

The marriage of James Tsavalis, who induced a Brooklyn girl to become his wife by boasting of being a "big candy man" in Detroit, was annulled yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Charles J. Druhan in Brooklyn, in a suit brought by Mrs. Lillie Perma Tsavalas of 260 Ovington Avenue, Brooklyn, who charged that her husband had fraudulently represented himself to obtain her consent to wed.

In 1922, according to her testimony, Tsavalas was a guest at a party in Brooklyn, at which she also was a guest, and he made use of that introduction to visit her at her home and to propose marriage. She withheld her acceptance of his offer until he had made four visits and described his chocolate and candy works. They were married in the Municipal Building, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Tsavalas told her husband that she would like to see his business place and she suggested that they conclude their honeymoon in Detroit. When they arrived, she said, he took her to furnished lodgings. This puzzled her, but not quite so much as did the mysterious absence of her husband during certain hours daily. A remark about her husband's business several days later brought a quick response from the landlady, who said:

"You want to see your husband's business; then come with me." The landlady escorted the bride to a busy street in Detroit, and stopped near a man pounding the sidewalk with a cane, his eyes concealed by "smoked" glasses. A sign proclaimed that he was blind. "That's your husband," the woman said.

Mrs. Tsalvas was unable to believe what the woman had told her. She returned to the house and telegraphed for her mother, Mrs. Ellen Perma. When she arrived mother and daughter again sought the supposed "blind man." When the beggar approached, Mrs. Perma stepped forward and pulled the glasses from his eyes, and Mrs. Tsavalas recognized her husband. He offered no defense to the suit.

FOUR DIE IN A DAY IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Brooklyn Boy, 14, Is Killed as He Cycles Into a Truck—Man, 70, a Victim.

ONE DEATH IN TRAIN CRASH

Three Others Injured in Collision at Linden, N. J.—Newark Man Dies as Bridge Sweeps Him From Car.

Four persons were killed and several others were injured yesterday in automobile accidents in and about New York.

Gerard Knobloch, 14 years old, of 206 Moffatt Street, Brooklyn, was riding a bicycle at Moffatt Street and Evergreen Avenue, Brooklyn, and ran beneath the rear wheel of a heavy truck driven by Benjamin Flock of 1,438 Green Avenue, Brooklyn. Flock was not arrested.

William Robinson, 70, of 4,161 Amboy Road, Annadale, S. I., died at Richmond Memorial Hospital of injuries received, according to the police, when he stepped from behind a passing car in front of another automobile driven by Charles Bamberger of 2,151 Amboy Road. Magistrate Croak will determine today in the Stapleton Police Court whether charges should be made against Bamberger.

Edward Higgins, 25, of 2,800 Lincoln Avenue, Camden, a motor truck helper, was killed at Newark when he was thrown from the truck as it passed under a low bridge. Higgins was asleep, according to Joseph McCallum, driver, of 37 Cooper Road, Beverly, N. J., as they approached the bridge.

Michael Bates, 40, of 350 Franklin Avenue, Bloomfield, N. J., was killed and three others were hurt when an automobile which he was driving was struck by a B. & O. train on St. George's Avenue, Linden, N. J. Those hurt were Peter Luksis, 34, 190 Van Buren Avenue, Newark, who may die of a fractured skull at General Hospital, Elizabeth; John Cytel, 35, of 824 Walnut Street, Linden, and John Vorhees, 34, of 250 Jefferson Street, Newark, who are in the same hospital with internal injuries. Albert Dewaters, locomotive engineer, of Great Kills, S. I., told the police he did not see Bates's car.

OFF ON NICARAGUAN MISSION

General McCoy Sails to Supervise Elections There Next Year.

Brig. General Frank R. McCoy, U. S. A., sailed yesterday on the United Fruit steamer Tivives for Nicaragua to act as chairman of a committee to supervise the elections next year. He is also the head of a special commission appointed by President Coolidge to study the Nicaraguan situation as the result of a conference between Henry L. Stimson, former Secretary of War, and the President of Nicaragua. The General was accompanied by his aide, Lieut. S. V. Hasbrook and two civilian secretaries, William Calverton and David G. Minro.

Rear Admiral H. Christy, U. S. N., recently in charge of the submarine division of the Atlantic Fleet, also sailed on the Tivives to take charge of the Fifteenth Naval District, the base of which is Balboa on the Pacific Coast. His aide, Lieutenant Carroll Tyler, accompanied him.

Device Saves a Swedish Train.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 10 (AP).—Automatic safety devices saved a Stockholm-Malmoe express from plunging headlong into an open drawbridge across Goeta Canal, at Norsholm, in Central Sweden, yesterday. The train was speeding at nearly sixty miles an hour when automatic switches diverted it into a siding along the canal bank. The locomotive was derailed and the tender crushed but no one was injured.

COOLIDGE DEDICATES MEMORIAL IN HILLS

that which is truly characteristic of America. He represents our independence, our Constitution, our liberty. He formed the highest aspirations that were entertained by any people into the permanent institutions of our Government.

He stands as the foremost disciple of ordered liberty, a statesman with an inspired vision who is not outranked by any mortal greatness.

Next to him will come Thomas Jefferson, whose wisdom insured that the Government which Washington had formed should be intrusted to the administration of the people. He emphasized the element of self-government, which had been enshrined in American institutions in such a way as to demonstrate that it was practical and would be permanent.

In him was likewise embodied the spirit of expansion. Recognizing the destiny of his country, he added to its territory. By removing the possibility of any powerful opposition from a neighboring State, he gave new guarantees to the rule of the people.

Accomplishment of Lincoln.

After our country had been established, enlarged from sea to sea, and dedicated to popular Government, the next great task was to demonstrate the permanency of our Union and to extend the principle of freedom to all the inhabitants of our land.

The master of this supreme accomplishment was Abraham Lincoln. Above all other national figures, he holds the love of his fellow countrymen. The work which Washington and Jefferson began, he extended to its logical conclusions.

That the principles for which these three men stood might be still more firmly established destiny raised up Theodore Roosevelt. To political freedom he strove to add economic freedom. By building the Panama Canal he brought into closer relationship the East and the West and realized the vision that inspired Columbus in his search for a new passage to the Orient.

The union of these four Presidents carved on the face of the everlasting hills of South Dakota will constitute a distinctly national monument. It will be decidedly American in its conception, in its magnitude, in its meaning and altogether worthy of our country. No one can look upon it understandingly without realizing that it is a picture of hope fulfilled.

Its location will be significant. Here in the heart of the continent, on the side of a mountain which probably no white man had ever beheld in the days of Washington, in territory which was acquired by the action of Jefferson, which remained an almost unbroken wilderness beyond the days of Lincoln, which was especially beloved by Roosevelt, the people of the future will see history and art combined to portray the spirit of patriotism.

They will know that the figure of these Presidents has been placed here because by following the truth they built for eternity. The fundamental principles which they represented have been wrought into the very being of our country. They are steadfast as these ancient hills.

Lauds Spirit of America.

Other people have marveled at the growth and strength of America. They have wondered how a few weak and discordant colonies were able to win their independence from one of the greatest powers of the world. They have been amazed at our genius for self-government. They have been unable to comprehend how the shock of a great civil war did not destroy our Union.

They do not understand the economic progress of our people. It is true that we have had the advantage of great natural resources, but these have not been exclusively ours. Others have been equally fortunate in that direction. The progress of America has been due to the spirit of its people. It is in no small degree due to that spirit that we have been able to produce such great leaders.

If coming generations are to maintain a like spirit, it will be because they continue to study the lives and times of the great men who have been the leaders in our history, and continue to support the principles which those men represented.

"It is for that purpose that we erect memorials. We cannot hold our admiration for the historic figures which we shall see here without growing stronger in our determination to perpetuate the institutions which their lives revealed and established.

The fact that this enterprise is being begun in one of our new States, not yet great in population, not largely developed in its resources, discloses that the old American spirit still goes where our people go, still dominates their lives, still inspires them to deeds of devotion and sacrifice. It is but another illustration of the determination of our people to use their material resources to minister to their spiritual life.

Another National Shrine.

This memorial will be another national shrine to which future generations will repair to declare their continuing allegiance to independence, to self-government, to freedom and to economic justice.

It is an inspiring phase of American life that men are willing to devote their energies to the erection of a memorial of this nature. Money spent for such a purpose is certain of adequate returns in the nature of increased public welfare.

The people of South Dakota are taking the lead in the preparation of this memorial out of their meager resources, because the American spirit is strong among them. Their effort and courage entitles them to the sympathy and support of private beneficence and the National Government.

They realize fully that they have no means of succeeding in the development of their State except a reliance upon American institutions. They do not fail to appreciate their value. There is no power that can stay the progress of such a people. They are predestined to success. Our country is fortunate in having the advantage of their citizenship. They have been pioneers in the development of their State. They will continue to be pioneers in the defense and development of American institutions.

South Dakotans Also Speak.

Speeches were also made by Governor Bulow, Senators McMaster and Norbeck and Representative Royal C. Johnson and C. J. Buell. Rolf Lium, the student pastor at the Harmons Congregational Church, made a prayer.

The settings in the environs of Keystone, a deserted but once thriving mining settlement, are rugged and beautiful. The mountain stands high in the hills and the carved figures will be easily seen for miles.

The ceremonies were as distinctive as the monument they dedicated. An airplane piloted by Captain Russell Halley, World War hero, dropped a laurel wreath bearing the name "Washington" on Mount Rushmore as the President was speaking, and telegrams from Governors of many States and notable persons fluttered in the air as the pilot released them from his dizzy height.

The exercises were designed to recall the history of America and the claims of France and other countries to the country now included in the vast domain. Flags marking the history of development and conquest were unfurled in the order of their appearance in Colonial history.

First appeared the French flag, recalling the claims of France under the Bourbons, made by her explorers in 1750 when they planted in the very centre of South Dakota a leaden plate on which she claimed all of the territory lying west of the British Colonies.

The flag of France of that day was hoisted, saluted by American rifles fired by the 180th Engineers, flown for three minutes and then lowered. The Spanish flag next appeared to mark the secession to Spain of the Louisiana Territory, made by France to protect it from England. In 1802 the Louisiana Territory was transferred to France then under the Republic. The Tricolor fluttered in the breeze to mark this historic action.

Five different flags were raised showing the sequence of claims which finally resulted in the flag of the United States flying over the mountain.

Completion Expected in Four Years.

Mr. Borglum, who conceived the memorial, and Major J. G. Tucker, Superintendent of construction, were lowered over the wall, and drilled the first outlines of George Washington's figure. This concluded the ceremony and marked the beginning of the project, which will require four years to complete at a cost of approximately $450,000.

"The colossal sculpture begun today on Mount Rushmore," said Mr. Borglum, "is the first effort in America to make any adequate monumental record and chronological statement of the national movement which has led to the territorial growth of the Continental Republic.

"The significance and the purpose of this mountain record are to carve upon a granite cliff and cut there high into the heavens, on stone, briefly but fully the story of the growth of the first modern Republic in the Western world as embodied in four of its most dominant leaders. The inscriptions will be on the west wall of the great rock. There in mammoth letters will be carved when, how and who it was who declared our right to be free and be happy, and who shaped our Constitution; through whom, why and when we determined to extend our boundaries westward; the cause for the Civil War and how the Union was saved, and, finally, the inscription will state how in our own day, Roosevelt completed the dream of Columbus and cut a way to the East, to India.

"The sculptured figures on the mountain will include the father of his country, Washington. By his side and to his right, the great Democrat, the great expansionist, Jefferson. To the left of Washington will stand the figure of Lincoln, the savior of the Continental Union that Jefferson's act had extended to the Pacific. To the back of Lincoln will appear the figure of Roosevelt.

Huge Tablet Will Be Carved.

"These four figures will be cut in colossal dimensions and such size as will fit into the surroundings. To the west, with the sculptured figures on the opposite side, where the sun will strike it, will be cut a tablet 120 feet in height and 80 feet in width where will be recorded the steps taken to found, expand and preserve and develop the United States."

Mount Rushmore is in the hills, about twenty miles from Rapid City, and three and a half miles from Keystone, once an active mining town, where was located the Holy Terror mine. It is situated one thousand feet above the valley. The rock on which the memorial will be cut has about 400 feet of base rock on the east wall, about 100 feet on the west surface, due to a ravine, and is about 900 feet in length.

The mountain, according to Mr. Borglum, presents a proud and noble front, visible for many miles. The conditions for road building are good, enabling the public to see the completed monument at various distances of from three miles down to as close as 2,000 feet.

FOES FORCE CABINET TO DESERT NANKING

Beaten by Sun's Revivified Forces, Chiang Will Shift Government to Shanghai.

PLANS STAND ON YANGTSE

Accord With Hankow Alone Can Save Him, It Is Said, and Negotiations Are Now Going On.

By HENRY F. MISSELWITZ.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 10.—Developments indicating that the finger of fate is now pointing to Nanking as the next probable victim in the various fortunes of this war in China, are strengthened by numerous events, the first of which in immediate importance is the statement that the Nanking régime is moving its seat of government to Shanghai. All ministries, ministers and clerks and, in fact, the entire mechanics of the civil authority are fleeing the focal point of the danger as the northern drive approches the Yangtsze River.

This information was given to me today through semi-official sources by a man close to Nanking's leaders. Hence there is no reason to doubt its truth.

General Chiang Kai-shek, commander of the Nanking armies and head of the Nanking Government, has apparently suffered staggering losses in seeking to defend Soochow and Pengpu, both of which seem to have been lost to the North during the recent heavy fighting along the Pukow-Tientsin Railway line.

The impression is expressed freely, even among Chinese Nationalists here, that the only hope of the Nationalist Government at Nanking lies in a quick compromise with the other Nationalist régime at Hankow.

T. V. Soong, Hankow Minister, who has returned here, admitted to me today that negotiations to this end were proceeding, but he was not inclined to discuss the probability of success, although he asserted that Hankow hoped it would not be necessary to fight Nanking.

Sun's Army Shows New Life.

The whole difference lies in which of these two Governments is to be regarded as the legitimate régime in the future. But while squabbling over this question Nanking is suffering defeat after defeat at the hands of the strangely rejuvenated troops of Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, the war lord who formerly controlled Shanghai and who lost it so easily last March. He is regaining it now.

Nanking is under martial law and Chiang Kai-shek is moving artillery into position to defend Nanking and Chinkiang, on the southern bank of the Yangtse River. However, the success of his efforts to hold the line are doubtful unless he gains an understanding with Hankow.

Even his sympathizers have described his defeat as a result of a "complete débâcle." His armies are shattered and the hospitals are full of wounded. The General is dubious over Marshal Feng Yu-siang's inactivity, despite the latter's promise of support.

There is a distinct air of expectancy looking to Sun Chuan-fang's early return. Chinese sources assert that the marshal's troops are already nearing the mouth of the Grand Canal across the Yangtse at Chinkiang and many believe that Chiang Kai-shek will be unable to stem the tide sweeping against him from all sides.

Furthermore, there is an undercurrent of pleasant anticipation of Sun's return to power here. Foreigners recall him as one of the best men to deal with who have ever controlled this area, and the Chinese, being inclined to regard the Cantonese revolt as finished, desire a more stable régime than that of the present harassed and uncertain Nanking revolutionary group.

Feng's Conduct Denounced.

Feng Yu-siang is being bitterly denounced privately in nationalist circles here, which are unanimous that his inactivity is characteristic of him at this stage of the game. It is being recalled that Feng refused to aid Marshal Wu Pei-fu in Peking when the latter needed it in 1924 and the Nationalists fear that he intends another coup similar to his turning against Wu Pei-fu then.

Sun Chuan-fang's remarkable recovery seems inexplicable at present. But some say he has the support of the Japanese, which the latter deny strongly. He apparently is driving south without the aid of General Chang Chung-chang, Governor of Shantung Province, the latter and Marshal Chang Tso-lin, the Northern dictator, with headquarters at Peking, being content seemingly to permit him to proceed untrammeled. They hold their old spheres of Shantung and Peking, which they are ready to protect against Feng, while Sun fights Nanking, with Shanghai again as his goal.

Tokio Envoy on Nanking Mission.

M. Yoshizawa, Japanese Minister at Peking, returned here this evening from Nanking, where he spent two days discussing various problems of importance. He refused to disclose the nature of his conference with Chiang Kai-shek and other Nanking leaders. He admitted that he was unable to disclose the purpose of his visit, but added:

"In a general way I may say that our discussion was most cordial and I am optimistic over the outcome."

M. Yoshizawa denied, stoutly, that he was backing anybody or acting as an intermediary between Peking and Nanking, and said he did not know how long Japanese troops would remain in Shantung.

Regarding Nanking's new tax schedule, due to become effective Sept. 1, he said that Japan's attitude was sternly opposed to Nanking's action. M. Yoshizawa added, however, that the parleys at Nanking had "paved the way for future action."

Japanese business men had assured him, he said, that the new tax levies would kill business and hence, he added, Japan was not willing to submit to what it regarded as an illegal step which would hit Japanese interests badly.

"Our policy is unchanged, but we must protect Japanese lives and property in China," M. Yoshizawa declared, at the same time intimating that this could be construed to include Japanese interests.

While he did not admit it, there is reason to believe that M. Yoshizawa offered certain concessions to Nanking in the event that Nanking changes its tax schedules in Japan's favor. The Minister refused to discuss this phase of the conference.

M. Yoshizawa will proceed to Peking on Friday.

REDS WARN TROTSKY BUT DO NOT OUST HIM

HIS GROUP RECANT IN PART

They Declare Themselves Against Imperialism, but Claim Freedom to Criticize Administration.

By WALTER DURANTY.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 10.—Leon Trotsky and Gregory Zinovieff have avoided expulsion from the Central Committee of the Communist Party. That is the net result of the intra-party discussion which has been carried on for the past ten days in the historic Kremlin with unprecedented vigor.

The result was announced today in a 5,000-word resolution voted by a joint plenary session of the Central Control Committee of the Central Committee of the Communist Party.

The resolution reminds me of the communiqués from French headquarters which followed the French offensive in the Champagne region in September, 1915. France had won a great victory—but Germany still held the Hindenburg line.

The parallel is extraordinarily close. The anti-opposition drive in the Kremlin began with a terrific preliminary bombardment. Day after day for hours the enemy positions were battered by heavy guns and light. So the French hammered the German trenches for four long days. The assault was successful and the enemy position was captured in the victorious drive. So France thrilled to the news of the successful onslaughts and of prisoners by tens of thousands.

Today's resolution states definitely: "The joint plenary session has accepted basically" (the literal translation is "in foundation," which, though akin to "in principle," is distinctly not the same thing) "the resolution on the expulsion of Trotsky and Zinovieff from the Central Committee."

Their Anti-Imperialism Professed

But, unexpectedly, follow the lines that "in view of the [above-mentioned] declaration, the plenary session decided to withdraw the question about exclusion of Trotsky and Zinovieff from the Central Committee and to admonish them with severe blame and a warning."

Thus the mountain of obloquy heaped on the Opposition brought forth the mouse of admonishment; unless, perchance, the Opposition this time recanted with such profound abasement that the eleventh-hour pardon is merely a flower on the breast of the dying gladiator. With this idea I read the Opposition declaration. "Gladiator," if you like, but "dying"—not.

Signed by Trotsky, Zinovieff, Kameneff, Piatakof and others, it states that they are 100 per cent. behind the defense of the Soviet Union against imperialist aggression, and that if any one interpreted any statements of Trotsky differently, said any one was vastly mistaken. But it adds that the Opposition still feels itself entitled to question the Administration policy, even in case of war, should said policy be wrong.

Secondly, the Opposition disapproves of the split in the German Communist Party and therefore suggests putting the issues in the question squarely up to the dissident German group to give them a chance of refusing or accepting membership in the Comintern.

Thirdly, the Opposition says it is against any split or any attempt at a split in the Russian Communist Party or any attempt to found a rival party.

But the Opposition wants a chance to justify its viewpoint, which "has been entirely wrongly represented in the press and read by the whole country." There is not much of the "dying gladiator" about that.

Then why will not Trotsky and Zinovieff be expelled? For the same reason that the French did not break the Hindenburg line in Champagne; namely, a snag. As the French hit the German barbed wire, so the Anti-Opposition drive here met an obstacle in the shape of popular sentiment. The resolution published today does not mention it. But it exists.

BRIAND RETORTS TO LEAGUE CRITIC

DEFENDS OUTSIDE ACCORDS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—Senator Henry de Jouvenel's resignation from the French delegation to the League of Nations Assembly has started a political discussion which one critic characterizes as a clash between Locarno and Geneva.

In resigning from the delegation M. de Jouvenel charged that the big powers were deserting the League method for the power of the concert of nations method, and cited the recent Italo-Yugoslav incident among others.

M. Briand replied, reproaching the Senator for not talking it over with him first, and stating that during all the years the Senator was with the delegation he never expressed disagreement with the League's procedure. He added that where questions could be settled outside the League by direct conversations between the interested parties he thought that the best method to follow.

Tonight Senator de Jouvenel retorts that he wrote M. Briand a letter a fortnight ago, which the Minister of Foreign Affairs "did not think it necessary to publish," but which answers the arguments which M. Briand has made public.

Two Opposed Views.

Senator de Jouvenel argues in extracts from his unpublished letter to M. Briand that the whole controversy centres about two diametrically opposed theses. It is a question, he says, whether the League will be used consistently or only when there is no way of getting out of it. The latter policy indicates "that France does not see in the League of Nations an instrument of international politics and instead of using her influence to encourage debates at Geneva she is using it to avoid them."

M. Briand takes the attitude that the League should not be taxed beyond its strength.

"I am not, my dear friends, less attached than you are to the League," he says, "and I believe I have proved it sufficiently. It is because of my very attachment to the institution that I seek the measure of effort which can be demanded of it if one wishes to serve it with prudence in its own interest and that of peace.

"I believe there is an advantage in treating outside of the League all international differences which can be settled normally by diplomacy before they constitute a real danger to peace. My beliefs on this point have never varied, and I see nothing in recent incidents that can change my feelings."

In an interview given today, M. Briand points to the League's remarkable record of action and in conclusion says:

"It is true its work is far from perfect. It is true its rôle needs to be unceasingly enlarged, and on this point I share the opinion of M. de Jouvenel. But is not the best way to serve the League to remain in the delegation of the Government associated with its work?"

De Jouvenel Suspicious of Italy.

Senator de Jouvenel, who silently followed M. Briand's lead for four years, has it appears been aroused to protest by the manner in which Italy has evaded League jurisdiction. He points out that the Corfu settlement, while executed by the Council of Ambassadors, was kept in the international domain.

"In 1927 two nations are invited to hold a private conversation which at best can result in provisory accords, because this sort of conversation has never ceased between the two nations in question since 1915," he continues. "They had already made accords which they had torn up. Tomorrow we hear there will be a new accord, which will be worth exactly what the preceding ones were. It will not have been brought about by the International Court and will be guaranteed by no one."

Commenting on this controversy, Pertinax in the Echo de Paris calls it a clash between Locarno and Geneva and says:

"The critics leave neither the former nor the latter intact. With their lances the two knights have run each other through."

The Temps takes sides with M. Briand and says of the League: "It will take time before it can play with all necessary authority the rôle which logically should be hers in a world organized on a solid base of law. But until by its universality and proper forces it can at least fully exercise its functions it is necessary, as M. Briand says, to seek the measure of effort which can be asked of it if one wishes to serve it with prudence.

"There is actually no political task more important than that of assuring to the League of Nations the possibility of living and developing, despite everything in the atmosphere of crisis which still envelops the world."

Girl Is Arrested in Berlin for Masquerading as American.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—Her failure to recognize nickels and dimes and to know their value, as well as her inability to identify Times Square on a picture postcard, led to the arrest in Berlin today of Bertha Hodorff, who asserted that she was an American. The lass declared that she was robbed of $6,000 worth of baggage and cash by a man whom she had met on a liner en route to Hamburg.

An American tourist proffered aid in making an examination. Bertha knew a bit of English and said that she had lived in New York for twelve years. When she was unable to identify American money and important points in New York, she was taken to the police station. Later it was learned that she was a waitress in a nearby spa, and had learned about the American metropolis and liners from tourists.

BAGNI DI MONTECATINI, Italy, Aug. 10.—The Italian papers say your paper has published a statement of Italian disorders in Italy, and of acts of violence committed against Americans. As an American reader of your paper and as a New Yorker having traveled extensively throughout Italy during the past two months, I wish to state that I have not seen or heard of any acts committed against Americans here, and ask you, in all fairness, to correct such a statement.

PARIS, Aug. 10 (AP).—Countess Salm, the former Millicent Rogers, and Arturo Peralta Ramos of Argentina, to whom she is engaged, have each booked passage on the steamship Olympic, sailing from Cherbourg on Aug. 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Rogers, parents of Countess Salm, recently announced the engagement of their daughter to Senor Ramos, who is reported to be a member of a wealthy family of Buenos Aires. Countess Salm arrived in Paris on July 23, being met by Señor Ramos, who has been living there.

WILLIS AND DONAHEY LEADING IN OHIO

Politicians Agree That Senator and Governor Will Control Their Delegations.

REPUBLICANS ALL AT SEA

They Are Wondering If Longworth and Fess Will Enter the Presidential Primary.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 10.—As things now shape up, Governor Vic Donahey, Democrat, and Senator Frank B. Willis, Republican, will control the favorite son delegations from Ohio to the next national conventions. Political leaders on both sides of the fence are virtually in agreement upon that.

In the case of Senator Willis, even his close friends do not believe that he will be nominated, although they have hopes of his getting a place on the ticket as Vice President. There is, however, a good deal of firm conviction on the part of Governor Donahey's backers that he may win as the candidate who would be more acceptable than any other to Democrats of the North as well as the South in the event that Governor Smith of New York does not get the big plum.

The withdrawal of President Coolidge from the political arena has had the effect of sorely mixing up the Republican politics of this State. The leaders had been going ahead on the basis that Mr. Coolidge would be renominated, and had he been he almost surely would have carried Ohio in the national election. Even stanch Democrats here admit that.

But with Mr. Coolidge out and a scramble on for delegates all over the country, the Ohio leadership has been forced to rearrange its thoughts and plans. Had President Coolidge remained in the contest, there probably would have been no fight at all in the primary, and even if Ohio had sent a favorite son delegation to the convention in order to give a complimentary vote to Senator Willis or some other favorite, these delegates would have then been turned over to the President.

Three Men in Republican Field.

Now there are three prospective candidates in the field in Ohio, Speaker Longworth and Senators Willis and Simeon D. Fess. Of this trio, certain leaders feel, only Speaker Longworth has an actual chance, and that an extremely slim one, based on the thought that the Republican convention may be deadlocked as between Hoover, Lowden and Dawes, and that the lightning might hit Longworth. They are ready to quote precedents for such a happening, but without much conviction.

The chief speculation now is whether Longworth, Fess or Willis, or any of them, will go into the primaries for the Ohio delegates. In the case of Fess, the decision is that he will not, as Mr. Fess really is planning to run again for the Senatorship next year, and a bad defeat in the Presidential primaries by Willis would injure his prestige. Mr. Fess is doing all that he can to build up his political fences, for the report is heard—and there is sound ground for it—that Governor Donahey may appear as the Democratic candidate for Senator, if he fails to obtain the Presidential nomination.

Mr. Longworth, leaders say, has been stung very deeply by the Presidential bee and would value most highly the backing of the Ohio delegation, as a favorite son. But to get that backing he probably would have to face a fight against Senator Willis in the primaries, and, as observers now view things, Mr. Willis would come out on top in such a struggle and give Mr. Longworth a crushing beating.

Think Longworth Will Wait

So it is being forecast that Speaker Longworth will bide his time before making an announcement, and will keep out of the primaries in the end, if Willis appears as a candidate and canvasses indicate that Willis would win. Therefore it may be that Senator Willis will be the only favorite son candidate to go before the people.

In a State situation where three men have their eyes on the Presidency, no matter how meager their chances of obtaining the nomination, there is every opportunity for interparty quarrels which may have a decided effect upon the contests for local offices. None realize this better than Republican leaders who had hoped to go through to a smashing victory right down the line next year, with President Coolidge heading the national ticket.

No information has been received here as to whether the backers of Secretary Hoover or former Governor Lowden of Illinois, expect to enter them in the Ohio primaries, but the opinion is that neither could win against Willis in many districts, and that the best they could hope to do would be to pick up half a dozen delegates. Therefore it is expected that they will keep out if Senator Willis goes in.

Both Hoover and Lowden, however, have considerable strength in Ohio; Lowden among the farmers, Hoover among the business and industrial interests. That line-up of sentiment is not local to Ohio; it is found almost everywhere in the Middle West. Vice President Dawes also has many supporters in this State and much discussion is heard about his chances.

The stories that there is a working agreement between Lowden and Dawes, under which Dawes will keep out of the fight until Lowden has had his fling, and then is to receive the delegates Lowden picks up, if the latter is side-tracked in the convention, are being spread about here. Some politicians think the stories are doing Lowden more harm than good and helping the cause of Dawes.

Believe Lowden Fails to Gain.

The prevailing opinion by shrewd observers here is that Lowden is losing, rather than gaining in strength; and in any event, many persons, it appears, would rather have Dawes than Lowden nominated if it came to a choice between the two men. The Republican leaders predict that Hoover, Dawes or Charles E. Hughes would carry Ohio in the election against any one the Democrats have in sight, with the possible exception of Governor Donahey, who, they think, has no chance of being nominated.

Governor Donahey on the Democratic side, is playing a very shrewd game. He told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent today that he was not a prospective candidate for any office and did not intend to announce himself as such.

"I am just the Governor of Ohio," he said, "and I am trying to be the best Governor I can. That's what the people wanted when they elected me. I told a meeting of 2,000 Democrats only recently that I wasn't a candidate, and that's where I stand."

But that he is almost certain to obtain the favorite son endorsement, not even Mr. Donahey will deny. His attitude, of course, is that, if called upon, he will accept, but he is not going to let himself appear as so engrossed with Presidential aspirations that he has not time to be a good Governor. His friends, however, have taken the tip and are at work all over the State to obtain a solid delegation to the national convention pledged to Donahey. This is shrewd politics, even if Donahey does not get the nomination, as it is having the effect of solidifying the Democratic ranks and promoting harmony among the party workers for the fight that is to come for the election of a Governor and United States Senator, as well as State offices of lesser importance.

Expect Donahey in Senate Race.

The tip among the politicians is that Governor Donahey will file in the primaries for Senator as well as appear as the favorite son candidate for the Presidency. He can do this, despite the fact that the last date for filing for Senator comes about the middle of June, during the course of the Republican National Convention, and usually before the convention nominates.

President Harding was faced by the same embarrassing situation in 1920, and he filed for Senator before the convention named him for President. Some of his friends told him that to file for another office while the national convention was debating his availability would damage his cause, but he did it nevertheless, and was nominated.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent asked Governor Donahey today if he would file for Senator, and the Governor put the question aside without denial or affirmation. The best belief here is that he will go after the Senatorship as well as the Presidency. It is said that Governor Donahey would rather seek the Senatorship than re-election as Governor, and there is talk that Representative Martin L. Davey may get that nomination. Mr. Davey has been conducting a widespread publicity campaign in his own behalf, and has strength in many parts of the State. He also is on close terms politically with the Governor.

personnel and material necessary for preparing ground in constructing the penitentiary and industrial buildings at Riker's Island. This institution will meet the eternal problem of prison idleness, prisoners now averaging only one hour's work per day.

(c) One hundred and fifty thousand dollars for additional building at the Boys' Reformatory at New Hampton, to provide necessary segregation and to relieve overcongestion.

(e) Twenty-five thousand dollars for plans and specifications for a house of detention, preferably on the site of old Jefferson Market Prison, for women first offenders, and for their proper classification and hospitalization.

Cites Reduction of Escapes.

I am gratified to state that the various Grand Juries and prominent civic organizations have given unqualified support and commendation to what we have been able to accomplish:

1. All records have been broken in reducing the net loss of prisoners by escape to zero. Formerly the loss was from fifteen to twenty-five annually. This new record has been established in the face of a largely increased census, the department having served a million more meals in the last year than in the preceding year.

2. The morale of the uniformed force of the department, largely through the adoption of the eight-hour day, has been raised to high standard, as evidenced by the frustration of every attempt to escape. The wardens report more desperate men in custody than ever before, and with the Baumes laws imposing life sentences the prisoner's desperation is increased.

3. The acquisition for prison use of the southern end of Hart's Island, on which an amusement centre has just been completed.

4. The annual saving of approximately $200,000 to the Department of Welfare by the use of prison labor in storehouses, shops, bakery, &c., and in the upkeep of Welfare Island.

5. The opening of Greycourt as a women's farm colony. This new building had been standing idle, after completion by the city, for over two years.

6. The transferring of all women prisoners from the Tombs and the making of Jefferson Market into strictly a women's prison, thus meeting the urgent recommendation of women's civic organizations.

7. Establishing a Court Witness Detention House in the Seventh District without cost to the city, and with 50 per cent. reduction in maintenance cost.

8. The reorganization of inmates' commissaries, under full control of a Board of Trustees. The surplus has been converted into New York City bonds and held in trust, the interest therefrom being used by the board for special prison needs not provided for by other funds.

9. The removal of 400 drug addicts from Riker's Island and their replacement with 600 able-bodied prisoners for farm labor and for distributing the refuse delivered daily by the Street Cleaning Department.

To you, Mr. Mayor, has been given the distinction of carrying out that provision of the Greater New York Charter which twenty-nine years ago provided for the removal of penal institutions from Welfare Island, and eventually from Hart's Island, thus releasing millions of dollars' worth of property for hospitals, parks or other municipal purposes.

As I have previously stated, my contractual obligations, made months ago, definitely fixed the date when I was to return from public service to the New York management of one of the large life insurance companies. Recently the time was extended by the company to July 31, pending action by the Board of Estimate upon the appropriations for carrying into effect the full program. Now that the appropriations have been provided and the work under way, I must respectfully request that I be relieved of the duties of Commissioner of Correction not later than that date.

Wishing you every success in the administration of this great city, with its fast-multiplying problems and responsibilities, I am,

Ever faithfully yours,
FRED'K A. WALLIS,
Commissioner.

Walker Regrets Action.

Mayor Walker's letter accepting the resignation, dated yesterday, was as follows:

Aug. 10, 1927.

The Hon. Frederick A. Wallis,
Commissioner of Correction,
Municipal Building, New York City.

Dear Commissioner Wallis: I have received with very much regret your note of resignation as Commissioner of the Department of Correction.

I have noted the recital therein contained of the items on the program which you devised, and I am confident that the public appreciates the spirit and the effectiveness which you have displayed in bringing this program to realization.

I note also the urgent considerations that move you in discontinuing your services as a municipal official. It would be manifestly unjust to press upon you a continuation of your public service to the prejudice and the postponement of the very attractive offer that has been made to you to engage in private business.

As I am going out of town for several weeks, it would not be fair to you to delay until my return the acceptance of your resignation, although I accept it, you may be sure, with much regret and much reluctance. You would confer a great favor on me, however, if you would continue in office until Aug. 15.

I trust you will encounter only prosperity, happiness and friendships in your new activities, and, although your official connection with the city has terminated, I hope the city may rely upon your valued advice and assistance in the future.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES J. WALKER, Mayor.

Patterson Native of Omaha.

Information obtained at the Mayor's office regarding the career of Mr. Patterson Jr. who will succeed Mr. Wallis next Monday, was that he was born in Omaha, Neb., graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1907 and from the Columbia School of Mines with a degree of M. E. in 1911. In 1913 he organized the Young Democratic Club, and was the first President of that organization. He entered the employ of the city as an Inspector in the Department of Public Works and was an engineer-inspector on the Catskill Aqueduct work. During part of the years 1916-1917 he was Secretary of the Fire Department.

In November, 1917, he entered the army and went overseas as a captain. He was administrative officer of the American Commission to Negotiate Peace in Paris, from December, 1918, to July, 1919, succeeding the late Major Willard Straight. He has the rank of Lieutenant Colonel of Engineers in the Officers Reserve Corps and has been decorated by the Serbian Government with the Royal Order of the White Eagle, with swords, and by the Republic of Panama. He was recommended for the Distinguished Service Medal.

After the close of the war he was active in the American Legion service on the National Executive Committee. He was employed by the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company as an engineer in 1921-1922. He is now interested in the Peacock Corporation, of which he is President and which is engaged in industrial development in the Orient. He is also a director in several other companies, and in relief and civic societies, and is a member of many New York clubs, including the Bankers, Downtown and Metropolitan. He is a Mason and a Rotarian and while it was said that he is now living at the Hotel Plaza, the telephone book gives his address as 1,060 Park Avenue. He has recently traveled around the world. His wife was Miss Shelley McCutcheon Rodes of Bowling Green, Ky.

LISTS KANSU QUAKE TOLL.

Mission Worker Reports 50,000 Killed in Liangchow District.

PEKING, Aug. 10 (AP).—Fifty thousand dead in the Liangchow district of Kansu Province, as a consequence of the disastrous earthquake of May 23, is the latest Chinese official report as sent from Lanchow by Mgr. Theodore Buddenbrock of the Steyl Mission at Liangchow. The clergyman, who sent the first detailed account of the terrible quake in China's "Wild West" province, says in a communication dated July 1:

"We are sitting in the midst of the misery produced by the great quakes of May 23. Shocks are continuing daily, but without damage owing to the wholesale destruction of May 23. In the Liangchow district 50,000 were killed in that quake, according to Chinese official reports. Four thousand homeless, half-starved persons are wandering about the district. The Chinese are aiding as much as their resources will permit."

Estimates of the dead in the May 23 earthquake in China's remote province of Kansu have reached as high as 100,000. Missionaries and others familiar with the area have expressed the opinion that 20,000 square miles were affected. The first details were received only on July 29, and because of the difficulty of communications, the full story still remains to be told.

KANGAROOS HUNTED IN CHAPPAQUA WILDS

SOME RESIDENTS SKEPTICS

Animals Supposed to Have Escaped From Circus—Tale Told of Their Racing Express Trains.

Special to The New York Times.

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Chappaqua Mountain, Roaring Brook Road and Seven Brook Road, in New Castle Township, were searched today by a party of newspaper men and residents of this village in an effort to round up two kangaroos that have been leaving tracks on the dirt roads in the vicinity for several weeks and frightening the natives by their antics in the corn fields at night.

The hunt, which started from the office of Chief of Police Charles Leslie Romaine at 9 o'clock this morning, was led by W. E. Huelle, editor of The New Castle Tribune, who was accompanied by a party of New York journalists, Charles B. Mergentime, Treasurer of the I. B. Kleinert Rubber Company of 485 Fifth Avenue, New York, who has a Summer residence here and who gave up his regular Wednesday morning round of golf to aid in the capture of the two "herbivorous leaping marsupial mammals," and Hagan T. Odell, a farm hand. Armed with cameras, automatic pistols, a rifle and a shotgun, together with Mr. Huelle's long-barreled pistol, which shoots only borrowed ammunition, the party felt safe from attack by kangaroos, wombats, bandicoots, bettongs or wallabies.

The hunt lasted three hours. The tracks of some animal that had long toenails were found near the Roaring Brook crossing of the New York Central Railroad's Harlem Division tracks, where William Hayes, conductor of the 7:07 P. M. commuters' train, reported he saw the animals last night as his train roared by.

Although the party plunged into mudholes, crashed through blackberry thickets, and fired off shots in the general direction of the tangled marshes of Roaring Brook, no kangaroos were found.

Odell, the farmhand, soon tired of the chase.

"There's a couple of bears over toward Bedford Road," he said, but bears did not interest the hunters. They had been told by W. E. Matteson, superintendent of the Gifford A. Cochrane estate, that the kangaroos had been seen drinking out of the Cochrane lake only a few nights ago, and they were determined to return with a kangaroo—or at least a story about one.

After the party had exhausted its ammunition and had searched the highways and byways, it returned to the village, where Station Agent Chester Drum told of the kangaroos galloping up and down the right-of-way late last night, racing the express trains.

"I told 'em they were trespassing on railroad property, and hollered for 'em to get off, but they only sneered at me and went past here with their hoofs galloping on the roadbed like sleet on a tin roof," Drum said.

Chief of Police Romaine cautioned him to read his encyclopedia about kangaroos before he accused them of sneering and galloping. "They don't do anything of the kind," Chief Romaine said. "Kangaroos carry their young in a pouch, and if I capture one I'm going to train him to carry the mail over the R. F. D. routes. Don't tell me a kangaroo sneers. A camel sneers, but a kangaroo can't."

Town Supervisor Howard Washburn, who only recently returned to his duties after a vacation, refused to discuss kangaroos today. "I'm not interested," he said, "but you can have all the wild animals you find here."

Despite his scoffing, it is said that there are kangaroos in the vicinity, believed to have escaped from a circus near Danbury, Conn., several years ago. A kangaroo was shot in the northern part of Westchester County about two years ago, while a year ago at Carmel, in Putnam County, it was reported that kangaroos had been seen.

Chief Romaine said tonight that he intended to conduct an early morning hunt at the Roaring Brook swamp water hole in an effort to capture the kangaroos—alive if possible. He is convinced that they exist, so are a baker's dozen of people who say they have seen them at one time or another in the last three weeks.

OIL MEN PROTEST AGAIN TO KELLOGG ON MEXICO

They Ask That We Make Strong Representations to Calles on Alleged Confiscation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Secretary Kellogg received today a delegation representing most of the American oil operators in Mexico who called to renew their protests against alleged confiscatory acts of the Mexican Government. Beyond admitting that he had discussed the situation with them, the Secretary of State would not go into details.

The delegation of five men were led by Guy Stevens of New York, Director of the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico, and they presented fully their reasons for holding that Mexico has failed to protect their interests. They also asked that this Government make strong representations again to President Calles.

At the State Department tonight it was intimated that there might be further conferences. There have been many since the oil lands and the laws relating to them became an international problem.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—There is rejoicing in Armentières tonight. The man who stole the hands off the town clock has sent them back.

The first shell which hit the clock tower during the late unpleasantness stopped the hands at half past 11. They registered half past 11 for years, and ten years ago ceased to register any time at all, for Major C. L. Fox of the Royal Engineers stuffed them down his trouser-legs, evaded the military police and took them to England as souvenirs.

Now Major Fox has returned the clock hands in memory of old times in Armentières.

air station auditorium at a date to be announced later.

Lieutenant Covell leaves a widow and two children. They live at Coronado. His mother is Mrs. Winifred Cloud of Los Angeles. Lieutenant Waggener and Miss Virginia Powell of Coronado were engaged, having planned to be married in October, after completion of the Dole flight.

Word by one of the sentries at the gate to Fort Rosecrans that he had seen a third man leap from the plane just before the crash caused several of the spectators to search through the high brush on top of the cliff for the third flier. The report proved to be without basis.

Because of a defect in the fueling system the plane was forced down at Santa Ana Thursday evening. Repairs were effected and the flight toward San Diego was continued. At Encinitas, however, another forced landing was made when the same trouble materialized.

Lieut. L. P. Pawlikowski, attached to North Island, was first chosen to make the flight with Lieut. Covell, but was forced to withdraw because of an infection. Because of the peculiar construction of the Tremaine plane, visibility was poor, aviators said after the accident. The low wings prevented the pilot from seeing below him and only by sticking his head from the cockpit could he see ahead and above.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Lieutenants Waggener and Covell, who were killed off San Diego today, were members of Observation Squadron No. 1, attached to the Battle Fleet. They were classmates at the United States Naval Academy and companions in flight training.

Lieutenant Waggener was born in Maryland, Dec. 27, 1900, and was graduated from Annapolis in 1922. He went to Pensacola in May, 1925, for flight training, and qualified the same year as a naval aviator.

Lieutenant Covell was born in Nebraska, March 1, 1899, and was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1918. He went to Pensacola in March, 1925, for flight training and qualified the same year.

ARMY FLIER TESTS BOMBER.

Lieutenant Johnson Takes Fokker to Mitchel Field.

Special to The New York Times.

HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, N. J., Aug. 10.—The new twin motored Fokker bomber, a monoplane equipped with an armament of six machine guns, completed a week ago at the Atlantic Aircraft Company's plant here for the Army Air Corps, was flown on a second series of test flights today by Lieutenant Harry Johnson, army test pilot from McCook Field, Dayton.

Lieutenant Johnson took the big bomber to Mitchel Field this afternoon and landed, returning to the hangar here with it later. Tomorrow or the next day he will fly it again to Mitchell Field, where he will put it through a thorough test before army flying officers.

POLICEMAN BEATEN BY HIS COLLEAGUES

Returning to Duty in Civilian Coat, He Follows a Suspect and Is Pursued Himself.

BLOW ON HEAD DOWNS HIM

Officers From His Own Precinct Then Recognize Him—Eagerness for Promotion Blamed.

"First grade money and a job in the detective bureau," is the goal which is keeping every patrolman on the alert nowadays for suspicious characters in the hope that a lucky arrest may prevent a bombing and win the attention of superior officers. But yesterday morning zeal in this direction put one patrolman in the hospital and two others "on the carpet" to explain how it happened.

Patrolman William Burns of the West Forty-seventh Street Station was returning to reserve duty at 5:30 o'clock in the morning after a free period since midnight spent at his home, 106 East 121st Street. As he alighted from the elevated station at Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue he saw two men who excited his suspicions and started in pursuit, firing two shots in the air to halt them. He wore his uniform trousers, but had on a civilian coat and hat.

Patrolman Dennis P. Sheehan and James Gillee of the same station, on duty at the Elevated Station, ran after him when they heard the shots and Burns was laid low by a blow from Sheehan's night stick. When the pursuers searched the unconscious man they recognized his police pistol, and uniform trousers and then found his shield. They rushed him in a taxicab to Roosevelt Hospital and then went to report to Captain Edward Lennon. The latter said the men were on different squads and hence working different tours, thus accounting for the fact that Sheehan and Gillee did not recognize Burns, although working in the same precinct. Burns was also late, being due back at 4 o'clock. He is suffering from lacerations of the scalp.

Gets Sixty Days for Running Taxi After License Was Revoked.

A sentence of sixty days in the workhouse was imposed yesterday by Magistrate Farrell in Bronx Traffic Court upon Nathan Krowitz, 28 years old, of 1,066 Teller Avenue, a taxi driver, who pleaded guilty to driving his taxi after his operator's license had been suspended.

Following his arrest Aug. 5, Krowitz pleaded guilty to driving without a license. The case was put over for investigation and sentence yesterday, but when it was disclosed that his license had been suspended May 1, because he loaned it and his badge to a friend who later had an automobile accident, the more serious charge was made.

His wife appeared in court yesterday to plead for a lighter sentence because of financial distress. The Magistrate told her he could have made the sentence a year, but because of the circumstances he had made it as light as the facts warranted.

Krowitz has a record in Traffic Court, the police said. He was arrested three times during 1924 and 1925 for speeding, and also was charged in 1925 with disorderly conduct.

REPORTS ON TAXI POLL.

Sponsors of Referendum Says 95% of Riders Favor Higher Rate.

H. A. Inness Brown, editor of The Taxi Weekly, a trade newspaper, said yesterday that a referendum has shown that 95 per cent. of the public which regularly uses taxicabs is in favor of a higher rate. He declared that nearly 30,000 ballots circulated through the newspapers of the city and on cards placed in the taxis have been returned, showing only five per cent. of taxi users to be either noncommittal or against the proposed increase in fare. Mr. Brown said yesterday he expected the referendum to be completed within a few days.

Under the present rate, which, he said, was forced by a few companies operating fleets of taxis, he declared that cab owners lose money, while the driver who does not own his machine profits disproportionately, considering the comparative responsibilities and investments of the driver and the owner.

Mr. Brown declared that on short drives especially the owner actually lost money. He insisted that on a drive of a half-mile, a 20-cent ride, the majority of patrons would tip 30 cents. Since the driver gets 40 per cent. of the fare and the entire tip, his share for the drive would be 38 cents, Mr. Brown said.

"The owner who pays the upkeep on the machine loses about 2 or 3 cents on a mile," he added, "and under the 40-cent legal rate when a meter registers 30 cents for two-thirds of a mile, the rider still pays 50 cents, the driver gets the 20-cent tip and 40 per cent. of the rate, leaving the owner a fair profit on the mile."

SCHALOW MADE A CAPTAIN.

Will Command East 104th Street Police Station Today.

Police Lieutenant Rudolph H. Schalow, of Deputy Chief Inspector David J. McAuliffe's office, was promoted yesterday by Commissioner Warren to the rank of Captain. He will command the East 104th Street station, beginning today, taking the place of Captain Vincent Sweeney, who is promoted to Deputy Inspector. Sweeney is to take the place of Deputy Inspector David Kane, of the First Inspection District, who will be transferred today to the Eleventh District, Brooklyn, to succeed Deputy Inspector Charles B. Burns, who retired on a $2,000 pension at midnight last night.

Lieutenant Schalow was appointed to the department Jan. 30, 1907. He was made a sergeant March 31, 1914, and a lieutenant April 13, 1918. He is married and lives at 66 Chestnut Street, Brooklyn.

TRANSIT HEARINGS SET.

Commission Will Act on Crossings Over Long Island Tracks.

The Transit Commission yesterday set the dates for three public hearings. The first will be on an application of the Board of Estimate for a determination of the manner in which Beach 108th Street shall be carried across the tracks of the Rockaway Beach division of the Long Island Railroad and will be held on Sept. 16.

The second, which will be held on Sept. 19, is on the application of the Board of Estimate for the manner in which Hammels Boulevard shall be carried across the tracks of the same division. The third hearing, which will be held on Sept. 20, is on the application of the Bush Terminal Railroad Company for permission to construct and operate a spur track in Forty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, between First and Second Avenues.

WAR DEBT REDUCTION URGED AT INSTITUTE

Hornaday Doubts France's Ability to Pay America $125,000,000 a Year.

GLUCK DEFENDS COMPACTS

Attorney Declares Some Overlook the Sacrifices the United States Made in the War.

TURKEY'S REVIVAL TRACED

Sforza Says It Is Still Possible to Restore European Influence in the East.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 10.—The American policy on the war debts, especially French debts, was attacked at the Institute of Politics today by Dr. William T. Hornaday of Stamford, Conn., Honorary Vice President of the American Defense Society and the United States Army League, by S. L. G. Knox of New York City, a consulting engineer, and by Frederic W. Peabody of Ashburnham, Mass., managing director of the American Association Favoring Reconsideration of the War Debts. Edward Gluck, a New York attorney, defended the American policy.

Dr. Hornaday advocated a reduction of $2,000,000,000 in the principal, or about one-half of the present principal, of the French debt. One billion of this reduction, according to his plan, would represent "compensation" to France for her losses in men and property after the United States entered the war, and the second billion would represent the remission of more than $600,000,000 in accumulated and compound interest and about $400,000,000 in charges for second-hand war materials which this country sold to France after the armistice.

The proposed reduction was characterized by Dr. Hornaday as "a measure of justice to France, a debt of honor owed by America." He expressed horror at the thought that "a generation of French men and women yet unborn, will, when sixty years old, be paying a tribute of $125,000,000 a year to our great grandchildren," and disbelief that France would be able to make such "staggering annual payments" over the sixty-year period.

Points to Value of the Franc.

He said that France was unable to pay the accumulated interest at the time of the settlement of April, 1926, and that this large sum had to be compounded and added to the principal. This was called a "real measure of the French nation's 'capacity to pay.'" If she could have paid the accumulated interest instead of letting it be compounded, he added, it would have reduced her annual payments during the last forty-five years of the settlement by more than $15,000,000. The fact that the French franc, worth 20 cents at par, was now down to less than 4 cents, he continued, was another indication of her "capacity to pay."

Dr. Hornaday attacked the addition to the debt of the charge for second-hand war material, which he characterized as "junk," adding that America should have been glad to give it to France to save the cost of shipping it back to this country.

Dr. Hornaday also asserted that the United States owed it to France to reduce the war debt because of this country's "negligence" in failing to prepare properly to take its share in the war. He maintained that this increased the French losses in life and property to a large extent.

"If we had been equipped for war on April 6, 1917," he continued, "six months from that date 1,000,000 of our men could have taken over one-half of the French battle line."

During the fifteen months it took the American Army as a whole to get into action, he said, France lost 350,000 men killed and 500,000 wounded. The extra cost to France of "our one year prolongation of the war," he added, was about $20,000,000 a day, or more than $7,000,000,000 for the year.

"No wonder the name 'Shylock' is heard," he continued. "No wonder that a pamphlet of explanation and protest has been printed and circulated under the ominous title 'Is America a Shylock?'"

Recall Pre-Armistice Contracts.

Mr. Knox argued that it was unfair to regard post-armistice loans as not war contributions. He said they were used largely to settle pre-armistice contracts, and that all allied obligations to the United States, no matter when or for what incurred, should be weighed against all this country's obligations to them.

Mr. Peabody, whose letter to President Coolidge last year advocating reconsideration of the debts received wide publicity, declared he had been told that the British agreement for funding its debt would "net the United States $3,000,000,000 in profit."

"America," he added, "has been betrayed by its politicians. It is for the soul of America that I am contending, not for the good-will of foreign nations."

Taking issue with some of Dr. Hornaday's conclusions, Mr. Gluck said that the sale of war material left in France was legitimate and should be so regarded. As to charging compound interest, he maintained that such interest charges have always been considered fair and legitimate.

Mr. Gluck also questioned the validity of "paying" France a billion dollars for her expenses and losses after the United States entered the war. It had been overlooked, he said, that America made sacrifices in the war. If our loss of life at the front was less than France, he went on, we lost many men from influenza in the training camps. He raised the question why France should be singled out for special treatment.

Likens Philippines to Formosa.

At the round table on the Philippine Islands, Professor Ralston Hayden of the University of Michigan, said that if the United States abandoned its control he did not see what could prevent the Japanese colonizing the Philippines, as they had colonized Formosa.

He said that industrialization appeared to be Japan's solution of her problems, and that the Philippines, with their natural resources, especially coal and iron, would fit very well into that plan. However, he did not see any indication that the Japanese desired to seize the Philippines now or in the near future.

Professor Hayden said he did not believe that the Japanese would ever migrate to the Philippines in large numbers, even if they did obtain political or economic control over the islands some time in the future. The experience of the Japanese Government in both Formosa and Korea, he explained, strongly indicated that the subjects of the Mikado were very reluctant to leave their homes and settle permanently elsewhere, even under their own flag.

The Japanese have made Formosa one of the richest colonies in the world by the utilization of Chinese labor, working under the direction of Japanese in a system organized and supported by the Japanese Government and the great Japanese business houses, he went on.

There is no reason, he said, why the same process should not be followed in the Philippines, if Japan ever obtained control of the islands.

Defends Foreigners in China.

Professor Stanley K. Hornbeck of Harvard, recently returned from attending the Institute of Pacific Relations at Honolulu, addressed the Chinese round table on Shanghai and the other foreign concessions and settlements in China. He said that the foreigners in Shanghai, having built up a foreign city, which they govern by a council composed of five British, two Americans and one Japanese, naturally did not want to give it up to the Chinese, who have not shown themselves capable of maintaining an efficient municipal Government.

There may be a time, and it may be in the near future, when the Chinese will be able to take over the control and administration of such a settlement as Shanghai, he admitted, but for the time being Americans should not be swayed by abstract ideas of moral justice. One cannot expect the foreigners who have developed the city through three generations of work and expenditure suddenly to hand it over to comparatively incompetent Chinese, he said.

Says We Err in Latin America.

At the Latin-American round table Professor Philip Marshall Brown of Princeton, formerly in the diplomatic service in Latin America, said that Americans had erred in dealing with Latin Americans through failure to understand their psychology and emotions.

F. A. Pezet, former Peruvian Ambassador to the United States, declared that Latin-American countries did not always comprehend the motives of the United States. Citing the case of Cuba and American withdrawal from that country on two separate occasions, in support of his contention that the United States was not so imperialistic as sometimes depicted, Mr. Pezet asserted that this case was without parallel.

The idea of according "recognition," however, he said, found no sympathy with him, and he told how, while Peruvian Ambassador in Washington, he had refused to use that term, referring to that action as "the continuation of good relations" between Peru and the United States.

With this view Professor Brown expressed accord, and buttressed it with the assertion that "the question of recognition has become ludicrous, nothing more than a matter of courtesy.

"The question is whether we can use recognition as a lever, as we are doing," he said, and he expressed the opinion that it was legitimate for the American Government, on the eve of granting recognition, to ask the particular Latin-American country under consideration "what it's going to do about it."

Count Carlo Sforza of Rome, in his lecture tonight, said that it was a paradox that the Allies had granted to enemy Turkey in the Lausanne Treaty all the privileges and all the revocation of extraterritorial rights that they were denying in China, which theoretically at least had been an ally in the great war.

The fact that Turkey won these privileges, he went on, was due to the mistaken policy on which Lloyd George was led by Venizelos and the defeat of Greece by Turkey.

This meant the end of European privilege in Turkey, he continued, but it was possible to restore European influence in the East by removing the fear of the West which has been engendered in the Orient.

THREE PARIS PLANES NOW READY FOR HOP

Columbia, 'Nungesser-Coli' and Blue Bird Wait Merely on the Weather for a Start Here.

FOURTH MACHINE HAS TRIAL

Yellow Bird Is Not Expected to Be in Shape Until Next Week—May Fly to Cleveland.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Three of the four planes that are being prepared here for non-stop flights from Paris to New York are ready to start at a moment's notice and are waiting only word that the weather is favorable to take off.

Just when the start will be made is problematical. The reports tonight of the French Meteorological Bureau warned against large areas of fog in the North Atlantic and unfavorable winds. But later it was reported unofficially that the weather was clearing.

Charles A. Levine, owner of the Bellanca monoplane Columbia, which Clarence Chamberlin and he flew from New York to Berlin and in which he plans to return to New York with a French pilot, Maurice Drouhin, announced that he would leave at daylight tomorrow if late weather reports showed that conditions were favorable.

Final preparations for the Columbia's departure were made this morning when two compasses, which had been working badly, were calibrated by a French instrument company and reinstated in the plane.

The opinion in Paris is that the first to leave will be either the Drouhin-Levin or the Coste-Le Brix team, the latter flying a Breguet plane. At present odds favor the Columbia.

This plane moved late yesterday to a more convenient hangar, to be ready any instant. A temporary fence was erected around the Columbia to keep the curious crowds away. Chief Mechanician John Carisi and "Doc" Kinkade, motor expert of the Wright Company, say that the plane is in perfect condition and all that remains to be done is to fill the gas tanks.

Test Columbia Life Raft.

Messrs. Levine and Kinkade tested the rubber life raft which is to be taken on the flight at the lake of the Bois de Boulogne this morning. The craft, when inflated with air, was found to be satisfactory. After he had paddled about the lake for ten minutes with Mr. Kinkade, Mr. Levine took his little daughter for a row. The craft was then deflated and stored in the fuselage of the Columbia.

Guests at the hotel where Mr. Levine is stopping are planning to give him a big send-off when he leaves. Arrangements have been made for a large party of Americans to go to Le Bourget to watch the take-off. One of the concerns which makes a specialty of conducting tours did a wholesale business selling tickets for a personally conducted tour of the take-off, good until Thursday. It will have to refund the money unless the flight starts tomorrow.

Friends of the French Army aviator, Dieudonne Coste, declare that they expect him to emulate Colonel Lindbergh and take off quietly while the others are still waiting for ideal weather conditions. M. Coste and Lieutenant Le Brix of the French Navy, who is to accompany him as navigator, were asked today whether they would attempt to get the jump on M. Drouhin. They replied that they were not concerned over the time of M. Drouhin's departure anymore than over that of the Farman team, Leon Givon and Pierre Corbu.

"We have only one master," M. Coste declared, "the weather. Our plane is ready, its tests are all made and we are not taking any chances. The plane is so equipped that if we are forced down we can empty the gas tanks instantly and if we are compelled to land in the water it will float indefinitely, for, besides the buoyancy of the gas tanks, we have built an air chamber in the tail. We are starting in a plane which can be converted instantly into a boat that is almost unsinkable."

Coste Worries Levine.

Asked what route he expected to follow, M. Coste replied that this was still undecided and that he might fly either via Newfoundland or the Azores. He said that all depends on the winds.

M. Coste's plane, which is named "Nungesser-Coli," is still at Villacoublay Field, from which it must be taken to Le Bourget before the flight, as he plans to leave from Le Bourget, it being a longer field and better suited for the take-off. Leon Givon and Pierre Corbu, who will fly the Farman Blue Bird, said today that everything was ready. They, too, are waiting only for favorable weather. But Messrs. Levine and Drouhin are more concerned about Mr. Coste, whose plane is much faster than the bulky Farman biplane.

Mr. Levine announced tonight that if the plane maker a favorable crossing and sufficient gas is left he probably will fly to Philadelphia for the $25,000 prize offered for the first flight from a European capital to that city. But should strong winds be encountered he will terminate the flight at New York.

"Doc" Kinkade planned to sail home today on the liner President Roosevelt but cancelled the passage at the last minute. He announced that he would wait until after the take-off before sailing.

Paul Tarascon, the fourth entrant in the new transatlantic Derby, made another trial flight of his plane, the Yellow Bird, today, but it is not expected that he will be ready to start for another week. He says that his designation probably will be Cleveland which city has also offered a $25,000 prize for a flight from a European capital.

Word was received today by the Paris office of the United States lines that the baggage of Lloyd Bertaud and the others who plan to accompany him on his flight from New York to Rome, which arrived recently on the Leviathan, had been forwarded to Rome.

Tarascon's Plane Shows Speed.

PARIS, Aug. 10 (AP).—Paul Tarascon's orange colored monoplane, which resembles Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis" in shape, flashed across the sky at Le Bourget at such speed today as to make Maurice Drouhin and Charles A. Levine stop short and take notice as they walked across the aviation grounds.

This queerly colored machine, which is also new in form to French aviation, is reported to have made a speed of 130 miles per hour in today's flight, which was her first public test. It is said that she proved very pliable.

The Blue Bird also took the air twice and succeeded on the second flight in taking off in ten seconds with a partial load. Experts expressed the opinion that the Blue Bird was slightly slower than M. Tarascon's machine.

Unless the weather reports make Messrs. Drouhin and Levine change their minds, they will take a direct line for Trouville and thence will proceed by way of the following places: Cherbourg, France; Plymouth, England; Cape Clear, Ireland; Cape Bonavista, Newfoundland; across the eastern part of Prince Edward's Island; along the West coast of Nova Scotia; Boston; and then to New York.

The total distance of this route is estimated to be 3,625 miles.

ATLANTIC WINDS KEEP COURTNEY FROM FLYING

Disappointed British Aviator Vows That He Will Not Announce His Departure Again.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 10 (AP).—Tired of disappointing the local public about the hour of his hop-off for America and equally disappointed himself that weather conditions have been too poor to justify a start, Captain Frank T. Courtney today ordered even greater secrecy than heretofore about his plans.

The British aviator is ready to start the flight in his flying boat, the Whale, at any hour that weather conditions are favorable, and tonight there was a report that he intended to start for Valentia, Ireland, on the first stage of his flight tomorrow morning. This could not be confirmed at the Courtney camp beyond a statement from the Captain that everything depends upon the weather.

"The public will know when I have gone and not when I am going," Captain Courtney said. "I have had enough of saying when I am going."

CALSHOT, England, Aug. 10 (AP).—Disappointed by unfavorable headwinds in the Atlantic that made today's scheduled hop-off imprudent, Captain Courtney settled down to a close watch for a weather change which would permit him to begin his transatlantic flight within the next forty-eight hours.

The aviator this afternoon supervised the draining of 900-odd gallons of gasoline from his flying boat, so that the ship might be returned to her hangar from her buoy anchorage to protect her from storms.

Today's planned hop-off was abandoned after an all-night vigil by the crew of the Whale and attendants at the air station.

JAPAN CAUTIONS AIRMEN.

Americans Planning to Land There Are Urged to Give Formal Notice.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKYO, Aug. 10.—Those numerous American airmen who propose to include Tokyo in their 'round the world itinerary, or attempts on distance records, should know that it would be prudent for them to notify the State Department of their intentions in good time and to have their requests for permission to use Japanese military or naval landing places officially forwarded, it was pointed out by officials here today.

The Japanese authorities are keenly interested in the forthcoming flights, especially those of Captain William P. Erwin and James L. Griffin, and declare that they will heartily cooperate. But they point out that the rules and regulations governing landings in Japan are necessarily strict and that the path of all concerned will be made smoother if the proper formalities are observed.

They declare it especially desirable that the American fliers proceed with correctitude in this matter, since the regulations for preserving the secrecy of the fortified zones are definite and severe, and airmen flying over forbidden areas or inadvertently landing in them might find themselves temporarily in serious trouble.

German Glides 32 Miles.

BERLIN, Aug. 10 (AP).—Herr Nehring, one of Germany's most successful gliding experts, is credited with a remarkable feat at the gliding competitions now under way in the Roehn Mountains, Central Germany. He manoeuvred his motorless plane to an altitude of 600 feet, traveling over hills and valleys for a distance of thirty-two miles.

DETROIT CROWDS FOLLOW LINDBERGH

Throngs Fill Every Vantage Point in His Home City—Force Way Into His Hotel.

FLIER ADDRESSES CHILDREN

His Birthplace Is Marked by a Bronze Tablet—Platinum Watch Is Presented to Him.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 10.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh arrived over the heart of the city in the Spirit of St. Louis at 1:30 P. M. He circled gracefully over the downtown section and then went out over the outskirts before landing at the Ford airport.

A field crowded with men, women and children, sidewalks on which standing room was at a premium and rooftops, offering precarious perches for the hardy, awaited his coming. It was a beflagged and happy city that greeted its hero son.

From the barred gates of the Ford airport, where he was welcomed by his mother and the official Reception Committee, up the length of West Grand Boulevard to Northwestern Field, where thousands of the city's children were assembled, Detroit's proud citizenry were arrayed to hail "Lindy" as no individual has ever been acclaimed here before.

When the flying Colonel appeared and made a slight bow, hats went into the air and applause rolled over the field for fully ten minutes. Again and again as he made his few brief remarks on behalf of commercial aviation the demonstrations were renewed.

The cheers were loudest when he declared that "the future generation would be the flying generation and that is why I am glad to see so many children here." About 20,000 youngsters heard him. It was especially to address these youngsters that Colonel Lindbergh came to Detroit. It was their day and his.

Just before the crowd dispersed Mayor John W. Smith introduced Mrs. Lindbergh as "the nation's proudest mother," and there was renewed applause. From the field the official group went to 1,120 West Forest Avenue, the place where Colonel Lindbergh was born.

A throng estimated at 15,000 had blockaded the streets near the flier's home for an hour before the time scheduled for the presentation of a bronze tablet.

Similar crowds were at the Ford Airport when the Colonel landed, although thousands had been turned away and the number of persons permitted to be present was supposed to be strictly limited.

The first to greet him was Henry Ford. Colonel Lindbergh grinned boyishly as the spare form of the motor magnate stepped forward, hand extended.

At the Book-Cadillac Hotel, where the party went after the unveiling ceremonies in Forest Avenue, massed throngs forced their way to the doors, but were blocked there.

During the parade through the flag-draped streets, confetti was tossed down upon the Atlantic conqueror from hundreds of office buildings, and spectators on sidewalks, roofs and windows made a din with every conceivable noise-making instrument.

In a brief interview at his hotel, Colonel Lindbergh congratulated the city upon its "100 per cent. reception" and discussed his views on aviation.

Colonel Lindbergh then had a brief respite to rest for the formal banquet in the grand ball room, where he was presented with a platinum Swiss wrist watch, Detroit's gift to him.

Forced to Decline Invitations.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has been obliged to decline hundreds of invitations to attend functions and events in various cities, including the air races at Spokane, Wash., Harry F. Guggenheim, President of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, said yesterday, according to The Associated Press.

ASKS IF LINDBERGH SMOKED

No-Tobacco League Wires Him About "Tin Saint" Remark.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 10 (AP).—Charles M. Fillmore, General Secretary of the No-Tobacco League of America, today telegraphed Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, asking the transatlantic flier if he smoked a cigarette at a dinner in Cincinnati and if he made the statement that he would not "be played for a tin saint." Mr. Fillmore added that he also planned to communicate with Colonel Lindbergh's mother on the subject.

Colonel Lindbergh here last night denied he had smoked the cigarette as a result of a wager or that he had made the statement that if members of a women's national organization "persist in keeping after me, I'm going to take a drink."

The Lone Eagle added that he was not an habitual user of tobacco. He replied "No" when asked whether he drank water to all of the toasts while in Europe.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 10 (AP).—After circling the city here, Colonel Lindbergh proceeded north to Detroit at 12:50 P. M.

Pole Plans a Flight Here.

WARSAW, Poland, Aug. 10 (AP).—The newspaper Nowa Kurjer at Posen announces that the Polish aviator M. Kowalczyk intends to attempt a flight from that city to Le Bourget Field, near Paris, and thence to New York. The initiative was taken, the paper says, by Alderman Adamkiewicz of Chicago, who conferred with M. Kowalczyk while visiting Poland with the delegation of Polish-American military veterans. Mr. Adamkiewicz is said to have promised to find means of financing the flight through Polish residents of the United States.

FONCK'S HUGE PLANE IS NEAR COMPLETION

Giant Sikorsky Biplane for War Ace's Ocean Flight Will Be Ready for Tests Soon.

HAS 100-FOOT WING SPREAD

New Eight-Passenger Flying Boat, With New Features in Design, Successful in First Trip.

Igor Sikorsky is putting the finishing touches to the huge biplane with which Captain René Fonck hopes to fly across the Atlantic. Working in his glass roofed factory at College Point, Queens, are more than a hundred expert mechanics and under their skilled hands and the Russian designer's guidance a plane with a hundred-foot wing spread is nearing completion.

While his mechanics and his assistant engineers were working on the duralumin frame of the fuselage yesterday Mr. Sikorsky himself was flying over Flushing Bay in another product of his new factory. This machine is an eight passenger flying boat which has just been completed for the Andean National Corporation, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company operating in South America. W. A. Bary, Vice President of the Sikorsky Manufacturing Corporation and an official of the oil company, were other passengers. Lieutenant George Pond flew the ship.

New Features in Plane.

Mr. Sikorsky has incorporated several new features in sea plane designing in this flying boat. It is a sesquiplane, resembling superficially the Dornier-Wahl which Captain F. C. Courtney plans to fly from Ireland to the United States. The big wing and tail structure is entirely separate from the boat in which the passenger and control cockpit is located. A fuselage extends horizontally aft and in the same plane as the wing. It serves purely as a rudder support and thus placed—high above the water—the rudders and elevators are freed from the danger of waves. From these flying surfaces the boat and the short lower wing or stub are suspended by metal struts. The ship is powered with two Wright Whirlwind 200-horsepower motors contained in short nacelles suspended from the big wing, which has a spread of 82 feet and a width or chord of 100 inches.

Yesterday Lieutenant Pond flew the ship on one motor, trying first the starboard and then the port engine, and the ship manoeuvred perfectly. It is designed for a cruising speed of 100 to 105 miles an hour and a top speed of 120 to 125 miles carrying a useful load of 2,500 pounds. The plane weighs 3,700 pounds. Mr. Sikorsky has another flying boat of the same design under construction.

After ten days of tests the plane will be taken apart, packed and shipped to Bogota, Colombia, South America, where the oil company will place it in service as an express, passenger and pay-roll carrier to stations up and down the coast.

Fonck Tests Weeks Off.

It will be several weeks before the big Fonck transatlantic plane is ready to fly. Plans are being made to pack it and ship it by truck to Mitchel or some other flying field on Long Island for its first air tests.

This new biplane is to weigh 7,000 pounds empty and is designed to carry a useful load of nearly four tons. The upper wing has a spread of 100 feet and the lower wing is much shorter, differing in this feature from the biplane which crashed and burned at the take-off on Roosevelt Field last year, costing the lives of two men. That plane had three Gnome Rhone Jupiter air-cooled engines, and the new ship has two of the same type. These motors Captain Fonck himself brought from the French factory last May. They have already been rigged between the two wings. The struts channels and spars of the wings are built of duralumin, as is the cantilever frame of the fuselage. The whole will be covered with treated fabric. The plane's normal load includes, besides fuel for 1,000 miles, fourteen passengers, two pilots and 1,200 pounds of freight or baggage. Its top speed, according to an official of the company, will be 140 miles an hour, which is extremely high for such a big ship. Its cruising speed will be between 110 and 120 miles an hour.

The plane will be ready to fly within a month. No date has been set for the trials or take-off on the transatlantic flight. Mr. Sikorsky is building a sister ship which will be placed in service in this country about October.

BEACON FOR LINDBERGH.

Chicago Plans Memorial at its Municipal Flying Field.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—A 5,000,000 candlepower beacon light at the municipal flying field, costing perhaps $35,000 and big enough to make the field bright as day, is to be Chicago's memorial to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. Presentation of a tablet for the light to Colonel Lindbergh will be the climax of the flier's visit here Saturday and Sunday.

"We had planned a granite monument, but learned that Lindbergh prefers the light," said Alderman Horan, head of the Reception Committee.

"It was a beacon that Lindy searched for when, as a Chicago air mail pilot, he was twice lost in the fog, and a beacon which, after all night over the Atlantic, guided him to the Le Bourget landing field."

The beacon is to be ten feet high and movable. It will be called "Lindbergh Light," but should plans for a huge Lindbergh tower light on the lake front materialize, the name will be changed to avoid confusion.

CANADIAN FLIERS CHOSEN.

Two Pilots Will Use a Stinson Plane on London, Ont., to London Hop.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 10 (AP).—Captain T. B. Tully, for the past several years Superintendent of the Ontario Government service at Saulte Ste. Marie, and Lieutenant James V. Medcalf, of the same service, have been chosen pilots for the projected London, Ont., to London, England, non-stop flight.

They signed contracts today with Charles Burns, donor of the $25,000 prize for the flight, and left at once for Detroit to take charge of the Stinson monoplane scheduled to be completed and fuly equipped with all navigation instruments in time for delivery in London, Ont., Monday.

The pilots hope to be ready for a take-off, if weather is favorable, any time after August.

ITALY BLAMES BRITISH FOR NOT DELAYING RACE

Explains That They Threatened to Withdraw if Schneider Event Was Postponed for Us.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Objections by Great Britain were declared by the Italian Air Ministry, in a cablegram to the National Aeronautic Association today, to be responsible for the refusal of the association's request for a postponement of one month of the Schneider Cup race, set for Sept. 25 at Venice. The delay was asked in order to guarantee the entrance of Lieutenant A. J. Williams, crack naval speed aviator, as the sole American participant.

Lieutenant Williams, who planned to enter the contest in a private capacity, required the delay because of damage to his speed plane in recent tests at Port Washington, L. I.

Whether the plane can be repaired in time is not known here, but the National Aeronautic Association is cooperating in efforts to have it shipped abroad by Aug. 25, the latest date that Lieutenant Williams can leave and be prepared for the Venice race.

The text of today's cablegram follows:

"The request of the National Aeronautic Association that the race be postponed thirty days would have been accepted favorably by the Italian Air Force, to which American aviation extended exquisite courtesies last year.

"We found it necessary to ask consent of England. England has today communicated to us that this postponement would be in contrast with the rules of the race, which, according to Article 8, established that the date on which the race occurred should be fixed before March 1. England states that she is unable to accept the request made by the National Aeronautic Association, adding that if such a request should be accepted she perhaps would find herself compelled to withdraw from the race.

"His Excellency would like to draw your attention also to the fact that the month of October, according to our experience is not much suitable for the race from the point of view of the meteorological indications.

"For the aforesaid reasons, the Air Ministry found itself unable to insist that the Aero Club of Italy postpone the race.

"The Air Ministry, however, feels sure that the brave representatives of the glorious American aviation, realising the inevitable exigencies which compel us to consider the date already fixed for the race, will be able to take their place beside their Italian comrades, who are awaiting them with the greatest enthusiasm and with the determination to give them during their stay in Italy more tangible evidence of the friendly relations which unite the Italian wings with those of the great American nation."

HONOLULU PILOTS COMPLETE TESTS

Other Entrants Are Undeterred by the Deaths of Covell and Waggener.

STARTING RULES MADE

First Ship, B. H. Griffin's Oklahoma, Will Get Away From Oakland at Noon Tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 10.—The tragic death of Lieutenants George W. D. Covell and Richard S. Wagener at San Diego today did not deter the other entrants here for the Dole prize flight to Honolulu who are about to embark on the hazardous venture of flying across the sea.

Little Martin Jensen, who is going to make the attempt in a monoplane with tanks not big enough to carry his fuel supply, forcing him to take along fifty five-gallon cans of gasoline to eke it out, arrived at the Oakland Airport today and some one asked him what he though about his chances of reaching the goal.

"Well, my wife told me before I took the steamer for San Francisco that if I flopped into the ocean she was going to row out from Honolulu and smack me over the head with an oar. So I guess I've got to make it."

Jensen's wife, who raised the money with which he bought his plane from Vance Breese, San Francisco aircraft builder, is in the Hawaiian capital, where they make their home. Jensen's navigator will be Paul Schleuter, master of the liner City of Nome.

All Will Start From One Field.

George Hearst's Vega monoplane, Golden Eagle, with John W. Frost as pilot and Gordon Scott navigator, and the Travelair monoplane, Woolaroc, which will be piloted by Art Goebel, Santa Monica stunt flier, will fly tomorrow from Mills Field, San Francisco's municipal airport, to Bay Farm Island, where they and all the other Dole entries will take off for Hawaii.

The triplane Pride of Los Angeles, the only three-winged ship entered in the race, was still at Santa Monica, but was reported to be making ready to jump to Oakland late in the night or early tomorrow.

Arthur V. Rogers, also in Los Angeles, was having engine trouble, and it was problematical when he will be able to start northward. His monoplane is equipped with British Lucifer motors. All the other planes have Wright engines.

Making progress toward the starting field tonight are also Charles W. Parkhurst and Ralph C. Lewes, in the monoplane City of Peoria; Frederick A. Giles of Detroit, the British war ace, in a Hess-Blueburd biplane, and William P. Erwin, the American ace, in the Swallow monoplane, Dallas Spirit.

Navigational tests given the Dole racers by Lieutenant Ben H. Wyatt of the navy have been real, practical and difficult, and not at all theoretical, pilots at the Oakland airport said.

Completes All the Pilot Tests.

All ships at the airport completed the pilot tests today, but navigational tests are still under way. So far as the eligibility of the ships was concerned, all stand approved.

The Oklahoma, piloted by Bennett H. Griffin and navigated by Al Henley, both of Oklahoma City; the Miss Doran, from Flint, Mich., piloted by John A. Pedlar and navigated by Manley Lawing, with Miss Mildred Doran as a passenger; the El Encanto, piloted by Lieutenant Norman A. Goddard and navigated by Lieutenant Kenneth C. Hawkins; the Pabco Pacific flier, piloted by Major Livingston Irving of Berkeley, and the Aloha, piloted by Jensen, were approved under half-load tests.

J. D. Peace, representing the Pioneer Instrument Company of Brooklyn, was on the field to aid navigators and pilots in the adjustment of their instruments. All entrants are using instruments identical with those used by Colonel Lindbergh in his epochal flight from New York to Paris.

In laying down the starting rules today, E. L. Buttner of the N. A. A. Flight Committee took into consideration the utmost fairness to all the fliers. The ships will remain on the line from 5 P. M. tomorrow until ten minutes before starting time. The first starter will be the Oklahoma. At ten seconds to 12 o'clock, Friday, a flag will be raised, and at the stroke of noon the flag will be dropped, signaling the first take-off.

When the first ship has progressed 3,000 feet down the runway, or less than half way to the end, another signal will be raised and the second ship, having manoeuvred to the line, will speed in pursuit. The others will follow the same rule in the order of their drawing.

KOENNECKE PREPARES TO HOP OFF SATURDAY

Rivalry With Junkers Pilots Grows as He Ends 18-Hour Test for Flight Here.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—Germany no longer expresses doubt about her fliers reaching America. The only enigma seen here is who will get there first.

Otto Koennecke completed an eighteen-hour test flight around Travelmuende this afternoon and found his Caspar machine in perfect order, with the exception of the indicator showing propeller revolutions, which had only a minor defect. The motor functioned through the flight without the slighest cough. Herr Koennecke and his passenger, Count Solmo-Laubach, will fly to Berlin tomorrow and on Friday go to Cologne, from where they will take-off on the transocean flight probably Saturday.

The rivalry between Herr Koennecke and the two or three Junkers planes which are to make the same hop is growing every day. The Junkers camp is becoming secretive. The date for the start has not been fixed definitely and must depend on weather conditions on the Atlantic and the wind's direction in Dessau.

The concrete runway specially built to allow heavy-laden planes to rise runs east and west, and the pilots must wait until good Atlantic weather and a favorable Dessau wind coincide.

Baron von Huenefeld, who intends to accompany the Junkers plane the Bremen as a passenger, received word tonight that his father had died suddenly. His mother is in ill-health, so a possible change in the passenger list may be made, though the Baron stated on leaving Dessau tonight that he would return Friday.

Weather conditions on the Atlantic are reported to be bettering and Friday and Saturday should be favorable days. That Saturday is the 13th will not deter the pilots, they say.

The Junkers route will go over Hanover, Scheveningen, Holland; Ipswich, England, and Fastnet Rock, Ireland. It has about been decided to follow the somewhat longer southern ship lane.

Whether the third plane, which Junkers is keeping in readiness on the field, will fly with the two others is still a secret.

A large eighteen-passenger three-motor Junkers will accompany the fliers as far as the Irish coast.

The Europe and the Bremen planes have been reassembled again and will be given final full-load test flights tomorrow, after which the machines and their pilots will rest until they take the air for New York.

Koennecke to Get Gate Receipts.

BERLIN, Aug. 10 (AP).—The management of the Tempelhofer Airdrome announced tonight that it would turn over to Otto Koennecke all the gate receipts from the crowds which are expected to visit the airdrome Thursday and Friday to see the famous war ace and his airplane before he hops off from Cologne for his flight to America. It was explained that Herr Koennecke's flight is purely a sporting venture, being solely financed by Count Solm-Laubach, who will fly with him.

Herr Koennecke's airplane will probably be christened the Germania, it is stated. This Caspar machine is a simple freight airplane which has been altered for the flight to America to accommodate the excess fuel required and provide an extra observation seat for the passenger.

The airplane's original weight of 2,300 kilograms will be increased by the fuel reserves to 4,200 kilograms at the time of the hop-off. A number of cleverly distributed auxiliary tanks will carry fuel in addition to the main tank.

DESSAU, Germany, Aug. 10 (AP).—Both the German mercantile flag and the American Stars and Stripes will be carried by the Junkers planes in their projected transatlantic flight, the Junkers Works announced today.

The flags will be flown only at the take-off and on landing, as they would quickly be destroyed by the wind if flown for any length of time during the flight.

JOINT SNYDER TRIAL REGARDED AS LEGAL

Law Journal Cites Appellate Ruling in Case Similar to the Murder.

Because the appeal of Mrs. Ruth Snyder, under death sentence for the murder of her husband, Albert Snyder, will be based partly on the refusal of Justice Scudder to grant a trial separate from that of her accomplice, Henry Judd Gray, The New York Law Journal gave prominence yesterday to a recent decision by the Appellate Division in Brooklyn in which a similar question was raised and the Court upheld the joint trial.

The decision was handed down in the case of the People against Marcus, in which the defendant and others were indicted jointly on a charge of criminally receiving stolen goods as a second offense. The Court ruled that the denial of a separate trial for one defendant was not an abuse of discretion under the Code of Civil Procedure as amended last year.

The opinion points out that until the Code was amended last year defendants jointly indicted for a felony had a right to demand separate trial, but it was not a common-law right.

Falls Dead on Beach.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 10.—Nos Leclaire, 67 years old, a Montreal contractor and builder, fell dead after a heart attack while walking along the beach in his bathing suit today. His wife, who was here with him, survives. The body is to be sent to Montreal.

PRINCES AT CALGARY BID BALDWIN AU REVOIR

Motor to Wales's Ranch While Premier Goes on to Banff—Meet Again Friday.

CALGARY, Alberta, Aug. 10 (AP).—The Prince of Wales and his brother Prince George said au revoir to Premier Baldwin today. The two princes are to go to the "E. P." Ranch at Pekiske, Alberta, and Premier Baldwin to Banff.

The party will meet again at Calgary on Friday when Premier Baldwin is formally welcomed to the city. Then the Prince of Wales will motor over from his ranch to say good bye to him.

Since the royal train began its journey at Montreal the trip has been entirely according to schedule and without undue incident. It has been a swift journey with few stops.

The Prince of Wales, to use his own phrase, is something of an old timer in Canada. He is acquainted with the route. But for Mr. Baldwin it has been an experience.

From Toronto on the longest stop of the royal train was 20 minutes, at Winnipeg.

BRANDON, Manitoba, Aug. 10 (AP).—The Prince of Wales has had so many hands to shake since he arrived in Canada that he frequently held out his left hand in greeting during his brief stay in Brandon yesterday.

Among those he greeted were 250 members of the Canadian Legion who were lined up on the platform when the train arrived, he having previously expressed a desire to meet them. He also inspected a troop of Boy Scouts. Each of the ex-service men received a hearty handshake from Premier Baldwin. There were no speeches, no formal replies to formal addresses of welcome, the distinguished visitors just strolling along amid the crowd, laughing, chatting and shaking hands. The crowd gave them an enthusiastic greeting and an equally enthusiastic send-off.

of this wonderful glass brings in a flood of healthful ultra-violet rays—

Living in rooms lighted by windows of QUARTZ-LITE GLASS is like living in sunlight. The ultra-violet rays are a valuable aid to normal, healthy growth in children.

Every house and school should have windows of QUARTZ-LITE. The price is low—50 cents a square foot, inexpensive enough to use it in every window. Apartment buildings and dwellings glazed with QUARTZ-LITE can be rented or sold more readily.

THE ultra-violet rays of sunlight are health rays. Heretofore they have been available only outdoors, and few people have the opportunity to spend much time in the open, away from home or office.

Now, with QUARTZ-LITE in the windows, these ultra-violet health-giving rays are made available to everyone indoors at every season of the year. Each window of this amazing new glass brings in a flood of these essential rays.

"A woman customer proved it for me"

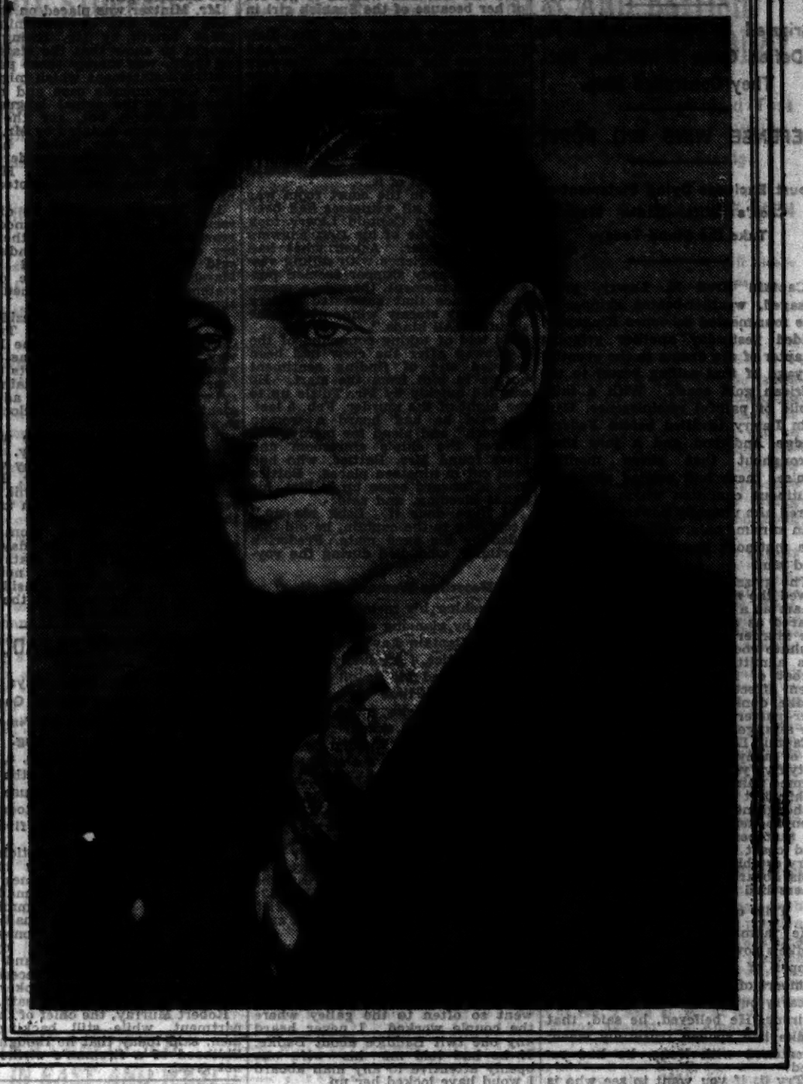
gives his personal experiences in using his firm's national advertising as a sales argument



FOR ten years Mr. Davis has been selling for the Victor Company. Therefore his experiences in using the local value of Victor's national magazine advertising as a sales argument will interest every man on the road who carries a nationally advertised line—and every sales manager who believes that the advertising argument is one of the strongest he can give his men.

Knowing the standing which The American Magazine has among the salesmen of the nation—and its efforts to provide them with useful down-to-the-ground facts with which to back up their advertising arguments—Mr. Davis has given us the following personal statement of his experiences and methods:

"It's mighty hard to get away from the power of national magazine advertising when you travel around the country the way I do—and watch the people reading magazines in hotel lobbies, on street cars and railroad trains.

"If I could take a dealer on a trip with me and show him all this—show him people reading Victor advertising, I'd have one of the strongest sales demonstrations it would be possible to make.

"Of course, I can't do this—so the next best thing is to try and paint a picture of it for the dealer—and then back it up with figures on the extent of our advertising right in his own locality.

"I remember though, one very interesting experience I had a while ago.

"I walked in on a dealer just as he was setting the stage to demonstrate another product by appointment.

"A few minutes before the arrival of the customer I launched into the facts about my firm's advertising and the value of tying up to it. The dealer was only partly interested. He had his appointment in mind.

"And then the customer entered—a woman. She was carrying a magazine. And in it she had marked a Victor advertisement.

"Immediately the scene changed. At her request, the Orthophonic Victrola held the center of the stage and in a few minutes the sale was made.

"After that it didn't take long to convince this dealer of the power of the advertising behind our product and the value of tying up with it. Using this woman as an example I showed him how she was only one of many hundreds in his city actually looking for a chance to buy our product!

"So I say, watch The American Magazine readers in their homes, on the street cars, in hotel lobbies, on trains. Paint this picture in detail for the dealer. Give him facts and figures. That's my policy—and I continually point out to dealers that advertising such as the Victor Company has carried on in The American Magazine every month for the past fourteen years, finding its way into hundreds of homes in his locality, is the reason why our Company's trademark is so well known.

"Furthermore, I can say that The American Magazine's Vest Pocket Sales-Maker will enable you to give information that sells."

The Vest Pocket Sales-Maker will help You sell

[SEND FOR IT]

The Vest Pocket Sales-Maker is a booklet prepared by The American Magazine to give salesmen just the facts and figures on the local value of national advertising which, as Mr. Davis points out, are so helpful in selling a dealer.

It translates into local terms these four fundamental facts about The American Magazine—facts which establish The American Magazine as the greatest single force for increasing merchandise consumption in America today.

1. The American Magazine's circulation of 2,200,000 at 25 cents a copy insures strong local coverage in every dealer's town.
2. Every issue of The American Magazine, containing your firm's advertisement, is alive for 30 days in 2,200,000 homes.
3. The American Magazine is read by all members of the family who influence sales—fathers, mothers and young people.
4. Editorially The American Magazine influences these 2,200,000 families to do more, have more, want more—and therefore buy more.

19,005 salesmen, representing 740 companies and 117 lines of trade, are now using the Vest Pocket Sales-Maker. Also more than 11,000 reprints of American Magazine newspaper announcements are being used by these concerns every month

KINGSWAY MUTINY TOLD BY CAPTAIN

Grizzled Skipper Declares He Defied Crew 7 Months, but They Controlled Ship.

DEFENSE WINS BIG POINT

Court Excludes Dying Statement of Cook's Wife—Badke May Take the Stand Today.

Captain Fred E. Lawry, grim-visaged, weather-beaten skipper of the four-masted schooner Kingsway, added yesterday another gripping chapter of sea drama to the eventful voyage of that sailing vessel to the African gold coast. With a faint smile of painful reminiscence, Captain Lawry testified before Federal Judge Anderson and a jury that, throughout that seven months' cruise, there had existed aboard a mutinous condition which had rendered him virtually powerless, a captain in name only, while the leader of the mutinous group cursed and defied him.

The grizzled captain, who has followed the sea all his life and scorns steam as a motive power afloat, appeared as a Government witness at the murder trial of Earl L. Battice, mulatto cook of the Kingsway, who has admitted that he slashed the throat of his wife because of her open affection for Waldemar Karl Badke, donkey engineman aboard the four-master and dominant figure of the strange triangle.

Captain Lawry, who has been master of many sailing vessels during his sixty-five years upon the seven seas, seemed pained by his own admission of his first failure to control a crew. Although near-mutiny had previously been spoken of as one of the many ills that beset the Kingsway on her gold coast cruise, Captain Lawry's story established the fact that conditions aboard were even worse than others had described them.

Tells of Badke's Defiance.

He admitted that such were Badke's power and influence and the temper of a majority of the nine members of the crew, that he feared to carry out his threat to put Badke in irons. He believed, he said, that Badke had spoken truthfully when, threatened with irons, he had replied:

"Try it, if you want to see who is boss of this ship. I have too many friends aboard for you."

Although realizing his helplessness, aware of the fact that to put even one man in irons would leave an insufficient number to man the ship properly, Captain Lawry's spirit was unbroken, and he still faced his men, Badke included, with a bold front, and a courage that enabled him to bring his ship to port without an actual mutiny and with himself still captain.

The Spanish girl, Emily Zomak, 18 years old, of San Juan, P. R., for love of whom the Government alleges Battice killed his wife, again appeared in court yesterday and was identified by Captain Lawry as the girl who tried to board the Kingsway while she lay off San Juan. He said he did not allow her to come aboard. Weeping upon her appearance Tuesday, Miss Zomak seemed completely changed yesterday and smiled brightly as she stood by to be identified. Battice, more nervous than heretofore, did not look at her.

Defense Wins a Victory

The defense, which is being conducted by Carruthers Ewing and Prather S. McDonald, who were assigned by Judge Anderson to defend Battice, won a point yesterday which the Government admitted was crippling to its case. This was Judge Anderson's refusal to admit in evidence the so-called dying statement of Mrs. Battice, in which she wrote that her husband wanted to get rid of her because of the Spanish girl in Porto Rico.

Mr. Ewing argued that Mrs. Battice's statement was a conclusion and therefore not admissible. The jury was excused for more than an hour while the point was argued by Mr. Ewing and United States Attorney Tuttle. The result was that, so far as the jury is concerned, the statement of Mrs. Battice was never made. They were even cautioned not to read the newspapers which might use it, or a part of it.

Every seat in the court room was occupied and all witnesses had been excluded when Captain Lawry took the stand. One of his first answers caused laughter. Asked what had been his experience with sailing vessels, the hardy skipper seemed puzzled for a moment, then, in a megaphone voice that suggested victory over many stormy winds at sea, he shouted "All kinds."

He told of taking command of the Kingsway after the crew had been selected and of finding sentiment hostile to him from the start. He was led quickly by Mr. Tuttle up to the night of the murder, Feb. 5 last. He said he had heard a woman "screech" and plead for mercy, had entered the ship's storeroom and there found Mrs. Battice, who had been cut in nineteen places. Battice soon afterward came up to him, his hands bleeding, and said:

"I have done it. Look me up." According to the captain, he did this aided by his aged mate, Frederick Mortimer, who died during the voyage.

Describes Woman's Death.

Refreshing his memory from time to time by glancing at his log of the voyage, Captain Lawry told of how Mrs. Battice, gradually growing weaker, called for pencil and paper from time to time to express her wants, which she was unable to voice. Once she asked if she were going to die, and the hardened old skipper said he had not the heart to tell her the truth, and so lied, saying he believed she would recover.

On the morning of the day of her death, Captain Lawry asserted, Mrs. Battice had left her bed about 5 o'clock and had crawled to her husband's kitchen door, but Battice was then in irons. Finally he read the simple entry in the log of Feb. 12: "Mrs. Battice passed away at 2:15 P. M. She was buried at sea at sunset."

"Battice," continued the Captain in answer to Mr. Tuttle's questions, "said nothing to me at any time about any man's attentions to his wife. He grumbled because Badke went so often to the galley where the couple worked. I never heard any one twit Baddice about Badke. If he had told me his wife was openly attentive to any man aboard I would have locked her up.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Ewing, Captain Lawry said he had merely been "supposed" to be in control of the men of his crew, but that "they practically had control of the ship during the entire cruise."

"I repeatedly told Badke to stay away from the galley," he continued, "but he replied that he was not a prisoner and would go where he pleased and talk to whom he pleased. Badke is a man you cannot control unless you kill him and that is not permissable at sea. I had no irons to fit him and I was afraid to put him in irons would stir up trouble on board. The men were almost all against me and I had no weapons. I could not knock them all down with a hatchet."

Mr. Tuttle objected to Mr. Ewing going into matters that occurred after the night of the murder, but was overruled by Judge Anderson, who continued:

"It seems to me that the character of Badke is important to this defense. Murder has been admitted and the mental condition of the defendant is a pertinent subject of inquiry to which I shall give considerable latitude."

Yesterday's session began with the introduction in evidence of Battice's statement made to Assistant United States Attorneys Kenneth F. Simpson and George J. Mintzer, who gathered the evidence and are aiding Mr. Tuttle in the prosecution. It was a story of the murder but did not include the alleged motive of love for the Spanish girl.

Mr. Mintzer was placed on the witness stand and cross-examined at great length by Mr. Ewing, who sought to show that the statement, as typed, was merely those parts of Battice's statement which might aid the Government's case and that it was not in the actual language of the defendant, but, for the most part, had been dictated by Mr. Mintzer. Mr. Mintzer insisted he had left out only what he considered immaterial and irrelevant. He admitted it was not all quoted verbatim.

Mr. Mintzer admitted he did not recall that Battice had advanced any reason for killing his wife other than her open admiration for Badke. He said two Deputy United States Marshals had heard some of the statements and had attached their signatures.

William Gardner, Vice President of the African and Eastern Trading Corporation, which owns the Kingsway, identified a drawing as a diagram of the interior of parts of the four-masted schooner. Captain Lawry was on the stand when adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock this morning.

It is possible that Badke will be called to the stand today. It is understood that his testimony will be vigorously attacked by Mr. Ewing and Mr. McDonald who will, in a sense try to place Badke on trial in the eyes of the jury.

Although the court room was crowded throughout the day and others who could not get seats stood in the corridor without, not one woman was in the crowd inside and the few who appeared at the door were quickly turned away.

THREATENS POKER PADLOCK

Woodmere Fire Head Says Men Themselves Placed Ban on Gaming.

Special to The New York Times.

WOODMERE, L. I., Aug. 10.—Unless poker ceases at once, a large padlock will be placed on the door of the Woodmere Fire House card room, it was announced today by George S. Smith, one of the five Fire Commissioners.

Mr. Smith, replying to criticism of the Commissioners' action in demanding no more card games, said the firemen themselves had made the ruling under which the commission struck, namely, thou shalt not gamble. He said that money undoubtedly changed hands during evenings' entertainment, and that being forbidden, it was necessarily to be stopped at once. Poker was the only game barred, he said.

Robert Murray, the chief of the department, while still backing his men, said today that he thought the liklihood of a fireman's strike was not great.

BUS AWARD UPHELD IN SUPREME COURT

script of the stenographic minutes of said board on July 28, 1927, in respect to calendar item No. 14.

No. 14—Hearing on the form of contract for the grant of a franchise to the Equitable Coach Company, Inc., to establish, maintain and operate a bus line for public use in the conveyance and transportation of persons and property upon certain crosstown routes in the Borough of Manhattan and upon certain routes in the Borough of Brooklyn and Queens, all as more particularly described in said contract.

The Mayor: The Chair asks unanimous consent to consider out of its regular order No. 14. Is there objection?

The clerk read the proposition.

The Mayor: The Chair moves the adoption of No. 14. Is there objection? If not, call the roll.

The Clerk: Hearing closed. (The clerk called the roll.)

Says No One Objected.

"The vote was thereupon taken adopting the resolution," Justice Peters continued. "The stenographic minutes of the board show, therefore, that the Mayor called for a consideration of the resolution in question; that the proposition was read; that the Mayor moved its adoption and asked if there was any objection. So far as the record shows, no one objected to the proposition or to the granting of the franchise, whereupon the hearing was closed and the roll called and the vote taken. Upon this record the provisions of the Charter above quoted were complied with, for there was held a public hearing thereon, at which citizens were entitled to appear and be heard. No one asked to be heard.

"Upon the hearing of this motion the only evidence submitted by the plaintiff to controvert the official record was an affidavit by himself wherein he stated that the Mayor in a low voice uttered the words No. 14, which was the item number of the Equitable Coach Company's petition for a franchise; and without even a moment's pause and before any one could get on his feet the Mayor immediately moved a resolution for the acceptance of the Equitable Coach Company's petition and quickly ordered the clerk to call the roll; that the clerk called the roll of the members present and the Mayor hurriedly declared it carried.

"Counsel for the plaintiff upon this motion admitted that plaintiff suffered an impairment in his hearing and that fact is borne out by a letter to the Mayor dated Jan. 7, 1926, attached to the answering affidavits.

"John H. Delaney, Chairman of the Board of Transportation for the City of New York, who was present at the time, in an affidavit denies, as does the Mayor in his affidavit, that the Mayor spoke in a low tone of voice during the proceeding and states that the Mayor requested consideration of the item in a tone so that all might hear; that no one appeared to talk on the subject of item No. 14 and the Mayor thereupon requested a roll-call.

Did Not Ask to Be Heard.

"All the affidavits agree that the proposed resolution was called up for consideration by the Mayor publicly, and there is no affidavit before the court that any one present in the chamber protested or objected to this particular resolution or asked to be heard thereon. There is not even an affidavit from any one to the effect that he desired to be heard on the resolution and was prevented by the Mayor or any one from being heard. Even the plaintiff in his affidavit does not claim that he asked to be heard, although he had the resolution called for consideration.

"Upon the record before me I find that the proof submitted by the plaintiff is not sufficient to overcome the presumption that the public officials concerned performed their duty and held the hearing provided for by law. The stenographer's record of the proceedings support that presumption. The plaintiff has not, therefore, shown that the action of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in adopting the resolution granting the franchise in question was illegal."

Justice Peters also held that the plaintiff has not proved his contention under Section 51 of the general municipal law that the board's action in granting the franchise had caused "waste" or "injury" to the city, particularly as there was no charge of fraud, collusion or bad faith made by Mr. Browne. "In fact, upon oral argument," Justice Peters continued, "counsel for the plaintiff expressly held that no fraud was charged against the Mayor."

Justice Peters also held that Mr. Browne had failed to prove that the terms offered to the city by other companies were better than those offered by the Equitable Company, and showed that the Equitable Company guaranteed the city a minimum of $400,000 a year return for the three boroughs, while its three competitors, each bidding for a franchise in one borough, made offers which aggregated only $390,000 a year as the minimum return. He added that refusal of the offer of the unsuccessful petitioner for the Manhattan bus franchise to pay 50 per cent. of any net profit after a return of 8 per cent. did not indicate bad faith on the part of the Board of Estimate because there would be no evidence that there would be any such profits to divide.

No Evidence of Fraud.

In summing up his findings, Justice Peters said:

"The Board of Estimate and Apportionment acted, among other things, upon the reports of the Board of Transportation of the city, which investigated the questions of the fare to be charged, the service to be rendered, the transfer facilities, the financial ability of the companies and the compensation to be paid to the city. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment has exercised its discretion and, acting in a legislative capacity, has granted these franchises. There is no charge of fraud or bad faith or collusion on the part of the members of said board contained in the complaint therein and there is no evidence before the Court of fraud or bad faith or collusion. The Court therefore is without power to interfere in any way with the granting of these franchises.

"The application for the injunction sought is therefore denied, with $10 costs."

TO GO TO HOSPITAL PARLEY.

Dr. Lewinski-Corwin Sails Sunday for Paris Congress.

Dr. E. H. Lewinski-Corwin, of the Hospital Information and Service Bureau of the United Hospital Fund, will sail Sunday for France, where he will join representatives of public and private hospital interests of twenty-eight other countries to organize an International Hospital Congress.

The meeting will be held at the headquarters of the League of Red Cross Societies in Paris which has been offered for the purpose by Dr. Rene Sand, technical expert of the league.

The suggestion of an international congress at which might be pooled the hospital information of the world followed a conference in Vienna two years ago of German and Austrian hospital associations. At that meeting Dr. Corwin read an original paper on "The Evolution and Problems of the American Hospital," which was subsequently translated and published in five languages for distribution among hospital authorities of the continent.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

Refrigerator

THIS simplified General Electric Refrigerator works automatically, quietly, economically. It needs no attention—not even oiling. Inside the hermetically sealed casing there is a permanent supply of oil.

The all-in-one icing unit is on top—thus, no heat is generated under the refrigerator—it all rises above. There are no pipes, drains, fans or belts—no assembling or plumbing to be done. You just plug the refrigerator into any electric outlet. Instantly it starts.

And quietly, economically, it gives you scientific refrigeration. Cuts down your marketing problems, your cooking tasks. It was for this that the skilled engineers of General Electric worked—over a period of fifteen years—worked to produce the simplest of all refrigerators.

You will want to know more about this new-day refrigerator. You will want to see the various models that are now on display. By all means, come in. And, meanwhile, mail the coupon below for an interesting descriptive booklet.

Swimming Parties in The SHELTON pool

For non-guests as well as guests of the hotel. They have already become one of the features of the city's social life. Arrangements for the accommodation of large parties should be made in advance. Single tickets, $1.50. No charge to guests before 10:30 A. M. —afterwards, a nominal fee. An invigorating plunge every morning before going to your business! Swimming instruction by appointment.

Make ready now—for Fall

Do not make the mistake that many did last year . . . make sure of your accommodations at The SHELTON by moving in right away.

The romantic Italian Garden high above the city's streets is an ideal place to while away the hours in the cool of the evening. It is not used for commercial purposes but instead is for Shelton guests to enjoy.

UNFORTUNATELY, only a limited number of residential guests can be accommodated, even in a building the size of The SHELTON. Last year many made their applications too late and there was nothing we could do about it. Avoid the possibility of disappointment by making your reservations now—or better, move in at once.

NO LEASES REQUIRED

Bear in mind that you do not have to burden yourself with the cares and responsibility of a lease. You are free to come and go as you please. Never a thought about being tied down. Never a worry about sub-letting. This is a new and welcome independence for New Yorkers.

To live at The SHELTON is to enjoy the best there is in New York life

In the brief period since it has been opened The SHELTON has altered completely the New Yorker's idea of hotel life. It is not an ordinary hotel—instead it is the atmosphere of a huge club home for both MEN and WOMEN, unlike anything in the city.

Yet living here, with all its comfort and luxury—its complete hotel service—costs no more for beautifully furnished rooms and suites than for similar sized unfurnished accommodations elsewhere in this desirable neighborhood.

Residential guest privileges not to be found in any other hotel in the city consist of the use of a modern gymnasium, a championship size swimming pool, squash courts, indoor golf, bowling alleys, a fully stocked library, reading room, game rooms, lounges, a roof garden and solarium. In addition, The SHELTON Shop, a miniature department store, has been installed for the accommodation of our guests.

OUT OF TOWN GUESTS!

A certain percentage of comfortably rooms are reserved throughout the year for visitors to the city. The unusual features of the hotel that are for permanent residents may be enjoyed by transient guests also at all times. Single rooms, $3 to $6; double rooms $5 to $9.

Police Called to Quell Fans as Yanks Win and Ruth Hits No. 36; Giants Score

RUTH'S NO. 36 WINS; POLICE CALLED OUT

Homer in the Third Drives In Three Runs and Beats the Senators, 4 to 3.

RESERVES BREAK UP CROWD

BABE SENDS IN ALL RUNS

Single in First Scores Combs, and Moore Saves Yanks in Sixth With Two Rivals On.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Washington takes its baseball seriously; indeed far too seriously for Mr. Clarence Rowland, American League umpire.

Clarence had to have a police escort to get him out of the park today after officiating in the first game of the series between the Senators and the Yankees, which, it may have been surmised already, the Senators lost. It seems that the local populace had an idea that Mr. Rowland was responsible for the defeat of their favorites in what they have kidded themselves into believing is a crucial series.

Now, as a matter of fact, there is no such thing as a crucial series in the American League this year. Nor will there be. But you can't convince the local natives of that. They are noted for their imagination.

Rowland Has Own Opinion.

Besides that, Mr. Rowland had nothing to do with the defeat of the Senators. True, he called Reeves out on a third strike that looked a little wide, and he refused to believe that Bluege was hit by a pitched ball, which Mr. Bluege and his colleagues insisted flicked his shirt, but the real cause of the Yankees' victory was a home run by Babe Ruth with two on.

As that blow drove in three runs when the score was tied, and the final score was 4 to 3, one might suppose that the Babe, not Mr. Rowland, would be the target of the fans' ire. However, Babe passed out of the clubhouse alone and unaided; furthermore, he was slapped on the back and asked to sign things. Mr. Rowland, on the other hand, got out of the clubhouse in some mysterious manner, but no one knows just how.

A crowd gathered at the clubhouse door awaiting his appearance. They weren't there to present any bouquet of flowers, either. The reserves had to be called to disperse the threatening throngs, but groups reassembled and were still searching for the umpire far, far into the night.

Now Two Behind Gehrig.

In the furore that followed the finish, the fact that the Babe had hit his thirty-sixth home run of the season and is now only two laps of the diamond behind his twin thriller, Buster Gehrig, in the Great American Home Run Handicap, was almost forgotten.

That the Babe had emerged from a protracted slump which had extended over three complete games was pleasant enough, but the manner in which he did it was actually intoxicating.

With the score tied at 1 to 1 and the Yanks making very little disturbance for Tom Zachary, who started flinging for the Senators, the Babe clouted his drive into the left centre field bleachers and sent the Yanks three runs ahead.

Yanks Get Just Nine Hits.

The ball maulers of Manhattan made only nine hits off the combined pitching of the Washington hurlers, but they grouped three in the first for one run and three more in the third for a trio of tallies. The Senators were allowed eight blows by Hoyt and Moore.

The Yankees got away to a very promising start when Combs hit the first ball to centre for a triple. The Speaker started in the wrong direction and reversed too late to catch up with it before it fell over his head. Ruth singled Combs home with the inaugural run and Gehrig pumped another single into the fast filling outfield. There the rally ended. Meusel hit into a double play.

The Senators caught up in the second, when three successive singles by Judge, Goslin and Ruel put a tally across before any one was out. Goslin was caught half way to third on a fast throw by Meusel, however, and Bluege hit into a double play, so that budding outbreak also was cut short.

The Yanks jumped out in front again in the third. Combs and Koenig singled and then the Babe lofted his homer into the circus seats, putting what appeared at the time to be a stamp of finality on the proceedings. But the Senators were not convinced.

Moore to the Rescue.

A pass to Ruel, a single by Bluege and a double by Rice, which scored his two predecessors, left the Yanks with only a one-run margin in the fifth. When Goslin and Ruel both hit safely in the sixth, Hoyt was hoisted, even though there were two out. Mr. Moore reads his appearance and fanned Bluege for the third.

From there on it was a battle between the ambulances, Messrs. Moore and Marberry, but Wiley had a one-run start and clung to it. He passed the first three men who faced him, allowed just one hit, and was in no way threatened with trouble.

TIGERS BEAT BROWNS BACK OF CARROLL, 2-1

Detroit Defense Turns in Three Double Plays—Fothergill Hurt in Fence Collision.

DETROIT, Aug. 10 (AP).—Taking advantage of the Browns' mistakes, the Tigers won the opening game of the series with St. Louis today by 2 to 1.

It was a pitchers' battle between Owen Carroll and Milton Gaston, and the Tiger right-hander triumphed because of better support in the field. Three double plays helped Carroll.

Bob Fothergill was hurt in the eighth inning when he collided with the left-field fence while going after O'Rourke's two-base hit.

BASEBALL TODAY. Polo Grounds—Giants vs. Brooklyn, 3:30 P. M., daylight.

GIANTS RIDE DOWN PIRATES IN EIGHTH

Ten Go Into Action, Driving Six Runs Across to Overcome 3-2 Lead and Win, 8-3.

THREE HURLERS ROUTED

Miljus Finally Halts Charge, but New York's Western Drive Ends With Brilliant Victory.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10.—That cruel strain which is a part of the baser nature of the Giants broke out in a flaming fury this pleasant afternoon, and what the McGrawmen did to the Pirates comes under the general head of mayhem and torture.

With the score 3 to 2 against them at the start of the eighth inning, the Giants staged an exhibition of atrocity that would have put anybody to shame. Ten Giants pranced to the plate, made five hits, scored six runs and compelled General Bush to change his pitchers three times before he could stem the flood.

The most remarkable part of the orgy was that the first two Giants died without a struggle. But then Lindstrom and Rush singled and Hornsby walked, and with the bases full Joe Dawson took the air and Carmen Hill went to the hill.

Carmen may be a talented saxophone player or even a good toe dancer, but he certainly isn't a relief pitcher. He walked Bill Terry, forcing in the tying run, and then Jackson socked a single to left and two more visitors scurried home.

At this point Mr. Hill was mercifully removed. After recovering consciousness he said, "Whoever pushed the grandstand over on me is not a gentleman."

Cvengros Is Played.

A Mr. Mike Cvengros was summoned to stop the uproar, with the following result: Leslie Mann batted for Harper and stung a two-bagger to left, scoring Hornsby. Terry kept on for the plate and was safe when Gooch dropped a perfect throw. Taylor singled to left, admitting Major Mann, and then Cvengros uncorked a wild pitch that went clear to the grandstand.

Mr. Donie Bush fainted at this juncture and was revived with great difficulty. On regaining his senses Mr. Bush waved Cvengros out of the line of fire and motioned to one Miljus to emerge from the bullpen.

"I'll find a relief pitcher if it takes all Summer," said Mr. Bush. Well, a fellow can't guess wrong all the time, and this time Bush was right. Miljus stopped the rally with one thrown ball, after De Vormer had batted for Ott, who had started the inning as a pinch hitter for Larry Benton.

Benton blanked the Pirates for six rounds but weakened in the seventh. Ray Kremer was relieved by a pinch hitter in that session, and after Ray came the deluge.

The 8-3 victory made the Giants' record in the West eight won and four lost.

Before Monsieur Kremer got set in the first inning the Giants were on him for two runs. Reese beat out a hit to Grantham and then showed some of his old Vanderbilt speed by scoring from first on Lindstrom's double to left. Roush skied to L. Waner, but Hornsby dashed a single to left and Lindstrom charlestoned home. Terry lined to Traynor and Jackson fanned.

Benton Fights off Rallies.

Benton fought off rallies in the first and sixth, but the Pirates nailed him finally in the seventh for three runs. Rhyne singled with one out and Joe Harris, hitting for Kremer, clouted a long double down the left field line with two out, scoring Rhyne. Yde ran for Harris and carted in the tying run on Lloyd Waner's single to centre.

Grantham drew four balls, and then that fiend in human form, Mr. P. Waner, slapped a hit to left and the Pirates were ahead.

But not for long, as you may have deduced from reading earlier parts of this chronicle. Our boys nailed them to the mast in the eighth.

Zach Taylor was passing the cigars around today. He is the daddy of a baby boy, born in New York late last night.

Roush's leg is bothering him again and the Hoosier flyhawk shows a limp.

Wright tickled the spectators mightily by skimming over behind second, nabbing Harper's drive with his glove and retiring the Giant at first.

Home tomorrow to play the Robins at the Polo Grounds.

ROBINS ARE BACK FROM WESTERN TRIP

Won Six Out of Sixteen Games During Invasion and Only 11 in Two Trips.

WILL FACE GIANTS TODAY

Games Abroad Profitable, However, Chicago Series of Four Drawing 115,000 Persons.

Manager Wilbert Robinson and his Brooklyn Robins arrived in town late last night after an unsuccessful invasion of the West and this afternoon open a three-game series against the Giants at the Polo Grounds. The Western trip brought very little of joy to the lives of the Robins, who played sixteen games and won only six of them. They started the trip in fifth place but now are in sixth.

The West provided stiffer opposition than the Robins anticipated. They come home now to face the Giants and probably won't find the going much better, if any. However, Dazzy Vance is likely to take the mound against the McGrawmen today and when Dazzy is right he is hard for the Giants to solve.

After the series with the Giants the Robins will move over to Ebbets Field, starting off Sunday against the Braves in a double header. This series will start the Robins on their last long home stay of the season. The Robins would rather stay home than abroad, too. On their two Western trips this season Brooklyn has won only eleven games, the first invasion netting five victories and nine defeats.

Financially, the last trip was a good one, however. The series in Chicago was especially profitable. The four games there drew 115,000, with 43,000 witnessing the closing double-header on Tuesday.

Pitler Is Reinstated.

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 10 (AP).—Jake Pitler, former Pirate outfielder, who was barred from organized baseball in 1920 when he jumped to the Oil City-Franklin League, has been reinstated, according to announcement received from J. H. Farrell, Secretary of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs. Pitler is the property of the Toledo club.

Farrell and Diegel Win.

ROME, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP).—Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge professional golfer, and Leo Diegel, White Plains, defeated Ruland Tickner and Jack Hunter, Syracuse amateurs, 2 and 1 in an 18-hole exhibition match here today. Diegel had a medal score of 73 and Farrell 76. Tickner and Hunter had 79 and 75, respectively.

Sledge Hammer Wins Albany Handicap and Osmand Gets an Ovation as He Scores

ALBANY HANDICAP TO SLEDGE HAMMER

OSMAND GETS AN OVATION

Saratoga Crowd Cheers His Close Victory Over Celidon—Only Two Favorites Score.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Running the second race of his career and making it two straight victories, Clifford A. Cochran's Sledge Hammer this afternoon captured in easy fashion the twenty-fifth running of the Albany Handicap and proclaimed himself a dangerous candidate for the Hopeful and other juvenile classics to which he is eligible.

Sledge Hammer, a bay son of Vulcain and Orro, was well ridden by Kelsay. He was a 6-to-1 shot in the betting and under 112 pounds ran the six furlongs in 1:13 2-5. His victory was worth $4,325 to his owner.

Once more the afternoon was made to order for racing and another crowd that tested the seating accommodations turned out. There was a big delegation from the hunting colonies to watch the jumping and the schooling which followed. Two favorites rewarded their followers, one at odds-on.

Mowlee Spreads a Hoof.

Mowlee, with Laverne Fator up in the Rancocas silks, was the 11-to-10 choice in the field of twelve that ran in the Albany, but it was noticed in the stretch drive that he did not respond when Fator called upon him and as a result he dropped back to finish out of the money. An explanation this was given this evening when Sam Hildreth, trainer for the stable, announced that Mowlee had spread a hoof. The accident will throw this promising youngster out of training for a long time.

The Island Farm's Happy Time, a 30 to 1 shot, cut out the early pace, with Sledge Hammer always within striking distance. The Western colt was in light under 106 pounds, but he couldn't give Sledge Hammer an argument when Kelsey began his run and the latter won by three lengths, Happy Time being four lengths in front of the Greentree Stable's Glade, with Mowlee a badly beaten fourth. The race was run in 0:23, 0:47 3-5, 1:13 2-5.

A race that was worth traveling many a mile to witness was the running of the Burnt Hills Handicap over the seven-furlong course. Throughout the race, bedlam prevailed in the stands, while the winner, Joseph E. Widener's Osmand, the 9-to-10 favorite, was acclaimed when he returned to the scales as though he had just won a classic stake. Just by an eyelash did Sande lift him over the line in front of the Rancocas Stable's Celidon, with Laverne Fator in the saddle.

Osmand was the receding choice at post time under a heavy eleventh-hour play on the Sagamore Stable's contingent, which was backed down to 11 to 5. The apprentice Bejshak rode a good race as long as his mount could stand the gaff, but he was well beaten off in the stretch by the other two.

Fator Waits for Chance.

Down the backstretch Osmand and Montferrat raced as a team, the former on the rail and Fator laying off the pace awaiting developments. At the middle of the turn the Rancocas genius saw an opportunity to slip through on the rail, but Sande was foxy enough to sense the move and eased over while he was still clear. As they straightened out for home, Fator tried it again and once more failed. When he did not get through, as Montferrat began to back up, he set sail after Sande.

Osmand and Celidon then fought a duel that will not soon be forgotten. Both boys rode for all that was in them, as they often have battled in the past. They were carrying level weights, and Fator almost got on even terms with his rival, but Celidon's nose never showed in front. While Fator went to the whip in a final effort to take the lead, Celidon could not respond and was just nosed out.

For the third time since coming here from France the Dorwood Stable's Phosphore disappointed in the jumping event, in which he was the odds-on favorite. Five took the two-mile journey and all stood up, although there was a lot of faulty fencing. The field kept well together during the first turn of the field, the pace being painfully slow.

C. Mergler, who has decided not to retire from the saddle and will do the riding for the Dorwood Stable, had the mount on Phosphore and was imbued with the idea that he could lose the others at any time. Consequently, he started his run at the lower end of the field.

At the far turn Clemson decided to do a little riding himself and he took the Clark gelding to the front. Phosphore began to tire and Green Dragon easily took his measure on the flat to win by four lengths. Busby, on J. E. Davis's Endicott, was third.

Phosphore, $20,000 Jumper, Breaks Down After Spa Race

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The Dorwood Stable's Phosphore, bought in France two months ago by Victor Emanuel for $20,000, broke down after the Houdini Steeplechase this afternoon. Thus the Dorwood lost a very strong candidate for the Grand National. The jumper, bred by Baron de Rothschild, had attracted a lot of attention at Auteuil, where French experts had labeled the four-year-old son of Sky Rocket as one of the best prospects they had seen in years.

HANDY MANDY BOWS TO PRINCESS DOREEN

Is Beaten Three Lengths by Audley Farm Stable's Mare in Homewood Handicap.

VICTOR LEADS THROUGHOUT

Pays $6.14 for $2 in Distance Event at Lincoln Fields—Yeddo Is a Poor Third.

Special to The New York Times.

CRETE, Ill., Aug. 10.—Princess Doreen, the Audley Farm Stable's great mare, easily outran her field in the Homewood Handicap at Lincoln Fields today, leading Handy Mandy to the wire by three lengths with the owner's stable-mate, Yeddo, a distant third. The mare, with 118 pounds up, covered the mile and a sixteenth in 1:43 3-5 and paid $6.14 for $2.

Favored by the break, the mare quickly opened up a long lead, with Yeddo running second, and merely coasted home while Handy Mandy came from way back to overhaul her tiring stable-mate in the stretch.

COLT BRINGS $18,000, RECORD PRICE OF YEAR

Brookmeade Stable Buys Mrs. Regan's Broomstick Yearling at Saratoga Sale.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The record price of the year at the yearling sales was realized this evening in the paddock of the Fasig-Tipton Company when Mrs. Thomas J. Regan's bay colt by Broomstick, out of Sainotta, was knocked down after spirited bidding to the Brookmeade Stable of George Sloan for $18,000. This colt, a half-brother of Gay Life, Panasain and Thundering had been the subject of much comment, and it had been predicted that he would bring a big price.

The attendance was large and most of the best known racing folk were on hand. Joseph E. Widener, President of the Westchester Racing Association, started with $5,000, when Auctioneer Bain called for bids. John S. Ward and L. T. Cooper entered the lists against Mr. Widener, then J. Simon Healy took a hand with the Brookmeade Stable. Healy stepped at $17,500 and the colt entered the Sloan stable at $18,000.

The next highest price, paid by W. J. Norton, was only $1,000 less for Mrs. Regan's chestnut filly by Pennant, out of Imp. Sis Martin, she being a half-sister to Nayarit and Martin's Caddy.

Another purchase by the Brookmeade Stable was that of a bay colt by Bunting out of Thompeuse in the consignment of Carr and Piatt, the price being $12,000. Others were A. B. Gordon's brown colt by Imp, North Star III; Sue Donovan bought for $8,100 by Marshall Field; Carr and Piatt's colt by Bunting out of Mineral sold to R. L. Derry for $5,100; the same consignment's bay colt sold to H. P. Gardner for $4,800; a brown filly bought by the Leona Farm for $4,700; a bay colt bought by the Seagram Stable for $4,000. From that amount the prices scaled down rapidly.

Forty-seven head came under the hammer, bringing a total of $128,750. Mrs. Regan's consignment included ten head and realized $49,800.

Caledonian Games Sept. 8.

Another change of date and place for annual games of the New York Caledonian Club has just been announced. They will be held on Sept. 8 at Ulmer Park instead of Sept. 17 as previously announced. The games were originally scheduled for last month. The meet will consist of track and field events, a football game, a sword dance, a highland fling and other contests.

SPENCER CAPTURES $18,000 TROT STAKE

KASHMIR ALSO A WINNER

NORTH RANDALL, Ohio, Aug. 10 (AP).—The $18,000 Rainy Day Sweepstakes, for two-year-old trotters, which was the feature on the second day's Grand Circuit program here, was won by Spencer, owned by David M. Look of New York City and driven by Lon McDonald.

Spencer won the first heat in 2:05 2-5, a new record for the stakes. In a great duel in the second heat, Scotland, driven by Tommy Murphy, won, with Spencer third.

Just as they went away in the third heat, Scotland went to a break throwing him out of all contention and Spencer came on to win rather handily though given a good argument in the stretch drive by The Virginia Senator, driven by Sep Palin.

The Fasig Sweepstakes, for three-year-old trotters, resulted in a popular victory for the locally owned filly Kashmir, driven by Tommy Murphy. The daughter of Belwin redeemed herself for her poor showing in the Breeders' Futurity last week by winning in straight heats and equaling the record for the stake by stepping the second heat in 2:08 4-5.

Mr. Hanna, the Hanover, Pa., gelding of the Berry Stable, was runner-up with Isolas Worthy third.

Trampsmug, owned by George Tipling of Cleveland and driven by Charles Lacey, North Randall reinsman, won the opening even, a 2:10 pace in straight heats in a rather hectic battle with Myrtle Baxter, also a Cleveland owned racer.

The consolation division of the Rainy Day proved a rather hollow victory for Otzinachson, driven by Walter Cox. The son of Guy Axworthy outclassed his field and won in straight heats. This was the poorest field of the meeting thus far.

Lacoste and Tilden Play Dazzling Game to Win in Southampton Singles

TILDEN RUSHES ON; LACOSTE TRIUMPHS

U. S. Ace Crushes Ohta, 6-1, 6-0, With Superb Attack on Court at Southampton.

FRENCHMAN ALSO IN FORM

Downs Seligson, 6-4, 6-2, but a Default May Bar Stars' Meeting—Lacoste-Brugnon Out of Doubles.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 10.—Favored with glorious weather, with a warm sun overhead in a clear sky and the gentlest of breezes stirring, the field in the Southampton invitation tennis tournament moved into the quarter finals of the singles today after one of the most brilliant rounds of play seen at the Meadow Club in the forty-four years' history of the event.

William Tilden, former national champion, playing tennis of such sheer magnificence as to leave the gallery shaking its head at the overwhelming destructiveness of his attack, led the procession as he smothered Yoshiro Ohta, champion of Japan, 6—1, 6—0, and hardly less impressive, thought not nearly so spectacular, was Rene Lacoste, holder of the American title, as he overcame plucky little Julius Seligson of New York, 6—4, 6—2, with the unrelaxing pressure of his almost flawless defense.

Nightfall found the brackets in the upper half occupied by Tilden, Wimmer Allison of Texas, intercollegiate champion, who prevailed over Cranston Holmes of Stanford in three savagely fought sets of the most aggressive tennis, 2—6, 6—3, 6—4; Lewis N. White of Texas and Jacques Brugnon of the French Davis Cup team. The survivors in the lower half are George Lott of Chicago, John Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal.; Dr. Carl Fischer of Philadelphia, and Lacoste.

Tilden to Meet Allison.

Tomorrow morning at 10:30 Tilden will meet Allison, and Brugnon will be opposed to White. Immediately following these matches Doeg will go on the court with Lott and Lacoste with Fischer. The doubles, which got under way this afternoon and saw Henri Cochet of the French team and José Alonso, former Spanish Davis Cup representative, fall before Teizo Tobe and R. Miki of the Japanese team in three sets in the second round, will be put on tomorrow afternoon.

The performances of both Tilden and Lacoste today were so thoroughly indicative of the perfect form and keenness of the two Davis Cup aces as to point toward the greatest final ever seen here should they meet, but regardless of the remote possibility of either meeting with the master in the next two rounds there is considerable doubt as to whether the match will take place between them.

The one subject of conversation around the clubhouse is whether or not one of the two will default to prevent their meeting before the Davis Cup challenge round. Lacoste, asked several times during the day whether he intended to play through to the end, stated that he was not certain, that it depended upon how he felt, but late in the afternoon he declared definitely that he would not default.

When the question was put to Tilden the former champion stated that if the weather remained as comfortable as it was today he would very likely see the play through to a finish, but that his decision was not final. He declared that the Tennis Committee of the Meadow Club understood when he entered that he might default whenever he chose, and this statement is a further indication of the possibility of his withdrawing.

Think Match Won't Take Place.

One tennis official scoffed at the idea that the mainstays of the American and French teams would meet in an invitation event before the challenge round, declaring it absurd, and a number of the players here are decided in their opinions that the match will not take place. They expect Tilden to default at match point, if he gains that point, against either Allison tomorrow or his opponent in the semi-finals. As the situation stands now, however, Lacoste has said that he will not default, and Tilden has stated with reservations that he probably will play through.

The subject of defaults became all the more engrossing when Lacoste and Brugnon withdrew from the doubles tournament this afternoon. As Tilden and Francis T. Hunter, one of the American cup combinations, are also entered and played through two rounds today, there was the likelihood of a meeting in doubles between the two countries also, which, with a match between Tilden and Lacoste in singles, would have given the tournament here the complexion of a Davis Cup challenge round.

The French players, in explanation of their default, stated that they did not wish to go through too strenuous a week so soon after their arrival, and it was evident that Brugnon, in his match with Berkeley Bell of Texas, whom he beat at 8—7, 6—4, was feeling the strain of his two days of competition in the singles.

Any one who had watched Tilden swamp Ohta in the morning with his cannon ball service and the deadliest ball of volleys that has come from his racquet since he lost to Cochet in the national championship last year would have said that it was unbelievable that any player living could stand up against such an annihilating attack. But when Lacoste went on the court shortly after against Seligson the equally deadly accuracy of his ground strokes, which assimilated the hardest-hit strokes as though they were pat balls and turned them back with razor-edged forcing shots to unprotected territory that put Seligson on the defensive made an equally profound impression.

Attack and Defense.

Here, on one hand, was the exemplification of the perfect attack and on the other of the perfect defense, each equally incorrable and typifying, respectively, the irresistible force and the immoveable body.

Tilden was never keener or more vividly the Colossus than he was today. Whether it was the balminess of the air or the fact that he had been extended so severely by John Van Ryn on Tuesday that brought about the change in him, the fact is that he was an inspired player against Ohta, revelling in his tremendous power and applying it to the hilt from the very first rally to the last point.

Ohta, with his heavily topped drives and Western grip, reminded one of Shimizu and Kumagae, and when he had the chance played tennis worthy of these two heroes of the Japanese courts. But, unfortunately for him, he had very few chances against Tilden's murderous ground strokes and cannon-ball service and his matchless volleying.

Whenever the American had the service it was simply a procession, except in one game in the second set, when Ohta made two beautiful placements off service. If the Japanese succeeded in getting the serve back, Tilden was waiting at the net for the return to dispatch it with a sharply angled volley or an overhead kill.

Ohta's service was not strong enough, and if Tilden did not score in returning it, his lightning ground strokes opened up gaps the Japanese could not fill up in spite of his ambitious court covering. In the second set Tilden reached his greatest heights and Ohta got hardly more than a dozen points.

Seligson Breaks Through.

In the first set between Seligson and Lacoste the 17-year-old New York boy broke through Lacoste's service to lead at 4—2, and in the second chapter he broke through again to lead at 2—1, with his own service to come. In the first set Lacoste ran four games in a row and in the second set five in a row.

It was entirely a back-court engagement, and Seligson was driving with such full length and stinging pace that Lacoste had to apply himself industriously every minute. The New York youth's backhand was magnificent at times as it skimmed the net on its way down the side lines to the far corner, and the way he pumped his forehand across court into the corners was a delight to see.

Almost any other player than the machinelike Lacoste would have had to yield, but the French youth assimilated them with such unfailing regularity as to discourage his opponent. The only way to win a point against Lacoste was to earn it, and to earn it meant taking every chance and allowing the slightest margin of safety in hitting for the lines.

Seligson stood up to his task manfully, and though he could not maintain control as long as the other, he played so splendidly in the long rallies that almost every time they changed courts Lacoste smiled appreciatively at his opponent, acknowledging the surprisingly high quality of his play.

Allison Plays Confidently.

Allison, in defeating Cranston Holman, showed a confidence lacking in his game for weeks. In the powerfully built Stanford collegian he faced a two-fisted driver with a high-powered service who could volley with deadliness when the ball came within his reach. It was a man-sized job to overcome Holman, and the fact that Allison did it after losing the first set was all the more to his credit. It was a battle royal all the way between the two youths well equipped in every department of the game, and there was hardly a game that did not go to deuce.

Young Doeg, for the third successive match, dropped a set before he prevailed over Kenneth Appel of Princeton, 6—4, 2—6, 6—2. Appel's ground strokes carried more pace and were under better control in the second set and it was not until the third that Doeg's service and volleying attack were up to par. The California youth meets Lott tomorrow and the Chicagoan stands as a dangerous adversary for him if he plays in the form he showed in the first set of his match with R. Miki of Japan, whom he defeated today at 6—2, 10—8.

Brugnon was too magnificent a volleyer and knew a little too much for Berkeley Bell, whose great fighting heart carried him from 6—4 to 5—4 in the first set, but could not avail him any further. White was hitting with greater power than he has shown in a long time in conquering José Alonso, 6—3, 6—0, and Fischer put away Percy L. Kynaston, 6—4, 6—0, after a close struggle in the first set.

One of Eight Who Survive in U. S. Public Parks Singles.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10 (AP).—Only eight players remained in the singles event of the fifth annual national public parks championship here as a result of matches today. Those who reached the quarter-final round were Ted Drewes, St. Louis; Milton Hoffsis, Philadelphia; Eric Jacobsen and Edward Jacobs, Baltimore; Charles Jejcock and George Jennings, Chicago; Robert Considine, Washington, D. C., and Mac Smith, East St. Louis, Ill.

Seligson, Beaten by Lacoste, Earns Praise of French Ace

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 10.—Julius Seligson, 17-year-old New York junior tennis star, earned high praise from René Lacoste today after the Frenchman beat him in the invitation singles. Seligson's play against Lacoste was so fine that the French ace stated after the match that, with the exception of Christian Boussus, there was no junior in France who could prevail over him.

MISS WILLS IS NO. 1 ON WIGHTMAN TEAM

Mrs. Mallory and Miss Jacobs Follow in Order in Singles Matches With Britons.

MISS WILLS BOWS IN TEST

With Mrs. Wightman, Forming No. 1 Team, Is Roundly Beaten by Mrs. Chapin and Miss Goss, No. 2.

After being soundly trounced in two sets by Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin and Miss Eleanor Goss at Forest Hills yesterday afternoon Miss Helen Wills and Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman were selected as the No. 1 doubles team for America in the Wightman Cup competition, which begins tomorrow. Winning at 6—2, 6—2 in slashing style, Miss Goss and Mrs. Chapin were selected as the No. 2 team.

The three singles players for America in the order of selection are Miss Helen Wills, Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory and Miss Helen Jacobs. Britain's three singles players, also in order, are Mrs. Kathleen McKane Godfree, Miss Joan Fry and Miss Betty Nuthall. The English doubles teams in order are Mrs. Godfree and Miss Ermintrude H. Harvey, and Mrs. John P. Hill and Miss Gwendolyn Sterry.

The schedule of play makes for an interesting card both tomorrow and Saturday, but the two outstanding matches are on the second day. These are between the respective No. 1 players for America and Britain, Miss Wills and Mrs. Godfree. The other match will be between the two prodigies of the their teens, the Misses Betty Nuthall and Helen Jacobs. This match will bring together the finest players of the younger set in the two countries. Miss Nuthall is 16 and Miss Jacobs 18. The former defeated Mrs. Mallory, America's No. 2 player, at Wimbledon, and Miss Jacobs also has defeated Mrs. Mallory.

Miss Wills Expected to Score.

Speculation is rife over the outcome of the Wills-Godfree meeting also. As both of these players have met before, however, with Miss Wills winning the majority of matches, the result is not so doubtful as in the other contest.

Miss Nuthall practiced yesterday, making such use of an underhand service as has not been seen around these parts in some time. This is Miss Nuthall's first competition in America, and while most observers seem to think she is slightly superior to her American rival, the unfamiliar turf is expected to equalize things.

One of the most interesting happenings of the day was the appearance at the West Side Tennis Club of Miss Mary K. Brown and Vincent Richards, professionals. They were in tennis togs and, moreover, played. Miss Browne appeared on the championship courts within the stadium, but Richards confined his playing to an outside clay court. Miss Brown made tennis history, for no other professional feat ever before trod the blades of grass nurtured in the shrine of amateurism.

Miss Browne played with Mrs. Mallory in singles and performed excellently. She was warmly received by the small group of persons gathered in the official stand and by the other players. There was no gallery.

Committee in Quandry.

Before the announcement of the doubles teams there seemed to be some doubts in the minds of the committee, headed by James S. Cushman, charged with the responsibility. As a result, further practice was held. The teams lined up with Miss Mills and Mrs. Wightman opposing Miss Goss and Mrs. Chapin. Miss Wills's service was broken through on several occasions and Mrs. Wightman did not win her service once.

The former Charlotte Hosmer was the outstanding player of the four. She showed impressive form. Miss Goss played her usual strong game until she got into a tight corner. Then she proceeded to soften her game and throw away points. This happened once in each set when the players were at set point.

It was noticeable that Miss Wills and Mrs. Wightman concentrated on Miss Goss at these crucial moments. In one exchange for set point Miss Goss returned the ball eleven times without Mrs. Chapin making a return.

The Wills team won only the second and fifth games in the first set and the fifth and sixth games in the second. Miss Penelope Anderson then played with Miss Wills and they defeated Mrs. Chapin and Miss Goss, 6—4. Mrs. Wightman, notwithstanding, was selected as Miss Wills's partner. Later the selection committee paired Miss Wills and Mrs. Chapin against Miss Anderson and Mrs. Wightman. The former ran off five games in a row.

Miss Anderson won her service and then she broke through Mrs. Chapin's and then Mrs. Wightman served her first winning game of the afternoon. Miss Wills and Mrs. Chapin ran out the set at 6—2.

The English women played a practice match, no score being kept. They lined up the way the teams were later announced. They took matters easy.

MEHLHORN-NABHOLTZ TRAIL

Score 76 and 78 Respectively at Start of British Tourney.

BLACKPOOL, England, Aug. 10.—Bill Mehlhorn and Larry Nabholtz, the only two Americans in the Northern open golf championship, today practically ruined their prospects of winning when, in the first of two qualifying rounds, they turned in a 76 and 78 respectively. Mehlhorn found it impossible to keep straight with his irons and Nabholtz was weak on his short shot.

JONES WILL HEAD SOUTH'S CHALLENGE

Atlantan Will Be Followed by Gunn, Ehle and Others in Amateur Golf Quest.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 10 (AP).—When Bobby Jones swings across the lengthened, severely trapped Minikahda course in his quest of the amateur golf championship wrested from his last year by George von Elm there will be a swarm of young Southern golfers in his footsteps.

Southern fandom can predict nothing but a Southern successor for von Elm, and while Jones will play the main rôle so far as their guess is concerned they will keep a weather eye on the progress of the youngsters.

Watts Gunn, ranked fifth in the new national amateur standing, is the second choice of the Southerners, but there is Fred Lamprecht, the former Tulane golfer; Harry Ehle, the new Southern champion; Gene Cook, former Georgia State titleholder; Bobby Baugh, Birmingham, and Glenn Crisman of Selma, Ala., all of whom plan to compete.

It will be the first pilgrimage for Baugh, Crisman and Ehle. Harold Calloway of La Grange, Ga., who once stood thirtieth in the national open, also will be there.

Von Elm Testing Course.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 10 (AP).—Stealing a march on the challengers who will seek to divest him of his title at the national amateur golf tournament here Aug. 22, George von Elm of Los Angeles, defending champion, already has seen action over the Minikahda course.

Accompanied by Allan Moser, his 18-year-old Hollywood protégé, von Elm was out to improve upon the superb 73 a single stroke over par, in which he turned the links in his first practice session yesterday.

Von Elm sounded a word of warning for the seekers after his crown. He was of the opinion that the Minikahda course will prove a severe test for the most skilled golfers, with the least deviation from long, true tee shots causing trouble.

Von Elm will get in another round Thursday and then with his protégé will move on to Detroit for a tournament, returning to Minneapolis before the start of the national amateur on Monday.

MRS. ROESER SCORES AT BRIARCLIFF NET

Beats Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Lane to Gain Fourth Round in State Clay Court Play.

MRS. FALK ALSO TRIUMPHS

Miss Francis, Miss Thorne and Mrs. Lutz Are Others to Reach the Quarter-Finals.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIARCLIFF MANOR, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Despite the fact that today's play in the New York State women's clay court tennis championship was the first, as the result of two days' postponements, three contestants reached the quarter-final round. One of this trio is the first seeded player, Mrs. Frederich V. Roeser. The other two are Mrs. Fred Lutz and Mrs. Christian Muhl.

Both Mrs. Roeser and Mrs. Lutz are in the upper bracket and they are slated to meet tomorrow. All of the first three rounds have been completed, and the quarter-finals of the singles and the beginning of the doubles will be tomorrow's attraction.

Mrs. Roeser drew a bye in the first round, and in the second she defeated Mrs. J. E. Bailey, 6—0, 6—1. Mrs. Roeser then met Mrs. Ralph Lane and won by 6—1, 6—0.

The other three seeded players went to the third round by playing one match apiece. Each of them benefited by either a bye or a default and then disposed of one opponent. Mrs. Helene P. Falk, the second seeded player, defeated Miss Charlotte Miller, 6—1, 6—0.

Miss Alice Francis, the third favored player, received the sturdiest opposition of any of the seeded competitors. She encountered Mrs. Edith B. Handy, who got of to a flying start by assuming a 3—1 lead in the opening set. Then Miss Francis settled down and won by 6—3, 6—1.

Miss Marjorie Thorne, the fourth seeded star, followed the example of Mrs. Roeser and Mrs. Falk by yielding one game in her two sets with Miss Elsa Clason. The scores were 6—0, 6—1.

Mrs. Lutz went to the fourth round with the aid of a bye, a victory and a default. The triumph came over Mrs. S. J. Dicketts, 6—1, 2—6, 6—2.

The summaries:

First Round—Miss Edith B. Handy, New York City, defeated Miss Dorothy Brand, New York City, 6—1, 6—0; Miss Alice Francis, Westfield, N. J., won by default from Mrs. Hall, Forest Hills; Miss Julie Hewitt, Elizabeth, N. J., won by default from Miss Evelyn Pitshke, New York City; Miss Mary Keller, New York City, defeated Mrs. Gordon Waxel, Astoria, L. I., 6—4, 6—0; Miss Jessie Scott, Scarsdale, N. Y., won by default from Miss Doris Schmitz, New York City; Mrs. Rose R. Taubele, New York City, won by default from Mrs. Nichols, Forest Hills; Miss Clara Greenspan, New York City, defeated Miss Rosetta F. Maisel, New York City, 6—0, 6—1; Miss Marie Wansterer, Englewood, N. J., defeated Mrs. Milts Shaffer, New Gardens, 6—3, 6—2; Miss Hermine B. Kuhn, New York City, defeated Mrs. George B. Stanwix, Yonkers, 7—5, 6—2; Miss Carolyn Francis, Westfield, won by default from Miss Elisabeth Keye, Yonkers; Miss Elsa Taubele, New York City, defeated Mrs. Mabel Dwyer, Brooklyn, 6—1, 6—2; Mrs. Donald Sutherland, Declair, won by default from Miss Caroma Winn, Mountain Lakes, N. Drive on Dog Tracks Delayed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP).—Efforts of the State Attorney's office to close dog racing tracks in the Chicago district, where, it is charged, wide-open gambling is going on, have met with further court delay. Judge P. L. Sullivan has refused to hear a motion to dissolve an injunction under which the tracks now operate. A renewed court move to stop the races will be made next week, the State Attorney said.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., Aug. 10.—Gene Sarazen, Fresh Meadow professional, who was the kingpin of them all in 1922 and 1923, when he held the open championship once and the P. G. A. title twice, outclassed his field in the Long Island championship at Salisbury today, winning the 1927 title by a margin of 11 strokes.

Little Gene led his field by that number of shots at the end of the third round, on which he equalled par with a 72, and his 76 in the afternoon gave him a winning total of 290 strokes.

Sarazen's victory by such a wide margin took all the punch out of the tournament, inasmuch as the playing of the afternoon round was merely a formality so far as he was concerned.

The only interest, if any, was in the fight for second place. Several were involved in the struggle for runner-up honors, but W. H. "Whiffy" Cox, Marine and Field professional, was the man who was successful, his 73 in the closing round enabling him to nose out Willie Klein of Wheatley Hills, who held the insular title during the first two years of its existence.

Sarazen's Average .500.

Today's victory for Sarazen gave him an average of .500 in the event, for he has played in it only twice. The first time he attempted to win the title was in 1925, when his path was blocked by Macdonald Smith, who won by something like eleven strokes, Gene finishing a bad second. This year there was no Macdonald Smith in the field and the title was as good as won when Sarazen sent in his entry.

Klein, perhaps the only serious rival that Gene had, has been experiencing a bad year so far as tournament golf is concerned and dropped too far back to be a contender when he finished the first two rounds eleven strokes behind Gene. Willie held his own with the Fresh Meadow youngster today, but all that did for him was to get him higher up in the money list.

The two "dark horses" of yesterday, Arthur Potter, the ball "fisherman" from Marine and Field, and William Dorward of Riverhead, failed to live up to the reputation they made yesterday, and old Gil Nicholls, who was sitting on top of the golf world before Sarazen and some of the others knew anything of the golf world, and who did something to be proud of yesterday, finished out of the picture by taking 81 and 78 for his third and fourth rounds.

Klein Beaten Out by Cox.

Klein looked to be a certain winner of second place until Cox, goaded on perhaps by the feat that Potter, who works for him, did yesterday, averaged 74 today and it enabled him to beat out the Wheatley Hills professional by a shot.

The glare of the limelight he was in yesterday had a detrimental effect on Potter, for he took an 84 in the morning and finished up with an 80 for a 307 total, while Dorward, who flashed a 70 in the second round, was the hottest of the lukewarm Sarazen pursuers with a 74 this morning. He dropped back to a 79 on his final round, however, and finished in sixth place, a stroke behind Johnny Farrell of North Shore and A. E. MacDonald of Inwood, the latter having the distinction of bringing in the lowest score made in round 4.

Sarazen, who has been playing the best golf of his entire career this year in spite of the fact that he has won nothing in a major way, had a fine round this morning when he clinched his victory with a 72, which was low for that session. Out in 36, he was in a fine way toward getting a 70 or better until he came a cropper at the seventeenth hole.

Gene Loses Par Round.

For the first sixteen holes Gene was two under par and had a 5, 4 left for an even 70, but finished 7, 4. His troubles began when he drove into the rough off the tee and he was short from the green on his fourth.

He merely dilly-dallied along in the afternoon, knowing full well that he had the championship won, and returned a 76 by only half trying. He would have been at least two strokes better than that except for his getting bunkered on the eighth and then taking three putts.

JACOBUS-KAESCHE WIN JERSEY GOLF

GLANCY AND PARKER SECOND

Trail by Two Strokes, While Kammer and Forrester Finish Third—Hackney-Risley Are Sixteenth.

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN RIDGE, N. J., Aug. 10.—George R. Jacobus and Max B. Kaesche of the Ridgewood Country Club, with a score of 132 for two rounds, led a stellar field of seventy-five teams at the Glen Ridge Country Club today for best-ball honors in the seventh annual professional-amateur championship of New Jersey.

Perfect team work this afternoon brought the winners in with a best ball of 64, the lowest score of the day, and lifted them from a tie for second, where they stood at noon, into first place by two strokes.

William Glancy and Herbert Parker of Spring Brook, who shared honors with the winners at mid-day, reeled off a 66 this afternoon to finish second. Next came Jack Forrester and August Kammer of Baltusrol with 69, 66—135. The Baltusrol pair got off poorly this morning, starting, 4, 5, 5, two over par for the first three holes, and before they had settled down they required a 36 to the turn, which in this field proved too many.

Hackney Team Far Down

Two of the favorite teams, Clarence Hackney, three-time State open champion, and Maurice Risley of Atlantic City and Johnny Golden of Ryder Cup fame and Paul Dunkel, representing North Jersey, made a disappointing showing, the former team finishing sixteenth and the North Jersey stars placing ninth.

At the end of the first round Craig Wood and Guy Mayer of Norwood were two strokes out in front of the field with 66. But their pair of 35s this afternoon was not good enough to hold their advantage and they slipped back into fourth position.

No smoother teamwork has been seen in a long time than was displayed this afternoon by Jacobus, youthful professional of Ridgewood, and his partner, Kaesche.

Only once did they falter, when Jacobus's second shot hit the flagpin and caromed over the green. This started them one over par, but a birdie 3 at the 455-yard third held down their card and they made the turn in 34.

New Jersey Open Today.

Most of today's field, with a few more added, will set out tomorrow after the New Jersey open crown, worn by Clarence Hackney of Atlantic City.

PRO GOLF DATE SHIFTED.

Changed From Late in November to Oct. 31 for Qualifying.

The dates of the Professional Golfers' Association championship at the Cedar Crest Country Club, Dallas, Texas, originally set for late November, have been changed, it was learned yesterday.

Instead of being played late in November, the tournament will be held during the first week of that month, the qualifying round on Oct. 31 and the final round on Nov. 5. The date on which the metropolitan district qualifying round will be played has not been set owing to the absence of Charles Mayo, Secretary of the local P. G. A.

Mayo is expected to return from England within a few days and the committee will meet and decide when and where the local test will be played. At the present time it looks as if the No. 4 course at Salisbury will be selected for the test.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

Copyright, 1927, by The New York Times Company.

JACK DELANEY tossed his light heavyweight crown out the window a short time ago and announced that he wished to be considered a registered heavyweight in future competition. The wisdom of this gesture will be tested this evening at the Yankee Stadium where the Bridgeport battler is scheduled to face Paulino, the wandering woodsman from the Pyrenees.

The Delaney forces are inclined to laugh at the Basque woodchopper, and perhaps they are right, but it would be just as well to defer any real outburst of hilarity until the argument is over. What if this queer bounder with the puzzling name should land a long overhand swing on the chin of Bridgeport's "mold of pugilistic fashion and glass of fighting form?" It isn't probable, but it is quite possible and it would leave J. Delaney Esq. in a sad predicament.

It will be remembered that the said Paulino had a recent meeting with Harry Wills, and that the said Wills took a hurried trip to the floor in the course of the evening. Jack Sharkey had a rather lengthy argument with this same Wills, and the Black Panther was still up and around when the referee disqualified him for any number of good reasons. It seems fair to assume that Paulino carries a punch and it is never safe to laugh at a man who carries a punch. He might land it.

A Curious System.

Judging from his bouts in this vicinity, Paulino's defense is of a peculiar and interesting type. Those blows that he doesn't block with his ribs he blocks with his chin. In the bout with Knute Hansen, he blocked mostly with his chin, and in his argument with Tom Heeney he blocked chiefly with his ribs. It didn't seem to make much difference.

Hansen managed to keep clear of Paulino's wild swings, but Heeney ran into one at the Garden and hit the floor so hard that his seconds looked under the ring to see if he had crashed through the platform. Being a chap of considerable courage, Heeney got up in due time and went back to work, but he made it his business to watch for flying furniture through the remainder of the evening.

It would be well for Jack Delaney to keep a sharp lookout in all directions when he gets into the ring tonight.

Another Puzzling Point.

There is another interesting problem with regard to the lumbering lumberman from the Pyrenees. Hansen hit him any number of rights and lefts on supposedly vital spots, and Paulino did nothing except grin. Heeney hacked away at him with enthusiasm and made no impression on the target. If the Basque was injured or even annoyed by these blows he kept the matter a dark secret. Which brings up the question: How hard does a man have to hit this Basque to bounce him at least once on the floor?

Perhaps Jack Delaney knows the answer. If he doesn't know it, the chances are that he won't make much progress in his hunt for heavyweight honors. There will be small credit in outpointing the Basque. Probably Benny Leonard could shed his coat and outpoint Señor Paulino in a brief bout, and Benny contemplates no assault on the heavyweight throne.

Delaney has a brisk bit of business before him. It isn't exactly a laughing matter for the Bridgeport boy. The last laugh might be given with a Spanish accent.

Muzzling the Loud-Speaker.

There was some sort of protest raised by the managers of Delaney and Paulino against broadcasting the fight at the Stadium this evening. Perhaps this was a move to gain publicity for the fight. If so, the object was attained. The coming clash between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney has overshadowed all other pugilistic events of the Summer season, and the Paulino-Delaney "ballyhoo" was languishing from lack of attention. The proposal to muzzle the loud-speaker was a happy thought from the point of view of publicity.

But if the fight managers are sincere in their belief that broadcasting has a frosty effect on the box office they are as far from the truth as Portland, Me., is from Portland, Ore. The radio has made sport fans of countless thousands—or is it millions?—who had little or no interest in Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey and other athletic heroes until the world's series, the big fights and other sport events were put on the air.

Back Home Again.

Incidentally, the Giants are with us again, and they are not the same Giants who were sliding and slipping all over the diamond a month or two ago. They began to play real baseball on their recent Western trip and the results were encouraging.

As it stands now, the Polo Grounders have an outside chance for the pennant and they intend to make the most of it. Hornsby, Roush, Terry and Jackson have been hitting the ball with great fervor, and the pitchers have been doing well. If the good work continues the Giants may close a large part of the gap that separates them from first position during their home stay below Coogan's Bluff.

Unless they accomplish at least that much, they will find the odds against them because they finish with a long trip through enemy territory. The time to cut into the lead is when the Western teams come tearing into the Polo Grounds within the next few weeks.

A Family Quarrel.

Those who were wondering why the Pirates haven't moved ahead with greater speed were enlightened to some extent when news came from Pittsburgh that "Kiki" Cuyler had been fined $50 for failing to slide into a base in a recent game. That one of the outstanding stars of the team should be disciplined for lack of effort is rather startling at this stage of the race. The Cubs have failed to "crack," and the Pirates will need all the energy they can muster to get home in front. If they don't pull together they will be on the outside looking in when the world's series is staged.

Family quarrels deprived the Pirates of a pennant last year. When team-mates are fighting each other they haven't much left over with which to repulse common enemies. A $50 fine may not mean much to Cuyler, but it may mean a loss of a $5,000 share of the series melon to everybody else on the club. Which is something to consider.

News of Metropolitan Golf Clubs.

Local clubs that may be seeking ideas for novelty events and tournaments on their links will find an interesting suggestion or experiment in a story which was enthusiastically discussed yesterday in the locker room of the Glen Ridge Club, where the New Jersey open is being played.

It seems that some time ago Harry Rountree, a British amateur, undertook to play the best ball of the well-known professionals, Duncan and Ray, on the condition that he receive an allowance of 150 yards to use when and as he desired during the round. Of course it looked like a cinch for the pros.

Duncan started, so the story goes, with a deuce. Rountree was twenty-five yards from the green on his tee shot, and he declared himself in, deducting 25 yards from the allowance, thereby winning the hole.

And so on he went taking most of the holes. Seldom did he hole out, always getting up within five or six feet on his first putt and calling it holed, deducting the distance from his remaining handicap. At the end, Rountree was something like fourteen up and he still had almost two-thirds of his allowance left.

After hearing the story Lester Palmer, Executive Secretary of the New Jersey association, announced that he would challenge Tommy Armour and Bobby Cruickshank, remarking that he hoped that neither Tommy nor Bobby would stop to figure out his chances.

It now looks as though the qualifying test for the metropolitan section of the P. G. A. championship would be held on the Salisbury links the latter part of next month. While the course hasn't actually been decided upon, it has been offered by J. J. Lannin and most of the pros are said to be in favor of the idea.

Westchester Biltmore golfers will have an opportunity tomorrow evening of witnessing six amateur boxing bouts in a special ring outside of the clubhouse.

Following the special two-ball mixed foursome tournament at the North Shore Country Club on Saturday, members will hold a moonlight dance.

The Ridgewood (N. J.) Country Club will stage its second Tin Whistle tournament on Saturday. Scoring will be on a point system, on the following basis: 3 points for each hole in par; 5 for each in one under par; 10 for each in 2 under. The player with the greatest number of points wins.

Next Wednesday the caddie masters of Westchester will have their chance on the links, for then they will meet at the Oak Ridge Golf Club at Tuckahoe for their annual championship.

Johnny Farrell, the Quaker Ridge star, has just concluded arrangements whereby he will tour with Tommy Armour, American and Canadian open champion, playing exhibition matches in the East and Middle West. Johnny will take Bobby Cruickshank's place as Tommy's playing mate until late Fall, when Bobby will resume with Tommy on a trip to the West Coast.

As a result of its junior membership plan which permits youngsters to play as junior members until they attain the age of twenty-seven, the Cherry Valley Club has just taken in a very fine golfer in young Neal Fulkerson, who has won several invitation tournaments around the district during the last few years, but who thus far has failed to develop his full possibilities as a golfer.

No doubt the change to Cherry Valley will do him good for there he will have plenty of opportunity to play with golfers capable of making him play as he can play when in the proper mood.

HUGUENOT JUNIORS WIN YACHTING TITLE

BAYSIDE TRIO IS PUT OUT

By SEABURY LAWRENCE.

Special to The New York Times.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Sailing home in a harassing finish with the Bayshore crew, the junior crew representing the Huguenot Yacht Club of New Rochelle was the winner today of the junior yacht racing championship of Long Island Sound by the narrow margin of 18 seconds, over a six-mile triangular course. It was a fine wind-up to a closely contested series, both boats in the final race being handled in a style that would have done credit to veteran helmsmen.

The Huguenot crew was made up of Louis Kenedy Jr., skipper; Frank Hekma and a third, very appropriately named sailor, Rushmore Mariner. Kenedy, 17 years old, and Hekma, 16, are both young skippers who have done good racing in the international six-meter class during the present season. Both the winning crew today and the runners-up will be sent to Marblehead late this month to take part in the Eastern Yacht Club junior title series.

By its victory the Huguenot crew takes the Pequot Trophy, emblematic of the junior championship of the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound, and the members of both crews that reached the final received medals.

Emory Is the Captain.

The Bayshore crew was made up of Lloyd Emory, captain; John Wilbur and Robert Baylis.

More fine weather favored the younger generation today, although the races were sailed in a light southerly breeze that made the clever handling of light sails almost necessary in the winning of races.

Some of the best racing of the series was seen in the closing combat of the championships. In order to reach the final the Bayshore crew defeated the American Yacht Club trio in two straight races, the second of which, sailed this morning, resulted in a close finish in which Bayshore beat out the Americans by 18 seconds.

All of the races were sailed over triangular courses of about six miles, which insured one windward leg in each race. Huguenot, which had beaten Cedarhurst yesterday to reach the semi-finals today, defeated the Bayshore crew in two straight heats to reach the final.

Kenedy's Crew Scores Easily.

The first contest was easy for the Huguenot trio, Skipper Kenedy's boat leading all the way and winning by almost a minute. These events were sailed in Victory boats. In the second race, however, the sloops were almost overlapped at the finish, a last-minute setting of the spinnaker by Kenedy getting his boat home in front of the Bayside boat.

After a rest the Huguenot and Bay Shore crews came out for the final, using interclub sloops. In the first of the final heats Skipper Kenedy's crew had the Wee Betty and the Bay Shore crew the Babette. These are two of the crack boats of the class.

The first race took the two sloops on a beat to a mark off Prospect Point on the Long Island shore, then a reach to the buoy northeast of Execution Light and another reach to the committee boat off Larchmont.

The Huguenot won this heat rather easily, working into a lead on the windward leg and holding her advantage to the finish, winning by almost a minute.

Following this, the crews changed boats, Huguenot taking the Babette and Bay Shore the Wee Betty for the second race.

Huguenot Boat in Lead.

The course was changed giving them a broad reach eastward from the committee boat to the Scotch Caps buoy, a windward leg to a mark off Weeks Point on the Long Island shore and a run to the finish line.

The Huguenot boat, after a luffing match, took the lead and rounded Scotch Caps 40 seconds ahead of the Bay Shore candidate. Both took a couple of tacks to make the weather mark out in the Sound and at the turn the Huguenot boat had increased her lead to 1 minute 5 seconds.

It seemed to be all over, but on the run with spinnakers for the finish line the Bay Shore sloop sailed down on top of the Babette until she was almost alongside. Then followed a long luffing match, with Babette taking the Bay Shore entry well to the westward, off the course.

Kenedy finally thought he had gone far enough, jibed his boom over and ran for the finish with his spinnaker drawing well. It was close, but Kenedy was able to hold his advantage and win by 18 seconds. There was a considerable gymnastic display on the winning boat after she had crossed the line and a great tooting of whistles by surrounding craft.

GOSSOON CAPTURES MANHASSET TROPHY

Wins Cup in Series of Races Staged Off Marblehead—Scores 28 Points.

PUFFIN FINISHES SECOND

Fails to Catch Up With Gossoon in Point Score, but Wins the Final Event.

Special to The New York Times.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 10.—The Puffin, representing the Indian Harbor Yacht Club of Greenwich, Conn., today won the final race for the Manhasset Bay challenge cup. The Puffin, owned by Junius Spencer Morgan, is generally believed to be the fastest light-weather 20-rater developed this season and the most dangerous contender that the Long Island Sound Class R yachtsmen have so far sent to Marblehead. The Puffin won a clear-cut victory over her nearest competitor for the historic trophy and by her victory finished second in the Manhasset Bay challenge cup competition of 1927.

The Puffin defeated Charles Francis Adams's Gossoon by 1 minute and 15 seconds today, but the Adams craft finishes the series as the winner. The famous yachting trophy reverts back to the Eastern Yacht Club, which first brought it to Marblehead after years of effort two years ago. The Gossoon with a first and two seconds made by far the best showing in the series and defeated the Puffin by four points.

The two boats which were forced to draw out of yesterday's race were able to race this morning. The Elies, fortunately, had a spare mast which had recently been replaced by the spare which was carried away yesterday. The repairs on the mast of the live Yankee were also completed before the start, although it took all-night work on the part of the yards to complete the tasks.

The boats started with spinnakers set but soon had them down. The Puffin got out ahead soon and reached very fast in the light airs. The live Yankee was in second place for a while, but fell back. The Gossoon then finished an easy second to the Puffin and clinched the trophy.

In the afternoon the Puffin and Gamecock competed in the Boston Yacht Clubs annual Marblehead midsummer race week regatta. A fleet of 285 boats was timed as crossing the starting line. Puffin finished third in the R Class.

Paulino Will Meet Delaney Tonight

DELANEY-PAULINO IN CLASH TONIGHT

Self-Deposed Light Heavy King and Basque to Meet at Yankee Stadium.

40,000 CROWD EXPECTED

Bridgeport Boxer Rules a 7-5 Favorite and on Form Figures to Win 15-Round Bout.

The last barrier to his entrance into the heavyweight field was removed yesterday when Delaney mailed to the State Athletic Commission his written surrender of his 175-pound title.

On the result of the bout tonight Delaney will either stand or fall. The contest is expected to attract a crowd of about 40,000 fight fans, and a gate of about $200,000. Interest in the event, though quiet, if surface observations count for anything, is expected to pick up with favorable weather today and a tremendous last-day sale is anticipated. The significance of the battle, its importance in relation to future activities among the heavyweights, and the popularity of the prospective ring rivals and the promise of one of the most exciting ring struggles of recent years, all combine to justify the expectation that a large crowd will witness the impending struggle.

Delaney yesterday ruled a favorite to beat Paulino, as he has practically since the match first was signed. The lad who surrendered his light-heavyweight title to seek the heavyweight honors was established the favorite at odds of 7 to 5, but there were indications of a rush of Paulino money which is expected in some quarters to hammer the odds down and send the rivals into the ring at even money.

Delaney Is Confident.

The result of the struggle means a lot to both principals. Delaney can go on to a battle with Jack Sharkey in Madison Square Garden this Winter in Promoter Tex Rickard's first heavyweight elimination for the 1928 season, if he beats Paulino. The Spaniard, on the other hand, will propel himself right into the Sharkey match if he accomplishes the downfall of Delaney. Both Delaney and Paulino, as well as Sharkey, are being held in reserve under agreements with Promoter Rickard as possible substitute material in the event of emergency overtaking the Tunney-Dempsey battle in Chicago on Sept. 22, so that an additional incentive for an exciting battle is provided.

Delaney will enter tonight's battle better equipped physically than he was the night he went down to defeat before Jim Maloney in the Garden, and with a renewed confidence in his ability to win. The Bridgeport ring idol has boxing speed and skill, hitting strength and accuracy and experience and resourcefulness on his side. He is one of the greatest right-hand hitters the ring has known in modern times. He is one of the most deliberate, cool, calculating boxers active today. He will match these requisites against the primitive strength, the unrequited courage and the unquenchable spirit for battle that Paulino boasts.

Whether the superb boxing and sharp, destructive hitting of Delaney can tame the man who has been nicknamed "the lion of the Pyrenees," or whether the wonderful fighting heart and tremendous strength of Paulino will determine the result, is the question which contributes not a little to the interest in the struggle. Delaney figures on form to win, but he will have to be a far different Delaney than the Delaney which faced Maloney in the Garden. Paulino's chances for victory rest in his ability to stand up under the sharp, crushing blows of his rival, or the tormenting, cutting jabs and hooks of Delaney, and weaken Delaney with the vicious drives of which Paulino is capable.

Both Men in Fine Shape.

Both boxers yesterday were reported in shape for the battle. Delaney came to town and, after mailing off his written surrender of the 175-pound title to the commission, went through a brisk workout of eight rounds in the gymnasium of the Garden. He was tanned a dark brown from his long siege of training in the New Hampshire woods and made a distinct impression on a crowd of about 800 as he skipped the rope for two rounds, punched the heavy bag for two rounds, shadowboxed and went through a session of calisthenics. In bag-punching Delaney twice sent the inflated leather sailing from its moorings under hard drives. After the workout Delaney weighed 176 pounds.

Paulino completed training at his camp in Summit, N. J., and his advisers expressed satisfaction with his condition. Manager Al Mayer was particularly pleased to be able to report that the boil on the Spaniard's right arm was healing rapidly and that the swelling to his left thumb was disappearing. Paulino was reported at 192 pounds, his normal weight.

The physical measurements of the men follow:

Delaney.		Paulino.
27	Age	20
170	Weight	192
5 ft. 11¼ inches.	Height	5 ft. 11 inches
41½	Chest Normal	42
46	Chest Expanded	46
31	Waist	32
7½	Wrist	8
14	Biceps	16
10	Ankle	10½
15	Thigh	22
13	Forearm	14
16½	Neck	17

The supporting card promises plenty of action. Dave Shade, crack California middleweight, is to battle Joe Anderson, another Westerner, in the ten-round semi-final. In the first ten-round bout Sammy Vogel, Harlem lightweight, will match his cleverness against the punch of Hilario Martinez, Spanish lightweight. Dick Fullam and Felix Sportelle are paired for the four-round opener.

7 BIKE RACES TOMORROW.

Georgetti Among Stars Who Will Compete at Velodrome.

Seven races are scheduled for the New York Velodrome tomorrow night. Four of the events will be for professionals and three for amateurs. What many consider to be the feature race will be the thirty-mile motor-paced event. In it Franco Georgetti, Theodore Wyndsau, Rene Boogmans and other well known riders will compete.

American Teams Will Develop A New Type of Soccer Attack

Plan to Use Combination of Carpet and Rushing Style of Game in Coming Season—Limitation on Importation of Foreign Stars Big Factor in Causing Shift in Method of Play.

With the soccer players of the various clubs getting in condition for the coming season, which is right at hand, and the importation of foreign stars being restricted, there is every indication that a great change will be seen in the brand of soccer put on view. This will be especially true in the pro clubs.

The great alteration is expected to be found in the attack. In the past, and right up to the close of last season, the leading clubs of the country, at least in the pro circuits, were relying mainly on the European style of play for goal scoring. The carpet game was in vogue, calling for an intricate system of passing which could be effectively operated only when each man taking part in the play was stationed at his post at precisely the right time. Thus, several men wove in and out of the play, the ball always advancing toward the enemy citadel.

Not always was the line of march a direct one. That would give the defending backs too good a chance to break it up, but there were short kicks to the side and others at an angle. The work was pleasing to the eye and when well done had a certain degree of deceptiveness that more often than not confused the opposing side to such an extent that the only effort to block the ball was that made by the goal-tender.

The first time this carpet game was shown in all its glory was two seasons ago when the St. Louis eleven, which held the Western championship, came East to Ebbets Field to play Bethlehem, Eastern champion, for the pro honors of the country. The East went in exclusively for the carpet game, and the West relied entirely on a strictly American attack—rushing the ball directly at the goal without resorting to intricate passing. The St. Louis players booted the ball for long gains, while the Easterners' kicks generally were short and low.

As the shortest distance between two goals is a straight line, it would seem that the Westerners, charging down the field, would have had the better chances of carrying off the game, but when the final whistle blew and the auditing of goals was completed, it was found that the East had outscored the West better than two to one. Experts gave some thought to the result, but it was agreed by all that the carpet-weaving manner of advancing the ball was the best, and would have to be adopted by all clubs with national championship aspirations.

To a marked degree that very thing was done, and last year two clubs employing this attack met in the final. Each had perfected a stout defense against the short-passing style, and the result was that neither side could break through very often, and the ball spent most of the game bouncing from toe to toe in the centre of the field. Not all of the spectators were elated over these tactics, and again the experts called a consultation.

Nothing tangible was done until the recent meeting of the International Football Federation in Europe, when the ruling was made concerning the transfer of pro players from one country to the other. The act deprived the United States of its opportunities to capture new foreign stars, and it immediately became obvious that the carpet style of play would take a slump here this year. The reasoning is only logical; the best exponents of the carpet game are Europeans, and with only a few additions from across the ocean to American teams, the play is bound to fall off in effectiveness.

What will follow is problematical, but it seems only reasonable to expect the new type of attack to be half-way between the European and American brands. That is, there will be some short and fast passing, but there will also be a large amount of direct-to-the-goal attacking. The new style will have a dash and daring that has not marked the European brand nor the old American style, and the result will be that soccer will be a faster game and will attract larger followings.

DEMPSEY WILL ASK FOR 15-ROUND BOUT

161,000 TICKETS ORDERED

Rickard Underestimated Capacity of Soldier Field—Gibson Inspects Training Sites.

A longer fight for the world's heavyweight title in Chicago on Sept. 22 and before a greater crowd than was at first calculated will materialize when Gene Tunney defends his championship against Jack Dempsey, if the expectations of Promoter Tex Rickard and Leo P. Flynn, manager of Dempsey, be fulfilled.

During a visit to Madison Square Garden yesterday Manager Flynn announced his intention of requesting the boxing authorities of Illinois to make an exception in the case of the Tunney-Dempsey quarrel and establish the maximum number of rounds at fifteen instead of ten. To accomplish this it would be necessary to revise the law by special session of the Illinois Legislature, since the statute now specifies ten as the maximum number of rounds. Manager Flynn was not concerned, apparently, with that more or less important detail. He announced he had wired Dempsey of his intention of seeking a fifteen-round battle.

Contrary to expectations Flynn is not going to Chicago Saturday with Promoter Rickard. The former champion's manager made this known yesterday, and it may or may not be significant.

Rickard had word yesterday from his headquarters in Chicago that tickets to the number of 161,000 will be printed for the fight. 11,000 in excess of the 150,000 Rickard originally calculated to be the maximum capacity at Soldier Field. The promoter added the conviction that the bout will be a sell-out, too.

Rickard also revealed that he has been advised an extra train will be provided over the New York Central for fight fans leaving this city for Chicago the day before the battle. The train will leave here at 5:45 P. M., Standard Time, and will be a twenty-hour train, with equipment similar to the Twentieth Century, which will leave in sections. The additional train, Rickard said, will leave Chicago for New York at midnight after the fight.

Gibson Inspects Sites.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP).—Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, started on a tour of inspection of prospective training camp sites for the world's heavyweight champion today, with indications that a spot would be chosen before the end of the week.

Gibson said the site he selected would be in the open country, preferably near a body of water and not too far away from a golf course. He visited Libertyville, a village forty miles northwest of Chicago, this afternoon, and also inspected Beverly Gardens, a roadhouse about twelve miles south of Chicago's business district.

The champion's manager was favorably impressed with Libertyville, which is a rolling farming country about six miles west of the Lake Michigan shore.

Gibson created somewhat of a surprise when he announced that no matter where the champion trained there would be no admission charge but that the public would be permitted to watch Gene in most of his workouts.

"It isn't worth the bother to charge admission," Gibson said. "Besides, there will be some days when Gene will want to work in private. We could not very well charge the fans one day and then close the gates the next."

Gibson expects to remain here several days and, after making his decision on a camp site, to return East and bring Tunney back. He said Tunney was in shape to step into the ring tomorrow if necessary, as he has been putting in a lot of good work at Speculator, N. Y.

NEWBURGH 200 WON BY MISS LINDSTROM

Captures Free Style Event in 2:32 1-5, and Also Takes 100 Yard Back Stroke.

MISS TWADELL IS VICTOR

Other Events Go to Miss Ursprung and Miss Lawson—Crowd of 10,000 Witnesses Program.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Two brilliant victories by Miss Lisa Lindstrom, fourteen-year-old star of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, featured a water carnival under the auspices of the Newburgh Chamber of Commerce, held over a 50-yard course in Orange Lake this afternoon before a crowd of 10,000. All contenders represented the New York Club.

Miss Lindstrom defeated in the 100-yard back stroke match Miss Elaine Delany, metropolitan outdoor champion at this style of swimming, gaining the decision by two yards in 1:22 1-5.

Then Miss Lindstrom came through from scratch in a 200-yard free style handicap in the remarkable time of 2:32 1-5, leading home by five yards Miss Eleanor Holm, the runner-up from the 5-second mark.

The 100-yard breast stroke handicap provided a surprise. Miss Dorie Lawson, allowed seven seconds, all but retained to the end her starting lead on Miss Eleanor Holm, the scratch girl, touching six yards ahead of the latter in 1:33 4-5.

Miss Ethel Ursprung and Miss Kathryn Brown provided a stirring duel in a 100-yard free style handicap. Miss Ursprung, at the honor post, overtook at 25 yards her rival, given a one-second start, and it was a neck and neck battle thereafter. Miss Ursprung won by inches in 1:12.

Miss Emma Twadell, an eleven-year-old water sprite, earned the laurels in a 200-yard handicap for girls under fourteen. Allowed thirty seconds, she swam in 3:31 3-5 and finished three yards ahead of Miss Edith Barnhart, in receipt of fourteen seconds, who was second.

The summaries:

200-Yard Swim (Handicap)—Won by Miss Lisa Lindstrom, W. S. A. (scratch); Miss Eleanor Holm, W. S. A. (5 seconds), second; Miss Eleanor Madigan, W. S. A. (11 seconds), third. Time—2:32 1-5.

100-Yard Swim (Handicap)—Won by Miss Ethel Ursprung, W. S. A. (scratch); Miss Kathryn Brown, W. S. A. (1 second), second; Miss Kathleen O'Neil, W. S. A. (3 seconds), third. Time—1:12.

100-Yard Breast-Stroke Swim (Handicap)—Won by Miss Dorie Lawson, W. S. A. (7 seconds); Miss Eleanor Holm, W. S. A. (scratch), second; Miss Kathleen O'Neil, W. S. A. (16 seconds), third. Time—1:33 1-5.

200-Yard Swim (girls under 14; handicap)—Won by Miss Emma Twadell, W. S. A. (30 seconds); Miss Edith Barnhart, W. S. A. (14 seconds), second; Miss Rita Brevetti, W. S. A. (scratch), third. Time—3:31 3-5.

100-Yard Back-Stroke Swim (Match)—Won by Miss Lisa Lindstrom, W. S. A.; Miss Elaine Delany, W. S. A., second. Time—1:22 1-5.

CLAIM RECORD FOR BORG.

Officials Clock Swimmer's Half Mile in 10:28.8 in Sweden.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 10 (AP).—Arne Borg, the Swedish swimmer, in swimming a half mile at Nassjo today, was clocked as covering the distance in 10 minutes, 28.8 seconds. Officials claim this to be a world's record.

HAGENLACHER IS VICTOR.

Beats McDonald, 400-117, in 18.2 Match and Has Lead of 1,600-370.

Eric Hagenlacher won the fourth block of his special exhibition 18.2 balkline billiard match with Joe McDonald at the Fourteenth Street Academy last night, 400 to 117, and stretched his lead to 1,600 to 370.

Hagenlacher is laying for 2,000 points against 700 for McDonald. Last night's encounter required eighteen innings, with Hagenlacher making a high run of 112 against one of 33 for McDonald. The final block will be played tonight.

COURTNEY STOPS GANS IN THE 10TH

ROBERTI STOPS O'CONNELL

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Georgie Courtney, Oklahoma's prevaricating young middleweight, knocked out Italian Joe Gans, Brooklyn veteran, last night in 1 minute and 22 seconds of the tenth and final round of their bout at Ebbets Field before a crowd of about 8,000 fight fans. If appearances count for anything, the outcome wrote finis to the Italian's career.

Fate decreed that the man who started Gans in his first fight eighteen years ago at the old Pelican A. C. must be the man to count over the Italian and to stay the hand of his conqueror. After Gans had struck pluckily at the count of seven, Courtney rushed across the ring with a left hook poised for the jaw, which never landed.

McAvoy, seeing Gans stagger broadly toward a neutral corner, in the evident belief that he was going to his own corner at the end of the round, grabbed Courtney's loose right wrist in a vise-like grip and swung the youngster out of position, to keep him from landing an unnecessary blow.

The fight was nothing from a competitive standpoint. It was notable only for the courageous stand Gans made and the unsuccessful efforts of Courtney to make short work of his rival.

Courtney, outboxed and outfought Gans all of the way, and won every round up to the finish.

Courtney weighed 158¼ pounds and Gans 159.

Referee Ends Semi-Final.

Harold Mayo, promising heavyweight of Bayonne, 177 pounds, knocked out Jack Roper, 191 pounds, Los Angeles heavyweight, in the eighth round of the scheduled ten-round semi-final. Referee Johnny Mario stopped this battle after forty-five seconds of the eighth round, when Roper was bleeding profusely from a severe cut on the lower lip.

The crowd didn't take kindly to the referee's intervention, but Mario acted wisely and timely, for Roper's injury became more dangerous as the bout progressed.

The rare spectacle of a substitute fighter going through to victory was furnished in the last of the ten-round events when Al (Rube) Goldberg, 124½ pounds, Bronx featherweight, hammered out a decision over Pancho Dencio, 121½, Filipino, in a slashing encounter.

Roberti Is Impressive.

Roberto Roberti, Italian giant, who has aspirations to the heavyweight title, made Daniel O'Connell, Celtic gladiator, his second victim in as many appearances here, when he knocked out O'Connell in the second round of their scheduled six-round encounter.

Referee Johnny McAvoy stopped this encounter after 1 minute and 27 seconds of the second round, when he was satisfied that O'Connell was outclassed.

In an emergency four-round battle which followed, Archie Cross, Niagara Falls light-heavyweight, knocked out George Berger of Bayonne in the third round.

The opening four-rounder brought together Joe Minal, Greenwich Village featherweight, and Mike Vindelle of the Bronx. It ended after 1 minute and 54 seconds of the first round when the referee stopped hostilities after Vindelle had been floored twice.

MARULLO BEATS McCARTHY.

Walker and Konchina Score First-Round Knockouts at New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 10 (AP).—Tony Marullo of New Orleans received the referee's decision here tonight over Pat McCarthy of Boston in a slow ten-round bout. Marullo weighed in at 174 and McCarthy at 183 pounds.

Al Walker of New Haven knocked out Al Schoener of Hartford in the first round of the semi-final. Schoener was substituting for Joe Ray of New York, who wired at the last moment that he had injured himself in training.

NELSON WANTS TO REFEREE

Former Lightweight Champion Seeks Job for Dempsey-Tunney Bout.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP).—Oscar Matthew (Battling) Nelson, once lightweight champion, and now one of the leading property owners of Hegewisch, a Chicago suburb, is among those who would like to referee the Tunney-Dempsey heavyweight championship battle on Soldier Field, Sept. 22.

Nat appeared before the State Athletic Commission today and applied for a referee's license.

Braddock Victor Over McLaughlin.

WEST NEW YORK, N. J., Aug. 10 (AP).—James J. Braddock of North Bergen, received the newspaper decision tonight over Vic McLaughlin, of New York, in a three ten-round bout here tonight. Braddock weighed 120 to 116 for McLaughlin. In the semi-final, Freddie Huber, of North Bergen, out-pointed Al Maresca, of Jersey City.

Benny Bass Outpoints Farr.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10 (AP).—Benny Bass of Philadelphia, featherweight, won the decision over Johnny Farr of Cleveland in a ten-round bout at the Olympic Arena here tonight. Sammy Dorfman of New York gained the decision over Tony Ross of Detroit in the eight-round semi-final. Dorfman, weighing 126, gave away 4½ pounds.

Hughes Portland Qualifying Leader.

PORTLAND, Maine, Aug. 10 (AP).—Arthur Hughes of Portland turned in the low qualifying score of 77 in the Maine amateur golf championship at the Portland Country Club course here today. Porter Wilson of York, defending champion, failed to make the championship division.

KFRC TO BROADCAST AIR RACE TO HAWAII

San Francisco Station Will Relay Reports From Ships on Progress of Planes.

TO STAY ON AIR ALL NIGHT

Musical Program Will Be Given Part of the Time—Baby Parade on Radio for First Time.

The radio audience will be kept in touch with the progress of the sixteen planes which will compete tomorrow in the Dole air race to Honolulu through Station KFRC, San Francisco. The planes will leave at noon from various California fields, and as they are signaled by ships along the route the information will be flashed to the various stations of the Radio Corporation of America on the Pacific Coast and in Hawaii, and thence to KFRC, where it will be broadcast.

The station will remain on the air throughout the day and night, providing a program of music from midnight Friday to 7 A. M. Saturday, which will be interrupted as information is received of the location of the competing planes. The broadcasting will continue until the conclusion of the race.

The annual baby parade at Asbury Park, Aug. 31, will be described over the radio by Graham McNamee, according to an announcement yesterday. This is said to be the first time a description of such an affair has been sent out to the radio audience. Mr. McNamee will be in the official box at Governor Moore.

In his description of the floats and burlesques he will pay particular attention to the musical divisions, which will include competitors from many districts for the national baby parade crown. This will help to keep interested persons informed regarding their home-town entrants.

A description of the heavyweight bout between Jack Delaney and Paulino Uzcudun will be broadcast direct from the Yankee Stadium by Station WABC. The station will go on the air at 9 o'clock and will carry accounts of the preliminaries. The announcers will be Louis Magnoli and James Lindy.

Federal Radio Commissioner O. H. Caldwell revealed yesterday that considerable radio interference was being experienced in the New York district through the intersection of the waves employed by the naval authorities, commercial radio companies and the broadcasting stations transmitting in the higher channels. "Numerous letters received by the Federal Radio Commission from broadcast listeners in the New York area," said Mr. Caldwell, "complain that their reception of programs from WEAF, WJZ and WMYC are continually being broken up by code messages transmitted from ships. On the other hand, the naval authorities in Washington report that their operators on ship and shore stations have repeatedly detected severe interference on the 600 meter wave, which they attribute to the upper channel broadcasters in New York."

CONTRACT AIR MAIL SHOWS HEAVY GAINS

Eleven Routes Carried 154,630 Pounds for $448,123 in Three Months.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Eleven contract air mail routes in the United States carried 154,630 pounds of mail during May, June and July, for which the contractors received $448,123.80. Postmaster General New said today that the figures showed big increases in both June and July over May, and that their success was significant when compared to the subsidized routes of Europe.

In May, 46,153 pounds of mail were carried, for which the contractors were paid $130,755.10. In June, 55,026 pounds were carried for $152,203.84, and in July, 53,533 pounds, for $145,153.86. The loss in July was accredited to the fact that the month had twenty-five business days, as compared with twenty-six in June. Notwithstanding that fact, July's receipts represented a 10.9 per cent. increase over May, while June receipts were 10.3 per cent. greater than those of May.

Statistics gathered by Second Assistant Postmaster General Glover show that the total postal matter handled by seven air mail companies operating from Le Bourget Field, Paris, in March this year, amounted to less than 900 pounds, while in April the total was 4,900 pounds.

The heaviest mail in the United States was on the route between Salt Lake City and Los Angeles, operated by the Western Air Express, Inc. In May, this route carried 15,213 pounds, which brought the contractor $45,682; June, 17,170 pounds, bringing $51,380.66, and July, 17,890 pounds, bringing $53,-171.13.

The figures for other routes were:

Boston to New York: contractor, Colonial Air Transport, Inc.—May, 1,690 pounds, $4,770.19; June, 2,803 pounds, $7,903.37; July, 2,222 pounds, $6,097.80.

Seattle to Los Angeles: Pacific Air Transport, Inc.—May, 5,325 pounds, $15,042.53; June, 6,196 pounds, $17,-643.26; July, 6,764 pounds, $18,648.82.

Chicago to Minneapolis: Northwest Airways, Inc.—May, 2,197 pounds, $5,831.12; June, 3,750 pounds, $7,866.-46; July, 2,505 pounds, $5,867.85.

Cleveland to Pittsburgh: Curtiss Ball—May, 1,769 pounds, $5,268.28; June, 1,902 pounds, $5,975.06; July, 2,206 pounds, $6,078.84.

Cheyenne to Pueblo: The Colorado Airways, Inc.—May, 2,978 pounds, $8,619.75; June, 2,443 pounds, $10,-528.62; July, 3,537 pounds, $10,809.97.

WARSAW, Aug. 10.—Kowarski, the youthful murderer of Soviet Minister Voikof two months ago, has been severely beaten by a Communist prisoner during the recreation hour in the Grandzen Penitentiary, Riwarski, who is serving a life sentence, was struck a number of times with a heavy iron rod before the guards came to his rescue. The assailant said he wanted to revenge Mr. Voikof's comrade's death and regretted the interference by the prison authorities.

WILD JOYRIDE IN TAXI ENDED BY POLICEMAN

Merrymakers Can't Drive, So the Prisoner From Another Car Tells Them How to Stop.

Three merrymakers were walking home, a bit unsteadily, yesterday morning, when at Fourth Avenue and Twenty-second Street Brooklyn, they came upon an empty yellow taxicab. The driver had left it to get a bite to eat in a restaurant.

"Look what I've found!" gleefully exclaimed Frank Wagner, 45 years old, of 119 Fulton Street, to his companions. The others were Benjamin Gelb, 41, of 313 Fifty-first Street, and Arthur Johnson, 32, of 210 Thirty-third Street. "Won't you have a ride with me?"

Undeterred by the fact that he had never driven an automobile, Wagner climbed into the driver's seat, while his cronies got into the car. They started cruising along Fourth Avenue until at Twenty-fourth Street Patrolman William Blackford ordered them to halt.

When they failed to do so Blackford commandeered another machine and set out in pursuit. He fired five shots in the air which had no effect, except to make the speeding cab zig-zag even more. At Forty-fifth Street he drew abreast of the cab and ordered Wagner to halt it.

"I don't know how," blithely replied the driver, according to Blackford. Not relishing blocks the broadside push by side, while Blackford gave cool instructions to the daring cab occupants as to where to steer. Then he escorted the trio to the Fourth Avenue Police Station, where they were booked on a charge of grand larceny. When its import dawned on the cab-stealers they were visibly indignant.

"If you found a pocketbook lying in the gutter, officer, you'd pick it up, wouldn't you?" demanded Johnson. "We found a taxi nobody wanted, so we picked it up."

Burglar Alarm Frustrates Robbers.

Burglars were frightened away from the home of Mrs. Julia A. Forbes, at 324 Riverside Drive, near 103d Street, shortly before seven o'clock yesterday morning when a burglar alarm of the Holmes Electric Protective Company was heard sounding outside the house. The intruders fled as the guards entered the house through the rear. The intruder was described as thin, dark-haired man. Nothing was reported missing from the house.

DR. WILLIAMS'S WILL LOST.

Widow Seeking Estate Says Chinese Mob Destroyed Document.

The mob of Chinese soldiers who killed Dr. John E. Williams, Vice President of Nanking University, and looted his home last March, also destroyed his will, according to his wife, Mrs. Edith Caldwell Williams, who applied in Surrogate's Court yesterday for letters of administration on her husband's $2,000 estate.

Mrs. Williams, who lives in Scarsdale, Mass., sets forth in her petition that she saw Dr. Williams's will in February of this year, and that it made her the beneficiary of the estate during her life and gave the remainder after her death to the four children. After the outrages on March 24, the petition says, Mrs. Williams searched the debris of the house, and also the American consulate, but could not find the will. Under the law she will inherit one-third of the estate, and the four children will share equally in two-thirds.

The children are Anna Faith, May 21; Beverly and Janet Ro Williams, who live with their mother in Anderson, Ind. The papers show that Dr. Williams was a resident of South Salem, Ohio.

TRAPPER GETS LIFE TERM.

Two Others in Louisiana Case Will Be Sentenced Friday.

FRANKLIN, La., Aug. 10 (AP).—James Hamlin, Morgan City trapper, was sentenced to life imprisonment today for his part in the murder of James H. Lamont. He will be executed in the State prison at Baton Rouge next week.

Mrs. Ada Dumas Lamont, widow of the slain man, and Dr. Thomas H. Dreher, who were found guilty without recommendation of mercy of the same charge Hamlin was convicted of, will be sentenced Friday.

Hamlin told the court he had nothing to say other than to express his thanks for the kindness that had been shown him during his imprisonment and trial. His wife, who threw the courtroom into an uproar with her screams when the verdict was returned, was not present today. Her two sisters, were two sisters of the trapper, said a nun.

NEW JERSEY DRYS LAUNCH VICE DRIVE

Charge Immunity in Newark Area Has Reached a Scale to Indicate Conspiracy.

An open letter to public officials in Essex County and Newark, from the Rev. Marvin S. Poulson, Superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, made public yesterday, charges that vice and immorality have "reached a scale which seems to indicate a conspiracy." The letter calls upon the officials to remedy conditions and names five places visited by Anti-Saloon League investigators at which it is charged that liquor was freely sold, bets accepted on horse races and there were disorderly back rooms. The letter concludes with the statement that it is not the province of the league to usurp the duties of elected officers by presenting evidence to the Grand Jury, but that the league will be glad to cooperate with the prosecuting force by supplying evidence gathered by its investigators.

The letters were sent to Sheriff Conrad Deutsch, County Prosecutor Joseph Smith, Chief of Police James Bryant and Director of Public Safety William J. Brennan, according to the Rev. Mr. Poulson, who made copies public. Note of the above officials had received the letter and each refused to comment.

The Rev. Mr. Poulson said the league would follow up the letter by other methods, and hoped to arouse the citizens to a realization of the liquor menace, gambling and prostitution in the county.

Denies Attempt on Saunds's Life

GUARDING EVERY RIGHT.

If any last legal recourse is still possible to SACCO and VANZETTI, the Massachusetts authorities should jealously guard their right to make use of it. This is not only the dictate of humane feeling, with two lives at stake; it is also the requirement of high and impartial justice. Execution of the law in this case ought to be buttressed by extreme care in guaranteeing to the condemned men every chance which the law affords. Further delay must not count against a purpose to exhaust all judicial remedies. It is for this reason that the decision to postpone the carrying out of the sentence until the final word is spoken by the highest tribunal will be welcomed by right-thinking men. That either the State court or the Federal will find a reason for reopening the case is altogether improbable; but let no door of hope be shut until it is absolutely necessary.

SMITH AND THE JUDGES.

Governor SMITH continues to give proof that he was sincere when he declared that he was going to stick to his knitting here in New York. His plain tale from the hills of Albany about the actual financial condition of the State gave his Republican opponents fresh cause for wrath and worry, but he has still more in store for them. He is going to keep his promise to campaign against their pet constitutional amendment extending the Governor's term of office to four years, but making the election fall in the years when a President of the United States is chosen. The Governor is to be the more free to devote himself to these large measures affecting the State Government, because he has just scored another triumph in bringing about a Democratic endorsement of Judge NOTT, and manoeuvring the Republican managers into a position where they could not refuse, in consistency, to promise their endorsement of two Democratic Judges in this city, and also of Judge O'BRIEN of the Court of Appeals. It has, to be sure, been carefully explained that Governor SMITH took no part "officially" in the negotiations leading to this change of front both by Tammany Hall and the Republican Committee of New York County, but everybody will have his private opinion about that.

The Executive Committee of Tammany Hall does not reverse itself so easily. It had rushed the matter, apparently as if to forestall action by the Governor, and had announced that it would not endorse the nomination of Judge NOTT, a Republican, and would put up a good Democrat for his place on the bench of the Court of General Sessions. This was undoubtedly in line with the general sentiment in Tammany Hall, where the district leaders are more and more insistent upon taking every office in sight, and are perfectly willing to classify a Judgeship with other toothsome morsels of political patronage. But even on the basis of a sharp bargain, Governor SMITH should have been able to persuade the Tammany leaders that they were getting more than they gave. This was, in fact, the thing about which the Republican politicians, and some Republican newspapers, protested when the Olvany offer was first made to them. They called it a three-to-one offer, with the odds against themselves. They are quite ready to look after Number One, but not if it involves letting their political enemies have numbers up to three. Yet their party managers had so enthusiastically taken up the issue of a non-partisan judiciary, which they thought could be used with great effect against the Democrats this year, that when the ground was suddenly cut from under their feet by the Olvany change of front there was nothing for them to do but throw up their hands, even if that meant turning down the corners of their mouths.

That the influence of Governor SMITH was at work in bringing about this result no one will really question. It will not make him any more popular in Tammany Hall, where often he has already been accused of not caring enough for distributing the spoils of office to faithful workers only too willing to receive them. But it emphasizes again his policy of independence and particular care in the selection of Judges, while it is also a promise that the principle of taking the judiciary out of politics, at least so far as concerns the higher courts, will not be wholly abandoned in this State, though a little time ago it looked as if it might be.

THE GREAT JERSEY DRAFT.

Nowhere has the tragicomedy, "I Choose Not," been heard amid a deeper outpour of audible tears than in New Jersey. Mr. COOLIDGE was unkind. He should have thought of his poor dependents in the Jerseys. State Chairman STOKES, one of three Republican candidates for Senator, was standing proudly on the platform of "sterling Republicanism and the continuation of "CALVIN COOLIDGE." But Mr. COOLIDGE decided to be discontinued. The solid part of Mr. STOKES's underpinning was suddenly snatched away. There he was, dangling his legs wildly in the air with nothing to cling to but that very thin support, "sterling Republicanism." Whose sterling Republicanism? Under what continuator of Mr. COOLIDGE?

To consider that in a practical way is to bring strife and division. There is only too much of these and fear of more when all the aspirants to the Republican nomination for Governor have "announced" after the special election this Fall. The other two candidates for the Senatorship, Mr. HAMILTON KEAN and "JOE" FRELINGHUYSEN, must be as deeply grieved. Mr. KEAN is abroad, perhaps in the Black Forest. Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN suffers in silence. Both must be tortured as severely as Mr. STOKES by the unfeeling behavior of the President. In a rare moment of humor Mr. STOKES cried for a Coolidge Draft Club. Doubtless his imagination heard already the tramp of hundreds of thousands of Jerseymen and Jerseywomen, full of the zeal of the Wide Awakes and shouting "Four, Four Years More of Coolidge!" by the sputtering torch's smoky light.

In the dog days the mere voter doesn't feel like volunteering to draft anybody to oblige his saintly leaders. So Senator EDGE, who is "with" Mr. STOKES, writes him a letter proposing that the Jersey delegation to the Republican National Convention be "friendly" to Mr. COOLIDGE's renomination. If Mr. COOLIDGE won't run, then the delegates are to have a free hand in selecting a candidate. That is, Mr. STOKES and Mr. EDGE would like to pick out the delegates so far as they can and be assured in advance that they will vote for the choice which the two statesmen have been good enough to arrive at. They must know perfectly well that Mr. COOLIDGE is out of the running. For purposes of future use and control it suits them to "play" that he isn't.

In August this sort of thing may pass, though a draught of ale or beer would look a good deal better than a draft club to many of Mr. EDGE's constituents. While it is hard to regard him as a "serious contender" for the nomination, he is known to be a man of high aspirations. Some of us have never had the old fervor for Jersey politics since 1920, when one ungenerous Republican of Hudson County withered the people's hope, and prevented the majestic union of all her Republican delegates for Mr. EDGE as a candidate for Vice President. Perhaps he was too great for that office. At any rate, he and Mr. STOKES are meritorious midsummer entertainers.

THE NAVAL PROGRAM.

The President has made plain his purpose to proceed with the moderate program of cruiser building which he had advocated before the calling of the Geneva conference. Even if Congress repeats its action of last Winter and favors a bigger navy than the President contemplates, there is no danger that Great Britain and the United States will enter upon a naval race as did Germany and England prior to the World War. As a matter of fact, the German pre-war naval program, although a contributing factor in hastening the outbreak of the World War, was only a reflection of Germany's general policy, which was whole-heartedly anti-British. The Germans built their larger navy in the hope that with it they might be able to force Great Britain into conceding Germany that "place in the sun" which the Kaiser and his militarists sought.

As was stressed by Foreign Minister CHAMBERLAIN and Ambassador GIBSON, there is no possibility of war between Great Britain and the United States. We have quarreled about manners, morals and methods, and shall continue to do so. We shall struggle for trade. But our interests are too closely linked to permit a real breach. The significance of American naval construction lies in its possible help in reaching an ultimate agreement with Great Britain on the matter of naval limitation. It is no secret that President WILSON'S naval program of 1916, which would have given to the United States ultimate naval supremacy, facilitated the calling of the Washington conference. Great Britain wished to see America's battleship construction curtailed. She therefore consented to the abolition of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, and accepted in exchange the theory of equality between the two navies by which the United States surrendered the Wilson-Daniels program of naval construction.

In other words, at Washington there was the basis of compromise. The Powers made concessions in return for value received. At Geneva the United States was in the unhappy position of having much to ask and little to give. Great Britain was called on to make the sacrifices. The outcome is now common knowledge. But if, before the next conference convenes, it becomes obvious that America is prepared to meet her naval needs, and perhaps even to carry out the wishes of the big-navy enthusiasts, it will be easier for the American Government to come to an understanding with the British about the principle of limitation on a basis of equality.

It has been made clear by the Geneva conference that the United States and Great Britain have not the same naval needs. Great Britain's naval bases, scattered throughout the globe, make it possible for her to get along with small cruisers, of which she wants many. America, because of her widely separated bases, needs larger vessels with a greater steaming radius. It is this type that will now be constructed. The President is understood to be willing to see funds appropriated for five of the eight already contracted for. It is reported from Washington that a total of eighteen will be finished by 1935. It is one of the paradoxes of international politics that it is sometimes necessary to arm in order to be able to disarm.

THE ROAD TO JERICHO.

Dr. THOMAS JESSE JONES, whose "four simples" have been recommended for the improvement of the intellectual, social and economic as well as physical health of mankind, presented some statistics at the meeting of the World Federation of Education Associations at Toronto which are startling in themselves and also put pointedly the question that evoked the parable associated with the road to Jericho "Who is my neighbor?". Expanded, this becomes a series of questions about the responsibility of the individual, the community, the nation, the nations together, in view of what these statistics reveal. The man in the parable was "left half dead," but it appears that there are whole peoples who live only half as long as others and in that sense are relatively in as bad a way as the individual who fell among thieves.

These statistics show that, in 1922, the death rate in New Zealand was 8.6; in the United States 11.8; in England and Wales 12.8; in France 17.5; in Spain 20.4; in Japan 22.3; in Ceylon 27.8; and in Chile 28.4. Furthermore, the average length of life in the United States for 1920 was 56.3 years; in Sweden 55.7 for 1901-1910; in England and Wales 53.4 for 1910-1912; in France 47.4 for 1898-1903; and in India 22.9 for 1901-1911. The question naturally is why the death rate in Ceylon and Chile is approximately three times that of New Zealand and why the average length of life in the United States and Sweden is more than twice that of India. Climatic conditions furnish some reasons for the difference, but it has been demonstrated that notable reductions can be effected in the death rate, as in India and the African colonies, by the agency of modern medicine and changed social organization. Once the reasons for these differences are known, there follows upon the heels of the first question another as to the duty of those acquainted with and possessed of health-saving and life-prolonging medical agencies to share at least the knowledge of them with others. Those on the other side of the road are in as sad a plight without it as if they had actually been left half dead by others. Such organized efforts as those of the Mission Boards, the American Red Cross, the Rockefeller Foundation, are a few of the indications of the practical answer which America is making privately or with Government encouragement.

While health and length of life are basic tests, they are not, after all, the full guarantees of equality in opportunity. At present 16 per cent. of the population of the earth (the 250 millions in Western Europe, the United States, Canada, the white people of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa) are through their schools, as Dr. JONES states, "determining the method and objectives of education for the remaining 84 per cent." (1,500 millions), who are "hectically demanding education." This demand does not seem to be so universal as his general statement suggests, but there is none the less the obligation to offer universally what education can give. This makes it all the more important that the educational methods of these minority millions should be sound. Out of this meeting of the men and women who represent the 250 millions there should emerge a group of the highest authorities in the countries whose systems they represent to recanvass the method and content, of elementary education at least, in order that the best that has anywhere come to be may be offered to all.

THE RIGHT OF FREE HECKLING.

In England the Home Secretary has been asked to protect public meetings from being broken up by organized rowdyism. A case of that kind occurred recently at Canning Town, and the victim of it, who was so interrupted that he could not make his speech, proposes that the law be changed so as to permit of police interference on such occasions. All that Captain O'CONNOR, who was howled down, asks is that the Chairman of such a gathering should have the right to call in the police to aid him in maintaining order, even though there be no actual breach of the peace. Such a plan would be in accord with American practice. Our theory is that if a party or an organization has "hired a hall," the meeting belongs to it, and the police will, on demand, eject persons who attempt to prevent speakers from getting a hearing, or who seek to break up the procedure by disorderly noises. But in England such a course is regarded as so revolutionary that it is considered highly improbable that anything will be done to interfere with the right of anybody at any meeting to ask questions or shout disapproval.

It is the ancient British theory that all kinds of talk in public should be allowed, so long as there is no overt act of violence. This is the idea of the "safety valve." Let interrupters blow off their own heads, provided they do not endeavor to break the head of anybody else. Moreover, some old political campaigners hold the view that it is an advantage to have opponents rise at the back of the hall to ask questions or make a disturbance. That gives the candidate a chance to show his good nature, as also his tact in handling a difficult situation and his skill in replying to the queries intended to entrap him. Furthermore, if groups of political enemies break up meetings unfairly, and make themselves in the eyes of the public a general nuisance, they are apt only to win votes for the man against whom they are making a dead set.

It is feared in England that the police could not safely be charged with the duty of deciding whether uproarious conduct at a public meeting is disorderly. The feeling is that it is better to let the main body of the audience pass on such things. Penalties for misconduct of the kind are better imposed at the polls than in a magistrate's court. The strong probability is that, unless manifestations of the sort seen at Canning Town become more clearly planned in advance and more outrageous in their nature, nothing will be done to prevent the political heckler in England from having a free course to run and glorify himself as has been the immemorial custom.

FOSTER'S LATEST MEMORIAL.

If Bardstown, Ky., ever sees The Associated Press dispatch sent from Fletcher, N. C., on Tuesday, there will be an old-fashioned uprising. For that dispatch told of ceremonies attendant upon the "dedication of "the first memorial honoring "STEPHEN COLLINS FOSTER." Just outside Bardstown is the old Rowan mansion, "Federal Hill," where FOSTER wrote "My Old Kentucky Home" and other songs, and this house for some years has been a Foster memorial and museum. In fact, the first Catholic cathedral west of the Alleghanies, where Bishop JOSEPH FLAGET was the shepherd, with its Murillos and the altar cloth presented by the King of the French, is no more prized a distinction of Bardstown than is Federal Hill. The little seat of Nelson County is proud of having had JOHN FITCH for citizen and Colonel RICHARD M. JOHNSON, Tecumseh's slayer, for sage; but the natives are very likely to show first to tourists the house where the famous Southern melodies were written by the wanderer from Western Pennsylvania, whose music has become immortal.

However spurious the claims of Fletcher, N. C., to primacy in memorials, the dispatch was interesting in proving anew how sentimental is a large body of the American public. For it relates that FOSTER'S songs were taken up by many voices and wafted over the Blue Ridge toward that very Kentucky which gave him much of his inspiration. Over those same mountains, to that same Kaintuckee, which in Cherokee "meanes Ye Darke and Bloodye "Ground," went the famous Carolinian, DANIEL BOONE, and the songs that arose at Fletcher but followed his path of discovery over the Wilderness Trail to the fort at Boonesborough and the battle at the Blue Licks.

NOISE AND NERVES.

Machines for registering the din of Manhattan have disclosed the fact that the corner of Thirty-fourth Street and Sixth Avenue is the noisiest spot in the city, but nothing has yet been discovered to reduce the racket there or anywhere else. In due time doctors and the city health authorities will doubtless attack the problem, for they will realize before any one else the injurious effects of noise. Some sensitive persons are aware of traffic noise as a source of part of their fatigue at the end of a day in bedlam, but many, whose nervous systems are affected equally, do not realize that noise as much as visible strain is responsible. A correspondent of The London Times, who has pondered the subject, compares the action of noise and of bad air on the nerves and consciousness of the victims. People in a badly ventilated room notice at first that the air is vitiated, but after a time they breathe the foul air with little or no apparent discomfort. Nevertheless, they are certain to feel a gradual depression, due to the poison they inhale. Similarly, people inured to the clang and rattle of the city do not appear to suffer from it, but they are perhaps worn by it without being conscious of the primary cause of their fatigue.

An illustration from the writings of an English economist is cited: "The fact that noise does not pre- "duce any visible effect on the human body possibly blinds the general public to the injury that it "inflicts. We can all of us see the "damage done if a man gets a "punch in the face which gives him "a black eye, but we do not see the "permanent injury done to human "nerves by the constant noise to "which we are all subject under "modern conditions of life." With the normal person this is probably true. But in the case of invalids, convalescents in hospitals, infants and children the effects are often as easily observable as an outer discoloration. To them the passing traffic, tooting, twittering, screaming, clanging, is as "sensible to feeling as to sight." The sick do not improve rapidly when they are subject to the constant shock of grinding sound, and babies are cross and ailing unless they get quiet hours for healthful sleep. When in such cases we see recuperation delayed and sometimes the life of a patient dependent on silence, it is easier to understand how normal people are affected by noise, even when they do not complain of it or feel its effects immediately.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The Finest in Their Finest.

The revival of Commissioner ENRIGHT'S squad of policemen in evening dress is cheering to the esthetic sense. Presumably all the details of perfection have been attended to and no lingering eccentricity of sock or handkerchief or betraying official shoe mars the effect. Inspection of cabarets is among the duties of these sociologists. The doormen of these palaces, as the frequency of arrests seems to show, are easily impressed. They will now have a chance to see an imitation which is "the real thing."

Acquisition of "information" and not arrest, save to maintain order, is said to be the main purpose of the Ten. Such an assignment is distinctly educational, and the assignees must enjoy their duties. One would like to go with them. Where, for instance, will "society crooks" be found crooking their elbows or fascinating their victims? Prevention of loitering on Broadway and side streets is one task of the Ten. That gives us a queer sidelight on the high civilization of our Bagdad. Even its loafers are best dispersed by authority clad in quiet splendor.

It is to be regretted that the Ten are not visible in their collective comeliness. Each member goes about his business by himself. That is a necessary policy, but it robs the public of a collective pleasure.

Light From the Hoosier Poet.

In the search of dictionaries and study of dialects forced by President COOLIDGE'S announcement, one source of information seems to have been overlooked. It is the poets, especially the homely poets, who record the common speech of the common people.

Bearing this in mind, The Colorado Springs Gazette thought it apposite to quote the following lines from JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY'S poem, "Mylo Jones's Wife":

Mylo's wife don't see no use,
Nor no reason nor excuse
For his pore relations to
Many round like they allus do!
There 'bout once a year—and she—
She jest ga'nts 'em, folks tell me,
On spend-yearin'—Paw Mylo one,
He says "No, he don't chase none!"

This may not be the highest lexicographical authority, but it is interesting in itself, and also as an evidence that forms of New England speech filtered their way into Indiana.

A Puzzle for Passengers.

Perhaps what the world really needs, after all, is not a good 5-cent cigar, but higher taxicab rates. The average user of taxi service has given little thought to its real problems, and while he is willing to pay a fair rate is inclined to have a sneaking preference for the low-rate cab. But if he is to be converted to the cause of higher fares he must be served with better logic than some recently handed out.

The Taxi Weekly urges that high-rate meters last longer, as they make only three 10-cent drops to the mile, as against four 5-cent clicks. Let the taxi-riding public rally round and save the meters!

Then there are a few independent owners and one or two large companies that refuse to raise their rates, so that every one else must operate cabs on the low rate to be competitive. Let the man who rides in one urge these offenders to be so good as to raise their charges.

Next we meet a test of the patron's powers of reasoning. It is said that taxi drivers are "practically starving." Something certainly should be done about that. But The Taxi Weekly explains that higher rates will mean more returns for owners of cabs and even less for the drivers. The reason is "somewhat involved," but it is due to the fact that drivers are allowed 40 per cent. of the fare by the owners.

When a passenger takes, say, a 25-cent journey in a low-rate cab he usually tips the driver another 25 cents. Thus, out of the 50 cents the owner gets 15 cents, while the driver gets 35. At the higher rate, if the meter reads 40 cents the passenger probably tips only a dime. Then the owner gets 24 cents out of the same total, 50 cents, while the driver gets 26 cents, instead of the 35 on which he is now practically starving. It is a mathematical argument hard to follow.

Prophesying Fashions in August.

Fashion writers report from Paris that "it is difficult to say offhand" what are the outstanding features of the shows now in progress. All the new models for Fall and Winter are on display and they are described in generous detail. But after a careful reading to discover what the women of New York will wear next season the ordinary person is quite at a loss, and even the experts admit themselves baffled.

Skirts are short, straight and slim.
Skirts gain in fullness.
Velvets are much used.
Metal materials are used for evening, daytime, sports, dinner and dance frocks.
Simplicity of cut characterizes many models.
Tiers, flounces, pleats and ruffles are lavishly used.

One might go on through the entire list of dressmakers' jargon and find similar contrasts in the recent dispatches from the openings. The American consumer, panting to learn the facts from the prophets, may believe anything she likes at the present moment and will perhaps think that this year she can really dress to suit herself. But she will find, when the French fashions arrive, that in some mysterious way one or two styles have become predominant, and all the others have quietly disappeared.

Auto Horns and Accidents.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The report in THE TIMES of the number of persons killed and injured by automobiles leads me to write the results of some observations I have made relating to that subject.

I live on the corner of two intersecting streets, and while sitting on my piazza have been able to observe the practice of drivers. Some drivers, on approaching the corner, slow down to see if the way is clear. They do not use the horn, and it is this point I wish to stress. Others keep on at full speed, commence blowing the horn when 200 or more feet from the corner and without slowing down make the crossing. This latter method is very common with truck drivers, and the reports show it is the truck that causes most of the accidents.

From my piazza I have seen many narrow escapes, and invariably they have been the result of using the horn instead of slowing up. Without the horn, drivers would run slower. This abuse of the horn can be observed on any thoroughfare at any time.

The Prince and the Bible.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The central idea in the short speech made by the Prince of Wales at the dedication of the International Peace Bridge was the injunction to "seek peace and pursue it." THE TIMES besides printing the Prince's speech in full singled out the sentence containing this sentiment for special display, yet, peculiarly, neither THE TIMES nor any of the several newspapers which I saw appeared to recognize that the Prince's sentiment was not original but is quoted from the Bible. Psalm 34, verse 14, reads, "Depart from evil, and do good; seek peace and pursue it."

It may be that his Royal Highness would rather have it known that he knows his Bible well enough to quote it than be credited merely with the coining of a neat phrase.

CITY CATS.

Off to the woods,
Fragrant of many kinds
Of gay, green trees,
Where sleek, lithe squirrels leap,
And chipmunks' little hands
Hold up plump berries to their small, sharp teeth.
I cannot stay
Where from each alleyway
Creeps a lean, hungry cat with piteous eyes.
Garbage enough, you'd say,
Lying about, rotting by night and day
In this great foul, neglected town;
But still
So many suffering, hungry eyes,
Yellow and green,
Starving for food and for one kind caress;
So many pitiful ribs
Scarce covered by the coat of sorry fur,
Mewing grown faint, heartrending—
I must go
Where peace and plenty dwell!
And yet,
Watching the squirrels hide their store of nuts
With deft, quick motions;
Seeing the shining fish
Swim in clear water—
Underneath that brake
The shadows haunted by a myriad eyes,
I feel and know
And never can forget
How in the town
Lean alley cats are slinking to and fro.

HANDICAPS OF ADVISERS.

Sacco-Vanzetti Commission Had to Give "All or None" Opinion.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many of your readers must have noticed your editorial expression of regret in the case of Governor Fuller's decision on Sacco and Vanzetti and must have felt surprised at your subsequent endorsement of the Advisory Committee's report. Inasmuch as the two editorials dealt with the same Sacco-Vanzetti case, one might jump to the conclusion that there is an inconsistency or at least a change of heart. To us, however, it would seem that both of your editorials ought to be taken as expressing honest and true opinion; in fact, it is only by accepting both of these opinions as true and by putting them together side by side that one comes to appreciate the real tragedy of the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

An honest doubt as to the complete proof of the guilt of Sacco and Vanzetti—this is what your first editorial expressed. An honest belief in the judicial sincerity and courage of the Advisory Comittee—this is what your other editorial expressed. For our part we accept as our own both of these opinions.

But how is it possible, one might ask, for honest doubt of guilt to exist side by side with the endorsement of a report which dooms the two anarchists to death? Do not these two opinions concern the same case? Yes, the same case; but the issues raised by these two opinions do not join. In expressing doubt as to the complete proof of guilt, we believe you had the feeling that in a conviction on the evidence of the Sacco-Vanzetti case, with the subsequent discovery of doubts, a Court of Appeals in New York would be inclined to overrule the original verdict and grant a new trial at least.

Why, then, did not the Advisory Committee take this view? Because the Advisory Committee could not put itself in the place of a New York Court of Appeals. The task of the committee could not be dissociated from the seven years' history of Massachusetts justice. An ordinary Court of Appeals, acting under ordinary circumstances and in the honest performance of its duty, could overrule a verdict in a case where the weight of circumstantial evidence was for conviction. It could do this without in any way passing judgment on the previous administration of justice. The Advisory Committee could not have had such a free hand. We do not mean to say that the committee was in any way politically influenced, but we do say that the committee could not express a doubt as to the complete proof of guilt of the accused without at the same time directly condemning the Massachusetts administration of justice. Under those circumstances its verdict had to be—in all honesty—an all or none verdict. In this respect the verdict was necessarily different from what it might have been were the case reviewed in abstract equity.

In other words, it is possible for a decision on the Sacco-Vanzetti case, taken in abstraction, to be one thing, and a decision on the same case, taken not in abstraction but in all its concrete historical context, to be a totally different thing. Something of the same principle is found exemplified in a certain class of decisions by the United States Supreme Court. Were the Court able to decide on an isolated instance and without the responsibility of setting a constitutional and legal precedent, it might render a verdict in a particular case altogether different from the verdict which it in fact does render. The Court would decide honestly in both cases, but the two cases would not be the same. The weight of rational evidence determining the decision would be different in the two cases, although the two cases would, by our hypothesis, deal with the same actual event.

Herein lies the tragedy of the Sacco-Vanzetti decision. It is a decision comparable to that rendered by a military court. And we know that a verdict determined by military responsibilities is often shocking to the simple humanitarian conscience.

Aid Needed for Sick Children.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May we appeal to the public on behalf of Save-a-Life at Nyack-on-Hudson?

This camp is intended for children in delicate health who are not sent home when the usual two weeks are over, but are retained all Summer if their health requires it.

We have seventy-nine acres of land, cows, chickens and vegetables and fruit, so that we can give our poor little charges many advantages, but to the generous public we must turn for funds to continue our work. Contributions sent to Madonna House, 173 Cherry Street, will be gratefully acknowledged.

Hymn of Prayer, Not Praise, Wanted

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The announcement in THE TIMES of Aug. 1 that the Hymn Society is offering a prize of $100 for the best hymn for airmen submitted before Oct. 12, has resulted in the submitting to me of many hymns.

Some of the contestants have evidently been misled by the headline of the story, which implied that the contest was for hymns singing the praises of aviators. The real purpose of the contest, however, is to produce hymns addressed to God on behalf of the men who fly, and somewhat analogous to the many hymns we now sing for those in peril on the sea, such as William Whiting's "Eternal Father, Strong to Save," and thus to strike a new note in our American hymnody which will be distinctly modern.

Advice From the Past.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May it be well for those who control our relations with other countries, among whom, at present, we find it difficult to recognize a friend, to bear in mind the following caution written in 1788.

The world had seen America "great in adversity," preparing "to enjoy in her own land, * * * the sweet of her labors, and the reward of her toil."

"In this situation," wrote the author of "The American Oriole," "may she never forget that a fair national reputation is of as much importance as independence. That it possesses a charm that wins upon the world, and makes even enemies civil."

ROCKEFELLER VISITS SCENES OF BOYHOOD

Points to Place in the Finger Lakes Where He Earned His First Money.

LESSON OF A TURKEY HEN

By Finding Her Stolen Away He Learned to Turn Waste Into Profit.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP).—John D. Rockefeller today came back to the scenes of his boyhood among the Finger Lakes and took motion pictures of three of his former homes and familiar spots where he earned his first money, learned to swim and caught perch with a bent pin rig.

"I'm coming back every year as long as I live and am able," he promised, "but if infirmities prevent, I will have these pictures to refresh fond memories."

Mr. Rockefeller this noon at Cascade, on Owasco Lake, dined on lake trout out of the waters in which he fished as a boy under 10. And after eating, he held up the start back long enough to be photographed with the chef, who, he said, "had broiled those beauties just like mother used to do over there across the lake."

Last night Mr. Rockefeller and a party of five spent in Owego, three miles east of which he lived from 1849 to 1853. This morning he visited his old home there, went on to another humble abode, where he was born, on Old Michigan Hill, four miles from Richford, and then motored up to Moravia, near Owasco Lake. He visited the spot on the east shore of the lake where he lived from 1843 to 1849 in a house burned two years ago when used by a convict road camp. Tonight he will again sleep in the land of his boyhood in Owego, and tomorrow will depart for Pocantico Hills, north of Tarrytown, stopping at noon at Roscoe.

Scene of His First Deal.

At Cascade he told a correspondent of the habits of industry he learned as a boy on Owasco Lake, pointing across the waters to the sunlit hills beyond. He indicated a little woods.

"That's the place I started my first business transaction," he said. "Into that woods as a boy of 9 I saw a turkey hen stealing away. For days I hunted her nest, and when I found it, mother said I might have the hen and chicken for my own. She fed them curds from the milk, and kitchen scraps. One of my life's hardest tasks was keeping those chicks from drowning in heavy rains. But that Fall I sold them in Moravia market, earned my first money and put it in a china dish on the mantel as the start toward independence. Finding the turkey hen taught me my first lessons in recovering property which otherwise would have gone to waste and nursing it along into paying a profit."

Mr. Rockefeller declared he had no fears for the younger generation, as contrasted to the harder life of his own boyhood. "They will come home all right," he declared, and reminiscently recalled earlier days when he had his daily tasks of weeding the garden, milking the cow, keeping the woodboxes filled and chopping kindling.

"I remember well the Winter nights when gales across old Owasco sent snow sifting through the walls of my upstairs room. Father used to buy the cutting rights to woodlands, and many a day we boys were awakened of a Winter's morning when the gang was starting for the woods, with no lights but the stars and a lantern, and the brittle snow squealing under the runners of the sleds."

A Thrill of His Boyhood.

Then he pointed toward the south. "Over there I got the thrill of my young life when a deer burst from the woods, followed by hounds, and swam to safety across the lake," he explained.

Mr. Rockefeller said he received his first schooling on Owasco's shores.

"Father did much toward providing a district school there," he explained. "To find the middle of the district he drove from the north to the south boundary and counted the number of times the buggy wheel turned. Then he drove back for half as many revolutions, stopped and there located the plain frame school house. Sunday school was held in the same place."

Mr. Rockefeller today found the years are taking their toll in the land of his boyhood. He visited the home of Deor Van Arsdale, who owned the old Rockefeller home on Owasco, and whose tenant house had been the Rockefeller homestead. Van Arsdale died a month ago. Mr. Rockefeller found his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John P. O'Hara, away on a trip. But the landmarks he knew so well were there to greet him under a smiling sky.

The customary dimes, new and shiny, were dispensed by the oil man to all he met, with one too for every near relative of the recipient.

"I will never buy these old Finger Lakes homes of mine," he said. "Sentiment that surrounds them cannot be purchased, and is not a thing for cash. To me they're all home, whoever the owner."

COLLEGES TO GET ESTATE.

Princeton and Vassar to Share Under S. W. Baldwin's Will.

Under the terms of the will of the late Samuel W. Baldwin, Vice President of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, filed with Surrogate Gifford at Newark yesterday, the residue of an estate valued at $500,000 is divided between Princeton University and Vassar College. Cash bequests of $319,000 are made to friends, business associates and relatives.

Mr. Baldwin, who lived in East Orange, died at his home July 18, after a long illness. He was a bachelor and was in his seventy-sixth year.

Mrs. Louise C. Blodgett, ward of Mr. Baldwin's deceased sister, receives $30,000 in addition to a trust fund which he created, and Lucy Upton, daughter of the late Francis Upton, a close friend of Mr. Baldwin, receives $50,000. The Orange Free Library, Orange Orphans' Home, Orange Y. M. C. A., Bureau of Associated Charities of Orange, New Jersey Orthopedic Hospital and Dispensary of Orange, Job Haines Homes for Aged Persons, Newark Y. M. C. A., Newark Y. W. C. A., Home for Crippled Children and Essex County Homeopathic Hospital received $10,000 each.

LIVERMORE CHILDREN SAIL.

Brother and Sister Go Third-Class "Because It's Adventurous."

"Just to save money," and "because you meet lots of nice people and because it's adventurous," Miss Hope Livermore of 1,105 Park Avenue and her brother Philip sailed last night in the third class of the Cunarder Berengaria for Europe and a visit to 12-year-old Francesca Livermore, who is at school in Switzerland.

The brother and sister on their way abroad are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Livermore. Mr. Livermore is a broker formerly of the firm of Morgan, Livermore & Co. of 71 Broadway. Miss Livermore, who is 20 years old, was accompanied by Miss Hilda Hiley, a friend. She expressed no regret that she had not booked first class, which Mayor Walker is traveling. "Don't tell the Cunard Line anything about it, but I expect to spend lots of time in the first class anyhow," she said.

ARMOUR IS UNCHANGED.

Report on Packer, Ill in London, Is Not Optimistic.

Special Cable to Chicago Tribune.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Today's report from the London branch of the Armour Company, concerning the condition of J. Ogden Armour, who is seriously ill at the Carleton Hotel, remains not optimistic. The packer's condition is unchanged. His temperature is high on some days and low on others. He is able to take nourishment but is forbidden to see anybody except Mrs. Armour and his daughter and son-in-law who are here indefinitely.

Attending physicians who include the celebrated Lord Dawson of Penn, King's physician, hoped a few weeks ago that it would be possible for the Armours to journey to the Riviera to aid Mr. Armour's convalescence, but his condition has not permitted his removal.

JUDGE TRIEBER IN HOSPITAL

Suffering From Infection in Hand, He Is Reported Improved.

Federal Judge Jacob Trieber, before whom investigation of construction restriction by trade unions is being conducted, was reported yesterday to be in an improved condition at the Presbyterian Hospital at Madison Avenue and Seventieth Street, where he is suffering from an infection following a severe cut in his hand received last week. Hospital attaches refused further information. His physician, Dr. Walter P. Anderton of 120 East Seventy-first Street, also declined to discuss the condition of his patient.

The hearing of the stone union is scheduled to be resumed today, following an adjournment to allow the Judge to receive hospital treatment.

An Acknowledgment.

SAYS YALE-IN-CHINA WILL CONTINUE WORK

Secretary Tells the Northfield Conference That Anarchy May Delay It.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST NORTHFIELD, Mass., Aug. 10.—In spite of "an international war of the greatest magnitude threatened today by anarchy in China," the trustees of Yale-in-China have formally expressed their good-will toward the Chinese people and will resume their work there at the first opportunity, Dr. Edwin D. Harvey, Secretary of the Board of Trustees of Yale-in-China, announced at the Northfield General Conference here today.

His statement was as follows:

"The Trustees of Yale-in-China at their last meeting put on formal record their cordial good-will toward the Chinese people in their present distress and their intention of carrying on and reopening at the earliest possible opportunity."

Dr. Harvey was the speaker at the morning meeting.

"China has been in anarchy for the last fifteen years," he said.

"There are not any civil guarantees in China. They don't exist. If I lived in safety with my wife and children for fifteen years in China it was because American civil rights prevailed over me."

"Chinese students who come to this country do not appreciate the good done by the intervention of foreign nations," he stated. "The various public utilities run by foreign nations have been of untold good to the Chinese people. The common people of China are much better off than they would have been with no intercourse with foreigners. The standard of living in China has been raised before my own eyes during the past fifteen years."

"Social tendencies in the world today are superficial," Dr. Harvey maintained. "Our age is one of great superficial change which is taking place all over the globe. China is in no way exempt from these social drifts. There is no cause for alarm, but many grounds for seeking as full an understanding of the social movements over there as it is possible to obtain."

MARSHALL B. LLOYD, LOOM INVENTOR, DIES

Device to Weave Fiber Brought Him the Title of "Baby-Carriage King."

MENOMINEE, Mich., Aug. 10 (AP).—Marshall B. Lloyd, wealthy manufacturer and nationally known as the inventor of the Lloyd loom, died late last night of heart disease, after an illness of two weeks.

Credited with revolutionizing three industries through his inventions, Mr. Lloyd was better known as the inventor of a loom for weaving fibre furniture, by which baby carriages are made.

It was this invention which brought him his greatest wealth, although he realized $800,000 in the sale of his patents on a process for making steel tubing. Antedating both of these was the invention of a machine for weaving bed springs.

The loom for weaving fibre furniture was invented in 1917 and transformed the industry. Making a baby's carriage constituted a full day's work for a hand weaver, but Mr. Lloyd's loom turned out one every eighteen minutes.

Mr. Lloyd, who was 69 years old, became known as the "baby carriage king" and American rights to the patent were sold by him a few years ago for $3,000,000. His inventions totaled 200.

A widow, two brothers and a sister survive.

Mr. Lloyd was born in St. Paul, Minn., on March 10, 1858, and was educated in the public schools of Meaford, Canada. At one time he was a mail carrier with a dog train between Port Arthur and Pigeon River, in Canada. He started as a waiter, and then bought and sold land until he had saved some money. His first invention was a combination baggage holder and scale for farmers. It was not until 1900 that he founded in Minneapolis the Lloyd Manufacturing Company. Later the business was moved to Menominee, Mich., a city which he served as Mayor from 1913 to 1917.

In 1920 Mr. Lloyd married Mrs. Hourisette Pollen, 58 years old, of 209 Taylor Street, Orange, N. J. The marriage, which took place in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, resulted from an acquaintanceship begun a short time before in Florida, where Mr. Lloyd was spending the winter. They first met in a novelty shop where Mrs. Lloyd was working. Her manner in waiting on him immediately won his interest, he told reporters at the wedding here. He gave her a wedding present of $150,000.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Hazlehurst.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Hazlehurst, 85 years old, cousin of Walt Whitman, the poet, died Tuesday at her home, 219 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, after a long illness. She was born in Brooklyn, the daughter of the late Jarvis and Susannah Wood.

Mrs. Hazlehurst was a charter member of the Classon Avenue Presbyterian Church, and although she had been confined to her home in her later years she continued to be active in church work, writing hymns. She is survived by a daughter, Ora J. Hazlehurst, and a niece, Mrs. James W. Hazlehurst. Services, at which one of her hymns will be read, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

M. J. Mullaney, Hotel Man, Dies.

Special to The New York Times.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 10.—Matthew J. Mullaney, 67 years old, widely known in the hotel world for his Baltimore, Washington and Cumberland connections, died of acute indigestion at his Windsor Hotel, of which he was the owner, shortly before midnight. He leaves one brother, Henry Mullaney, manager of the Windsor, and one sister, Mrs. Mary Ann Crowley. He was unmarried. He began his career as clerk in the old Howard House, Baltimore. Later he was with the then famous Guys Hotel and also with the old Eutaw House. Mr. Mullaney borrowed the money with which he bought the Windsor Hotel here.

Century Old Skeleton Found.

Workmen employed by the Consolidated Telegraph and Electric Company unearthed a human skeleton yesterday while digging a trench for a new conduit cable on Catharine Street between Henry and Madison Streets. The skeleton, believed to be about a century old, was removed to the Oak Street Station and later to the Morgue.

REINHARDT VISIT DEPENDS ON KAHN

Miller Arranges to Bring the Salzburg Festival Players to New York if Backer Approves.

STAR WANTS TO FLY HERE

By LINCOLN EYRE.

Copyright, 1927, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SALZBURG, Austria, Aug. 10.—Gilbert Miller left here today with his bride for Paris without having completed his negotiations for the appearance of a German repertory ensemble under the direction of Max Reinhardt in New York this Fall.

A "treaty" between the Lord of Leopoldskron and the American manager who desires to succeed Morris Gest as Reinhardt's overseas mentor has been signed but not ratified.

Mr. Miller is awaiting a cable from Otto Kahn, financial backer of the Reinhardt enterprise, approving or rejecting the contemplated contract. A decision should be reached by the time the impresario reaches Paris on Friday.

Meanwhile, Reinhardt is facing fresh and sensational trouble in another quarter. Alexander Moissi, interpreter of the title part in "Everyman" and principal star of the stellar aggregation the Austrian producer means to take across the Atlantic, wants to fly to America.

In my presence today Moissi told Jay Kaufman, his American representative, just before the latter's departure with Mr. Miller, that he was determined to traverse the ocean either with one of the German fliers planning the long flight or aboard the Columbia with Charles A. Levine.

"Please get Levine to take me," the actor pleaded.

Mr. Kaufman retorted that he would do nothing of the kind and sternly forbade his protégé to do any flying whatever.

"There is nothing in my contract that prevents my traveling by air," Moissi rejoined, adding that he had good reason to believe that he could make the trip for a Berlin newspaper on one of the German machines.

When he heard of Moissi's strange craving to soar over the Atlantic, Reinhardt took him severely to task. Moissi stands pat, however, and insists that as soon as ever his engagement at the festival is over he will go to Berlin to arrange for an air passage to America.

He showed me a letter from a leading German editor, promising to accept his services as a transatlantic flight reporter if the newspaper concerned backed one of the German airplanes.

"I am very fond of flying and dislike steamships, so why should I not fly to America?" Moissi asked.

When reminded that some slight risks still attached to this form of transportation, he exclaimed:

"Nothing can happen to me! I am a fatalist who is destined to die of old age in bed."

He remarked that in the war, through which he fought in the Austrian Army, buttons on each side of his cap and one button on his tunic were shot off almost simultaneously by machine guns without any injury whatever to himself. Since then he has been absolutely immune from accidents, he added.

In New York Moissi will appear in Tolstoi's "Libendi Leichnam," which he has played 1,300 times all over Europe, and as Danton in "Danton's Tod."

Besides the high reputation which he enjoys as Reinhardt's foremost male collaborator, Moissi is Germany's most popular matinee idol.

If the contract tentatively signed with Mr. Miller is ratified, New York may expect to see at the end of October the Festival productions of "Midsummer Night's Dream," of which Mr. Miller spoke most enthusiastically before his departure, and other Salzburg offerings.

The visit is to last eight weeks and the acting to be in German.

ACTORS TO BURY WATCHMAN

Fred Baker Served as Stage Doorkeeper at Lyceum for 20 Years.

Because he left no relatives, and no worldly possessions except the clothes he wore and thirty-eight cents, Fred Baker, for two decades night watchman and stage door keeper of the Lyceum Theatre, will be buried this morning by the Actors' Fund of America.

In 1903, Baker, then about forty years old, went to work at the Lyceum. The theatre had just been opened and was the talk of the town. After five years he became watchman and door keeper. Every night for twenty years he started his twelve-hour shift just as the audiences began to file into the auditorium and the actors and actresses who rushed by his door to their dressing rooms always had a word for him.

From midnight until he was relieved by the day watchman, Charles Gorman, Baker remained alone in the theatre, regularly making his rounds of the eight stories of the building. Baker did not mind the loneliness, Gorman said yesterday, and often used to stay around several hours after he was relieved to chat with any one who might drop into the little office. In these conversations he refused to talk of himself, and the result is that now, since his death, he has become something of a mysterious character.

HONORS FOR CAPT. GLEESON

240 Sailors to Form Escort at Funeral of Navy Chaplain.

A special guard of honor, composed of 240 sailors of the Navy Yard in Brooklyn, will act as a naval escort at the funeral of Captain Matthew G. Gleeson, retired United States Navy chaplain who died Monday night at the hospital in the Navy Yard of heart disease. The funeral services are to be conducted tomorrow at 11 A. M. in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Manhattan, when a solemn high requiem mass will be celebrated.

The funeral guard will be commanded by Captain William B. Wells, commander of the United States receiving ship Pueblo, now at the Navy Yard.

Interment is to be in St. Raymond's Cemetery, the Bronx, immediately after the services. Full naval honors will be accorded to Captain Gleeson, including the playing of taps and the firing of the regulation naval salute by the guard of honor.

Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, Commandant of the Navy Yard, will head a delegation of senior officers at the funeral.

HAROLD BARCROFT WHITE.

Former European Director of Ford Company Is Dead.

Harold Barcroft White, who died here on Aug. 3, lived many years in Paris as the continental director of the Ford Motor Company. At the outbreak of the war he equipped the chassis of a dozen Ford cars as ambulances, making the bodies of packing boxes covered with khaki tarpaulin. These he gave to the French Government, which decorated him.

Later he set out for this country, carrying to Havre valuable papers entrusted to him. On his arrival in Detroit Mr. Ford is said to have asked him why he had come home. "It will all be over in three months." Mr. Ford is reported to have said. Mr. White replied, "If it is over in three years we shall be fortunate." Mr. White leaves a wife and two sons.

KING OF 100 WIVES, SISOWATH, IS DEAD

WAS CALLED OLDEST RULER

Succeeded Brother in 1904 and Was Crowned in 1906—Aided France in World War.

Copyright, 1927, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PNOM-PENH, Cambodia, Aug. 10.—King Sisowath of Cambodia died this evening.

He was 87 years old and had more than 100 wives. For many years he was "Second King" of his country, but in 1904 succeeded his brother as "First King" and was crowned with elaborate ceremony in 1906.

Some months later he came to France with a large assortment of his wives, who composed the palace ballet. He lived a happy life among a happy people. Toward France he was always loyal and during the war he gave great assistance in recruiting laborers and soldiers for France.

At the time of his death King Sisowath was credited with being the world's oldest monarch. His eighty-fourth birthday was celebrated with great pomp. He lived in his capital city of Pnom-Penh, within a walled enclosure, served by several hundred women.

The kings of Cambodia have enjoyed little authority since the country became a French protectorate in 1863. King Sisowath was virtually a figurehead, approving the decrees of the council under the French protectorate.

WOOD'S LAST PLEA FOR LEPERS TOLD

Letter Written by Late General Is Used in Drive for $2,000,000 Fund.

1,000 CURES IN PHILIPPINES

Work Begun by Governor General Before His Death to Be Continued, Says Harbord.

One of the last letters written by Major Gen. Leonard Wood before he died was an appeal for funds with which to fight leprosy at the Government's leper colony at Culion, in the Philippines.

General Wood, whose earliest triumphs were won in the fight against tropical diseases in Cuba, was the leader in the last year of his life of an anti-leprosy campaign. In this country it took the form of an appeal for $2,000,000. His letter was made public yesterday, with a statement by Major Gen. James G. Harbord, National Chairman of the Leprosy Eradication Fund, promising that the campaign would go on to a successful conclusion, regardless of General Wood's death.

The letter was dictated by General Wood on July 25, and copies were sent to various wealthy individuals and philanthropic organizations which might contribute money for the fight against leprosy. In it the General said:

"One of my reasons for coming to America at the present time, my first return to the States since becoming Governor General six years ago, is to aid in every way possible the efforts being made to secure funds to provide adequate equipment and personnel not only for the treatment but also for the scientific and research work in the battle we are waging against leprosy.

"During the last few years astonishing and most encouraging progress has been made in combating this terrible scourge. At Culion, under the American flag, where we have the largest leper colony in the world, more than 1,000 cases have been cured. It is my firm belief that if we can promptly secure $2,000,000 for expenditure over a number of years we shall be able to eradicate leprosy in the Philippines as we have yellow fever, smallpox and cholera. Our methods will be available for the treatment of the 3,000,000 lepers in other countries, and thereby a world-wide cure for leprosy can be made possible.

"The Philippine Government generously supports the Culion colony to the extent of 2 per cent. of the total governmental income, and cannot do more. Nevertheless, we are greatly handicapped by lack of funds for necessary equipment and personnel with which to combat the disease in the most effective manner."

After appealing for contributions, large or small, the letter said: "I know of no appeal that has ever been made in a more worthy cause than this one for the aid of these lepers."

In his statement General Harbord said: "As National Chairman, I bespeak the support and assistance of the people not only for these unfortunate beings but also as a testimonial to the late Governor General Wood, as this was one of the works which he had nearest to his heart and which he stated must be completed for the good of the world at large."

CUBA TO HONOR GEN. WOOD.

Machado Will Erect Monument in Memory of Former Governor.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 10 (AP).—President Machado is to take immediate steps for the erection of a monument to the memory of General Leonard Wood in gratitude for his services to the people of Cuba during his term of office as Governor General of the island. No definite design for the memorial has been decided upon, says an announcement from the Presidential palace.

Flags at Morro Castle and all Government buildings were at half-staff yesterday for the funeral of General Wood in Arlington. Messages of condolence were sent to Mrs. Wood from the two houses of the Cuban Congress.

MANILA, Aug. 10.—Thousands attended the memorial rites for Governor General Wood held at the Cathedral of St. Mary and St. John. Vice Governor Eugene A. Gilmore returned this morning from an inspection trip in the south and immediately issued a proclamation extolling General Wood and ordering a thirty-day period of mourning.

Elaborate preparations are being made for a memorial service Saturday on Burnham Green. Thousands are expected to attend from all over the Philippines.

Speculation is rife here as to General Wood's successor.

Would Name Fund for Gen. Wood.

MANILA, Aug. 10 (AP).—A suggestion that the $2,000,000 leprosy relief fund be named "The Leonard Wood Memorial," in honor of the Governor-General of the Philippines who died Sunday, was cabled today by Acting Governor Eugene A. Gilmore to Major Gen. James G. Harbord, National Chairman of the Philippine Leprosy Eradication Drive.

FREE HAND FOR M'KEE TO ACT IN MILK GRAFT

Walker Empowers Acting Mayor to Follow Up Kelby Findings While He Is Abroad.

TO PROSECUTE 4 DEALERS

Harris Regards the Inquiry as Foundation for Thorough Housecleaning.

HYLAN DEFENDS HIS REGIME

Republicans, Criticizing "Inexcusable Delay," Again Insist That Smith Order State Inquiry.

Joseph V. McKee, who, as President of the Board of Aldermen, assumes the duties of Acting Mayor today, will take such action with reference to the Kelby report on conditions in the Health Department as Mayor Walker would have taken, had he stayed in the city.

The Mayor announced this last evening just before he left the City Hall, when he was asked to comment on the so-called "milk" report, upon which comments had come during the day from Health Commissioner Harris, former Mayor Hylan, the Republican State Committee and others. Mayor Walker said:

"The report of Judge Kelby is a very able document. I intended, were I not making this trip, to take up the matter with the Health Commissioner to ascertain what the conditions are now in his department, and also to question the various District Attorneys in the four counties affected as to what could be done to press this matter, I, of course, would not ask who might be indicted or for any confidential information, but I would have sought general information as to the progress to be expected—information that the Mayor should have in order that every possible benefit might be had from the Kelby report.

"As I am going away, of course I cannot do these things. I am therefore asking Mr. McKee to take up the matter for me and I think I can safely say that he will confer with Dr. Harris and the District Attorneys in about four days. He is to be here tomorrow."

Commissioner Harris made it known that new criminal and civil actions would be started in the near future against four milk dealers, three in Manhattan and one in Brooklyn, for illegal sales of milk last November and in February of this year. The offenses last Fall were apparently committed at the time that Ogden L. Mills, then a candidate for Governor, was assailing Governor Smith in connection with the alleged impure milk business in this city. It was as a result of those allegations regarding "bootlegged" milk that Mayor Walker appointed Judge Kelby as special investigator.

To Reorganize Health Department.

Referring to the Kelby report, Commissioner Harris said:

"It is a judicial, painstaking and dispassionate appraisal of the situation. The survey did not omit any lead or clue which came either to the investigator or to myself. I regard the report as a foundation for a thorough reorganization and upbuilding of the Health Department. I am glad to say that there remains in the department a large nucleus of efficient workers who, now that they are no longer associated with crooks, many of whom I have fired during the early period of my administration, provide an excellent starting point for a real clean Health Department.

"I will not consider that we have profited by these exposures until the final reorganization has been put into effect. I hope that will be accomplished by the first of the year. My present budget has been prepared with that in mind. I am serving notice that my budget represents an attempt to make the Health Department conform to decent standards."

Later Mayor Walker was asked about this reorganization, but he declined to discuss it further than to say that necessarily it involved the question of appropriations and that he did not intend even to think of appropriations on his vacation.

Urges Other States to Help.

Dr. Harris said with reference to the milk "bootlegging" that New York would be safer if the health authorities could get better cooperation from the authorities of neighboring States, particularly New Jersey. The source of supply of the four dealers he contemplates prosecuting, he said, is a dealer who was driven out of this city and is now doing business in New Jersey. The product he handled was sent to Manhattan, the Commissioner said, in moving vans. The vans were stopped by inspectors last February. It took three months' work to disclose this activity, which had been carried on, Dr. Harris said, without the connivance of any one in the Health Department. Officers of the four companies, Dr. Harris said, pleaded guilty before him to selling "bootleg" milk, and he is now awaiting the return of the department's legal officer before bringing suits, which may begin in about a month.

In New York County action on the Kelby report is to await the return to the city of Chief Assistant District Attorney Pecora. In Brooklyn yesterday District Attorney Dodd received a copy of the Kelby document and said he would start at once to study it and the evidence preparatory to bringing cases to the Grand Jury if his findings warrant such action.

In the Bronx, District Attorney McGeehan said he had the report and the supporting data, but it was in such volume that it would take several days for him to determine what he should do regarding it.

There was only one case sent to Queens County, according to the report of Judge Kelby, and on this Acting District Attorney James A. Dayton said yesterday:

"The letter seems to intimate that the abstract contains only data relating to an alleged criminal offense for which Thomas J. Clougher is now under indictment in Queens County. Clougher is now in prison and no action will be taken on that indictment until his release. I will send an Assistant District Attorney to Mayor Walker's office in Manhattan to study the evidence accompanying Justice Kelby's report to see if any further indictments against other men in Queens might be obtained."

Oliver B. James, Acting Attorney General of the State, took cognizance yesterday of the part of the Kelby report which made reference to the possibility of illegal combinations in restraint of trade in the food business, over which the Health Department has supervision. He wrote Justice Kelby, in part:

"The report refers to various alleged illegal combinations in restraint of trade. We shall be glad to be advised by you of any more specific information or testimony which you may have with reference to such illegal combinations. I know that I need not assure you of the Attorney General's readiness to act in a matter so vital to the health of the city."

A letter of similar purport was sent by Mr. James to Health Commissioner Harris.

Ex-Mayor Hylan's Statement.

Former Mayor Hylan yesterday issued a statement on the Kelby report. It began:

"During my Administration everything possible was done to root out graft. Under the Smith-Walker-Harris administration of the Health Department Harry Danziger was grafting from some people in the Bronx and caught with the goods."

The former Mayor said Danziger was "promised immunity if he would squeal on others" and promised leniency to involve people in his, Hylan's, Administration. Mr. Hylan also said:

"During the course of the investigation, I understand, they came across information that would involve Smith's friends and Walker's friends, but of course these people seem to be immune. When Kelby says that graft started only ten years ago he knows better. Grafters work into every Administration. One will not have to go very far to find out that it is going on right now in the present Administration."

The Republican State Committee, criticizing the Kelby report and asking what Governor Smith was going to do about it, combined with its own statement that of the Citizens Union of the night before. The statement of the Republican organization read:

"Inexcusable delay, emphasizing the need for thoroughgoing investigation by the Attorney General of New York State, is the most obvious result of the long awaited milk-graft report made public by Charles H. Kelby, after twelve months of secret consideration.

"This step has been recommended to Governor Smith for the fourth time by the Citizens Union as the only method by which the truth about adulterated food and milk graft in New York City will ever be uncovered and guilty high officials punished.

"Ex-Justice Kelby confirms graft reports that have been current in the press for over two years and does little else.

"This is not a satisfactory disposition of a subject which has been evaded and sidetracked by Tammany Hall through the city campaign of 1925 and the Gubernatorial battle of 1926, the latter showing wholesale technical violations of the then existing sanitary code consisting of adulteration of the milk supply of New York City."

FORD SAYS NEW CAR HAS 65-MILE SPEED

Calls It an "Accomplished Fact," but More Testing Is to Be Policy.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich. Aug. 10.—Definite assurance that the "new Ford automobile is an accomplished fact" was made today in an official announcement by Edsel B. Ford.

The statement said that the new machine had made sixty-five miles an hour in tests.

"The new Ford automobile is now an accomplished fact," the announcement says. "The engineering problems affecting its design and equipment and affecting also its manufacture have all been solved. But before a single car of the new type is offered for sale to the public, each part will have been tested under every condition which we have been able to discover in more than twenty years of building automobiles for use all over the world.

"We know also what is needed as to personnel and factory equipment in order to produce these new Ford cars in greater numbers than any manufacturer has ever attempted before. The work of retooling our plants throughout the country to prepare for the heaviest production schedule we have ever undertaken, is now nearly complete.

"We haven't discovered any faults in the finished new Ford car, but we are taking nothing for granted. If there are any faults, they shall be found and remedied before any of the cars are offered for sale.

"Some of the things we have discovered already in the tests of these new cars are interesting. We have accomplished with them a speed of 65 miles per hour—which is slightly higher than we expected.

"We have found that they can be driven for hours at an average speed of more than 50 miles per hour without discomfort to driver and passengers, and without harm to motor and other equipment. In a recent test, one of these new cars was driven 110 miles in two hours. During the first half hour, the car traveled twenty-seven miles. The car covered exactly 56.1 miles the first hour of the trip.

"This test was made over average road conditions. Part of the route lay through level country and part through hilly country, where the roads were steep and winding. The day on which the test was made was somewhat warmer than the average Summer day in this part of the country, but the motor was not overheated during the run and examination of the motor at the conclusion of the run disclosed no ill effects. The car consumed less gasoline and oil during the test than any of our previous models we have put to similar tests. The ignition, cooling and carburetion systems performed perfectly throughout the trip.

"We have tested this new car for get-away and pick-up with many other types of automobiles and have found that it surpasses all of them, with one exception, in quick starting and acceleration. The tests already made show that it is faster, smoother, more rugged and more flexible than we had hoped for in the early stages of designing."

Two trunks containing opium worth $125,000 were seized in the baggage room of the Grand Central Station last night by three customs agents and two detectives of Inspector Lahey's staff, who said they were part of a shipment of eight such trunks which had been smuggled into the country from Turkey.

Michael J. Collins, Henry H. Noble and Casimo Ranelli of the customs and Detectives James Brady and Robert Morris made the seizure, after watching the trunks for ten days, first in a hotel and then at the station, hoping to arrest their owners. They said the six other trunks were moved to other cities.

MAYOR WALKER OFF FOR EUROPEAN TOUR

IN HAPPY FRAME OF MIND

Several Hundred Friends Bid Him Farewell—Guest of Sir Arthur Rostron at Luncheon.

Mayor Walker with Mrs. Walker and a party of friends sailed early this morning on the Cunarder Berengaria for a vacation in Europe, which will include visits to England, Ireland, France, Germany, Italy and Switzerland.

The Mayor was escorted to the pier shortly before 11 o'clock by a detail of motorcycle policemen and received by officials of the department, while music and songs were rendered by the Fire Department Band and the Police Glee Club. He was entertained during the day at luncheon on the Berengaria with Mrs. Walker by Captain Sir Arthur H. Rostron, master of the ship, a personal friend. He said good-bye to the officials at the City Hall at 5:30 in the afternoon.

The Mayor and Mrs. Walker were much pleased with the imperial suite on the port side of the C deck, which is exactly like the suite on the starboard side that was occupied by Queen Marie and the Prince of Wales.

It was decorated with the American flag and those of the countries he is going to visit. More than 300 city officials and personal friends were at the ship to see the Mayor depart. They were received in the gallery of the main dining saloon because, as the Executive said about his suite, "This sitting room is as big as that of a hotel suite, but if forty big men got in here and anchored, the rest of the crowd would have to stay outside." Mrs. Walker used the room to receive her intimate friends who came to say good-bye.

Mayor Makes Farewell Talk.

After spending a few moments in the captain's cabin, Mayor Walker went to the lounge on the "A" deck, preceded by Grover Whalen, and mounted on the concert platform. The room was crowded. The Police Glee Club sang "Away to Rio," an old sea shanty, and "Jimmy," after which the Mayor made a short farewell speech, which was broadcast over Station WNYC.

The Mayor raised his first laugh with the remark that he never had seen so many people on a dock in North River to thank a man for going away. The chief object of his trip abroad, he said, was to be present at the opening of the international convention of the Legionaires in Paris on Sept. 19 with General Pershing and then to visit the tombs of his ancestors in Ireland.

"I shall meet thousands of the boys who went over ten years ago to the war. I hope I will be able to impress people abroad with the dignity of that city I love the best, the wonderful City of New York."

The Mayor later said he hoped to meet President von Hindenberg in Berlin and other distinguished men.

Notables at the Reception.

Among the notables present at the reception were Judge Max Levine, Police Commissioner Warren, First Deputy Police Commissioner Hoyt, Fire Commissioner Dorman, Commissioner of Accounts Higgins, Richard C. Patterson, Jr., the newly appointed Commissioner of Correction; George W. Olvany, Tammany leader; Deputy Fire Commissioner Joseph M. Harmon, Edwin Stanton, the Mayor's secretary; Grover T. Whalen and many others.

A cable dispatch was received saying that Mayor Boyer of Southampton and United States Consul Savage will cross to Cherbourg and travel on the Berengaria with Mayor Walker across the Channel.

A number of officials will accompany Mayor Boyer and a luncheon will be served before the Berengaria reaches Southampton next Tuesday afternoon, so that the Mayor and his party will be able to proceed on the special boat train to London, where accommodation has been reserved for them at the new Hotel Mayfair in Berkeley Square. After visiting Dublin the party will return to London, and leave for Paris on Aug. 30 and stop at the Hotel Crillon. The Mayor said he was looking forward to visiting Lido on the Adriatic, opposite Venice.

Members of the Mayor's Party.

Sailing with the Mayor and Mrs. Walker were State Senator Bernard S. Downing, Hector Fuller, William F. McCormick, the Mayor's legal adviser; Park Commissioner Walter Herrick and Mrs. Herrick.

A number of uniformed policemen were stationed outside the Cunard pier at the foot of West Thirteenth Street and also on the upper floor, where the Mayor walked to the gangway leading to the Berengaria. There were also a number detectives mingling in the crowd.

Sir Arthur Rostron was at the gangway to welcome the Mayor when he stepped on board. About three thousands persons were at the pier to see relatives and friends away, including those who went to say good-bye to the Mayor. The official sailing hour was 12:10 A. M. when the gangway was lowered, but because of tidal conditions, Cunard officials said, the ship could not leave before 5 o'clock this morning.

Mayor in Happy Frame of Mind.

In an obviously happy frame of mind Mayor Walker left the City Hall at 5:30 last night, leaving word to remind acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee that a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen must be called to pass the Housing bill. This is the measure that would exempt for twenty years model tenements constructed under the State Housing law. It has already been passed by the Board of Estimate. It must be passed by the lower branch of the Municipal Assembly and signed sixty days before election day, so that it may go to the people for a referendum.

President McKee, who now becomes acting Mayor, has been in Dixville Notch, N. H., on his vacation. He left there yesterday.

After the Mayor had left City Hall it was learned that he had accepted a commission to take to France checks aggregating $1,000 representing the balance of the Nungesser-Coli fund, which will be turned over to the relatives of the ill-fated aviators. The checks were given to the Mayor by Bernard Sandler, one of the contributors. The other checks were from Colonel Thomas Burch, William Deegan, Mr. Weinberger, Colonel Michael Friedsam, Irving D. Farras, Bernarr McFadden, Max Phillips and Ogden Reid. There was also a contribution from an anonymous donor.

Police Badge Fails to Save Roger Kahn From Summons; He Must Give Up Shield

Roger Wolfe Kahn, who once wanted to be a detective but became an orchestra leader instead, and now is going in for aviation, got a summons for speeding in Brooklyn yesterday, in spite of his bright and imposing Police Department shield.

That shield is a relic of the days when young Kahn was struck with a desire to solve "society crime mysteries" and offered his services to Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright. He became a Special Deputy Commissioner and, according to the police, neglected to turn in his insignia when George V. McLaughlin became Commissioner and called in all the special-privilege credentials of the previous police administration.

Motorcycle Patrolman Patrick O'Connor, on duty at Nostrand Avenue and Eastern Parkway early yesterday morning, was the man who braved the badge and delivered a summons, returnable next Tuesday. He said he followed the speeding car for several blocks, finally catching it at Kingston Avenue. Young Kahn identified himself, O'Connor said, announced that he was a musician and then, displaying the shield, asked at what speed he had been "clocked."

"Forty miles an hour," answered the policeman, writing busily.

When word of the incident reached Police Headquarters Commissioner Warren said: "The patrolman should have taken the shield away from him. No record was kept at Police Headquarters of the persons to whom these special badges were issued, and it was impossible to let every one know that they should be turned in. I plan to investigate the matter, and if Mr. Kahn's shield is found to be one of those issued by Mr. Enright I shall order it handed in at once."

At the headquarters of Roger Kahn's orchestra it was said yesterday afternoon that the young man, who is the son of Otto H. Kahn, was spending the greater part of his time with his newest hobby, aviation, and was not in.

TWO DROWN AS AUTO PLUNGES INTO RIVER

CAR VAULTS BULKHEAD

A Chevrolet sedan drove down Pike Slip at 4 o'clock yesterday morning and stopped for water at the New York Evening Journal garage, 239 South Street. "What's the way to Long Island City?" the man at the wheel asked of Harry Burnbaum, night superintendent of the garage, who waved his hand casually in the direction of the East River and the Manhattan Bridge. The sedan started out with a grinding of gears and Burnbaum noticed that a second occupant of the car was asleep in the back seat.

Straight across South Street the sedan went, headed for the only space on the docks for a distance of several hundred feet that was not blocked by parked wagons and motor trucks. The garage men saw the driver's mistake, but their shouted warnings came too late, for the automobile went up over some pipes, toppled over the foot-high bulkhead and fell into the river.

S. W. Pearson, a Customs House guard, and Mr. Burnbaum notified the police of the Oak Street Station and the Marine Division. An hour after the car had sunk Sergeant Randolph of Police Launch 7 brought one body ashore. This was identified by a driver's license in a pocket as Charles Freund of 172 South Street, Oyster Bay. The car had already been salvaged by garagemen. The identification of Freund was later made positive by May Freund, a sister, in whose name the car was registered.

The body of the second occupant was then found. At first it was thought to be that of a longshoreman who was said to have been sleeping on the dock a little while before the automobile took its dive. Late in the afternoon, however, this body was identified at the Morgue as that of Fred Brewer of 1,305 Virginia Avenue, the Bronx, who had been riding with Freund. William F. Leonard of 2,801 Fifty-first Avenue, Elmhurst, L. I., a foreman of the General Motors Company shop at Fifty-seventh Street and Eleventh Avenue, made the identification. He said both men were mechanics employed by the General Motors Company. He gave Brewer's age as 35 and Freund's as "about 28."

The police at the Oak Street Station said there was no reason to believe that a third body, that of the longshoreman, was still in the water.

"I don't know how that report got abroad," the lieutenant on the desk said.

Nevertheless, Lieutenant Golden of the Marine Division said men were still grappling for a possible third body at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

According to garagemen, the doors of the sedan were ripped off when they raised it out of the water. This fact they offered as evidence that the two drowned men had struggled to get free.

BOY SLIPS ON PIER, DROWNS

Two Life Guards, Attracted by His Cries, Fail to Save Him.

Despite the efforts of two volunteer life savers, Louis Ghiorzi, 12 years old, of 337 East Forty-sixth Street was drowned in the East River off Forty-sixth Street yesterday morning after he had fallen from a pier.

The boy with two companions, who later disappeared, was playing on the pier when he missed his footing and slipped into the river. His screams brought John McCabe of 853 First Avenue and Teddy Swan of 402 East Fifty-third Street, both members of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps, to the scene. They launched a boat and attempted vainly to save the boy. Then they obtained grappling hooks and after twenty minutes' work recovered the body.

STORE CLERK SHOT AS HE DEFIES THUG

Thinks Robber Is Joking When He Is Ordered to Rear, and Is Severely Wounded.

THEN PURSUES ASSAILANT

Collapses on Sidewalk as Thief Disappears in Crowd—Another Shoe Store Held Up.

George Pollak, 19 years old, of 467 East 143d Street, a clerk in the Rival Shoe Store at 249 West 125th Street, was shot and severely wounded yesterday afternoon when a swarthy, well-dressed young man entered the store alone and tried to force Pollak to the rear of the store so he could rob the safe.

Pollak was alone in the store when the man entered shortly after 2:45 P. M. The intruder ordered him to go to the back of the store, but Pollak said later that he thought the man was joking and refused to move.

Then the robber drew a pistol from his coat pocket and pressed it against the clerk's side. Pollak again refused to move. The man then fired and ran from the store.

Pollak, wounded, tried to follow, but collapsed in front of the shop at the feet of Police Sergeant McKenna who was off duty and happened to be passing.

Before he lost consciousness Pollak described his assailant and although detectives arrived almost immediately and the crowds sought the robber, he evidently was lost among the hundreds of shoppers who filled the street. Because of the noise of moving vehicles, two patrolmen stationed near the store were unaware anything had happened. Even passers-by heard nothing and did not see the robber run out the front door.

Pollak was taken to Harlem Hospital, where it was said late last night that his condition was critical. The bullet had lodged in his abdomen.

Detectives have the description of the robber as given by the clerk to Sergeant McKenna and passers-by before he became unconscious.

Pollak said the man was young and about 5 feet 4 inches in height.

A young man walked boldly into the Beck-Howard shoe store at 212 Bowery yesterday afternoon and pointing a revolver at the manager, Louis Weinstein of 278 Henry Street, forced him into a back room of the store. He tied the manager's hands with heavy twine, took $36 from the cash drawer in the front of the store and walked out.

Weinstein freed himself after fifteen minutes of struggling and telephoned the Elizabeth Street station. Later he tried to identify the thief by photographs in the Rogues' Gallery, but could not discover his picture. The police said last night that the same store had been robbed five times.

WOMAN DRIVER IN COURT.

Hearing in Case Against Miss Rich Goes Over to Tomorrow.

On the plea of her counsel that an important defense witness was out of town, the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, against Miss Helen Rich, 28 years old, who gave her address as 1,303 Riverside Drive, was adjourned until tomorrow by Magistrate Macrery yesterday in Traffic Court.

Miss Rich was arrested early on the morning of July 22, when the automobile which she is alleged to have been driving was seen to be making an erratic course in 110th Street near Amsterdam Avenue. At the time of her arrest Miss Rich, according to the police, said she had won a bet on the Dempsey-Sharkey fight of the previous night and was celebrating.

In asking for the adjournment, counsel told the court that Miss Rich was not driving the automobile at the time of her arrest, but that it was another member of the party in the car.

GIRL, 21, IS SEIZED IN POISON PEN CASE

$40,000 Blackmail Letter Laid to Ridgewood (N. J.) Clerk —Lawyer Ridicules Charge.

HINTS HE KNOWS WRITER

Threats Made Against Mrs. F. A. von Moschzisker in 15 Letters in Last Twenty Months.

Special to The New York Times.

RIDGEWOOD, N. J., Aug. 10.—Miss Sarah Mowell, 21 years old, a clerk employed in the First National Bank of Ridgewood, was arrested here today and locked up at Hackensack, charged with writing a blackmail letter in which $40,000 was demanded of Mrs. Frank A. von Moschzisker, wife of an attorney in the real estate department of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Miss Mowell, who is a daughter of A. Mowell of 139 Walnut Street, was held in $5,000 bail by Prosecutor A. C. Hart of Bergen County, who said that a handwriting expert had held that the printed script in one of fifteen threatening letters received by Mrs. von Moschzisker in the last twenty months was done by the girl.

Edmond B. Randall of Hackensack, counsel for Miss Mowell, termed her arrest as "ridiculous and outrageous," and intimated he could find the writer of the letter.

"If the case ever comes up," he said, "we will quickly prove her innocence, and when this time comes, Miss Mowell will sue for heavy damages for false arrest, false imprisonment and other things. I know the history of this whole case from A to Z, and I am positive Miss Mowell is innocent."

First Inquiry Dropped.

Mrs. von Moschzisker reported in January, 1926, that she had received "poison pen" letters threatening to turn over to her husband letters she had written and next to kill him unless she sent the writer $3,000. Prosecutor Hart investigated the complaint and dropped it in September because, he said, Mrs. von Moschzisker had ignored an order not to open the next letter received, but had opened it after it had been dropped on her porch at 144 Spring Avenue and not only "marred the finger-prints but gave the whole letter to the press, thus putting a damper on the investigation."

Miss Mowell, it was said, was questioned during the first investigation and, after denying that she had anything to do with the writing of the letters, suggested that they might have been written by some one acquainted with her and suspicion directed to her through mentioning persons of her acquaintance in them. Miss Mowell retained Mr. Randall before her arrest.

The letter on which the arrest was made contained the names of several acquaintances of Miss Mowell and her attorney. It follows:

"So you think my threat to sue you was pure bluff? Just don't fool yourself. We are piling up evidence that will make you look sick. Dr. —— told the directors of our bank that he has treated you for epilepsy and that you are just crazy enough to write letters to yourself, and Dr. —— told them the same thing.

"So now, whose brain is neurotic? You thought it was just pure brag about Judge —— backing us, but I guess you are convinced by now that he is. He hates you because you published the letters in the paper and he says he will bank on our winning out for he has influence and you haven't.

"I laugh when I think about —— and —— going to pay you a visit and coming back to me with a lot of your monogram writing paper. And unless you pay Miss —— and Mr. —— twenty thousand each, I will write some blackmail letters on it to some of the prominent people of Ridgewood and sign your name and I can copy your handwriting so perfectly that any expert would swear to it that it was yours—and on your own paper.

"I guess you are the one who will go to prison. You thought you had me scared to death. But I had this up my sleeve all the time. You have tried hard to get me in bad with the bank, but it couldn't be done. The only thing that will tempt me to leave is your twenty thousand. You can pay it to our lawyer, Mr. Randall, and the sooner the better unless you want me to write the letters. You could never convince a jury that you hadn't written them when it is your own paper. You ought to get about five years. Ha! Ha! June twenty-ninth."

Experts Examine Letters.

This letter and fourteen others were turned over to the Bergen County authorities. Edward Schwartz, a fingerprint and handwriting expert, was reported to have said there was reason to believe, after an examination of the script printing in this letter and the handwriting of Miss Mowell, that the same hand had executed both. Albert D. Osborne, a handwriting expert, was reported to have said that "undoubtedly" the same hand had done both.

Miss Mowell was arrested by County Detective Garrett A. Dawson on the complaint of Mr. and Mrs. von Moschzisker. She was unable to give bail.

Mrs. von Moschzisker is 50 years old. She and her husband, who is a brother of the Chief Justice, Robert von Moschzisker of Pennsylvania, have no children.

None of the principals would discuss the case.

"We have been advised by the Prosecutor to say nothing about this matter," said Mr. von Moschzisker.

Miss Mowell said she would not say anything until she talked with her lawyer.

HELD AS WIFE DESERTER.

"Wyoming Cowboy," Pugilist, May Be Extradited to Chicago.

"Wyoming Cowboy" Eddie Anderson, featherweight boxer, who says he has never been knocked out, was held in $500 bail by Magistrate Doyle in the Long Island City Magistrate's Court yesterday to await extradition proceedings from Chicago on a charge of abandonment.

Anderson fought a ten-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium, Long Island City, on Tuesday evening, which he lost to Tony Canzoneri. At the end of the bout, Detective Lamoureux appeared with a warrant and arrested Anderson. The warrant charges that he abandoned his wife Alice and their six-months'-old baby boy.

Will Rogers Sees Great Navy From Conference Failure

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 10.—Who said the disarmament conference was a failure? Didn't Mr. Coolidge yesterday issue orders to start in on a building program? There is some sense to a return from a conference and start building and not sinking. If that's a failure we can have a great navy some day just out of such failures. Yours, WILL.

VARE ASKS FUNDS TO SAVE BALLOTS

Senator-Elect Urges Keyes to Assure Expense of Impounding Votes for Recount.

ALSO WIRES TWO SENATORS

Six Pennsylvania Judges Ask for More Formal Application by Senate Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—In an endeavor to preserve the ballots cast in the Vare-Wilson Senatorial election in Pennsylvania last November pending a possible recount, William S. Vare, the Senator-elect whose seat is contested by William B. Wilson, Democratic nominee, telegraphed to Senate leaders today asking for funds to pay the expenses of impounding the ballot boxes and ballots before they are automatically destroyed under operation of the State law.

Mr. Vare wired to Chairman Keyes of the Audit and Control Committee as follows:

"I am very anxious that the ballot boxes in the Pennsylvania election of November, 1926, be taken to Washington as soon as possible so that the recount of ballots in the Wilson-Vare contest may be had at an early date.

"This recount cannot begin, of course, until the boxes are all in the possession of the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections. I am informed that there is some question as to available funds. Won't you, please, do your best best to have the necessary expenditures by Mr. Barry authorized? I am hopeful that there will be no delay and will be glad to give any aid in my power to prevent it. It might be noted that in the various voting districts of the State the ballots used in this election may be destroyed on Sept. 20, so that the boxes can be used at the primary election."

The Senator-elect repeated this telegram to Senator Moses of New Hampshire with a request that Mr. Moses "use his best efforts toward expediting the collection of these boxes."

Makes Request to Watson.

Mr. Vare also repeated the telegram to Senator Watson of Indiana, the new Chairman of the Privileges and Elections Committee:

"I advise you," he wired to Mr. Watson, "of these matters in pursuance of your request to Sergeant-at-Arms Barry to impound the Pennsylvania ballots for the purpose of a recount. As you see, I am anxious to have the ballots taken to Washington and the count started in an orderly manner as soon as these boxes have been received in Washington."

Mr. Vare's telegram had a direct application to the attitude taken by several Pennsylvania county court Judges who wanted to know where the money would come from to pay the expense of preserving the ballots.

David S. Barry, Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, recently wrote to sixty-four county Judges, with the approval of counsel for Vare and Wilson, asking that the ballots be kept intact, but the Judges who have so far replied have taken varying stands.

Until yesterday, two directed the seizure of ballots; two asked where the necessary funds would come from and three said they would do nothing without a formal application of some kind. They regarded Mr. Barry's request as informal, and desired a more authoritative document presented to them. Today replies were received from six more Judges, all demanding a formal application.

One difficulty connected with impounding the ballots relates to the ballot boxes. Some counties have two or three sets of boxes, other counties only one. If the Vare-Wilson ballots are preserved, it will be necessary for many counties to purchase new boxes for use in the coming primary of September 20.

SALVADOR ENVOY ARRIVES.

Republic Sends First Minister to Washington in Seven Years.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—For the first time in seven years, the Central American republic of Salvador is represented in Washington by an envoy with ministerial rank. Francisco A. Lima, recently named minister to the United States, arrived tonight to take up his official duties. His arrival also marked the first time in an even longer period that every Central American mission in Washington has been headed by a minister.

Salvador has had no minister in Washington since 1920 when Salvador Gol was recalled. From 1920 to 1923, Salvadorian interests in the United States were entrusted to Octavio Beeche, Costa Rican minister in Washington, and on Dec. 16, 1925, Dr. Don Hector Dente Costa was named charge d'affaires ad interim.

Dr. Lima has served as Salvadorian envoy in Guatemala and Mexico, and in 1922 as confidential agent of the Federal Council of Central America to the Government of the United States.

TAMMANY ENDS ROW BY ENDORSING NOTT

NO DISSENTING VOTE CAST

Republicans Will Follow Suit by Naming O'Brien and Other Democrats.

NO FUSION IN BROOKLYN

Kings Democrats Will Designate Slate Today—Incumbents Due for Renomination.

The fight to take the judiciary nominations out of politics this year, so far as New York County is concerned, was settled definitely yesterday by the withdrawal of Magistrate George W. Simpson as a Tammany candidate for the Democratic nomination for Judge of the Court of General Sessions and the endorsement by the Tammany Executive Committee of Judge Charles C. Nott, Republican, who has served a full elective term on the bench.

The action of the Tammany Committee was expected and was made unanimously on motion of George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany. Republican endorsement of Judge George L. Donnellan of the Court of General Sessions will follow automatically, and Republican endorsement of Supreme Court Justice Alfred H. Townley will come at the Republican judicial convention on Oct. 3 in accordance with the promise of Samuel S. Koenig, Republican County Chairman. Both Judge Donnellan and Justice Townley are on the bench by appointment of Governor Smith, and the principle of endorsement by both major parties never has been applied consistently to appointed judges, as it has to judges who have served full elective terms.

Endorsement of Associate Judge John F. O'Brien, of the Court of Appeals, also was said to be virtually certain. When informed that Mr. Koenig had said that he could not guarantee an endorsement of Judge O'Brien, Judge Olvany said that the information that Judge O'Brien would receive the Republican endorsement came from George R. Morris, chairman of the Republican State Committee. The endorsement will have to be made at the Republican State Convention, which will meet at Rochester on Sept. 30.

Tammany Committee Acts Quickly.

The Tammany Executive Committee took only a short time to reverse itself. Immediately after the meeting was called to order, Magistrate Simpson's withdrawal was presented. Judge Olvany then moved the endorsement of Judge Nott and the motion was carried unanimously. There was no discussion.

No further action by the Republican special committee, to which the judicial designations were referred, will be necessary, as it already has voted to endorse Judge Donnellan if Tammany should endorse Judge Nott. As a matter of fact, Republican designating petitions, with Judge Donnellan's name included, were printed late yesterday afternoon and circulated in the evening. The actual nomination of the judicial candidates, except those for the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals, will be made at the primary election on Sept. 20, and the time for filing party designations will expire on Aug. 23.

Under the arrangement between the local Republicans and Tammany the organizations of both parties will file designating petitions for Judge Nott and Judge Donnellan for nomination for the Court of General Sessions and for Chief Judge Peter Schmuck of the City Court for renomination. For the other two places on the City Court bench Tammany has designated Vincent Lupa and Municipal Court Justice Harry M. Schimmel and the Republican organization has named William W. Pellett and Abraham I. Menin.

No Fusion in Brooklyn.

The judicial fusion movement has not extended to Brooklyn, where the Democratic Executive Committee of Kings County, under the leadership of John H. McCooey, will designate for renomination today three County Judges, George W. Martin, Alonzo G. McLaughlin and Franklin Taylor, who have served full elective terms on the bench. The Democratic organization also is expected to designate for renomination District Attorney Charles J. Dodd, County Clerk William E. Kelly and Register James A. Macdonald and name Herman M. Hasenberg for Sheriff.

It is said that the only position on the ticket which is in dispute is that of Register, where McQuade is opposed by the leader of his district, Alderman Peter J. McGuinness of Greenpoint. In an attempt to compose the differences of the two men John H. McCooey, Democratic county leader, called them together in his office yesterday afternoon. Neither had anything to say after the conference.

Later the Democratic judicial convention for the Second Judicial District will endorse for renomination Supreme Court Justice Townsend Scudder and probably name former Representative John D. Johnston of Brooklyn as a candidate to fill the place on the Supreme Court bench to be left vacant by Justice Daniel F. Manning, who will reach the age limit at the end of the year.

Fusion on Judges seldom has been effected in Brooklyn. Last year the Democrats refused to endorse Supreme Court Justices Charles H. Kelby and James C. Van Siclen, Republicans, who were defeated at the election, after the Republicans refused to endorse Surrogate George A. Wingate, who was re-elected.

The Republicans already have named three candidates for County Judge in Kings County—Reuben L. Haskell, Wilson Tipple and Jacob A. Freedman. Judge Haskell, formerly a County Judge, was put endorsed for re-election by the Democrats in 1921 and was defeated for re-election.

Severe Quake Recorded Here.

An earthquake characterized by seismologists as of severe intensity was recorded yesterday morning by the Fordham University seismograph. The tremor, computed to have been some 7,200 miles from New York City, began at 7:26 A. M. and continued until 10:26. It was said the earthquake was probably centred somewhere in the Pacific Ocean.

DOROTHY SELIGMAN TO WED DR. SHORR

HELEN P. GOODE BETROTHED

Columbia Graduate Is to Wed James Marshall Shields—Other Engagements.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Dorothy C. Seligman, daughter of Lady Walston of Cambridge, England, and the late Theodore Seligman of New York, to Dr. Ephraim Shorr of this city. Miss Seligman is the sister of Mrs. Geoffrey de Teissier of Paris and Miss Marjorie Seligman of this city. She is a niece of Henry Seligman of this city and Shorelands, Elberon, N. J.

Her father died in Switzerland in 1907 and two years later her mother, the former Miss Florence Einstein, eldest daughter of the late D. L. Einstein of New York, married Professor Charles Waldstein, who changed his name to Walston early in 1918, in order as he stated, to divest himself of the last shred of his association with Germany. He was born in New York, a son of the late Henry Waldstein, a native of Germany, but a naturalized American citizen, who kept an optician shop in Union Square.

Sir Charles, who was knighted in 1912, ranked high as an archaeologist, and was Slade Professor of Fine Arts at Cambridge University. He died last March while on a Mediterranean cruise with Lady Walston.

Dr. Shorr was graduated from Yale University and is on the staff of the Cornell Medical School and the Russell Sage Institute of Pathology. No date has been set for the wedding.

Goode—Shields.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Goode of 29 Ward Place, South Orange, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Purdon Goode, to James Marshall Shields, son of Dr. and Mrs. James K. Shields of 41 Park Road, Maplewood, N. J. Miss Goode was graduated from Columbia. Mr. Shields was also graduated from Columbia and from Lafayette College, where he was a member of the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Dummett—Schattman.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dummett of Scarsdale, N. Y., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marie Elizabeth Dummett, to Ira Rains Schattman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell E. Friend of 245 West 104th Street. For generations the family of Miss Dummett has lived in Westchester County and her father is the owner of the Heathcote Nurseries.

Hence—Kidde.

Mrs. Sarah Kyle Hence of Brooklyn has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ervin Elizabeth Hence, to Walter Lawrence Kidde, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kidde of Montclair, N. J., and West Hampton, L. I.

The wedding will take place early in October.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 10.—Miss Emma Wagner of 17 Talbot Avenue, East Port Chester, Greenwich, announced the engagement of her cousin, Miss Katherine Rapp of the same address, to George Church of 81 North Main Street, Port Chester, N. Y. The wedding will take place in St. Paul's Evangelical Church, East Port Chester, on Sept. 18.

Writer to Marry Artist.

Arthur Earl Andrews, a writer, of 13 Cornelia Street, obtained a license yesterday at the Municipal Building to marry Miss Ellis Virginia Williams, an artist, of 325 West Eighty-third Street. The wedding will take place soon in this city, although no definite date has been set. Miss Williams is the daughter of James Williams. She was born in Jamesville, Fla. Mr. Andrews was born in Seattle, Wash., and is the son of Arthur Andrews.

MARIE C. AMY WEDS THOMAS H. O'GORMAN

Ceremony Takes Place in the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola —Other Marriages.

The marriage of Miss Marie C. Amy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Amy of 332 East Eighty-fourth Street, to Thomas H. O'Gorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard O'Gorman of 42 West Fifty-eighth Street, took place yesterday morning in the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola, Park Avenue and Eighty-fourth Street. Only immediate relatives witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. T. F. O'Gorman, S. J., who although of the same name is not related to the family of the bridegroom. Father O'Gorman also was the celebrant of the nuptial mass which followed. Mrs. Henry J. Amy, sister-in-law of the bride, was her only attendant.

LUCIEN LELONG WEDS RUSSIAN PRINCESS

Noted Paris Dress Designer Marries Nathalie Paley, 21, in the Orthodox Church.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—Lucien Lelong, the well known Paris dress designer, was married today in the Orthodox Church in Paris to Princess Nathalie Paley, daughter of one of the foremost families of Russia. The bride, who is 21 years old, wore a gown of white panne designed by her husband and a bonnet of tulle and fine lace, with silver embroidery, also of her husband's design.

Lucien Lelong is a manufacturer and sole owner of the House of Lelong in Rue Matignon in Paris. He is the inventor of the kinstic theory of design in women's clothes. In October, 1925, he came to this country as the representative of the French Government to study working conditions for women in the garment-making industry. On his return from a trip in the West in December of that year he addressed a group of society women on the subject of clothes at the Junior League Clubhouse. He has been married before.

Princess Nathalie Paley is the daughter of Grand Duke Paul of Russia, uncle of the late Czar. Rumors that the Princess and Lelong would marry after Lelong and his wife had been divorced were current in Paris in March of this year. It was stated at the time that the romance between the Princess and Lelong had begun several months before, when the Princess joined Lelong's staff as a saleswoman in his perfumery department.

GRANIA KNOTT ENGAGED.

Actress to Wed Harold B. Hoskins, Son of Missionary in Syria.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Malley Knott of 120 East Thirty-fourth Street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Grania O'Malley Knott, to Harold Boise Hoskins of 146 East Thirty-ninth Street.

Miss Knott attended the Hartridge School in Plainfield, N. J., and was graduated from Smith College in 1925. For the last two years she has been a member of Walter Hampden's company.

Mr. Hoskins is the son of Mrs. Franklin Evans Hoskins of Beirut, Syria, and the late Dr. Hoskins, both of whom have a record of fifty years service as missionaries in Syria under the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. The late Dr. Hoskins was also an explorer and the author of several books on Arabia and Palestine. Mr. Hoskins attended the Hill School and was graduated from Princeton University in 1917. He served overseas during the World War for two years with the Fifth Regiment of the Marines, Second United States Division, and was decorated with the Croix de Guerre.

The marriage will take place early in the Autumn.

NEWPORT OF FIFTIES SHOWN IN PAGEANT

Historical Society Benefit Depicts Shops, Dress and Carriages of Period.

IS HELD IN TOURO PARK

Summer Colonists Aid Women of City in Going Back for a Day to Victorian Era.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 10.—"Newport in the Fashionable Fifties" was the title of a historical pageant given this afternoon in Touro Park surrounding the old stone mill and in the neighboring houses. Many women of the Summer colony joined with the women of Newport in putting on the pageant, which was for the benefit of the Newport Historical Society's mortgage fund in an effort to raise $2,000.

For a day the city went back to the Victorian era and brought back to recollection many of the old shops and features of Newport, reproductions of these being located in the park or on the lawns of near-by houses. One feature, too, was the appearance of many women dressed in costumes of the period, several of these dresses being originals that had been brought of of trunks, where the had been stored for years.

Miss Katherine Cortazzo was Chairman of the committee in charge and was assisted by Mrs. Daniel R. Fearing, Mrs. Bradford Norman, Mrs. Marion Eppley, Miss Ethel Simes Nowell, Miss Amy Varnum, Mrs. T. Shaw Safe, Mrs. William J. Maloney, Mrs. D. P. A. Jacoby, Mrs. Arthur N. Peaslee, Mrs. William W. Covell, Mrs. Charles C. Gardner, Miss Lucille Edgar, Mrs. Walter N. Hill, Mrs. William Hoppin, Mrs. Lloyd Mayer, Mrs. William V. Pratt and Mrs. David W. Todd.

One feature of the afternoon was an exhibition of old horse-drawn vehicles that were parked in Touro Park West along one side of the park. During the afternoon Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, dressed in an attractive costume of the period, rode in an old-time victoria with coachman and footman in livery and a lively stepping pair of bays. She was accompanied by the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Deforest Manice and she stopped in the park, taking in Miss Cortazzo, also in costume, and drove several times about the park, amid the applause of the spectators.

In the exhibition of old carriages were several reminders of Summer colony days of old, when the driving hour on Bellevue Avenue was the fashionable period of the day. Phaetons, barouches, curricles, gigs and one-horse chaises lined the exhibition space.

What is your social rating?

Social rating is more difficult to establish than credit. You will find credit information given with precision by Dun or Bradstreet, but there are no graded ratings in the social register. Credit is based on hard financial facts. Social standing is based on intangible impressions.

This much is certain—a man who wishes to be well rated socially cannot afford to be careless about his clothes.

BUSY AT FT. HANCOCK IN ARTILLERY STUDY

Citizen Troops Are Progressing Rapidly Under Tutelage of Colonel Ordway.

PARADE FEATURES THE DAY

Personnel Divided Into Groups, With Regular Army Officer in Charge of Each.

Special to The New York Times.

FORT HANCOCK, N. J., Aug. 10.—Under the command of Colonel Godwin Ordway of the 7th Regiment, Coast Artillery, with Lieut. Col. C. A. Seaman as executive officer, 319 youths from New York, New Jersey and Delaware are learning the rudiments of coast artillery work here.

The camp of the Civilian Military Training Camp students is pitched on the shores of the Sandy Horseshoe, at Sandy Hook, and through the efforts of Lieut. Col. Seaman and details from the 7th Coast Artillery Regiment the camp was ready for the students when they reached here last Friday. Since that time the students have progressed rapidly in their training. This afternoon the band of the 7th Regiment was turned out and a full evening parade was held.

The student body has been divided into four batteries, with the majority of advanced students from New York in Battery A, basic or first year men from the city in Battery B, and students from other parts of the corps area divided between Batteries C and D. Each battery is commanded by an artillery officer of the regular army and he is assisted by reserve officers.

The training schedule calls for the completion in thirty days of 180 hours for basic or first year students; 190 hours for red or second year men; 218 hours for white or third year cadets, and 230 hours for the blue or final course. With the exception of the senior students this time is about equally divided between training and recreation.

The subjects covered in the basic course include physical training, citizenship, hygiene, first aid, marksmanship and drill. In the three other courses artillery work is carried on, advancing by successive stages so that the final weeks will be spent working with the big guns that constitute part of the defenses of New York City.

Details of senior non-commissioned officers from the 7th Regiment have been attached to each battery temporarily, but already senior students are acting as section commanders and by next week the advanced students of the blue course will be capable of taking over the positions of cadet captains and lieutenants of the various batteries.

OFFICERS TO CAMP SUNDAY.

Staff of 369th Field Artillery to Train for 15 Days.

The regimental staff of the 369th Field Artillery, composed of fifteen reserve officers, will go into active Summer training for fifteen days at Pine Camp, near Watertown, N. Y., next Sunday.

The officers are:

Lieut. Col. Silas McBee Jr., Captains Franklin C. Brooks and Edward Burns, First Lieutenants Benjamin P. Coleman and Hugo E. Mayer, Second Lieutenants Frederick J. Brack, Newton G. Ehle Jr., Edward H. Guthrie, George F. Hawkins, Milford C. Howard, Edward J. Jolon, Donald B. Mellis, Hubert C. Ritland, Homer J. Vandermark and Robert A. Willard.

'LOST' GIRLS WATCH HUNT.

Search Started When German Youngsters Left Clothes at Bath House.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—After a three-day search for three girls of 10 and 12, during which time a bathing beach was dragged and the woods were combed by large parties, the authorities found them playing in their respective homes.

Attendants at the bathing house discovered three dresses in a booth and notified the police when they were unclaimed. A search was begun and before morning a large posse was excitedly hunting for the "lost" children.

The explanation given by the children when discovered was that they were unable to locate the booth where they left their clothes and went home in their bathing suits. Two of them entered their homes undiscovered by their parents, but the third explained to her mother. After reading about the search she consulted the police and identified her daughter's dress. Yesterday the children watched the searching parties, but kept their secret.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Robert Edmond Jones has been engaged by Arthur Hopkins to design the settings for "The House of Women."

George C. Tyler will arrive on the Mauretania tomorrow.

The Chicago company of "The Bolder" opens tonight in South Bend, Ind., for two performances prior to its Chicago premiere on Sunday at the Olympic Theatre. Robert Emmett Keane will play the leading role.

"Pinkie," a musical comedy, with book and music by Jay Gorney, is announced for production by Louis F. Werba.

"Blood Money" will open at the Hudson Theatre on Monday night, Aug. 22, instead of next week.

The Boston company of "Broadway," opening at the Plymouth Theatre on Labor Day, will include Walter Glass, Matt Briggs, Loretta Shea and Robert Craig.

Walter Catlett, who will replace Robert Woolsey in the cast of "His Rita" early in September, will begin rehearsals the part today.

James W. Elliott has engaged F. S. Merlin as general stage director for his productions. Mr. Merlin will first direct for Mr. Elliott his own play, "The King Can Do No Wrong," scheduled to go into rehearsal next month.

Don Jose y Rodriguez Tobosa has been added to the cast of "The Proud Princess," now in rehearsal.

Maxwell Anderson has completed the book and lyrics of a musical comedy called "A Maiden's Prayer," which deals with censorship, it is announced.

The principal players of "The Merry Malones" will be Polly Walker, Alice Edwards, Mary Jane, Dorothy Wickmare and Robinson Newbold.

Paul R. Milton, son of Robert Milton, and Herbert M. Miller have completed a revue called "Half a Half," in which Mendell Phelps and Clarence A. Cohen have announced a revue with a similar title.

Benny Davis and Harry Akst will write the lyrics and music for the new edition of "Artists and Models," scheduled to open early next month. Both have written many "hit" songs.

MUSIC MEMORY PRIZES AWARDED AT CONCERT

Contestants Are Tied for Four Places in Tourney of Goldman Series.

The winners of the 1927 Music Memory Contest of the Goldman Band series, held last Friday evening on the Mall at Central Park, were announced at the regular concert last night, and awards to three of the successful contestants were made. As there are ties for first, second, third and honorary mention prizes it will be necessary to duplicate the prizes and these will be awarded later.

There were 1,972 contestants, the largest number that has competed since the inauguration of this annual event five years ago. The prize winners for this season follow:

First prize: Albert E. Koons, 352 West 117th Street; won third prize in 1926 contest; percentage 100; T. E. Oberdorfer, 255 West Forty-third Street, percentage 100 plus; perfect score in spelling and titles and composers.

MAURICE CHEVALIER COMING FOR A TOUR

French Music Hall and Revue Artist Is Booked for the Keith-Albee Circuit.

Maurice Chevalier well-known French music hall and revue comedian, will make a vaudeville tour of the United States during 1928, the Keith-Albee offices announced yesterday. He will open at the Palace Theatre here in March on his first visit to this country.

Arrangements for Chevalier's engagement were made by Edward V. Darling, head of the Keith-Albee booking staff, who recently returned from abroad. The entertainer, according to the announcement, was scheduled to appear in a production for Charles Dillingham, but Mr. Dillingham agreed to release him for vaudeville. Chevalier is a big favorite abroad and his tour of this country is expected by vaudeville officials to be one of the leading events of the coming year in that branch of amusement.

Mr. Darling while in Europe also made arrangements to bring over Lily Morris, Wee Georgie Wood, Ella Shields and Coram, a ventriloquist, all of whom have been seen here before.

"YES, YES, YVETTE" COMING.

Charles Winninger to Act Featured Role in Musical Comedy.

Charles Winninger will return to the H. H. Frazee management in the featured rôle of "Yes, Yes, Yvette," opening in New York about the middle of next month, probably at the Longacre Theatre. "Yes, Yes, Yvette" is a musical comedy based on James Montgomery's farce "Nothing But the Truth." The book is the work of Mr. Montgomery and William Carey Duncan while Irving Caesar and Philip Charig are responsible for the music and lyrics. Among the others in the cast will be Jeanette MacDonald and Jack Whiting. The production opened last season in Chicago.

Actors' Fund Benefit at Lake Placid.

A benefit performance in aid of the Actors' Fund of America will be staged at the Palace Theatre, Lake Placid, on Thursday evening, Aug. 25, under the direction of Daniel Frohman. The William Morris office will supply some of the vaudeville talent and there will also be sketches and performers from the Players and Lambs' clubs. Entertainers taking part will be guests of the Actors' Fund at Lake Placid over the week-end.

Columbia Theatre to Open Aug. 20.

The Columbia Theatre, which again will vary its burlesque attractions with dramatic shows, musical comedies and negro entertainments, will open for the new season on Saturday, Aug. 20, with "Wine, Women and Song" as the first production. The second presentation will be "Rain," with Leona Earl in the Sadie Thompson role. Among the burlesque entertainers who will be seen on the Columbia wheel are Jimmie Cooper, Jean Bedini, Bert Bertrand, "Sliding Billy" Watson, "Boss" Snyder, Frank X. Silk and Billy Gilbert.

London Cast of 'Crime' Sails Sept. 14

The cast for the London production of "Crime," which is being presented under the auspices of A. H. Woods and Sir Alfred Butt, will leave on the Aquitania Sept. 14. Prior to its premiere at the Queen's Theatre on Oct. 10, "Crime" will be produced in the provinces on Oct. 1. Among the players who will make the trip will be Grant Mills, Louis Kimball, Frank Hatch, Wilton Lackaye Jr., Warren Hymer and Mildred Wayne. A. H. Van Buren, who will stage the play, and Samuel Shipman, co-author, will also depart on the Aquitania.

MONTEUX RECEIVES OVATION AT STADIUM

Delights Audience at His First Appearance as Guest Conductor of Philharmonic.

EXCELS IN 'SCHEHERAZADE'

He Reveals Many New Beauties in the Familiar Suite of Rimsky-Korsakoff.

Pierre Monteux, former conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and at the Metropolitan Opera House, made last night his first appearance as guest conductor of the Philharmonic Orchestra at the concert in the City College Stadium. A good-sized audience greeted him cordially as he took his place at the conductor's stand, but at the end of a program that marked in some respects the high spot in a season notable for artistic musical achievement the new conductor received an ovation that gave ample testimony to the delight and enthusiasm of his audience.

The opening selection on the program, the "Roman Carnival" overture of Berlioz, revealed at once the qualities of the conductor with which his audiences of past years are familiar—the elegance and refinement of style, the sparkle and zest and the fine sense of symmetry and proportion. The performance of the César Franck D Minor Symphony which followed had all these qualities as well as an emotional warmth and imaginative color that brought out all the beauties of the score. The reading was typically French in its meticulous regard for the rhythm and architecture of the musical phrase, in its suavity and polish and its perfect balance of the various instrumental choirs.

The familiar "Scheherazade" suite of Rimsky-Korsakoff took on new beauties at the hands of the conductor. The strings sang their insinuating arabesques of melody over the other instruments with a luminous tone that was a sheer delight. The restraint with which the earlier sections of the suite were played gave added effect to the mighty and sweeping climax of the sea music of the final movement. It is hard to imagine a finer or more stirring performance of this passage, in which the orchestra, under the inspiring leadership of Mr. Monteux, excelled itself. At the conclusion of the concert there were many bravos, which the conductor acknowledged in a brief speech of thanks.

The program tonight includes the overture to Euryanthe," Schumann's Fourth Symphony, and excerpts from "The Flying Dutchman," "Siegfried," "Parsifal" and "Die Walkure."

Irene Pavloska Denies Charges.

Irene Pavloska of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, named as the co-respondent in the divorce action of Mrs. Eda Mesirow in Chicago last week, sent a telegram from Chicago last night declaring that the accusations made against her were untrue and without foundation and asking her friends to suspend judgment until her side has been told. Mme. Pavloska said she wished her friends to know that she had done nothing that should make them change their good opinion of her or that could not bear the full view of the world. She added that her side of the situation would be presented at the proper time.

Lee Simonson Back From Mexico.

Lee Simonson, art director of the Theatre Guild, returned yesterday on the Spanish Royal Mail liner Alphonso XIII from a visit to Mexico, where he has been spending several weeks to get ideas for stage setting, costumes and decorations for the coming season. He said that he had brought back several sketches and material with him which he intended to use in future productions.

Man, 80, Freed in Assault.

A charge of assault against David Bailey, 80 years old, of 526 West 143d Street, was withdrawn by the complainant, Mrs. Dorothy Bruns, 25 years old, of 524 West 143d Street, before Magistrate Abraham Rosenbluth in Washington Heights Court yesterday. The woman said Bailey had struck here with a broom in front of his home because she permitted a dog to play on the sidewalk. Permission was asked to withdraw the charge because of the defendant's age.

M'BRIDE PLAN PUT UP TO PRODUCERS TODAY

Provides Ticket Sale Through Responsible Agencies—Leblang Project Due to Be Dropped.

The McBride plan for the sale of theatre tickets through organized, responsible agencies will be formally presented to the theatrical managers at a meeting at the Hotel Astor this evening. Virtually all the theatres in New York will be represented, it is said. The Erlanger-Ziegfeld-Dillingham group, which has held aloof from the other managers in the discussion of previous plans, is expected to send representatives. Arthur Hammerstein will preside.

The Leblang plan for a consolidated ticket office is technically still under consideration by the managers, but it appears to have been dropped in the minds of most of them. That it has, in effect, been withdrawn was indicated yesterday when it was learned that the George M. Cohan Theatre, on which the Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corporation holds a lease, had been sublet to a touring "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company for occupancy later this month.

Joe Leblang, who owns the theatre, contemplated remodeling it to serve as the proposed consolidated office, but as this work would have to be started immediately to be finished in time for the opening of the Fall theatrical season, the new lease is taken by Broadway observers to mean that Mr. Leblang has abandoned his consolidated office idea.

INA CLAIRE DONS GOWN IN CAR BETWEEN SHOWS

Leaves Matinee of "Everyman" and Has 10 Minutes to Get to "Don Juan" in Salzburg.

Copyright, 1927, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SALZBURG, Aug. 10.—The most strenuous festival fan Salzburg has ever seen is Ina Claire, American actress, who came here by automobile yesterday. The première this season of Mozart's "Don Juan" began at seven o'clock this evening. Miss Claire wanted to go to the opera, also to see the performance of "Everyman" in Cathedral Square this afternoon. "Everyman," to which one naturally wears an afternoon frock, was over ten minutes before the curtain rose for "Don Juan," which calls for evening raiment. So the actress leaped into a limousine at the end of the matinee and with the side curtains drawn down, changed into an appropriate gown on the way from Cathedral Square to the Municipal Theatre.

Previously she had lunched with Max Reinhardt, been shown over his historic castle, Leopoldskron, attended a rehearsal of Schiller's "Kabale und Liebe" and seen the sights of Salzburg.

After tonight's performance Reinhardt gave a supper in honor of Miss Claire and Tristan Bernhard, the French dramatist.

F. Ray Comstock at Princess.

F. Ray Comstock will again resume active management of the Princess Theatre for the coming season, it was announced yesterday. Clare Tree Major's School of the Theatre, which has occupied the house for the last two years, has moved to other quarters. The theatre is being renovated and redecorated before Mr. Comstock begins operations there.

MOTHER RECLAIMS HER FOUR LOST BOYS

THEY MISUNDERSTOOD NOTE

Were to Stay Away for Summer, but Returned to Find Home Empty and Parents Gone.

On her return yesterday from her sister's farm near Camden, N. J., where she had gone for a vacation, Mrs. Lily Davis of 315 East Fourteenth Street was surprised to read in a newspaper that she had abandoned her four sons, ranging in age from 9 to 14 years. She was further informed that her children were not, as she thought, in a camp at Roseland, N. J., where she had placed them for the Summer several weeks ago, but that they were being cared for by the Children's Society, 2 East 105th Street.

Soon after her arrival at the society the situation was cleared up. After sending the children to camp with the intention of having them spend the whole vacation there, the parents gave up their home at the Fourteenth Street address and Philip Davis, the father, went to Canada, and Mrs. Davis, slightly ailing, went to her sister's farm at Roseland.

Two weeks ago the children received a letter from their father in which they were advised that they were about to obtain a new home in Newark. As a dollar bill was attached to the note, they interpreted the letter as an invitation to come home. So Lewis, 14 years old, as the leader of the group composed of Harry, 12, Isidore, 11, and Morris 9 years old, decided to make the trip to New York to rejoin their parents. They arrived here July 27 and found no one at home. They appealed to the police and were taken to the Children's Society as abandoned children.

Yesterday the mother took the four adventurers to their aunt's farm for the rest of the vacation.

Huntington (L. I.) Man Marries Marie Minor of 'The Circus Princess'

The marriage of Marie Minor, a member of "The Circus Princess" company, and Frederick Maas, an inventor and owner of a marble works at Huntington, L. I., became known yesterday. The ceremony took place about three weeks ago in Chicago, with Mayor Thompson of that city as a witness.

Mr. Maas first met Miss Minor four weeks ago when he attended a performance at the Winter Garden. A few days later the actress, accompanied by a friend, went to Chicago for the wedding. She is 20 years old while Mr. Maas is 40.

Miss Minor said last night that she intended to stay with the company for several weeks, after which she and her husband would sail for a honeymoon abroad.

Government Crop Report Indicates Lower Corn but Higher Wheat Harvest Than Last Year.

The Government's crop report, issued after the close of the markets yesterday afternoon, indicated a wheat harvest some 20,000,000 bushels above last year and a crop of oats about 35,000,000 bushels greater than last year's harvest. The corn crop, however, will be approximately 360,000,000 bushels below that of 1926, according to the Department of Agriculture's calculations. Added to a forecast of an out-turn of cotton of but 12,492,000 bales, these reports furnish an excellent basis for the belief that the total harvest this year will in many cases be considerably below that of 1926. Black rust development in the Northwest is still a very important factor and possibly will cause a further toning down of later wheat estimates. The advances which have taken place in the open market value of these products during the past fortnight have to large extent offset and, in a measure, discounted the Government's figures.

The indicated production of wheat is placed at 851,145,000 bushels as of Aug. 1, which would compare with an actual yield last year of 832,805,000 and of only 626,429,000 bushels in 1925. Corn conditions improved measurably in the month of July, but the indication is still for a very short crop of corn, possibly a harvest comparable with the short crop of 1924, which was 2,312,745,000 bushels. Yesterday's forecast was for an out-turn of 2,585,226,000, which would still be more than 250,000,000 bushels below the final production of last year. It might be noted that this light crop of corn, if the Government's figures prove accurate, would bring a yield of more than 600,000,000 bushels less than in 1923, and of approximately 725,000,000 bushels less than the record crop of 3,208,584,000 raised in 1920. Reports from the farming districts during the past few days have forecast just about such estimates as were made yesterday by the Government, and these calculations contain few surprises.

In view of the fact that the report was not made public until after the close of the markets yesterday, interest naturally turned to the stock market, which has been overshadowed during the past few days by the boisterous advances in agricultural commodities. Although the stock market was a big and broad one, it nevertheless contained a considerable degree of uncertainty and nervousness. Good gains were established in many leading stocks during morning trading, but practically all of these advances were shed in the afternoon when a wave of liquidation developed. Cross-currents were running strongly and yesterday's confused movements in most stocks were typical of the Wall Street state of mind at the moment in regard to the immediate future of the market.

The news of the day had but small relation to the fluctuations. The United States Steel Corporation was able to exhibit an increase of 88,768 tons in its unfilled orders as of July 1, the second consecutive month to show a gain. This favorable news, however, was offset by the statement by trade reviews that the steel ingot output in July was smaller than in any month since July, 1925. It is pointed out also that conditions in this basic industry differ vastly from those prevailing at this time last year. A year ago, under expanding demand, the largest August output on record was established. It now seems certain that August figures this year will be materially below the 4,004,583 tons rolled up in the same month last year.

ASKS LIST OF DEALINGS IN FLUCTUATING STOCK

Exchange Pushes Its Inquiry Into Transactions in Manhattan Electrical Supply Shares.

Apparently dissatisfied with the results of its previous inquiry into the market action of the stock, the Business Conduct Committee of the New York Stock Exchange yesterday called upon member firms to report by noon Monday a list of all full-lot transactions from May 20 through Aug. 9 in the capital stock of the Manhattan Electrical Supply Company.

This stock has been fluctuating wildly for some weeks. Last week the Business Conduct Committee sent out a questionnaire directing member firms to report the long and short positions of their customers as of the close of business on Friday. The second letter asks member firms to furnish the committee a list of full-lot transactions, giving the volume and prices, the names of the members of firms with whom the transactions were made, and the customers.

The committee is seeking to determine whether a "free and open market" exists in the stock. There has been much talk of a "squeeze of shorts" since the stock began to soar sensationally some weeks ago. Richard Brown, President of the company, expressed his regret at the violent fluctuations in the stock some time ago, saying the speculative activity was based upon the company's prospects.

It is understood that a large short interest has been severely punished in the stock. The stock closed yesterday with a net loss of 2¾ points.

National Bellas Hess Receipts.

The net receipts of the National Bellas Hess Company, Inc., for July amounted to $2,296,877, against $3,025,101 in July, 1926, a decrease of $728,424, or 24 per cent. Sales for the first seven months were $26,561,577, against $28,454,760 in the same period last year, a decrease of $2,893,203, or 10.1 per cent. The company was organized in April, 1927, from a merger of the National Cloak and Suit and the Bellas Hess Companies.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

While "outside liquidation" was going on in yesterday's stock market, professional pool operators renewed their activities in a large variety of issues. Trading on the Stock Exchange, in consequence, had an appearance of firmness which, according to the Wall Street view, refuted the popular impression that the market has become a "sale." It seemed to be the unanimous opinion that a purely "traders" market" has developed, with the trend determined by the staying power of the groups seeking to gain control. Yesterday operators for the rise had all the better of it and the closing quotations revealed little weakness in their position. Commission houses admitted that the "outside public" was being eliminated quite rapidly and that trading was in the hands of professionals. The strength of the market was accepted as the best possible evidence of the dominance of the bullish interests. The effect of the favorable tonnage statement of the United States Steel Corporation was soon lost. After a brief flurry of strength this stock drifted toward lower levels, closing a full point below Tuesday's closing level. The points of strength were Brooklyn Union Gas, which closed 10¼ points up; Brooklyn Edison, which was up 5¼ points; Consolidated Gas, up 4; General Railway Signal, up 5½; Gold Dust, up 3½; Howe Sound, up 2¾; Timken Roller Bearing, up 8, and General Motors, up 1¾.

Expect Record in Financing.

The amount of new bond issues that are being held back for offering "after Labor Day" has caused a belief among many underwriters that September, and possibly October, will witness a new record in financing. They hasten to add, however, that the market undoubtedly will be in a position to absorb the heavy new offerings, as the shelves of dealers are being steadily cleared of unsold portions of previous issues. One of the reasons for the excess of offerings in the Spring, which produced congestion in the market, was the fact that during the competition for new business bankers had assumed liability for new issues which they felt compelled to place on the market without delay, despite the fact that investment channels were being loaded up. Since the middlemen began to show less of a desire to enter large syndicates the bond originating houses are contracting for new issues on a far smaller scale. In cases where tentative agreements were made for new issues, they are being held back until early Autumn, by which time it is felt that the investment demand will have caught up with the supply.

Discussing Ford's New Car.

The new car which the Ford Motor Company has "on the oven" was the subject of excited discussion all over the financial district yesterday. No end of rumors came out. One had it that the car is being equipped to use the new ethyl gasoline, which is something of a sensation in the petroleum industry. Another predicted that a full description of the vehicle would appear shortly and that it would astonish the automotive industry, not only by the number of its refinements but by the price schedule as well. Everybody, it seemed, had a different Ford story.

General Motors Meeting Today.

It will be fully an hour after the close of the market today before the action of the directors of the General Motors Corporation becomes known publicly. More so than ever perhaps, the Wall Street community is in a fog as to the board's plans. Usually the stock market forecasts quite accurately the dividend decisions of this company. Yesterday, however, there was no fixed conviction in any one's mind as to what will happen today. It is the majority opinion that the interests controlling General Motors have determined upon a two-for-one split-up, but whether the plan will be announced today or three months later was a question which Wall Street had not decided last night.

Increase in Car Loadings

An increase in car loadings for the week ended July 30 over the previous week of 33,197 cars constitutes one more favorable point in the argument of most railroad authorities that conditions throughout the remainder of 1927 will reveal a substantially different aspect in connection with earnings for the rest of this year. There is little doubt among railroad men that freight traffic is to note a large jump in volume in the latter months of 1927, and the fact that the car loadings for 1927 to date have fallen below last year's record by some 40,000 cars offers no deterrent to the confidence that is generally placed in freight business for the Fall. The fact is that railroad authorities firmly believe the last four months of 1927 will provide the basis of prosperity which will place the current year above 1926 both in traffic results and net earnings.

Redistributing Municipals.

Despite announcements of the closing of syndicate books on several major pieces of municipal financing within the last fortnight, it is revealed that there are apparently considerable amounts of these bonds still to be had in the general market. In other words, the practice of winding up a syndicate by disposing of the remaining block of bonds to another dealer or group, while it may mystify some investors who believed the bonds all sold, generally works to the advantage of all concerned. The original sellers are rid of the bonds, the dealer purchasing the unsold balance gets the advantage of previous advertising and sometimes a wider margin of profit, and the investor, perhaps, a slightly lower price. At the moment the several odds and ends of municipal issues which have changed hands in the last few days have been cleaned up at a much faster rate than would have been the case had they remained with the original syndicates.

Prospects for Sterling.

London's ideas regarding the future course of sterling exchange are reflected in the fact that three-months dollar futures are being bought in the English capital, while six-months futures are being sold. This indicates a belief that sterling will encounter the usual seasonal depression in November, followed by a recovery in February. This movement ordinarily takes place as a result of the heavy purchases of grain, cotton and other commodities by Great Britain in the Autumn months, and the export movement of British goods later in the Winter. Almost the only gold shipments from England to New York on a straight exchange basis in recent years have been in the Autumn months, and it was in the Spring of 1926 that sterling rose to par for the first time since the war. Sterling at present is in a strong position because of the export of American capital to Europe resulting from the low money rates here.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 10, 1927.

The money market displayed an easier tone yesterday than on the preceding days of the week, although both call and time money rates remained unchanged on the Stock Exchange. Call money held at 3% per cent., with transactions in the outside market reported at 3½. Owing to the scarcity of bills, bankers' acceptances continue very quiet. Commercial paper rate showed no changes from the previous day.

60,000 Shares

National Radiator Corporation

$7 Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock

No par value. Preferred as to assets and dividends over the Common Stock. Cumulative dividends at the rate of $7 per share per annum payable quarterly February 1, May 1, August 1 and November 1 (first dividend payable November 1, 1927). Entitled in liquidation to $100 per share and accrued dividends. Redeemable as a whole or in part on any dividend date at $120 per share and accrued dividends, on not less than sixty days' notice. Dividends exempt from present normal Federal Income Tax.

Each share of Convertible Preferred Stock will be convertible at any time into two shares of Common Stock, with cash adjustment for dividends. The Certificate of Incorporation includes provisions designed to safeguard the conversion privilege.

John H. Waters, Esq., Chairman of the Board of Directors of the National Radiator Corporation, has summarized his letter dated August 9, 1927, copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned, as follows:

Capitalization: The capitalization of the Corporation upon consummation of the plan for the acquisition of assets and business of the six predecessor companies, and the financing incident thereto, will be as follows:

	Authorized	To be presently Outstanding
$7 Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock (No Par Value) this issue	90,000 shs.	60,000 shs.
Common Stock (No Par Value)	*500,000 shs.	270,000 shs.
6½% Sinking Fund Gold Debentures, due August 1, 1947	$16,000,000	$12,000,000

Business: National Radiator Corporation has been organized under the laws of Delaware to acquire assets and business of the following six companies:

National Radiator Company	Utica Heater Company
Niagara Radiator & Boiler Company	Gurney Heater Manufacturing Company
Continental Heater Corporation	Union Radiator Company

all of which have been in successful operation over a long period of years.

National Radiator Corporation, upon acquisition of these various properties, will be the second largest manufacturer in the world of steam and hot water radiators and cast iron boilers for heating purposes. The wide variety of its products meets the heating requirements of buildings of every character from small dwellings to office buildings, apartments, hotels, schools, churches, theatres and similar types of structures.

The Corporation will own ten plants, two of which are located at Johnstown, Pa., two at New Castle, Pa., and one each at Trenton, N. J., Utica, Dunkirk, and North Tonawanda, N. Y., Framingham, Mass., and Chicago, Ill. Through the favorable location of its various plants and warehouses the Corporation will be in a position to serve practically all the consuming markets of the United States. A number of the plants will have easy access to water transportation for shipment on the Great Lakes and to the Pacific Coast as well as to export markets.

Purpose of Issue: This Preferred Stock, together with 270,000 shares of Common Stock of no par value and $12,000,000 principal amount of 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Debentures, is being issued in connection with the acquisition of assets and business of the six predecessor companies.

Assets: The balance sheet of National Radiator Corporation as of December 31, 1926, after giving effect to the acquisition as of that date of properties and assets to be presently owned, to the appraisals as of the same date by Messrs. Sanderson & Porter of real estate, plant and equipment, to the present financing and transactions incident thereto, as certified to by Deloitte, Plender, Griffiths & Co., shows total current assets of $10,742,547 as compared with total current liabilities of $1,478,061; and net assets, including goodwill, patents and trade-marks valued at $6,818,092, before deducting Debentures, of $24,714,200, and after deducting Debentures, of $12,714,200.

Earnings: The combined net earnings of the six predecessor companies, assets of which are to be owned by National Radiator Corporation, after depreciation, and eliminating interest on indebtedness which is to be liquidated under the plan of financing, for the four years ended December 31, 1926, as certified to by Deloitte, Plender, Griffiths & Co. were as follows:

	Net Earnings before interest and Federal Income Taxes.	Net Earnings after interest on 6½% Debentures and allowing income taxes at present rates, applicable to dividends.
1926	3,472,184	2,328,739

Net earnings as stated above, applicable to dividends, for the year 1926, amounted to $2,328,739, equivalent to 5.5 times the annual dividend requirements on this Preferred Stock, and for the four years ended December 31, 1926, averaged $2,098,274 annually or approximately 5 times such requirements.

After deducting annual dividend requirements on the Preferred Stock, the remaining net earnings for the year 1926 were equivalent to $7.06 per share on the 270,000 shares of Common Stock to be presently outstanding, and for the four years ended December 31, 1926, averaged $6.21 per share.

The six predecessor companies report earnings, after provision for depreciation, but before interest and Federal Income Taxes, of approximately $601,000 for the six months ended June 30, 1927, as compared with approximately $892,000 for the corresponding period of 1926. Unfilled orders as of June 30, 1927 amounted to about $4,270,000 as compared with about $2,200,000 at the corresponding date in 1926. Normally, about two-thirds of the radiator and boiler business is done in the last half of the year, and a still greater proportion of the net earnings realized in that period.

Management: The operating management of the Corporation will continue in the hands of former executives of the predecessor companies. John H. Waters, President of National Radiator Company, is the Chairman of the Board of Directors, Edward Norris, President of Utica Heater Company, will be the President, and E. C. Andrews, President of Niagara Radiator & Boiler Company, will be the Chairman of the Advisory Committee. The management and associates will acquire a substantial interest in the new Corporation through ownership of approximately 43% of its Common Stock, and will also acquire substantial amounts of the Debentures and of this Preferred Stock.

Listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange.

Application will be made to list this Preferred Stock and the Common Stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

Price per share $97.50 and accrued dividends

A limited amount of Common Stock of the Corporation is available for subscription at the price of $38 per share.

This Preferred Stock is offered for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. Legal matters in connection with the issuance of this Preferred Stock are to be passed upon by Messrs. Murray, Aldrich & Roberts for the bankers and by Messrs. White & Case for the Corporation. It is expected that interim certificates or temporary stock certificates will be available for delivery on or about September 1, 1927.

"Ahead of All Other Publications"

"We up here in the north country of New York State place The New York Times ahead of all other publications, either at home or abroad, as a newspaper. It is the greatest because it reflects with the closest degree of accuracy the high ideals of disinterested journalistic effort. It is a newspaper that aims to present in its news columns full reports, free from editorial or other bias, and in its editorial columns to give a fair statement of opinion and conclusion on that which is contained in its news columns. The public readily distinguishes and appraises these qualities of disinterested and unselfish journalism."

BOND TRADING FIRM IN LIGHT MARKET

Most of the Transactions Occur in Convertibles and Similar Issues.

BROOKLYN GAS ADVANCES

Gains 2½ Points, Going to 228½—Railroad Issues Steady—Foreign Bonds Slightly Higher.

The bond market was firm yesterday, but transactions were not on a large scale. The movements were mostly in convertible and similar issues that respond quickly to fluctuations in the stock market. In the general market the firmness appeared to be due more to a scarcity of offerings than to any aggressive demand. Low money rates and prospects that they will continue acted as a support for the present level of values.

The announcement that a third exchange offer will be made to holders of the Second Liberty bonds still outstanding was received too late to have any effect on the market, but it created a more favorable attitude toward the long-term bonds of the Government. The plan of the Treasury to offer short-term securities in exchange for the Second Liberty bonds removed the fear that the supply of long-term securities would be enlarged through the refunding operation. The Government bond list yesterday was quiet, but there were slight advances in the Treasury 4¼s of 1946-56 and the 3¼s of 1943-47.

Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s, which have had a remarkable rise in the last few months, advanced 8½ points yesterday, reaching a new high point at 228½. These bonds have sold this year as low as 156. The advances have been due to strength in the stock into which they may be converted. The stock advanced more than 10 points yesterday. Other spots of strength among the convertibles included Erie 4s, series D, which gained ¾ of a point; Delaware & Hudson 5s, with an advance of ¾, and International Paper 6s, which moved ¾. Most of the standard railroad issues were steady. Rubber issues were well supported, with fractional gains in Goodyear 8s and United States Rubber 5s.

Poland 6s, with an advance of 1¼ points, furnished one of the features of the foreign list. Foreign bonds in general were slightly higher.

PUBLIC SERVICE ADDS STOCK

New Jersey Corporation to Issue More 6% Preferred Shares.

Preliminary to the popular ownership campaign which the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey will start Oct. 1, the directors have authorized the issuance of at least 175,566 additional shares of 6 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value. The new stock will be offered to holders of outstanding 8, 7 and 6 per cent. preferred stocks on the basis of one share of new preferred for each four shares of any class of preferred stock held as of July 7. The stock not subscribed for by present stockholders will be offered to the general public under the popular ownership campaign. Holders of outstanding preferred stock will have the privilege of subscribing for the additional stock at $100 per share, payable in full with subscription on or before Sept. 1, or in ten installments of $10 per share monthly.

Subscriptions will be received for full shares only, but arrangements will be made by T. W. Van Middlesworth, treasurer, for the acquisition of additional fractional rights in the event that stockholders entitled to subscribe for fractional shares wish to exercise their option. The additional stock has full voting power and is entitled to monthly dividends at the rate of 6 per cent. annually, from Sept. 1.

$4,225,000 OFFERED BY UNITED STEEL

Part of Issue Will Be Sold in Holland—Follows Recent $30,000,000 Sale.

$1,700,000 IN UTILITY BONDS

Central Cities Telephone Securities Offered With a $700,000 Issue to Provide Acquisitions.

The principal bond issue offered today is that of $4,225,000 United Steel Works Corporation 25-year, 6½ per cent. sinking fund mortgage bonds, series "C," which is being offered at a price of 97½, to yield about 6.70 per cent., by a syndicate headed by Dillon, Read & Co., International Acceptance Bank and the J. Henry Schroder Banking Corporation. A portion of this issue will be offered simultaneously in Holland by Mendelssohn & Co. and Nederlandsche Handel Maatschappij.

This issue follows the recent sale of $30,000,000 of debentures of the company which were marketed by the same group. The series "C" bonds, which are without stock purchase warrants, are callable as a whole, or in part, on any interest date, at prices ranging from 105 to and including June 1, 1931, to 100 for the last ten years prior to maturity in 1951.

Offering of an issue of $1,700,000 Central Cities Telephone Company, fifteen-year, 6 per cent. first lien collateral sinking fund bonds, priced at 98½, to yield more than 6.12 per cent., is being made by a banking group headed by Hambleton & Co. The proceeds of this issue, together with $700,000 two-year 5½ per cent. notes, will provide funds for acquiring additional properties, retiring the company's outstanding funded debt and for other corporate purposes.

The company recently purchased three independent companies operating in Indiana and Iowa and is consolidating eight local companies in Iowa to be known as the Iowa State Telephone Company. Net income for the year ended May 31, 1927, was about 2.3 times the annual interest requirements on this issue.

The National City Company announces that the issue of $15,000,000 Rhine-Westphalia Electric Power Corporation mortgage 6s, due 1952, offered by them yesterday morning, had been sold and the subscription books closed.

Brokers Market 60,000 Shares for National Radiator, 15,000 for Electric Investors.

Stock offerings scheduled for today total in principal $7,301,250, representing the marketing of financing measures for a radiator merger and a public utility holding company. Along with these offerings of stock came the announcement of a coming offering of 30,000 shares of a metals company.

J. & W. Seligman & Co., Charles D. Barney & Co. and Jackson & Curtis are offering today 60,000 shares of new $7 cumulative convertible preferred stock of the National Radiator Corporation at $97.50 a share and accrued dividends. The offer marks the second step in financing of the corporation, the first having been the marketing of $12,000,000 of 6½ per cent. debentures, which were sold on Tuesday by the Seligman and Barney companies and the Bankers Trust Company.

Each share of this new preferred stock will be convertible at any time into two shares of common stock of the corporation, with a cash adjustment for dividends. The stock, which has no par value, is redeemable in whole or part on any dividend date at $120 per share and accrued dividends.

Offering is made by Bonbright & Co. of 15,000 shares of $6 cumulative preferred stock of the Electric Investors, Inc., at $96.75 per share and accrued dividends to yield 6.20 per cent. This offering marks additional financing for the company, whose principal business has been to acquire for long term investment securities of public utility companies. As of May 31, the market value of securities owned by the company was $43,152,769, which, excluding the proceeds of this sale, is equivalent to about $390 a share on the 110,645 shares of preferred stock to be presently outstanding.

Richardson, Hill & Co. soon will offer 30,000 shares of no-par common stock of the General Alloys Company. According to the bankers, the company's chief customers are the Ford Motor Company, the General Motors Corporation, the Pennsylvania Railroad, the International Harvester Company, the Hyatt Roller Bearings Company, Dodge Brothers, and several other automobile concerns.

CHICAGO BOND SALE TODAY.

Active Bidding Is Expected on $5,000,000 Sanitary Issue.

Active bidding is expected to characterize the sale today of $5,000,000 Chicago Sanitary District 4½ per cent. bonds, due serially from 1 to 20 years. This is the largest issue of municipal bonds scheduled for offering in the near future. In addition to New York syndicates, it is expected that several groups of Chicago banking institutions may submit tenders for the bonds.

The State of Delaware will market an issue of $500,000 4 per cent. highway bonds, due in forty years, on Wednesday, Aug. 17, according to word from Howard M. Ward, State Treasurer.

Offering of a new issue of $633,000 City of Bayonne, N. J., 4¼ per cent. bonds, due July 1, 1928 to 1964, is being made today by the National City Company at prices to yield 4 to 4.125 per cent. The city's taxable property is reported as $158,625,057 for 1927, with the net bonded debt $6,496,837. The bonds are issued for general improvements and are payable from unlimited taxes.

Values Omaha Stock Yards.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP).—A tentative valuation for the Union Stock Yards at Omaha as of June 30, 1919, was fixed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission at $1,447,100. The corporation's book investment on the same date was $2,822,544.

$13,859,250 on Market Today; $6,558,000 Is in New Bonds

New securities totaling $13,859,250 will be publicly offered today by New York banking houses and syndicates. Of the total $6,558,000 consists of bonds and the remainder of preferred stock.

The new offerings of bonds are classified as follows:

Industrial	$4,225,000
Public utility	1,700,000
Municipal	633,000

POSTPONE OFFERING OF EDISON BONDS

Southern California Issue of $35,000,000 to Reach Market Middle of Next Month.

OTHER ISSUES HELD BACK

Many Said to Have Been Delayed by Conditions Following Heavy Buying of Last Spring.

A $35,000,000 issue of bonds of the Southern California Edison Company will be publicly offered about the middle of September instead of this month, as had been supposed when plans for the financing were announced several weeks ago. The offering will be made by a syndicate headed by Harris, Forbes & Co., which for years has underwritten the financing of the Southern California Edison Company, one of the largest utility organizations in the country.

A large number of bond offerings have been postponed until September or later because of conditions in the market that followed the heavy financing of the Spring, but it was said that these conditions did not apply in the case of the Southern California Edison issue. The company has called for redemption on Oct. 1 its refunding 6 per cent. bonds, amounting to about $25,000,000 and due in 1943. The refunding 6s are being retired at a price of 105. The new financing was arranged in connection with this refunding, but no date had been set for the offering, and the price had not been determined.

The company's strong cash position makes the date of the new offering immaterial. It was pointed out also that if the offering is made about the middle of September and delivery of the bonds is made about two weeks later, the company will avoid paying double interest, as the refunding 6s will be called in on Oct. 1.

The Southern California Edison Company usually spends about $10,000,000 a year in additions and betterments of its properties, and the balance of the new issues left after the retirement of the 6s will be devoted to these purposes. The company's last financing consisted of the sale of $40,000,000 of 5 per cent. bonds in the Summer of 1926, through a syndicate composed of Harris, Forbes & Co., E. H. Rollins & Sons and Coffin & Burr, Inc.

The issues being held back to await greater activity in the bond market are mostly foreign loans. Supplies on dealers' shelves are being steadily reduced, and a steady investment demand is reported. Normal conditions are predicted by the time new financing is resumed on a large scale early in the Autumn.

14 ISSUES ACCEPTED FOR EXCHANGE LISTING

Kraft Cheese, Bangor & Aroostook and Southern Pacific Among the New Offerings.

Fourteen issues of securities were accepted for listing on the New York Stock Exchange by the Governing Committee yesterday. The Kraft Cheese Company's application to list 10,377 shares of $25 par common stock, representing the amount of stock dividends, reveals that the company had to borrow this stock because permission to issue the stock was not received in time from the Exchange.

This company also discloses in its application that since December, 1926, it has acquired as wholly owned subsidiaries the North American Cold Storage Company and the Maltoat Products Company. Other listings announced by the Exchange yesterday follow:

Bangor & Aroostook Railroad Company, 29,360 shares of $50 par common stock; additional listing.

Southern Pacific Company, $20,000,000 of Oregon Lines first mortgage 4½ per cent. bonds, Series A, due March 1, 1977; new listing.

City of Yokohama external loan of 1926, $19,740,000 of sinking fund 6 per cent. bonds, dated Dec. 1, 1926, due Dec. 1, 1961; new listing.

City of Cordoba, Argentine Republic, $4,669,500 of 7 per cent. external sinking fund bonds of 1927, due Aug. 1, 1957; new listing.

Erie Steam Shovel Company, $3,000,000 of 7 per cent. cumulative convertible preferred stock and $2,514,260 of $5 common stock; new listings.

Republic of Costa Rica, $8,000,000 of external secured sinking fund 7 per cent. bonds, 1926, due Nov. 1, 1951; new listing.

Postum Company, Inc., $2,928 shares of no par common stock, issued in connection with acquisition of Walter Baker & Co., Ltd., additional listing.

Pullman, Inc., 3,375,000 shares of no par capital stock, issued in connection with reorganization plan; new listing.

Gulf States Steel Company, $4,000,000 of 15-year sinking fund debentures, due June 1, 1942; new listing.

United States Leather Company, 166,496 shares of 7 per cent. cumulative prior preference stock, 249,742 shares of no par Class A stock and 647,753 shares of no par common stock; new listings.

National American to Add Stock.

The stockholders of the National American Company, Inc., voted yesterday to increase the capital stock from 125,000 to 250,000 shares, without par value, to buy the properties and stocks of other corporations. It is expected that announcements regarding acquisitions now under consideration will be made soon, but David H. Knott, President of the company, said at the meeting that in view of the nature of these negotiations no definite announcements could be made now.

SAYS STATES OFFSET FEDERAL ECONOMIES

HIS FIGURES ARE DENIED

Debate on Costs of Government Holds Centre of Stage at Virginia Institute.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 10.—Taking issue with Mark Graves, New York State Tax Commissioner, Ogden L. Mills, Under Secretary of the Treasury, told the Institute of Public Affairs tonight that State and local Governments were wiping out all gains for economy made by the Federal Government.

He held up the State of New York as one of the worst offenders, declaring that its "waste and extravagance" were probably duplicated in other States and cities. While the National Administration reduced taxes and lowered the public debt, he said, localities swelled their expenditures, raised their taxes and borrowed heavily by "mortgaging the future."

"In New York," Mr. Mills declared, "the restraining influence of the Legislature on the spending proclivities of the executive departments is nowhere near as strong as it should be, and in New York City, where one party is in complete control of every branch of the Government, there is no check at all."

Pointing out that while Federal taxes declined 30 per cent. between 1921 and 1926, State taxes increased 61 per cent. and local taxes 30 per cent., he asked his audience, "what's the use?"

Graves Denies Mills's Figures.

To this Mr. Graves retorted in a statement issued after the speech that the argument was "characteristic of Mr. Mills and other Federal officials" in that "just enough years to give a favorable showing to the Federal Government" had been selected. Excluding expenditures for past or future wars, the Federal Government from 1915 through 1926 increased its expenditures 233 per cent., he said.

"While our eyes have been turned to Washington," Mr. Mills said in his address, "and we have been voicing our satisfaction over the accomplishments there, we have failed to note what was happening at home. Gratified with the steady reduction in the cost of the Federal Government, we have been neglectful of the fact that the costs of State and local Governments were rising so steadily as to offset and wipe out practically all of our gains. Far from being lower, our total taxes were actually higher in 1926 than in any preceding year, except 1920 and 1921, and only $227,000,000 lower than the peak year of 1920.

"While Federal taxes were reduced from $4,905,000,000 in 1921 to $3,417,000,000 in 1926, State and local increased from $3,933,000,000 to $5,348,000,000.

"There is one great evil to be noted in connection with the decrease of Federal taxes and the increase of State and local," he continued, "which I might as well mention at this time. If we had our choice as to which group was to be reduced, I would favor State and local.

Says Local Taxes Fall on Property.

"Generally speaking, Federal taxes are fairly well divided between direct and indirect, and give recognition to the principle of ability to pay. But our State and local tax systems are inequitable, unscientific and fall to a very large extent on one form of property—real property. Thus in New York City it has been estimated that anywhere from two to three months' rent is not rent at all, but taxes, a condition which is particularly burdensome where the supply of cheap housing facilities is limited and where a tenement house problem exists."

Mr. Mills gave figures to show that from 1924 to 1926 the Federal Government lowered its expenditures by $350,000,000, but there was an increase of $509,000,000 in the disbursements of all State and local Governments. The Federal Government, he said was also paying off its debts, but the other Governments were floating bond issues to help defray the costs.

"New York State has been one of the worst offenders," he declared, "for its combined local and State debt has increased from $103.43 to $185.36 per capita from 1913 to 1925.

"The trouble in Albany is that the cost ascertaining machinery is inadequate. That can be cured by the establishment of a budget bureau similar to the Federal one, providing there is the same will in Albany to use such an instrumentality to the full purpose for which it is intended. If there is not such a will and purpose then the mere establishment of the machinery will accomplish nothing."

Mr. Graves, whose difference of opinion with both General H. M. Lord, director of the Federal budget, and Mr. Mills, has centered the entire interest of the institute on the debate, said in his statement:

"The fact is that ordinary and postal revenue of the Federal Government increased from $10.01 per capita in 1915, to $34 in 1926, or 239 per cent. In that period per capita expenditures from ordinary and postal receipts increased 233 per cent.

"It is claimed that interest and principal on the war debt and expenditures for the army, navy and pensions account for the increase, we find by deleting them that the other expenditures of the Federal Government increased from a per capita of $5.29 in 1915 to $17.06 in 1926, or 233 per cent.

"On the other hand, the financial statistics of States published by the Federal Government show that per capita revenue for all States increased from $4.66 in 1915 to $13.19 in 1925, or 183 per cent., while their payments for expenses and interest increased from $4.06 to $9.87, or 144 per cent."

The Government's compilation of the financial statistics of cities of 30,000 or more showed a revenue increase for the same period of 107 per cent., Mr. Graves declared, and an expenditure increase of 100 per cent.

Professor Thomas W. Page, of Washington, blamed the tariff for raising the costs of manufactured goods to farmers and bringing them no benefits.

"As long as we have to sell a large part of our farm surplus in foreign markets the price for it in the home market is not going above the foreign prices," he said.

"In consequence the home market has never raised the price of farm staples above the foreign level and never will do so unless it becomes big enough to take all our farmers' produce and leave no surplus for export. When that time comes the city dwellers will so far outnumber the farmers that they will do as they did in England, that is, insist on buying their food and raw materials wherever they can get them cheapest."

The Company will agree to refund to holders of these Series 1927 Bonds, upon proper and timely application, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and California Personal Property Taxes not exceeding four mills per annum each, Maryland Securities Tax not exceeding four and one-half mills per annum, District of Columbia and Kentucky Personal Property Taxes not exceeding five mills per annum each and Massachusetts Income Tax not exceeding 6% per annum on the interest.

Business: Central Cities Telephone Company, a Delaware corporation, through its operating subsidiaries, furnishes telephone service, without competition, to 27 towns and adjacent rural areas in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa. The combined population of the communities served is estimated to be about 130,000. The system comprises 27 exchanges, operating 18,981 stations or connections. The properties have been in continuous successful operation for over 20 years and cordial public relations with the communities served have been established. By means of interconnections with the Bell Telephone System and with independent companies, through contract, subscribers are provided with a nation-wide service.

Security: These Bonds will, in the opinion of counsel, be secured by a first lien upon all of the outstanding capital stock (except directors' qualifying shares), and upon all outstanding indebtedness, if any, and bonds (except current indebtedness not in excess of current assets and $99,000 principal amount of underlying first mortgage bonds of Fairfield Telephone Company) of the Company's present subsidiaries; the securities representing such outstanding stock, indebtedness and bonds to be deposited and pledged with the Trustee under the Indenture. The Indenture will provide that no additional capital stock, bonds or other indebtedness (other than current indebtedness) may be issued by any of the Company's present subsidiaries unless such stock, bonds and indebtedness shall forthwith be pledged with the Trustee as additional security for the Bonds.

Additional Bonds of any series may be issued under restrictions to be provided in the Indenture.

Valuations: The operating properties, including working capital and going-concern values, have been recently appraised by Messrs. Hagenah & Erickson, Engineers, Chicago, at a reproduction cost of $3,724,490 and at a sound depreciated value of $3,190,124.

Maintenance and Renewal Fund: The Indenture will provide that during each calendar year, the Company shall expend or cause to be expended by its subsidiaries an amount not less than 20% of the consolidated gross operating income for the preceding calendar year for maintenance, renewals and replacements; and for such other purposes as are to be stated and defined in the Indenture.

Earnings: Consolidated earnings of the operating subsidiaries for the years ended May 31, 1926 and May 31, 1927, respectively (after adjustment to eliminate certain non-recurring charges), as certified by Messrs. Murphy, Lanier & Quinn, Accountants and Auditors, were as follows:

Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Taxes (other than Federal Income)	237,421.82	233,502.86
Balance	$240,090.62	$229,579.75
Interest on underlying bonds	6,000.00	6,000.00
Net Income available for Interest, Depreciation and Federal Taxes	$234,090.62	$223,579.75
Annual Bond Interest Requirement on this issue	102,000.00	102,000.00

Net Income, as shown above, for the year ended May 31, 1927, was approximately 2.3 times the annual interest requirement on the Series 1927 Bonds presently to be issued.

Sinking Fund: The Indenture will provide that the Company will pay to the Trustee as a Sinking Fund for the Series 1927 Bonds, on or before the first day of February in each year, beginning February 1, 1929, to and including February 1, 1936, an amount equal to 1% of the amount of Series 1927 Bonds outstanding on the next preceding December 31, and thereafter to and including February 1, 1942, an amount equal to 1½% of the amount of Series 1927 Bonds outstanding on the next preceding December 31, to be applied in the purchase and/or redemption of Series 1927 Bonds at not exceeding the then applicable redemption price. Payments to the Sinking Fund may be made in cash and/or in Series 1927 Bonds to be taken at cost to the Company or at the then applicable redemption price, whichever shall be lower.

Management: The operation of these properties is in the hands of capable and efficient telephone men, a number of whom have been connected with the properties for years.

We offer these Bonds if, when and as issued and accepted by us, and subject to the approval of legal proceedings by counsel. Legal proceedings will be passed upon by Messrs. Cotten & Franklin, New York, for the underwriters, and by Messrs. Chapman and Cutler, Chicago, for the Company. Audits by Messrs. Murphy, Lanier & Quinn, Accountants and Auditors. Engineering examinations and valuations by Messrs. Hagenah & Erickson. It is expected that delivery will be made, in the form of temporary bonds or Trust Company interim receipts, on or about August 22, 1927.

These securities are offered on express condition that no statement above constitutes any representation, guaranty or warranty by us.

Price 98½ and interest, yielding over 6.12%

15,000 Shares

Electric Investors Inc.

(A Maine Corporation)

Preferred Stock

(No Par Value)

Cumulative dividends of $6 per share per annum.

Dividends payable quarterly February 1, May 1, August 1 and November 1. Preferred as to dividends and assets over the Common Stock of the Company. Redeemable as a whole or in part, at the option of the Company, at any time upon thirty days' notice at $110 per share and accumulated dividends.

From the letter of Mr. S. Z. Mitchell, President of the Company, we summarize as follows:

Business Electric Investors Inc. was organized in September, 1924, and, on December 1, 1924, was consolidated with the Electrical Utilities Corporation which had been doing a similar business since 1909. Its principal business has been to acquire, for long term investment, securities of various kinds, especially the common stocks of successful and progressive public utility companies.

The revenue of the Company is derived from dividends and interest upon its investments, commissions received in connection with financial transactions, and profits realized from sale of securities owned.

The management is identified with that of the Electric Bond and Share Company and has had long experience in making public utility investments.

Earnings The Statement of Income for the twelve months ended May 31, 1927, shows, after the deduction of expenses, taxes and interest, a balance available for dividends equal to over 4.7 times the annual dividend requirements of all $6 and $7 Preferred Stock presently to be outstanding, including this issue. All securities purchased are carried at cost; therefore, the earnings do not show the enhancement in market value over the book value of securities owned by the Company. Stock dividends are included as income at market price on date received.

WILLYS-OVERLAND REPORTS PROFITS

Shows $5,238,053 for First Half of 1927, Equal to $1.83 on the Common Stock.

SALES TOTAL 123,665 CARS

The report of the Willys-Overland Company for the first half of 1927 shows a net profit after estimated Federal tax, interest and expenses, of $5,238,053, equivalent after dividends of $607,099 on the 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, of $100 per value, to $1.83 a share earned on 2,526,362 outstanding shares of $5 par common stock, or at the rate of $3.66 per annum. The surplus at June 30, 1927, amounted to $29,656,276, against $25,006,320 at the close of 1926. Profit from operations and other income, after depreciation of plant and equipment and expenses, was $6,782,475.

Continuing its policy of charging off practically all intangible items, deferred expense items are carried on the balance sheet on June 30 at $727,495, comparing with $637,533 on Dec. 31, 1926; inventories of merchandise were $21,058,235, against $28,247,135; time certificates of deposit, $110,000, against $6,365,000, and cash, $16,552,165, against $563,440; current assets were $40,591,975, against $54,286,993, and total assets, $77,134,415, against $70,586,023.

Cash on hand at June 30, 1926, was $9,943,000, so that the increase in a year's time has been 66 per cent., and merchandise inventories a year ago were $33,556,118, showing a reduction of $12,497,883 in a year.

Current liabilities were $11,062,201, against $8,144,768 at the end of 1926, so that the net working capital was $29,529,774, against $26,142,225 at the close of 1926.

According to John N. Willys, President of the company, the results of operations for the first half-year are highly satisfactory. Sales totaled 123,665 cars, against 96,000 cars for the same period last year, and exceed any previous six months' operations.

"Rigid control of inventory and economy in operation have combined with a smooth flow of sales to produce a financial position which is not only a source of strength for current operations, but a sound fortification in the event of any unusual competitive activity." Mr. Willys said. "Dealer field stocks of cars in the last sixty days have been reduced almost 25 per cent. Branch house stocks have been reduced approximately 50 per cent. during the same period. Dealers used car stocks are in a healthy condition. Sales of Whippet and Willys-Knight lines are strong, and there is sound indication of a continuance of good business."

Norwalk Tire Shows a Profit.

The report of the Norwalk Tire and Rubber Company for the June quarter shows a net profit of $33,323, after expenses, interest and depreciation, equivalent, after preferred dividend requirements, to 8 cents a share earned on 150,000 shares of $10 par common stock. This compares with a net loss of $46,953, after above deductions, in the first quarter. The net loss for the half year amounts to $13,630.

N. Y. CENTRAL REPORTS INCREASE IN REVENUE

The New York Central Railroad reports operating revenues of $192,439,285 in the six months to June 30, against $192,356,108 in the same period last year, and net income after expenses, taxes, &c., of $25,512,301, against $25,136,311. Operating revenues in the three months to June 30 were $98,701,916, against $99,099,965, and net income $14,350,105, against $15,216,838. Earnings for June have been announced previously.

Erie to Build New Passaic Station.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 10.—The Erie Railroad will build a new main station, R. S. Parson, Vice President and Chief Engineer of the railroad, informed City Counsel J. J. Weinberger this morning. Work on tearing down the old station, which was wrecked by fire months ago, will begin Monday, he said. The case against the railroad by the city, which charged a violation of the building code, has been deferred for one month. City Counsel Weinberger had threatened to have the station torn down, if the railroad did not remove it.

Southern Pacific Lays Heavy Rail.

The Southern Pacific Railway has started relaying its main line mileage on the Texas & Louisiana lines with 110-pound rail in place of the 90-pound rail. Increases in freight traffic are given as the reasons for installation of heavier weight of rail. According to one official, the new 110-pound rails will be replaced with a heavier grade if the freight business of the road continues to improve.

Erie Orders Steel Dining Cars.

The Erie Railroad has ordered four steel dining cars for use in its New York-Chicago and New York-Cleveland connections, according to reports in Wall Street yesterday. The order was awarded to the Pullman Car and Manufacturing Company, it was said.

National City Bank to Offer Scholarships to Ten Employes

The National City Bank will make scholarships available for a number of its employes. The ten employes making the highest grades in an intelligence test will have the choice as to the school which they wish to attend and will have their expenses refunded, 50 per cent. at the successful completion of each term and 50 per cent. when the degree or diploma is awarded.

The offer is limited to high school graduates or others among the bank's employes eligible to enter a university.

SEE UPWARD TREND IN IRON AND STEEL

Reviews Find Prospects Are Definitely on the Increase, Though Sluggish.

STRUCTURAL DEMAND GAINS

Iron Review Expresses Disappointment in Failure of Automotive Schedules to Rebound.

Prospects better than performance in most finished steel lines is the opinion expressed by the current weekly iron and steel trade reviews, which point out that the steel ingot output was lower in July than in any month since July, 1925, some gain in unfilled finished steel orders during the month, continuing weakness in prices of heavier materials, and a slight falling off in steel production.

"The moderate improvement which has characterized the markets since mid-July all but succumbed to midsummer inertia, "The Iron Trade Review says, "but producers appear to be holding slight gains of previous weeks and to be no less confident that the trend in demand is definitely though sluggishly upward.

"Disappointment arises chiefly in the failure of automotive schedules to rebound as expected, and August steel shipments to this industry may not exceed those of July. The demand of structural material, on the other hand, is surprisingly heavy. Individually, orders for steel show a gain over thirty days ago, but the products involved do not run up into any sizable tonnage.

"Steelmaking must be stepped up the remainder of the month if the tradition of increase in August is to be maintained.

"Covering for the remainder of the year, accounts are for considerable increased activity in pig iron. Beehive coke prices are responding to curtailed production. Cast iron pipe prices have sunk further. Iron and steel scrap are advancing sentimentally, much more rapidly than quotations indicate."

According to The Iron Age, "the steel industry expects August to be much like July in new orders and shipments, whereas a year ago, under expanding demand, the largest August output on record was reached.

"With this week's ingot production of the Steel Corporation at 67 per cent., against 70 per cent. a week ago, the industry as a whole is probably running at 60 to 65 per cent. of capacity. The rate for the entire Chicago district, which for a long time has been well above the average for the country, is down this week to 67 per cent. because of lessened shipments to the railroads.

"The sharp competition on structural shapes noticed for some weeks has now extended to Chicago. Building is in good volume, larger in some districts, yet fabricators continue to cut prices and then turn to the steel companies for corresponding concessions."

The week's low-priced sales of pig iron have carried The Iron Age composite price down to $18.13, from $18.34 last week. It is now within 11 cents of the lowest price in more than ten years, of February, 1922. The finished steel composite remains at 2.367 cents per pound for the ninth week.

The Iron Trade Review's composite price on fourteen leading iron and steel products this week is $36.24, comparing with $36.26 last week and $36.86 the previous week.

PICKS HUDSON BAY'S PORT.

Engineer Will Recommend Fort Churchill for Terminal of Railroad.

PORT NELSON, Manitoba, Aug. 10 (AP).—Fort Churchill will be recommended to the Government as the terminal port of the Hudson Bay railway by Frederick Palmer, Government engineer.

"I shall recommend Churchill to the Government as the Hudson Bay port," Mr. Palmer said. "It is a natural harbor in which practically unlimited shipping accommodations can be provided in the shortest time and at a minimum of cost."

C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways, said that the Government will act immediately on Mr. Palmer's recommendation.

"I have had the opportunity of going over every engineering fact regarding Nelson and Churchill with the aid of the best engineering advice obtainable," Mr. Dunning declared, "and feel sure the detailed report will carry conviction to all as to the wisdom of the course proposed. The department will proceed at once to push forward work at Churchill from the sea end, and the Canadian National Railways, acting for the department, will complete construction of the remaining railroad link as speedily as possible."

Comparing Churchill and Nelson, he said that Churchill "is accessible for 30-foot vessels at all stages of the tide, whereas Nelson can only be made available, by extensive dredgings, for 26-foot vessels over periods averaging three hours each, twice in every twenty-four hours of the shipping season."

26 Locomotives Ordered in July.

Twenty-six locomotives were ordered in July, according to Railway Age. Pennsylvania will build twenty-five at its Altoona shops, and American Locomotive will build one for Laville-Henderson Company, St. Louis. During the month 1,450 freight cars were ordered, including 1,000 box cars for the Chicago Great Western, divided equally between Standard Steel Car and General American Car. Great Northern ordered 250 gondolas from Pressed Steel Car, and Rock Island ordered 100 from American Car and Foundry.

REPORTS INCREASE IN UNFILLED ORDERS

PICK-UP IN LAST TEN DAYS

Stock Responds to Statement, but Closes Lower—Ingot Production Drops.

Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation increased by 88,768 tons in July, business on the books as of the end of the month aggregating 3,142,014 tons, as compared with 3,053,246 tons on June 30.

The increase was close to recent Wall Street expectations. Ten days ago a very slight gain was being predicted. As the time for the publication of the official statement approached, however, the estimates were revised upward, and within the last two or three days it had been pretty generally assumed that an increase of nearly 100,000 tons would be revealed.

Apparently there was a good pick-up in forward buying in the last ten days of July. Both operations and shipments had been light in the first two or three weeks of the month, according to the best available information. The improvement in new orders in the last few days of the month seems, on the basis of yesterday's figures, to have justified the most sanguine forecasts of the financial district. The increase at the end of June was slightly more than 2,000 tons, which, while small, was distinctly encouraging because the trade and Wall Street had anticipated a falling off.

United States Steel common responded briskly to the tonnage statement in the noon trading on the Stock Exchange, but declined later. The stock opened at 123¾, touched a high of 124⅝, a low of 122⅝ and closed at 123⅝, for a net loss of 1 point.

The following table shows the unfilled orders of the Steel Corporation for the last three years:

1927.	1926.	1925.
July 3,142,014	4,602,528	3,538,467
June 3,053,246	4,478,648	3,710,458
May 3,050,941	4,640,250	4,049,990
April 3,456,153	4,867,970	4,446,589
March 3,553,140	4,870,686	4,861,564
February ... 3,597,119	4,616,822	5,264,771
January 3,800,177	4,882,739	5,037,393
1926.	1925.	1924.
December ... 3,940,909	5,053,394	4,816,676
November ... 3,807,447	4,581,780	4,031,969
October 3,683,661	4,109,183	3,525,270
September ... 3,583,502	3,717,297	3,473,780
August 3,513,903	3,513,903	3,209,077

The average production of steel ingots in the last week has shown a decrease of about 3 per cent., it was estimated yesterday. The United States Steel Corporation is operating at slightly less than 68 per cent. of capacity, compared with slightly less than 72 per cent. a week before. Independent steel companies are operating at 63 per cent., as contrasted with 65 per cent. a week before, while the industry as a whole is operating at between 65 and 66 per cent., against 68 and 69 per cent. a week earlier.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10.—The Steel Corporation's increase of 88,768 tons in unfilled obligations during July is less than was commonly expected in the trade here, and is less than the estimated decrease from June in the corporation's shipments. This would seem to indicate that bookings decreased somewhat from June to July, and certainly there was no increase of any consequence.

Both months were rather light in bookings but ran well ahead of May. Except for heavy bookings in July of last year, both June and July have been light for the past three years.

American Rolling Mill Reports.

The net profit of the American Rolling Mill Company for the first half of 1927 amounted to $2,416,734, after depreciation, interest and Federal taxes, equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $2.17 a share earned on 925,527 shares of $25 par common stock. This compares with $1,946,509, or $1.66 a share, earned on the same share basis in the first half of 1926. The surplus, after dividends, was $1,076,512, against $636,852.

Surplus Freight Cars Decrease.

Class I railroads on July 21 had 278,275 surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service, the American Railway Association reported. This was a decrease of 18,112 as compared with July 22. Surplus coal cars on July 21 totaled 76,554, a decrease of 9,778 within a week, while surplus box cars totaled 154,437, a decrease of 5,603. Reports also showed 20,645 surplus stock cars, a decrease of 1,451, and 14,957 refrigerator cars, a decrease of 971.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

William G. Wells has been promoted from assistant general sales manager to assistant vice president of the National City Company and has been transferred from the Chicago office to Boston.

Benjamin Mosman, F. A. Brewer, William J. Sears and H. J. Lamade are with H. D. Williams & Co.

TEAGLE HINTS OBJECT OF GERMAN PATENTS

Suggests in London That Standard Will Try Only to Improve Petroleum Processes.

Copyright, 1927, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Walter C. Teagle, President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, said today that the agreement which he had just concluded with the German Dye Trust meant that his company's technical staff would attempt to apply to the refining of oil the discoveries made by the Germans in distilling oil from oil.

It is understood that the Standard is not interested in distilling gasoline from coal, but in seeing whether the new German process has any practical application for the oil industry. Theoretically, the process would greatly improve the present refining methods and, presumably, produce more gasoline at less cost. The production of synthetic gasoline as a substitute for gasoline refined from petroleum apparently is out of the question.

Mr. Teagle, not being a scientist, was unable to explain what the new German discoveries were, but, according to a dispatch from Cologne, the new process may be defined as an improvement on the cracking method of refining products of coal distillation. The cracking method is now commercially impracticable, as its products cannot compete with those derived from natural petroleum and the new process is said to be cheaper than the cracking method.

Although the German interests have been manufacturing synthetic gasoline for some time, none has appeared on the market. The new process is understood to improve the method of manufacturing synthetic ammonia, glycerol and other substances. The United States Government is said to be interested in the possibilities of ammoniacal gas for military purposes, according to the Cologne dispatch.

TO SUCCEED PLINY JEWELL.

Henry R. Hayes Slated for Head of Investment Bankers' Body.

Henry R. Hayes of Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc., is slated to succeed Pliny Jewell of Coffin & Burr, Inc., of Boston, as President of the Investment Bankers Association of America, it was announced yesterday. Mr. Hayes, who has been active in the association for several years, is now a Vice President and a member of the Business Conduct Committee.

The association will meet Sept. 24 in Seattle and will adopt a new constitution and by-laws. Special trains will leave New York on Sept. 17 and 18 for Vancouver, B. C. The bankers will proceed to Seattle on the Canadian Pacific steamship Princess Kathleen and after the convention will make a three-day trip through the inside passage on the Canadian coast.

The following nominations for other officers have been made by the Board of Governors: For Vice Presidents, Arthur H. Gilbert of Spencer Trask & Co., Chicago; Hugh W. Grove of First Wisconsin Company, Milwaukee; Jerome J. Hanauer of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; George Whitney of J. P. Morgan & Co., and Rollin A. Wilbur of the Herrick Company, Cleveland; for Secretary, Alden H. Little, Chicago; for Treasurer, Frank M. Gordon of First Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago.

Active Demand for Stock Loans.

There was an active demand for stocks in the stock loan market yesterday. Baldwin loaned at a premium of 1-128. General Motors and Yellow Truck were also borrowed quite heavily. The prevailing rate for industrials was 3½ per cent. and for rails 2½ per cent. Several issues loaned flat.

Commercial Credit Profit.

The net profit of the Commercial Credit Company for the first half of 1927 was $680,299, after interest, Federal taxes and other charges, comparing with $735,119 in the first half of 1926. Net profit for the June quarter was $504,984 after above charges, against $554,315 in the second quarter of 1926.

BROTHERHOOD IS SUED OVER DEAL BY BANK

Charge That Doubtful Securities Were Unloaded on Engineer's Investment Company.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10 (AP).—Suit was filed here today against the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers alleging that notes, properties and securities "of little or no value" had been "unloaded" by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Cooperative Bank here on the Brotherhood Investment Company, the holding company of all the brotherhood's financial undertakings.

The suit, brought by two stockholders of the investment company, asks for an accounting of all profits made by the bank in its dealings with the investment company and that all transactions be declared null and void which resulted in loss to the investment company.

A similar suit was filed last May against the then President and officers of the bank and investment company, but since that time the brotherhood's organization has been changed and new officers are in control. All officers of the brotherhood are named defendants in the latest action.

The suit is based on an alleged agreement signed May 27, 1925, by officers of the bank, which said that the investment company would suffer no loss through exchanges of securities, notes and properties.

The plaintiffs, Wildred F. Marr, Canton, Ohio, and William A. Walker, Pittsburgh, assert the investment company was started in 1922 with a capitalization of $10,000,000 and that its assets now are "practically valueless" because of the exchanges whit the brotherhood bank.

Two New National Banks Here.

Two more national banks will be opened in the Metropolitan district when charters are granted in response to applications filed with the Controller of the Currency at Washington. They will be the Clinton National Bank, of Brooklyn, with capital of $500,000, for which Judge W. Bernard Vause is correspondent. The other is the Rhinelander National Bank, for which Otto H. Droege is correspondent. This institution will probably be located uptown in New York on the east side.

British Trading Continues Firm and Quiet—Paris Turns Slack —Berlin Drops.

STERLING DROPS TO $4.86

Reichsbank's Optimistic Report on German Labor Market Encourages Business.

Copyright, 1927, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Owing to the beginning of the grouse shooting season, trading on the Stock Exchange today was quiet, but interest in miscellaneous lines was maintained.

Shares of cotton and artificial silk companies were again in demand.

Swedish Match and Columbia Graphophone were strong.

Rubber and oil stocks were firm, although trading in the latter group was mainly professional. Royal Dutch rose a quarter of a pound. Shell, after dropping, closed unchanged. Anglo-Persian gained a fraction.

De Beers fell one-eighth of a pound to 14 7-16. Rand Mines was unchanged at 3 25-32.

In the foreign exchange market, sterling declined one-eighth of a cent to $4.86.

Among American railway stocks, Louisville & Nashville rose $3.

Call money remained in demand, the rate rising to 4½ per cent.

Paris Trading Remains Slack.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—While slightly firmer than yesterday, the Bourse today remained in a condition of apathy, without transactions of importance. Buying continues extremely slack, and while some variations are noted from day to day, the lack of trading makes it impossible to deduce any definite trend.

Rentes weakened somewhat. Closing prices were: Threes 57.50, 4s of 1917 61.20 and 61.45, 4s of 1918 60.50 and 60.60, 5s 91.60, 6s 87.90.

Decline Sets in at Berlin.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—Trading on the Berlin Stock Exchange continued at a lively pace at the opening this morning following the activity in yesterday's business. However, due to the anxiety of speculators to cash in on their winnings, a less steady tone soon set in, and the decline of the mark abroad made the closing quiet.

Banks placed large orders early this morning and business was further encouraged by the Reichsbank's optimistic report on the labor market. German Dye Trust issues enjoyed a good day, advancing another 3 points, due to the conclusion last Sunday of the working agreement between the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Dye Trust.

German General Electric advanced 4 per cent, following the announcement of a 80,000,000-mark increase in capital and the report that a new issue of stock would be allotted as dividends.

The new Reich loan bonds reached a new low level at 89.09.

After the closing mining, paper and electric stocks were quoted at an average of 3 to 5 points above the official rating.

Day-to-day money continued plentiful at yesterday's rate. The private discount rate was unchanged, although there was a rumor of another ¼ per cent reduction to 5%.

Baltimore & Ohio closed at 103, Canadian Pacific at 88.25 and Pennsylvania at 120.

SEE PACIFIC RIVALRY BY CABLE COMPANIES

Business Men Expect Keen Fight With New Cable and Radio Systems in Prospect.

The disclosure, published in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday, that the Postal Telegraph-Commercial Cables system planned to augment its cable between the United States and China with radio service between San Francisco and Manila caused officials of other companies to conjecture yesterday on the economic aspect of the Pacific field of communications. Taken with the announcement by the Western Union that it planned a fast cable for the Pacific, the new development holds prospects of severe competition, they said. One opinion had it that both Mackay and Western Union interests were looking well into the future in their plans for absorbing increased business in the Pacific.

Mackay officials declined to confirm or deny the news of the Mackay plans for radio service in the Pacific. George V. McLaughlin, Vice President of the Mackay companies, issued the following statement:

"The news article appearing in the morning TIMES of Aug. 10 was not made by any representative of the Mackay companies and we have no means of learning its origin. If and when the Mackay companies have any plans for further expansion, a statement of such plans will be given out by an executive of the Mackay companies."

It was pointed out in communication company circles that the Commercial Pacific Cable Company could use radio to augment its present service between San Francisco and Shanghai without necessarily laying another cable between Manila and Shanghai. The Manila-Shanghai section of the Pacific cable is the shortest of any in the system. Its speed is therefore superior to other sections, and hence it might carry increased traffic provided by auxiliary radio equipment.

As indication that the Mackay system has considered the use of radio for some time, it was recalled that in 1922 these interests provided for the continuance of an arrangement with the Telefunken Company of Germany that placed the Mackay system in a position to supplement cable service with radio.

Dow Drug Stock Change Ratified.

The stockholders of the Dow Drug Company yesterday ratified the change in par value of the common stock from $100 to no par value. Two shares of no par common stock will be exchanged for each present share of $100 par value. There is now outstanding $400,000 7 per cent. $100 cumulative preferred stock and 8000,000 common stock of $100 par value.

REICHSBANK'S GOLD INCREASES $976,000

Foreign Currency Reserve Rises 11,927,000 Marks—Note Issue Up 158,461,000.

BERLIN, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Reichsbank report as of Aug. 6 shows the following changes, in reichsmarks:

Gold coin and bullion	increased	4,101,000
Deposits abroad	increased	4,125,000
Reserve in foreign currencies	increased	11,927,000
Bills of exchange and checks	decreased	154,612,000
Silver and other coins	decreased	1,285,000
Notes on other banks	increased	2,047,000
Advances	decreased	84,142,000
Investments	decreased	42,000
Other assets	increased	28,161,000
Notes in circulation	increased	158,461,000
Other maturing obligations	increased	14,858,000
Other liabilities	increased	1,925,000

Total gold holdings are now 1,805,148,000 reichsmarks.

The following is the Reichsbank's gold reserve for a series of recent weeks, compared with the two preceding years, in thousands of reichsmarks:

	1927.	1926.	1925.
July 30	1,801,047	1,405,605	1,104,136
July 15	1,801,538	1,402,304	1,068,672
July 7	1,802,123	1,402,269	1,065,601

The addition to the gold reserve since the low point of April, 1924, when it stood at 441,815,000 gold marks, amounts now to 1,363,333,000 gold marks, or $324,473,254. The highest gold reserve since the war was 1,852,194,000 marks on March 23, 1927. When the war began the bank's gold holdings were 1,252,199,000 marks. They were increased to 2,587,780,000 gold marks on Dec. 30, 1916, the highest point in its history.

Following is the Reichsbank's outstanding note circulation, in reichsmark denominations:

	1927.	1926.
Aug. 6	4,090,651,000	2,971,711,000
July 30	3,928,220,000	3,106,805,000
July 23	3,385,096,000	2,644,941,000
July 15	3,518,332,000	2,738,654,000
July 7	3,570,547,000	2,692,740,000

This week's note circulation is the highest reached since the war. Before the return to the gold standard the bank's circulation was stated on Oct. 31, 1924, at 1,780,930,000,000 of the old marks, but the great depreciation of the paper mark at that time made the gold value of the circulation then outstanding less than the present maximum.

TRANSFER TAX RULINGS.

Stock Exchange Announces Basis of Computations in Two Cases.

The New York Stock Exchange announced yesterday that in the case of securities with warrants attached, entitling a holder to subscribe to stock, the par value of which was expressed in foreign money, the United States stock transfer tax on such rights to subscribe would be computed on the basis of the rate of exchange for such foreign money at the time of the sale.

"For example," the Exchange announced, "if a $1,000 bond with a warrant attached entitling a holder to subscribe for fifty shares of stock, par value 100 lire each (a total of 5,000 lire), is transferred when the value of the lira is 5.44 cents, the 5,000 lire would be worth $272 in United States money and the transfer of each $1,000 bond must be accompanied by 6 cents of United States stock transfer stamps."

The Exchange also announced in cases where the charter of a corporation was amended to change the par value of its stock and the outstanding stock was to be exchanged for new stock, that on and after the date when such change became effective the stock transfer tax, both of the United States and of New York State, would be on the basis of the new shares to be issued in exchange for the old stock.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Most Rates Ease Off Under Pressure of New Offerings—Pesetas Recover.

Under leadership of sterling, which has been moving steadily upward for a period of nearly two weeks, the principal European foreign exchange rates eased off yesterday under pressure of offerings from domestic sources and from abroad. A notable exception, however, was the 4-point recovery of pesetas.

Argentine pesos featured the South American rates, reaching new highs on the movement and for the year at 42.57 for demand and 42.68 for cables. The Far Eastern exchanges were virtually unchanged from the previous day.

SHARES ARE FIRMER IN COUNTER MARKET

Activity in Insurance Issues Continues, With Interest in Chain Stores Revived.

W. T. GRANT COMMON RISES

In Some Sections, Mainly Industrials, Gains and Losses Are About Evenly Divided.

The list closed somewhat firmer on the unlisted securities market yesterday. There was a series of small buying waves during the day, but marked gains occurred only in a few favorites. In some sections of the list, notably the industrials, gains and losses were about evenly divided. Activity in insurance issues continued, and a return of interest in chain stores was noted.

The rise of W. T. Grant common was an interesting feature, and the stock advanced eight points on a large turnover. Newberry common also was strong, and Piggly Wiggly common showed a disposition to rise.

The market for insurance shares was spotty. Globe and Rutgers was strong, and Great American and North River also gained. Longacre, Stuyvesant and Fire Association eased slightly. Activity among the bank stocks appeared centred chiefly in Bowery and East River, Bankers' Trust and Bronx County.

Strength was shown in Rockwood common, Celluloid issues, Bunker Hill and Industrial Finance common, while smaller gains were realised by Welch Grape Juice preferred and Remington Arms common. Walker Dishwasher, Howe Scales preferred, American Manufacturing, Newport and Lehigh Portland Cement were easy. Interest was shown in Mountain States Power common and in Western States Gas and Electric, but utilities were quiet for the most part.

URGES TAX REVISION.

S. S. Conover Seeks Downward Trend of Federal Revenues.

Members of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation of 41 Park Row were asked yesterday by Samuel S. Conover, Chairman of the Committee on Finance and Taxation of the board to submit recommendations for a revision downward of the Federal Tax law.

"Needed revenue must be raised, of course," Mr. Conover said, "but where a situation is presented, as is now the case, where a surplus exists, the Federal Revenue Tax should be adjusted. Unnecessary taxation, like unreasonable overhead becomes a grave burden and impost to business and automatically to the individual. The New York Board of Trade and Transportation is already on record for a reduction with respect to certain phases of the Federal Revenue act.

"It is, therefore, necessary that the committee and board should give very serious consideration to this question and as a preliminary to calling a meeting of the committee I am asking its personal and other members of the board to submit recommendations in writing of proposed changes."

Transcontinental Oil Shows Loss.

The report of the Transcontinental Oil Company for the June quarter shows a net loss of $75,093 after interest, depreciation and depletion, but before Federal taxes, comparing with a profit of $215,780 in the previous quarter and a profit of $283,963 in the second quarter of 1926. The outstanding stock consists of 187,000 shares of 7 per cent. preferred and 2,742,023 shares of no par common stock. The profit for the first half of 1927 amounted to $140,687 before Federal taxes, against $368,836 in the first half of 1926.

Twin State Gas Reports.

For the quarter to June 30, the Twin State Gas and Electric Company and the Berwick and Salmon Falls Electric Company report gross revenue of $470,718 and net income of $110,459 after taxes, interest and retirements. Gross revenue in the year to June 30 was $1,953,454 and net after taxes, interest and retirements was $486,608.

NEW TANKER IS LAUNCHED.

Tide Water's Flagship Named for President Axtell J. Byles.

The Tide Water Associated Oil Company's new tanker Axtell J. Byles was christened by Mrs. Axtell J. Byles, wife of the President of the company. It was launched yesterday, following which a luncheon was given by the builders, the Sun shipbuilding and Drydock Company, at the Chester Valley Country Club, Chester, Pa.

This marks the completion of the Tide Water Associated Oil Company's present marine construction program. The new tanker is of 13,000 tons deadweight, straight sheltered deck type, with 4,000-horsepower quadruple expansion engines and a capacity of 90,000 barrels of oil. She will be the flagship of the company's fleet, which will be able to carry more than 4,000,000 barrels of oil a year from California to New York.

California Petroleum Net.

The net profit of the California Petroleum Corporation and subsidiary companies for the first half of 1927 amounted to $941,114, after all charges and Federal taxes, comparing with $3,578,065 in the first half of 1926. For the June quarter the net loss was $91,512, after above deductions, against a net profit of $2,331,180 in the second quarter of 1926.

Middle West Utilities Reports.

The Middle West Utilities Company and subsidiaries report for the June quarter a gross operating revenue of $22,712,205 and a net profit, after taxes, of $10,197,922. For the twelve months ended June 30, 1927, gross operating revenue was $91,366,742 and net income, after taxes, was $41,768,249.

Southwestern Gas Revenue.

For the year to June 30, the Southwestern Gas and Electric Company reports gross revenue of $1,280,797 and net of $274,783 after taxes, interest and retirements. In the year to June 30 gross was $5,048,380 and net after taxes, interest and retirements was $1,073,006.

BUOYANCY RETURNS TO CURB TRADING

Transactions Are on a Good Scale—Many Low-Priced Issues Are Favored.

MOST OILS ARE QUIET

Bulk of Utility Shares Rise and Chain Store Securities Show Slight Advances.

A return of confidence was manifested throughout the day on the New York Curb Exchange yesterday, and a buoyant tread was noted in most issues, the higher priced shares being somewhat disregarded in favor of low-priced issues. Trading was on a good scale, although outside of Standard of Indiana, Richmond Radiator and a few utilities no issues were particularly favored with the undivided attention of traders.

Pittsburgh & Lake Erie was strong and Alabama Great Southern rose to a new high, other rails remaining quiet. Oils were very quiet for the most part, Standard of Indiana moving within limits ¾ of a point apart, despite the large turnover. Transcontinental Oil preferred, Cheesbrough Manufacturing and Prairie Pipe gained a point each. Margay Oil, new, was quite strong and Illinois Pipe made a new high, which it failed to retain, closing ¼ point higher for the day.

Among the utilities the bulk of the list was moderately higher or unchanged. Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric, Jersey Central Power and Light preferred, Mohawk Hudson Power common, Newport Power common, Northern States Power A, Puget Sound preferred, New England Telephone and Telegraph and Mohawk Hudson Power first preferred were up about 2 points each, the latter two setting new highs for the year. Southern Cities Utilities preferred fell 5 points to a new low and Electric Power and Light second preferred A was the only other weak share in the section.

Among the chain stores most issues were slightly stronger, Safeway Stores dropping moderately and Newberry and Silver rising to new records, the latter reacting sharply at the close. Singer Manufacturing, United States Freight, Celanese first preferred, Deere & Co., Hellman and Midvale Delaware were other strong shares, while United States Finishing closed at a new high, and Richmond Radiator, after setting a new record, closing ½ point under the best, with a net gain of 4½ points.

CANADA DRY DEAL DENIED.

Postum Official Says No Negotiations Are Under Way.

Reports of a pending deal for the acquisition of the Canada Dry Ginger Ale Corporation by the Postum Company, Inc., were denied yesterday by officials of both companies. Wall Street continued to talk of a possible consolidation of the two companies, however, and before the close of the stock market day other companies were being mentioned as involved.

C. M. Chester, President of the Postum Company, Inc., denied that any negotiations are in progress looking to the acquisition of Canada Dry by his company. P. D. Sayler, President of Canada Dry, would not comment, but James Mathes, Vice President, joined with Mr. Chester in denying that a deal was under way. He said, however, according to a Philadelphia dispatch, that there had been some discussions.

CELLULOID NET $222,542.

Report for First Half Year Compares With $51,098 Loss in 1926.

The Celluloid Company reports a net profit of $222,542 for the first half of 1927, after depreciation and reserves, comparing with a net loss of $51,098 for the first half of 1926. Gross profit, before charges, was $528,786, against $117,037 in the first half last year. In 1926 no reserves were set up for inventory adjustments, losses from bad debts, contingencies and other matters.

The management of the company says that the present inventory is well balanced and in good shape, and not out of proportion to the present volume of business. Due to the present economic condition of the industry, however, the company is setting up heavy reserves for inventory adjustments and write-downs, although they expect that the adjustments at the end of the year will be very slight.

3 EXTRAS DECLARED AND 2 RATES CHANGED

Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. Raises Annual Basis to $3—Oil Co. Cuts Quarterly.

The California Petroleum Corporation yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents on its capital stock, against 50 cents paid quarterly formerly. Explaining the decrease the management said that "current low prices for crude oil and its products have caused an appreciable diminution in the company's net profits. All efforts are being bent to a reduction in operating expenses. It is likewise deemed prudent to reserve cash resources as much as possible."

The Eastman Kodak Company declared an extra dividend of 75 cents in addition to the regular quarterly dividends of $1.25, on the common stock, and $1.50 a share on the preferred stock, according to a report from Rochester.

The Midland Steel Products Company declared extra dividends of $1 on the preferred and 46 cents on the common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly dividends of $2 and $1, respectively, on these stocks. The same declarations were made in the previous quarter.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company of America declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common stock, placing the stock on a $3 annual basis, against 60 cents quarterly, or $2.40 annually, previously paid. The regular 1¾ per cent. preferred dividend was also declared.

Action on dividends of the Fifth Avenue Bus, New York Transportation and Omnibus Corporation was deferred yesterday, due to a lack of a quorum at the directors' meeting. A new meeting has been called for Aug. 30.

The fifth instalment of $2.50 a share has been called on the Philadelphia Electric Power preferred warrants due on or before Sept. 15.

NEW LEVERICH CORPORATION

Investment Banking Firm Takes Bond and Mortgage Co. Business.

The formation of the Leverich Investing Corporation was announced by A. Lyle Leverich, President, yesterday. In addition to taking over the business of the Leverich Bond and Mortgage Company, the new company will carry on the business of a general investment banking firm.

Under the new plans, the Leverich Investing Corporation proposes to underwrite and syndicate specific first mortgage bond issues secured by income-producing properties ranging from $250,000 to $1,000,000 or more. These bonds will be sold through syndicate participations throughout the country as well as through the Leverich sales organization.

The corporation will also underwrite small mortgages, ranging from $5,000 to $25,000, on income-producing properties within the confines of the metropolitan area and issue collateral trust certificates against the mortgages.

Simmons Co. Plans to Retire Stock.

The Simmons Company has called a special meeting of stockholders for August 16 to vote on the retirement at a price of $110, on November 1, of the outstanding preferred stock of the company, amounting to $5,635,200, as recommended by the directors on July 7.

REQUIRES FLOOR TICKETS.

Stock Exchange Aims to Keep Non-Members Out After Close.

The New York Stock Exchange took further precautions yesterday to prevent unauthorized persons from gaining access to its trading floor. The Committee on Arrangements ruled that in order for representatives of member firms to be admitted to the floor after the close of the market to collect reports, they must obtain and show upon demand identification tickets.

Each ticket must bear a photograph of the employe of the firm authorized to enter the Stock Exchange floor.

Curb Admits Securities.

The New York Curb Exchange has admitted the following securities to unlisted trading privileges: Broadway Department Stores, Inc., 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock; National Tile Company common stock, Huttig Sash and Door common stock and National Radiator Corporation 6½ per cent. sinking fund debentures of 1947, the last named on a when issued basis.

American Ice Stock Subscribed.

The stockholders of the American Ice Company have subscribed in full to the $41,250 unissued shares of the company's authorized common stock, which were offered to the common and preferred stockholders of the company on the basis of 10 per cent. of their present holdings. Over 2,400 separate subscriptions were received.

The committee on securities of the New York Curb Exchange has ruled that contracts in American Ice new stock must be settled tomorrow by delivery of permanent certificates.

UNSETTLED TREND IN COTTON SALES

Prices Move Through Range of $2 and Close 12 to 18 Points Lower.

FOREIGN MARKETS EASIER

Following the rapid advance of 3¼ cents a pound in twenty-four hours, the cotton market developed decided irregularity yesterday and closed at a loss of 12 to 18 points on the day. The sharp break of over three-quarters of a cent the last few moments Tuesday unsettled the tone and prices moved about rapidly over a range of $2 a bale under active trading. Elimination of the short interest in the rise and the sale of lines of long cotton in advance of the bureau announcement, with replacement at higher levels, tended to produce frequent and uncertain fluctuation as cotton for sale at the higher level of prices changed hands. Outside of Texas and Tennessee more than two-thirds of the reporting stations showed moisture again yesterday, heavy rains prevailing in sections both east and west of the river.

Foreign quotations showed a loss of about a quarter of a cent in line with the late break in American markets the preceding day. Cable advices reported less activity on the part of both English and Continental spinners than occurred in domestic mill circles immediately succeeding the Washington report. European interests not only bought heavily during the period of low prices last Winter, but the amount in store and afloat for Europe now aggregates 2,000,000 bales, compared with 964,000 last year and 817,000 two years ago. A sharp rise of 20 points during early trading here attracted arbitrage selling on differences and foreign prices ended around low levels of the day.

State details in the weekly weather report reflected increased weevil infestation and damage as a direct result of persistent moisture in several States. In Georgia, while plants are large, vigorous and full of bolls, weevil are more numerous than for several years and are spreading to northern sections of the State. In Alabama infestation is reported quite general, with considerable damage in the south. Rains in Southern Louisiana and Eastern Oklahoma caused increased weevil activity, while in South Carolina weevil were desribed as damaging over an extensive area and taking the top and middle crops as well as attacking large lower bolls.

BOLL WEEVILS ACTIVE IN THE COTTON BELT

Weather Is Generally Fair for Growing Crops—Wheat Damaged by Rust.

The weekly weather report released in Washington yesterday by the United States Department of Agriculture was in part as follows:

Temperatures were generally favorable in the cotton belt, but there was much rain in most of the Atlantic Coast States, parts of the central belt and in the Northwest. In the Carolinas and Georgia a continuation of showery weather favored increased weevil activity, especially in the coastal sections of the former States, and more generally in the latter where they are spreading to the northern division with damage increasing. In Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi progress was mostly fair to very good, though deterioration is reported locally, and some increase in weevil activity is indicated.

In Louisiana rains were too frequent in the South, where weevils are increasing, with complaints of shedding bolls in the north. Boll weevil activity has increased in nearly all the cotton-growing States except Texas.

The condition of the cotton crop on Aug. 1 is reported by the Department of Agriculture to be practically the same as on that date last year and about 3 per cent. above the average for the last ten years. The condition figure in per cent. of normal is 69.5 for 1927, against 69.1 for Aug. 1, 1926. The acreage under cultivation this year, however, is considerably smaller than last year.

In much of the main corn belt and quite generally in the more northern States east of the Rocky Mountains the weather was too cool for best growth of corn, though progress of the crop was mostly fair to very good. Rain near the close of the period was especially helpful, as drought conditions were relieved in some sections where moisture was needed, particularly east of the Mississippi River and in parts of the upper Mississippi Valley. In Iowa progress was excellent where rain was sufficient, with the earlier third of the crop well silked, but the latter third is poor and considerable of it can make only fodder. Elsewhere west of the Mississippi River growth was mostly good to excellent and corn shows improvement in most of the more eastern States, while beneficial rains appeared in the Ohio Valley area.

The threshing of Winter grain made good progress under generally favorable weather, and this is now well along. In the Spring wheat belt the cool and fair weather made exceptionally good conditions for harvest, which progressed rapidly, and has started in the northwestern portion. Considerable threshing was accomplished in the South. Late Spring wheat was badly damaged by rust in Minnesota and there has been considerable rust development in some parts of North Dakota but the crop in the latter State is too far advanced for serious damage.

Oats harvest has been practically completed as far north as Iowa and in the East is well along to Pennsylvania; threshing in some central valley districts shows disappointing yields. Rice harvest progressed favorably in Texas, and the crop is doing well in Louisiana.

SEES GOOD PROSPECTS FOR PACIFIC CROPS

Water Service Co. Officer Finds Indications of Record Grape and Wheat Yields.

Crop prospects are generally excellent in the principal agricultural sections of the Pacific Coast, according to A. W. Cuddeback, Vice President of the Federal Water Service Corporation, who has just returned from a six weeks' trip during which he inspected more than twenty water-works plants of the Federal System in California, Oregon and Washington. He was able to make a close study of conditions in the area, covering about 6,000 miles by automobile.

"In California indications point to a record crop of grapes, one of the principal products of the State," Mr. Cuddeback said. "The condition of the crop compares very favorably with that of a year ago; there has been plenty of moisture, and little damage from frost or mildew. Citrus fruits have improved lately, and the yields promise to be large. Grape and prune growers have already organized for the cooperative marketing of their crops. In Oregon and Washington, sentiment generally is more optimistic than it was earlier in the year, owing largely to the fact that the wheat crop promises to be the best in a number of years, and fruit yields will be large despite early damage from frost. There has been also a quickening of activity in the lumber industry, as the result of an increased demand for lumber."

Canada's Crop Outlook Excellent.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 10 (AP).—The crop report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, based on conditions of all field crops on July 31, states that the condition of crops throughout Canada is excellent. The condition of Spring wheat is numerically expressed at 105 per cent. of the ten-year average, representing an anticipated yield of 15.6 bushels an acre and a total forecast for all wheat of 357,367,000 bushels.

CAMPBELL SOUP TO EXPAND.

Erection of New Group of Buildings Planned at Camden.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 10.—Plans of the Campbell Soup Company to construct a new group of buildings at a cost of several million dollars, which will double the plant's facilities here, were announced today by A. C. Dorrance, general manager of the company. He did not reveal the exact cost of the project.

Erection of warehousing and shipping facilities, including a pier of sufficient size to accommodate transatlantic and intercoastal steamships is included in the tentative plans. Ground will be broken next March for the first unit, a tomato packing plant. Another building for the manufacture of other soups, a large boiler plant and a baked bean factory are included in the plans. The new unit will be located on the Delaware River between Cooper and Linden Streets, and upon its completion the company will use one-third of the city's water supply.

New Westinghouse Company Formed

The Corporation Trust Company has filed with the Delaware Secretary of State a certificate of incorporation of the Westinghouse International Brake and Signal Company, with a capitalization of 1,000,000 shares of no-par stock. At the offices of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company here it was said that announcement of the purposes of the new company would be made at the head office near Pittsburgh. It was reported in Wall Street that the new company would acquire Westinghouse Air Brake business now operated by separate companies in England, France, Canada, New South Wales and Italy.

Mine Cave Blocks Scranton Street.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 10 (AP).—A mine cave 50 feet deep occurred today on Railroad Avenue, one of the city's main arteries of travel, and dragged two telegraph poles and a water main into the crater. The settling of the earth was in the centre of the thoroughfare and 40 feet in diameter. No private property was affected by the subsidence, one of the deepest ever recorded here. All traffic was halted while gangs of men shut off the water supply and filled in the cave hole.

Weston Instrument Corp. Profit.

The Weston Electrical Instrument Corporation reports a net profit for the first half of 1927 amounting to $239,694, after depreciation, Federal taxes and other charges, against $405,501 in the first half of 1926. The net profit for the June quarter was $92,768, against $190,142 in the second quarter last year.

Tobacco Products Reports.

The Tobacco Products Corporation for the first half of 1927 reports a net income of $4,401,612, after Federal taxes, equivalent, after dividend requirements on the 7 per cent. Class A stock, to $4.29 a share earned on 909,307 shares of common stock. This compares with $4,309,029, or $4.15 a share, earned in the first half of 1926.

Convict New York Banker.

Special to The New York Times.

WAKEFIELD, R. I., Aug. 10.—Robert S. Church, a banker of New York and a Summer resident of Narragansett Pier in the past, was adjudged guilty of the charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated which has been pending for nearly two years, when Judge J. O. Tatt han handed down his rescript of the case in District Court here today.

WHEAT ADVANCES TO NEW HIGH MARK

Market Develops a Strong Undertone and Trading Is More Active.

DETERIORATION REPORTED

All Deliveries of Corn Sell at Highest Price on the Present Crop.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The wheat market developed a decidedly strong undertone after a small break early, and advanced 3⅝ to 3½ cents from the inside figure to a new high on the present movement and closed with net gains of 1⅝ to 2 cents. Reports that there had been serious deterioration in the American Northwest as the result of rust and damage in Canada from frost and rust were the basis for the buying which was headed by houses with Eastern and Northwestern connections. There was some buying here against sales at Winnipeg, and the latter market gained only 1¼ cents for the day while Minneapolis was up 1¼ cents, and Liverpool was weak and ⅝ to 1 pence lower on better weather reports from Australia. Buenos Aires gained ½ cent for the day. Export demand was slow with no sales of consequence reported.

There has been considerable deterioration both sides of the International line since Aug. 1, and offers were in active demand after the close. The figures of 553,000,000 bushels on Winter wheat were exactly the same as the average of the private returns which were 36,000,000 bushels less than the official July estimate while the Spring wheat crop of 298,000,000 bushels was 5,000,000 bushels more than the average of the private returns, and compared with 274,000,000 bushels in July, and with 205,000,000 bushels harvested last year. Total for all wheat is 851,000,000 bushels, a reduction of 3,000,000 bushels from a month ago and compares with 832,000,000 bushels harvested in 1926.

The Canadian report showed 357,000,000 bushels for all Provinces compared with private estimates of 382,000,000 to 410,000,000 bushels for three Provinces last year, while the total for all Canada last year was 410,000,000 bushels.

Primary arrivals today were 3,275,000 bushels; week ago, 3,975,000 bushels; last year, 3,150,000 bushels. Shipments, 1,471,000 bushels; week ago, 2,075,000 bushels; last year, 1,036,000 bushels.

All deliveries of corn sold at a new high on the crop today with prices at the outside showing 11⅛ to 12 cents above the low of last week and the finish was at net gains of 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents with September leading and gaining ½ cent on the December.

The Government report showing a crop of 2,385,000,000 bushels was exactly the same as the average of the private returns, and compared with 2,274,000,000 bushels a month ago, and 2,645,000,000 bushels last year.

Primary arrivals today were 506,000 bushels; week ago, 303,000 bushels; last year, 621,000 bushels. Shipments, 237,000 bushels; week ago, 303,000 bushels; last year, 368,000 bushels.

Government report on oats was construed as bullish. The Canadian report showed 420,000,000 bushels, or 37,000,000 bushels more than last year, and did not take into consideration any damage done by recent frost. December and March sold at a new high for the season and the close was at net gains of ⅝ to ¾ cent. Rye gained 1 to 1¼ cent in sympathy with wheat.

WHEAT FUTURES STEADY.

Advance 3 Cents for the Day—Oats Show Firmness.

Wheat futures closed steady on the New York Produce Exchange yesterday, at 3 cents advance for the day. The early market was easier on dull cables and absence of export interest. Leading exporters made few offers, and generally European buyers appeared to be awaiting the American and Canadian Government reports. Liberal buying developed toward midday, influenced by persistent rust reports from Minnesota and South Dakota.

Oats were very firm with persistently unfavorable reports of disappointing yields where harvesting is in progress, and of rust damage in the Northwest.

RUBBER FUTURES HIGHER.

But Trading on Exchange Declines —London Opens Lower.

Prices continued to advance on the Rubber Exchange yesterday. Closings were firm to ten to thirty points higher. As in Tuesday's market, the upward movement appeared to gain momentum in the final hour of trading, when more than one-half the day's business was done. The trend was generally upward with the exception of slight recessions at the outset from realizing sales.

The volume of trading declined from Tuesday and totaled 404 lots, or 1,010 longtons, of which 245 tons changed hands in the last hour. London was quiet in the early trading and dropped ½d in all positions. Later the London market recovered and prices ruled steady at the close, with spot and August ¼d up and the distant positions unchanged to ¼d higher. The range of trading here follows:

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA

Sugar.

There were no firm offerings of Cuban sugars yesterday, in conformity with the better sentiment in evidence, and holders indicated that they would not consider bids under 2⅝ cents. Practically all refiners indicated a willingness to purchase supplies at the 2 21-32-cent level. Refined was quiet, with new demand light and withdrawals only fair. Lowry purchased 6,000 tons of Philippine raw sugar for nearby delivery at 4.43 cents, equal to 2 21-32 cents for Cubas, C. & F., unchanged. American Sugar bought 2,000 tons of Philippines due about Aug. 20, and 1,000 tons of St. Croix, due about Aug. 23, also at 4.43 cents, unchanged.

Trading was active yesterday in the raw sugar section of the New York Coffe and Sugar Exchange, and quotations advanced briskly under the stimulus of better buying by trade interests. Buying was more pronounced in the September position, which rose four points, and other months gained 2 or 3 points. Offerings made on the rise were absorbed by the trade, and values held close to the best levels of the day.

Coffee.

Raw coffee futures were again listless yesterday, with the result that prices sagged moderately under scattered liquidation by local interests. Movements were narrow, however, and trading light. Traders displayed little or no interest, and bulls and bears alike appeared to await new developments before making commitments. Business was also dull in the primary markets, but the basis held steady.

Cocoa.

Raw cocoa futures on the New York Cocoa Exchange were again under pressure yesterday from local and continental sources. Rallies of 5 to 10 points occurred, but were followed by further pressure. There appeared to be fairly good buying from shorts at times, and also from manufacturers' brokers, but these buyers withdrew as cocoa came out in volume. The close was 2 to 5 points lower. The turnover was 186 lots, against 193 lots on Tuesday.

Butte and Superior Shows Net.

The Butte and Superior Mining Company reports for the June quarter a net profit of $75,147, after expenses, depreciation and taxes, but before depletion, equivalent to 25 cents a share earned on 290,197 shares of $10 par stock. This compares with a net profit of $100,349, or 34 cents a share, in the March quarter, and with $89,470, or 31 cents a share, in the second quarter of 1926. The net profit for the first half of 1927 was $175,496, before depletion, or 60 cents a share, against $214,024, or 73 cents a share, in the first half of 1926.

Stocks of Zinc Decrease.

Stocks of zinc on July 21 amounted to 39,323 short tons, comparing with 43,858 short tons on June 30, a decrease of 4,535 tons, according to the American Zinc Institute. Production in July was 47,627 tons, while shipments amounted to 52,162 tons, of which 47,359 tons domestic and 4,803 tons export. Zinc sold, but not yet delivered, at July 21 totaled 12,398 tons; total retort capacity at the end of the period was 131,484; the number of idle retorts available within sixty days was 43,677; the average number of retorts operating during the month was 72,259, and the number of retorts operating at July 21 was 75,519.

New Jersey Zinc Reports Profit.

The New Jersey Zinc Company reports for the June quarter of 1927 a net profit of $1,975,514, after taxes, depreciation, depletion and other charges, equivalent to $4.02 a share earned on 490,816 shares of stock. This compares with $1,709,450, or $3.80 a share, earned in the March quarter, and with $1,607,538, or $3.27 a share, earned in the second quarter of 1926. The net profit for the first half of 1927 amounted to $3,744,994, after above charges, or $7.63 a share, against $3,291,434, or $6.70 a share, earned in the first half of 1926.

HIGHER ESTIMATE FOR THE CORN CROP

Government's August Indication of Yield 114,802,000 Bushels Above the July Forecast.

SPRING WHEAT CROP LARGE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP).—This year's corn crop, indicated a month ago as the shortest in twenty-six years, was forecast today by the Department of Agriculture on the basis of Aug. 1 conditions at 2,389,226,000 bushels, compared with 2,274,424,000 bushels indicated last month and 2,645,051,000 bushels harvested last year.

A preliminary estimate of the Winter wheat crop places production at 552,767,000 bushels, compared with 579,416,000 bushels indicated a month ago and 626,929,000 bushels harvested last year. Indicated production of Spring wheat is 296,378,000 bushels, against 274,218,000 bushels indicated last month and 205,376,000 bushels harvested last year.

Prospect of Other Crops.

Forecasts of the other principal crops were as follows, compared with actual yield last year.

Barley, 249,000,000 bushels, against 191,182,000; rye, 61,500,000, against 46,456,000; buckwheat, 15,400,000 bushels, against 12,922,000; flaxseed, 23,300,000, against 19,459,000; rice, 39,300,000, against 41,006,000; sugar beets, 6,850,000 tons, against 7,537,000; white potatoes, 411,000,000 bushels, against 357,800,000; sweet potatoes, 87,500,000, against 83,658,000; tobacco, 1,138,000,000 pounds, against 1,323,388,000; hops, 31,700,000 pounds, against 29,428,000; beans, 18,700,000 bushels, against 17,139,000; peanuts, 810,000,000 pounds, against 626,866,000; hay, 102,000,000 tons, against 86,377,000; apples, 128,000,000 bushels, against 246,460,000; peaches, 44,800,000, against 68,425,000; pears, 18,000,000; against 25,644,000, and grapes, 2,540,000 tons, against 2,349,117.

Condition, acreage and indicated yield of Spring wheat as given yesterday by the Government in its report on that crop for the season of 1927 compare as follows with the estimates of one month ago and one year ago:

	Aug. 1, 1927.	July 1, 1927.	Aug. 1, 1926.
Condition	85.4	87.7	90.2
Acreage	20,313,000	20,313,000	20,884,000
Crop (bshl)	296,378,000	274,218,000	312,719,000

In the following table the comparison for a longer series of years is given. The condition in each case is that of the August report. Except for 1927, the figures of acreage and yield represent the actual final outcome of the harvest:

Yr.	Condition.	Acreage.	Crop. Bus.
1927	85.4	20,313,000	296,378,000
1926	90.2	20,884,000	312,719,000
1925	73.9	21,021,000	270,879,000
1924	79.7	16,975,000	272,905,000
1923	69.6	20,141,000	225,425,000
1922	83.4	19,300,000	280,720,000
1921	66.6	30,282,000	314,589,000
1920	73.4	21,127,000	222,430,000
1914	78.5	17,333,000	206,027,000

Spring wheat condition estimates by months for a series of years have been as follows:

Yr.	June.	July.	Aug.	Sept.
1927	86.8	87.7	90.4	....
1926	78.5	64.8	60.3	58.4
1921	93.4	90.5	66.6	62.5

The present Spring wheat condition estimate gives the highest August figure since 1915, and except for that year and 1912 (when the August condition was 90.4) it is the highest in eighteen years.

The Government's estimate of acreage and indicated yield for Winter wheat, compares as follows with the similar estimate of one month ago and one year ago:

	Aug. 1, 1927.	July 1, 1927.	Aug. 1, 1926.

In the following table the August estimates of acreage and number of bushels are compared with actual harvest figures in previous years:

Year.	Acreage.	Crop. Bush.
1927	38,185,000	552,767,000
1926	36,033,000	626,929,000
1925	39,799,000	403,784,000

Wheat Crop Largest Since 1922.

Adding together the estimates of Spring and Winter wheat, the total acreage and indicated yield of wheat compare as follows with the preceding month and with the same month last year:

	Aug. 1, '27.	July 1, '27.	Aug. 1, '26.
Acreage	58,498,000	58,498,000	57,687,000
Crop, bush.	851,145,000	853,634,000	939,593,000

The current estimate on acreage and yield for the total wheat crop of 1927 compares as follows with the actual yield in a series of preceding years:

Year.	Acreage.	Crop. Bush.
1927	58,498,000	851,145,000
1926	56,526,000	882,305,000

1920	61,143,000	832,027,000
1919	52,341,000	801,017,000

Condition and indicated yield for corn, as estimated yesterday by the Government, compare as follows with the estimates of July 1, 1927, and Aug. 1, 1926:

	Aug. 1, '27.	July 1, '27.	Aug. 1, '26.
Condition	71.2	69.9	72.5
Crop, bush.	2,389,226,000	2,274,424,000	2,576,986,000

In the following table comparisons for a longer period of years are given, the figures of yield for the years prior to 1927 being those of the actual harvest:

Year.	Condition.	Crop., Bush.
1927	71.2	2,389,226,000
1926	72.5	2,645,051,000

OUSTED UNION HEADS CRITICIZED BY COURT

UPHOLDS RECENT ELECTION

Says Failure of Deposed Men to Deny Old Charges Prevents Him From Believing Their Charges.

Richard L. O'Hara, former President of Local Union No. 3 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, who, with other officers, was deposed several months ago for alleged irregularities in connection with the settlement of labor disputes, was criticized yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Black when the Court denied an application by O'Hara and others for the appointment of a receiver of the funds of the local and for an injunction restraining the present officers from collecting or disbursing any money. O'Hara and his associates also asked that the present officers of the local be compelled to issue union cards to them.

The suit was brought by O'Hara, Charles J. Reed and John J. Goodbody against Howell H. Broach, International Vice President of the union; Frank Wilson, now President of the local, and other officers.

The opinion of Justice Black says that Broach entered into the affairs of the local and brought about a settlement; that when O'Hara found himself in difficulties in fixing the prevailing wage rate, and that in connection with these labors it was brought to the attention of the International officers that the heads of the local had been guilty of irregularities. The O'Hara group was deposed and brought suit to regain office. The case was given to a referee, who found in favor of the deposed men because they were removed at a time when an injunction was pending against such action. O'Hara and his associates then brought the present action to restrain the defendants from transacting the business of the union.

The plaintiffs contend that they were not permitted to vote at the election when the present officers were chosen, to which the defendants reply that they were not deprived of any rights and could have voted if they had wished to do so, and the Court says the election was apparently held in accordance with the by-laws of the union.

The defendants were willing to give working cards to eleven of the former officers, but not to O'Hara or to the former business agents, William J. Toole, William Donnelly, Peter J. Gilroy and Frank E. O'Reilly and a former member of the Trade Board, Michael J. Stanton. Justice Black, therefore, directs that their offer be carried out and that cards be issued to the eleven within forty-eight hours after his order is signed.

Referring to the opinion of the referee that "considerable testimony was given as to corruption on the part of O'Hara, Toole, O'Reilly, Donnelly, Gilroy and Mike Stanton," and that "these men did not see fit to appear and deny, explain or excuse the conduct complained of," Justice Black says he believes the officers of such a local union "are in duty bound under the circumstances to deny or explain the various charges against them by the witnesses called." Because of their failure to do so, he says, he cannot give any force to their statement in their present application for a receiver for the union. Accordingly, he decides for the present officers on all points, but offers to arrange a proper trial of the charges against the former officers if they ask it.

RECEIVERSHIP DENIED FOR FLORIDA CONCERNS

Federal Court Dismisses the Petition Against T. W. Young and Hollywood Company.

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 10.—Miami counsel for the Highway Construction Company of Cleveland, Ohio, were notified today that Judge W. I. Grubb, of the United States District Court in session at Jacksonville, had dismissed a suit for receivership by the construction company against T. W. Young, the Homeseekers Realty Company and the Hollywood Land and Water Company, developers of Hollywood, Fla.

The defendants produced evidence before the court showing assets of $50,000,000 and that there was no cause for a receivership.

The bill of complaint involved a sum of approximately $2,000,000 and was based on an alleged breach of contract for the construction of sidewalks and street paving at Hollywood. In asking that a receiver be appointed, the Highway Construction Company charged that the defendant companies have collected large sums on lot contracts and have diverted from the plaintiff the parts of such collections as should, in equity and good conscience, have been paid to it.

The plaintiff further charged that by neglecting to make such payments the defendants jeopardized the rights and interest of lot purchasers by subjecting to the lien of the plaintiff's claim the lots which the defendants have contracted to convey to them. It was also alleged that money collected from lot purchasers was being diverted and expended on projects unrelated to the development and improvements of the lots, and that the defendants are without available funds to pay the claims of the construction company.

Joseph W. Young, developer of Hollywood, is the President of seventeen or more corporations, the complainant's petition further set out, and it is his practice, it said, to transfer without consideration and at his will, the funds and properties of one to another of these corporations and in this manner to augment the assets of one corporation at the expense of the others, and to the detriment of the creditors of the latter.

Hollywood is located twenty-five miles north of Miami. At one time it boasted a population of more than 20,000. Its population is said to have been greatly decreased during last year.

Awarded Athletic Club Contract.

The new home of the New York Athletic Club at 215-233 Seventh Avenue will cost $4,500,000, according to Brown's Letters, Inc., Construction Reports, which state that C. T. Wills, Inc., has been awarded the general contract. The building, of twenty-two stories, will also have frontages on West Fifty-eighth Street and Central Park South. York & Sawyer are the architects.

DEMAND WABASH PAY $16,000,000 DIVIDENDS

Philadelphia Firms Sue to Force Payment on Preferred Ahead of Common Stock.

Special to The New York Times.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 10.—Litigation involving $16,000,000 was begun in the Allen Circuit Court today when the Willoughby Company and the Girard Trust Company, both of Philadelphia, filed a petition for declaratory judgment against the Wabash Railroad Company. The suit was filed here because this city is the legal place of business of the railroad.

The Philadelphia companies, holders of Wabash preferred stock, Class A, ask the Court to declare that all owners of such stock are entitled to receive back dividends totaling approximately $16,000,000. Some dividends have been paid to holders of this stock, but the plaintiffs maintain that $16,000,000 more should have been paid.

The complainants aver that the railroad is contemplating the payment of a dividend to common stockholders, which would be the first dividends ever received by them. For this reason, and because the rights of owners of preferred stock are prior to those having common stock, the plaintiffs ask that the Court issue an injunction preventing the company from paying any dividends to holders of either preferred stock B or common stock until back dividends are paid to class A stockholders.

The suit is the first of its kind ever filed in the State of Indiana, and is the first under the uniform Declaratory Judgment act, it is believed, in legal circles here.

The Court cannot order the railroad to pay the dividends, but under the new law it can declare that all the stockholders are entitled to receive them.

A further complaint is that the Wabash Company paid a full dividend of 5 per cent. to Class B stockholders on April 1 of this year, ignoring the prior rights of the Class A stockholders.

On May 1 the total number of shares of preferred stock, Class A, was 693,320, according to the complaint. Of these, the Willoughby Company holds 700 and the Girard Trust Company 200.

COL. CARRINGTON PAYS $5 REWARD FOR CANE

Principal in Duel With Brother Here Tells Taxi Driver Stick Means Good Deal to Him.

It cost Colonel Edward C. Carrington, who has a peculiar attachment for canes, just a $5 reward to a taxi driver who brought back a very particular cane which he left in a taxicab a few days ago. Colonel Carrington's name is associated with canes because of a sidewalk duel—accounts of which differed—fought with his brother, Campbell Carrington, last March in front of the home of Mrs. Anna Walsh Carrington. At the finish of the encounter Colonel Carrington's heavy malacca stick was broken, his brother exhibited head wounds said to have resulted from the melee, and Colonel Carrington was charged with assault. He was placed on probation for one year by Magistrate Brodsky, and a month later his wife obtained a divorce in Chicago, although he had charged her with intimacy with the caned brother in a counter-suit.

Whether or not the cane Colonel Carrington left in the taxi owned and driven by Louis Eiger of 630 Riverdale Avenue, Brooklyn, was the same heavy malacca one involved in the duel and later repaired could not be learned. Colonel Carrington was on vacation at Block Island yesterday. Eiger picked up the Colonel in front of the City Club, 55 West Forty-fourth Street, and drove him to his office at 27 William Street last Tuesday. He found that his fare had left a heavy black cane behind with the initials E. C. C. on the handle. Eiger's inquiries at the City Club located the owner, and Colonel Carrington gave the driver a $5 reward, remarking that this particular stick "means a great deal to me."

BOOTBLACKS WIN A POINT.

Get Injunction Restraining Police From Sunday Interference.

Supreme Court Justice Frankenthaler signed a temporary injunction yesterday restraining the Police Commissioner and Captain John McCarthy of the Simpson Street station from interfering with Bronx bootblacks who keep their stands open on Sundays, on the ground of violating the Sunday law. The injunction is returnable in the Bronx Supreme Court tomorrow.

The writ was applied for by Henry A. Drescher, counsel for the newly formed Bronx Bootblack Owners' Association, as the result of the arrest of nine owners of stands last Sunday. One of them, Michael Nardi, of 1,093½ Whitlock Avenue, was held for trial in Special Sessions and the others were paroled pending the outcome of the Nardi case. The bootblacks contend that they serve a public necessity and convenience and are not subject to the Sunday law.

Says Velvet Hats Will Sell.

Good Fall business is apparently assured for velvet hats for women, according to a local authority on millinery matters, but they will come in more as accessories to the velvet costumes that promise to do so well for Fall than on their own merits. This is especially true, the authority in question said yesterday, in the higher grade millinery, where the bulk of the present demand is for novel effects in feutre glace and velour soleil. In shapes, shallow crown models with small off-the-face brims appear to have the call. In colors, black continues to predominate, but there is a growing favor for the various wood shades. Business generally is said to be well ahead of that for the same period of August last year.

Dr. Stewardson Gets Wife's Estate.

An estate of more than $100,000 is given to Dr. Langdon C. Stewardson, former President of Hobart College, by the will of his wife, Mrs. Clark Hunter Stewardson, who died in London on June 6 last. The document, filed for probate yesterday, provided that if Dr. Stewardson died before his wife, Lehigh University should inherit one-third of the residuary estate and a $100,000 legacy, and the Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute should receive two-thirds of the residue.

Eight-Foot Turtle Goes to Museum.

The eight-foot leather-backed turtle harpooned Monday in Fire Island Inlet was carted to the Museum of Natural History yesterday afternoon in a two-ton truck. The shell will be cured and put on exhibition—a turtle of its size being quite uncommon, especially so far east.

NEW HATS PROVIDE FOR GROWING HAIR

NEW EYE VEIL POPULAR

Score of Models Display the Latest Creations at Exhibition of Retail Association.

The new Fall hat styles were shown at the twenty-third fashion show of the Retail Millinery Association of America, at the Hotel Astor, last night, in cooperation with manufacturing stylists, the Fifth Avenue couturiers of New York.

It was said at the show that Paris may forecast dress styles for the world, but that Fifth Avenue was determined to set the millinery and hair styles for American women.

Twenty-three models were used in the exhibition, promenading up and down a runway in the grand ballroom. In addition to the hats, a presentation of hair styles was shown.

The new trend in hat-wearing indicates that a change of style in hairdressing will be necessary, according to experts in the millinery line. One of them declared that the "bob" was dead.

Most of the new models shown made allowances for hair, especially for hair that is growing, such as would follow the return to popularity of long hair. The hair of the models was dressed by experts from the C. Nestle Company.

The new eye veil, which is worn outside small hats and inside large hats, made its appearance at the show. The veil of black, worn by one of the models, was shown with a ruby red hat and resembled a sort of halo.

Many Color Schemes.

Many attractive colors were used by the stylists, and there were metal hats as well as metallic touches. Velvet was a popular fabric, and much black was shown.

Marron glacé, cocoa, nasturtium, coffee, rosewood and mahogany were among the varying shades of brown, and kelly, Nile, Napoleon, and navy were shown in the blues. There also were smart wine shades, flame, rose, ibis and pottery red, and in the greens, bottle green, eucalyptus, plumage, empire and sage.

There were toques with wing effects, helmet and skull cap styles, and smart portrait shapes. Feather boas matching the hats were worn with some of the displays. Noted individually was a toque of red leather and black velvet, worn with a matching stole and hand bag. The hat ornaments were large.

Toques of all heckle feathers, and of gold and silver spangles, were exhibited. A specially smart creation was a silver mail toque.

Vaudeville During Dinner.

There was vaudeville entertainment during the dinner, which was followed by dancing. Samuel G. Kempner was Chairman of the Reception Committee, and Alfred Fantl, Honorary Chairman.

The exhibitors were L. & S. Karo, Harry Levin & Co., Samuel D. Lasen & Co., Bellesclaire Hat Company, Fashion Hat Company, Lazarus-Meyer Company, Inc.; Blossom Hat Company, Herman Beith, L. Weiner & Co., Real Hat Company, William Rosenblum Company, Nathan Schreiber, Salinger Millinery, Inc.; Northbridge Hat Company, Jane Parker, Sidney J. Rolland, Inc.; Caille, Dave Herstein Company, and Meyer & Sartorius.

OVERRIDES FEDERAL ORDER.

Georgia Court Ruling Conflicts With Adair Receivership's Injunction.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 10 (AP).—Judge G. H. Howard, in Fulton County Superior Court, today ordered that Edgar Watkins and Arthur Lucas continue in possession of premises and properties of the Adair Realty and Loan Company, despite the fact that the Federal District Court has refused to vacate an injunction restraining the receivership.

Forrest Adair Sr., President of the Adair Realty and Loan Company, was ordered to hold possession of the properties as the employe of the receivers "until further order of the Court."

Officers of the company were ordered not to pay out any moneys "except to insurance companies and landlords and others on collections made in the regular course of business."

Meanwhile, the Court directed that the receivers make application for an appeal to the United States Circuit Court to have the District Federal Court's injunction set aside.

Judge Howard appointed Messrs. Watkins and Lucas receivers on July 30 after hearing a petition by the Pittsburgh Glass Company. The same day in Federal District Court Judge Tilson issued an order temporarily restraining the receivership on the grounds that the Adair Realty and Loan Company had been created to take over and conserve certain assets of the Adair Realty and Trust Company, which is in Federal receivership, with E. R. Black, as trustee.

CHURCH TO SELL OLD SITE.

Court Allows Lutherans to Dispose of East 128th Street Property.

The Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Epiphany got permission yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Frankenthaler to sell its church property at 70 to 74 East 128th Street for $50,000 to Jerome H. Frank of 258 East 138th Street because the members of the congregation had moved elsewhere in recent years. The church intends to erect a new building on property it owns in East 206th Street, but in the meantime is carrying on services at 8,115 Webster Avenue.

The petition of the church, submitted by James Gear, President, of 155 East Thirty-fourth Street and other officers, said that the congregation was consolidated last year with the Lutheran Church of the Ascension of Bedford Park and that nearly all the members lived in the Bronx. The church intends to use part of the proceeds from the sale of the property to erect its new building.

New Park Avenue Apartment.

Plans were filed yesterday for the erection of a fifteen-story apartment house, 70 by 100 feet, at 1,320 Park Avenue. The 123 Park Avenue Holding Company, Inc., is the owner of record. Groosenberg & Leushtag, architects, estimate the cost at $750,000.

Gray Goods Not So Active.

Gray goods were not so active in this market yesterday as on Tuesday, and for this the ups and downs of cotton were held responsible. In the printcloths, however, some late August and September 39-inch 63-72s were sold at 9¼ cents, and there was also some trading in near-by 39½-inch 60-64s at 8⅞ cents. The latter goods are now held from 9 to 9¼ cents. Prompt deliveries of 39½-inch 64-60s were sold at 8½ cents. Sheetings were quiet, with 8 cents asked for 36-inch 4.70s. Other lightweight sheetings were quoted in proportion. In the drills there was business in 37-inch 2.75s at 12½ cents and in 40-inch 3.25s at 10½ cents. More inquiry for broadcloths was reported in the fine-yarn goods, which were generally featureless.

Fur Market Is Unsettled.

At least so far as demand is concerned the local market for raw furs is unsettled at the moment. Wolf was said yesterday to be the only article for which there is a really active call, although heavy badger, whits fox and grays for are moving quite freely. For mink, red fox, Russian sable and marten the demand is fairly good, but the other articles are in varying stages of inactivity. The present uneven business in this branch of the industry is said to strike all the way back from consumers' neglect of offerings at the retail August sales, reports concerning which say that they are not meeting with normal success in most instances. Out-of-town retailers, especially, are said to be finding the sledding hard.

Burlap Market Quiet Here.

The local burlap market put in a quiet week, prices on futures yesterday being under those which prevailed a week ago. Spot lightweight goods showed a rise of 10 points and "heavies" were unchanged, despite the fact that spot stocks were substantially larger than the demand. Prices on all but distant futures in Calcutta continued higher than those in New York, although the former market yesterday showed a 5-point drop from Tuesday's close. Futures in this market lost from 5 to 10 points during the week. These quotations were given yesterday on standard 40-inch burlaps by C. E. Rockstron & Co., Inc.:

	2-Ounce.	10½-Ounce.
Spots	4.40c	10c
August shipments	4.05c	10.10c
September shipments	4.10c	10.10c
Oct.-Dec. shipments	4.40c	9.30c

Bleached Cottons Are Advanced.

Several advances in fine-yarn bleached cottons were made here yesterday in keeping with higher cotton. Converse & Co., selling agents for "Fruit of the Loom" goods, announced a price of 17¼ cents on the 4-4 bleached muslins sold under that brand. This figure, which becomes effective on Monday next, is half a cent a yard higher than the last previous quotation. It covers goods for delivery during August and September only. A number of lines were also advanced yesterday by Taylor, Clapp & Beall. The new prices on these goods are based on 14½ cents for "Lonsdale" 4-4 bleached muslins, this quotation representing a rise of half a cent a yard.

Overcoat Sales Now a Fixture.

Pre-season offerings of men's overcoats have now become a fixture in the August sales promotion plans of several of the large stores here. The advance sales are credited with stimulating a considerable volume of early consumer buying and accordingly add to the turnover of the clothing departments of the stores in question. Large retailers in other cities have been impressed with the idea and are either holding or planning similar events. While their clientèles are not entirely the same, the sales are said to point to much keener competition between the department stores and the men's specialty shops.

One Mill Is to Open Early.

Women's wear fabrics for Spring will be opened early next week by one of the leading mills. This organization, which has led in the early offering of seasonal lines for several years, will show complete ranges of both fancies and staples. It is not expected, however, that other leading mills will announce their showings until after Labor Day. In some instances, it was said yesterday, offerings for the new season will not be made until October.

The Raw Silk Situation.

Further weakness has developed in the Japanese raw silk market, yesterday's settlements being made at 1,310 yen for double extra cracks, 13-15s. This level is very close to what is generally believed to be reelers' costs, according to E. Gerli & Co., Inc., and resistance to further concessions is expected. Reports are also current that help will be given the market by the Japanese Government. Prices here yesterday were $5.25 for crack XX and $5.05 for XX. The Canton market has continued firm lately. Prevailing quotations yesterday were 84 for 14-16s and $3.45 for 20-22s. Tussahs have declined in price, the demand being small. China steam filatures have been offered at attractive prices, and interest in them is also being stimulated by lower silver exchange. The "Three Queens" grade was quoted yesterday at $5.20 and the "Billiken" variety at $5.05.

British Retailers Coming Here.

A delegation of British retailers is scheduled to arrive at Quebec tomorrow. From Aug. 13 to Aug. 31 they will be in this country to visit the leading stores. The trip is being taken under the auspices of the Incorporated Association of Retail Distributers and the Drapers' Chamber of Commerce, both of London. Assistance will be given the visiting merchants while here by the National Retail Dry Goods Association and local retail organizations. The itinerary of the trip covers stores in Detroit on Aug. 15, Chicago on Aug. 16, Philadelphia on Aug. 22 and in New York and Boston on Aug. 23 and 25, respectively.

Fall Silk Reorders Steady.

A steady volume of fill-in business in Fall silks is being received by manufacturers here. The purchases made by the dress trades are mainly of black satins, pebble crêpes, flat crêpes, failles and transparent and chiffon velvets. Retailers are buying small quantities of each of these silks also, and are said to be waiting for the Fall consumer demand to become active before placing substantial reorders. Many factors in the trade are now looking ahead to Spring. Lines will be shown after Labor Day in many instances, the goods being offered for both late Fall and early Spring. Present prices of raw silk are very favorable for the manufacturing trade, although they may lead to lower quotations on staple goods for the new season.

AGREE TO ABOLISH NECKTIE HOME WORK

Employers Accede to Union's Demand to Transfer Stitching to Factories.

STRIKE THREAT AVERTED

Eighteen Months Allowed for Change —Two-Year Contract to Date From Sept. 1.

The necktie workers of New York won yesterday in their struggle to abolish home work in the stitching of hand-made neckwear and to transfer such work to factories. A conference committee of the Neckwear Association and the United Neckwear Makers' Union at an all-day session at the Half Moon Hotel, Coney Island, agreed that the giving out of home work must stop.

Subject to the approval of both the manufacturers' association and the union, it was agreed that slip stitching should become a union operation "to be conducted on the premises." At present the union does not control slip-stitchers, who put the finishing touches on expensive hand-made neckties. Unionization of these workers will be gradual, however, and the agreement provides that the manufacturers may have eighteen months in which to unionize their shops.

Other points on which the committee agreed yesterday were a wage increase for trimmers and hemers in the industry, a two-year contract dating from Sept. 1, 1927, and a provision that all prices will become effective on Sept. 1.

Yesterday's conference and agreement practically removed the possibility of a strike in the neckwear trade on Sept. 1, when the present contract expired. A call to strike on that date if the manufacturers did not yield and abolish "home work" had been issued. An announcement by Louis Waldman, attorney for the union, and Milton Dammann, attorney for the manufacturers, said harmony prevailed at all times during yesterday's discussion, with both sides endeavoring to meet each other's views.

Only the question of hours remained unsettled at the conclusion of yesterday's conference. At present the union members have a 44-hour week. The union has demanded a 40-hour, five-day week, but on this point the manufacturers have remained unyielding, though they agreed yesterday to renew their discussion at a later date, when it is expected that the issue can be ironed out.

Conditions in the neckwear trade were dramatized recently by the action of Ben Klein, a former worker and now a manufacturer, in establishing a shop under union auspices in which the slip-stitching processes were conducted "on the inside." Mr. Klein contended with the union that home work was inefficient and unhealthful; that in the absence of supervision neckties were frequently exposed to the germs of contagious diseases and then sold in Fifth Avenue shops, and that home work was a relic of bygone labor conditions. He established his shop last week.

CLEANERS SIGN AGREEMENT.

Five-Year Contract Between Workers and Employers Ratified.

A five-year agreement which is expected to stabilize the cleaning and dyeing industry of New York City was signed yesterday afternoon by representatives of retail and wholesale cleaners, their workers and drivers and the American Federation of Labor at the local federation offices, 1,482 Broadway.

The agreement provides for the setting of all "disputes, disagreements, controversies or grievances" by a Board of Arbitration whose decisions, which must be made within forty-eight hours, will be final. The board will consist of a representative of the Retail Cleaners and Dyers' Union, one of the Cleaners, Dyers and Pressers' Union, one designated by the Cleaning and Dye House Drivers' Union, three named by the Master Cleaners and Dyers' Association, and a seventh impartial arbitrator, chosen by the other six members, who will act as "umpire."

The three unions and the association agree to recognize each other. Retail stores are to be kept open only between 7 A. M. and 8 P. M. and closed all day Sunday. Nine holidays with pay are granted to workers in retail establishments.

In addition, the retailers pledge themselves to refrain from going into the wholesale field and a similar promise to abstain from encroaching on the retail field is given by the wholesale dealers. Protective mutual insurance for both retailers and wholesalers is provided for.

The master cleaners control sixty-five of the city's eighty-three wholesale establishments and employ 15,000 workers in their shops and have a delivery force of 800 drivers for their 500 trucks, which call upon 28,000 retail stores.

WELCOMES VICE INQUIRY.

Atlantic City Mayor Sees Agitation as Menace to Business.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 10.—Mayor Ruffu declared today that he would personally welcome a court investigation of vice and graft conditions, as proposed by the Federated Civic Clubs. He said he thought investigations and "clean-ups" should be initiated by the county authorities that are vested with such responsibility.

"I came into this office with clean hands and I am going out of the commission the same way," said the Mayor, discussing the charge of the United States that $300,000 was paid out annually for vice protection. "I have not received a single letter from visitors or non-residents. But the present agitation is having another effect. I was on the Boardwalk on Sunday night and was hailed by the manager of an out-of-town concern which spends thousands of dollars here every year for advertising. This man told me that if Atlantic City was going to be turned into what he termed 'a Sunday school town' his company was going to withdraw after the first of the year.

"Now, regarding conditions on the Boardwalk, I made a personal inspection on Sunday and, aside from some bathers there, I did not see anything contrary to local ordinances or offensive in any way."

BUSINESS NOTES.

L. Levin, who was formerly with the Levin-Atkins Silk Corporation and the Lafayette Textile Corporation, now heads the Pequea Textile Mills, Inc., 477 Fourth Avenue. The new concern will handle imported and domestic silks.

H. G. Burdell, who has been connected with the Associated Merchandising Corporation for some time, has been appointed assistant merchandise manager of the Isaac Benesch Sons, formerly purchased goods for this division.

EAST ORANGE FLAT SOLD.

Investing Company Buys Five-Story Warwick Apartment.

The five-story Warwick apartment house in East Orange, at 39 North Burnett Street, corner of William Street, has been purchased by the Combined Savings and Investment Company, of which A. Soriano is President and A. Santo Treasurer, both of Newark.

The property covers a plot 53 by 103 feet. It was owned for many years by John W. Lushear, President of the North Ward National Bank. The E. J. Maier Corporation acted as broker in the transaction. The house is now fully rented.

WHOLESALE GROCERS BUY.

Six-Story Building on Franklin St. Sold to Neuman & Schwiers.

Neuman & Schwiers, wholesale dealers in imported and fancy groceries, who for years have been located at 18 Worth Street, purchased from the Caplan estate 152 and 154 Franklin Street.

The property consists of a six-story building, on a plot 50 by 100 feet. The buyers will secure possession of the property and move in the course of a few weeks.

HOLLY ARMS RESOLD.

Bought by Grenetti Corporation Subject to $154,500 Mortgage.

Holly Arms, a six-story elevator apartment at 402 to 410 West 146th Street, has been resold by the Samuel Bernstein Realty Corporation to the Grenetti Realty Corporation.

The structure occupies a plot fronting 100 feet, with a depth of 99.11 feet, and adjoins the southwest corner of St. Nicholas Avenue. It was conveyed subject to a mortgage of $154,500.

Leases in Long Island City.

In the industrial section of Long Island City the Mercedes-Benz Company has leased for a service station a new building on Honeywell Street from William Klein and Morris Braunschweig, through the Roman-Callman Company. The latter also leased in the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Building, in conjunction with Joseph P. Day, one floor, with railroad connections, to the Bay State Upholstery Company of Boston, and sublet for the Gotham Braid Company the top floor at 92 Sunswick Street to the Rickard Engineering Corporation.

DAHLGREN HOUSE SOLD.

Purchased by P. C. Cartier, Who Has Occupied It for Several Years.

The former residence of Lucy Drexel Dahlgren, at 15 East Ninety-sixth Street, has been purchased by Pierre C. Cartier, Fifth Avenue jeweler.

The house is one of the finest and most spacious in the Carnegie Hill section. Together with a garage it occupies a plot 37.6 by 100 feet.

Mr. Cartier has occupied the house, as tenant, having leased the property from Mrs. Dahlgren in 1921.

It is a six-story stone front structure and is adjoined on either side by fifteen-story apartments.

Bank Takes Floors in Brooklyn.

The Nassau National Bank has leased two floors in the new Montague Court Building in Brooklyn through Nemerov & Nemerov, who also rented store space to Wallach Brothers and the United Cigar Stores.

PLANS WEST SIDE CLOTHING CENTRE

A. E. Nefcourt Will Put Up Three Large Buildings for Men's and Boys' Trade.

LONG-TERM LEASE MADE

Beshwitz Bros'. Contract the First Definite Move in Relocation of Great Industry.

What is regarded as the first definite move in the proposed relocation of the men's and boys' clothing industry from the east to the west side of Manhattan was made yesterday, when Beshwitz Bros. & Co., Inc., one of the largest clothing manufacturers in this country, signed a long-term lease beginning Feb. 1, 1929, for 70,000 square feet of space on three floors of the twenty-five-story Lefcourt Building, to be erected on the east side of Seventh Avenue, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth Streets.

The leases are at present located at 40 East Eleventh Street, and it is expected that their move will be followed by others in that neighborhood.

Building Ready in December, 1928.

The lease is the first signed for space in the proposed building, ground for which will be broken late in the Fall. The structure will be ready for occupancy in December, 1928. It will be the first of three twenty-five-story buildings to be erected by A. E. Lefcourt for manufacturers of men's and boys' clothing. The entire project will represent a $20,000,000 investment, and it is expected that the first unit will be rented in its entirety before completion.

The two other units will rise on the properties acquired by Mr. Lefcourt some time ago, one on the southeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Twenty-third Street and the other on the southeast corner of Twenty-second Street and Seventh Avenue.

As a result of an extensive survey by the research department of the A. E. Lefcourt Realty Holdings, unusual features will be incorporated in the new clothing centre on Seventh Avenue. In this connection Mr. Lefcourt announced yesterday that the first unit would have a driveway for freight extending from Twenty-fifth to Twenty-sixth Street, and that the building, covering the entire block, would have three entrances through an arcade from Seventh Avenue and running in "T" shape to Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth Streets.

New Location Convenient

The erection of this new clothing centre on Seventh Avenue is said to mark the first move to provide the industry with modern fireproof buildings in the new industrial heart of Manhattan. The location is regarded as exceptional, as it enables out-of-town buyers to find within six blocks north of the Pennsylvania Station the entire women's apparel industry and in the ten blocks south the men's and boys' apparel trades.

Mr. Lefcourt claims credit as pioneer in the move of the women's garment industry from the east to the west side. In less than five years over 4,000 makers of women's garments have located between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-ninth Streets and Sixth and Eighth Avenues.

TENEMENT HOUSE SALES.

Two Yorkville Structures Sold—Deal in Greenwich Village.

The fifteen-family tenement at 533 East Eighty-second Street, on a plot 36 by 100 feet, has been sold to Martha Tanzer, with a resale pending. Rose Spector held the house at $46,000. Frank Schwartz was the broker.

In another Yorkville deal through the same agent the five-story store property at 1,551 Avenue A, adjoining Eighty-second Street, held at $38,500, was sold for the Albacon Realty Corporation.

In the Greenwich Village section the five-story tenement at 43 Jane Street, lot 25 by 100, was sold through Van Vliet & Place in conjunction with Crist & Herrick, Inc.

Charles M. De Rose & Co., Inc., sold for the Nairda Realty Company, Inc., 420-422 East Eighteenth Street, a six-and-one-half-story new-law apartment house. The purchaser will remodel the premises.

LEASES ON PARK AVENUE.

Space Taken at 277 and 1,225—Rental on Central Park West.

Wilbur L. Cummings, A. Musgrove Hyde and J. Frank Darling have leased apartments at 277 Park Avenue through Douglas L. Elliman & Co., who also leased to Valentine L. Davies space at 1,225 Park Avenue and to Miss Florence Waterbury of Convent, N. J., an apartment in the new building at 126 East Sixty-third Street.

Cyrus S. Jullien and Philip Wechsler have leased apartments at 65 Central Park West through L. J. Phillips & Co. The same brokers rented space at 25 West Eighty-first Street to Mary L. Copeland and M. Howard Hyman, and at 80 West Ninety-sixth Street to Albert A. Raphael and Howard L. Tiger.

ART DEALERS LEASE SPACE.

Dudensing Galleries to Exhibit in New Location on 57th Street.

The Dudensing Galleries, Inc., now on West Forty-fourth Street, will move further uptown within two months, having leased space at 3 East Fifty-seventh Street through Douglas L. Elliman & Co.

The Dudensing Galleries, Inc., has been in business in New York for forty-six years. It was originally known as Richard Dudensing & Son. Shortly after Mr. Dudensing's arrival in America, he opened a print shop at 286 Fourth Avenue, where he dealt in original water colors and etchings. Several years later the firm moved to 8 East Forty-first Street, and in 1917 to Forty-fourth Street.

Bergen County Auction Sales.

At River Vale, in Bergen County, N. J., 200 residential lots will be sold on the premises Saturday at 2:30 P. M. by H. J. Baurdel, Inc., auctioneer. A similar sale was held last May. On Aug. 27 Mr. Baurdel will sell fifty lots on Old Tappan Road, Old Tappan, in the same county.

New Hotel for Seventh Av. Adjoining the Manger Site

A twenty-two-story hotel to cost $3,000,000 will be erected on the northeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Fifty-first Street, in the block above the Hotel Manger and the Roxy Theatre, according to plans filed yesterday by the Max Kursrak Realty Association, Inc., owner of the plot. Schwartz & Gross are the architects.

There will be a large court in the rear of the structure, and a tower equivalent to four stories will be topped with a copper dome. The hotel, which is expected to be completed within a year, will contain 540 rooms. It has been tentatively named the Senate.

UNDERWEAR MAKERS LEASE ON 33D STREET

South Jersey Company to Occupy Floor Near Fifth Avenue—Other Rentals.

The South Jersey Underwear Company has leased the eleventh floor at 30 to 38 East Thirty-third Street from the Wallack Construction Company through the H. J. Freidman Company, which also arranged for the Garment Centre Capitol the rental of the third floor at 498 Seventh Avenue to Miller & Gleen.

In the latter building space was also leased to Bender Brothers for a term of years through the M. M. Shulman Company.

Hamilton & Co. leased a floor in 519 Eighth Avenue to Abraham Fishman and one in 535 Eighth Avenue to Nathan Ketive for a term of years.

Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. leased for the Zandora Holding Corporation the store at 115 West Forty-seventh Street to A. George Lotito for a restaurant.

Carstein & Llanskin leased the tenth floor at 110 and 112 Fifth Avenue to the Peerless Smoking Jacket Company, and space at 126 Fifth Avenue to the L. M. Berberian Corporation.

Thoens & Flaunlacher, Inc., leased to Frank M. Brown for the Willetts Construction Company space on the eleventh floor in the new seventeen-story building at 114 East Thirty-second Street, and to S. J. Levy & Sons, underwear, for Ernest Bernhardt Koscherak the store and basement at 129 Fifth Avenue.

Cushman & Wakefield, Inc., leased offices in the new French Building at 551 Fifth Avenue to Edmond W. Brown and Manning Stires, and offices in the new General Motors Building at 1,775 Broadway to Emanuel Maynz.

PERMITS FOR BUILDING TOTAL $198,400,000

July Figures for Country Are 19 Per Cent. Below Those of Year Ago, Report Shows.

An estimated expenditure of about $198,400,000 was involved in permits for new buildings issued last month, according to R. G. Dun & Co.

Considering the magnitude of operations in recent years, the total is large, although nearly 19 per cent. below July, 1926. The decrease from the unusual aggregate for that period was not country-wide, for gains appear in New England and the Middle Atlantic States, the increase in the latter section exceeding 16 per cent. On the other hand, there are particularly large losses in the Central West, the Pacific Coast and Greater New York.

For all centres outside of New York City there is a falling off of about 12 per cent., while the reduction at the metropolis was about 24 per cent. For seven months of the year permits of $1,597,400,000 were a little more than 11 per cent. under the total for the same months last year.

The monthly record of the value of building permits issued in the United States is compared herewith for two years, as compiled by R. G. Dunn & Co.:

Month.	1927.	1926.
July	$198,354,000	$244,727,000
June	244,194,000	276,548,300
May	238,554,000	276,027,300
April	255,846,200	285,898,000
March	305,062,300	313,016,100
February	219,749,500	167,426,800
January	192,656,700	209,884,400
Seven months	$1,597,427,600	$1,783,652,200

Actress to Auction Island Estate.

The Summer home of May Irwin, actress, in the St. Lawrence River on one of the Thousand Islands, will be sold at auction on the premises at 3 P. M. Saturday, Aug. 20. The estate, known as Irwin Island, is two miles off the shore at Clayton, N. Y., and comprises eight acres, upon which there is an eighteen-room cottage with three baths. It represents an investment of $150,000 before the war, according to Miss Irwin.

To Auction Operators' Holdings.

The holdings of several large operators at Long Beach, L. I., and in Brooklyn, Staten Island and Manhattan will be offered at auction by Coughlan & Co., Inc., in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Commodore next Wednesday, Aug. 17, at 2 P. M.

BRONX PLOTS SOLD FOR IMPROVEMENT

APARTMENT FOR CRUGER AV.

Builders Will Erect Two-Family Houses on Parcels Bought From New Haven Road.

Well-sustained realty activity in the Pelham Parkway area was a marked feature of the Bronx market yesterday. A plot of eighteen lots on the east side of White Plains Road, 150 feet south of Pelham Parkway South, was purchased by Besner Feder for improvement with taxpayer store buildings. Jacob & Emil Leitner were the brokers.

The Leitner firm also sold for the Tilrose Associates (Samuel G. Cohen and Henry Gold) a plot, 100 feet on Pelham Parkway South and 150 feet on White Plains Road, to be improved with a one-story taxpayer; also sold the southeast corner of Pelham Parkway South and Boston Road, containing about five lots, and to a client of Charles H. Fredericks a plot of eighteen lots on the west side of White Plains Road, 150 feet south of Pelham Parkway South.

For improvement with a six-story apartment house, John Richardson purchased the plot 150 feet on Cruger Avenue by 100 feet on Pelham Parkway South, through Jacob & Emil Leitner as brokers.

Four lots on the Pelham Parkway, near East Chester Road, comprising part of the former Benjamin Stern property, have been purchased by Mrs. Dorothea Seldin from the Pelham Park Developers, Inc. The plot is 100 by 200 feet. Mark Sackler represented the buyer as attorney.

Flynn & Co. sold for K. Floren to M. Rourke a vacant plot of six lots at the junction of Golden and Lydig Avenues.

Coughlan & Co. sold for Amy K. Clamp to Fred Thielert a plot, 50 by 100, on Logan Avenue.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad sold three parcels to builders, who plan immediate improvement of the plots with two-family houses. Philip Gemain bought the first parcel, 100 feet square, on the west side of Kingsland Avenue, 100 feet north of Givan Avenue. On the east side of Kingsland Avenue, opposite the first parcel, a plot 175 by 100 feet was sold to the Hanest Realty Corporation. Abraham Schimmel took the third parcel, 150 by 100 feet, on the west side of Tiemann Avenue, 200 feet south of Tillotson Avenue. Nat E. Fink and M. Davidman were the brokers.

A plot on the northeast corner of Pelham Parkway North and Fenton Avenue, 100 by 183 feet, has been sold by the Pelmpark Developers, Inc., to an investor. S. A. Weinstein was the broker.

PLAN SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Additional Space for Ethical Culture Society in Bronx.

Three two-story brick buildings and one two-and-one-half-story structure, to be used for classrooms and laboratories by the Society of Ethical Culture, will be erected at the northwest corner of 238th Street and Fieldstone Road, according to plans filed with the Bronx Bureau of Buildings yesterday. Kohn & Stein, architects, estimate the cost at $240,000. Plans for a building to contain the administrative offices and additional classrooms for the society at the new location were recently filed. Other plans submitted yesterday were:

Northwest of Intervale Avenue and 167th Street, six-story brick tenement 103 by 85 feet; the Minhill Building Corporation, owner; Franklin, Bates & Heindsman, architects; cost, $180,000.

Broadway west side 175 feet north of Spuyten Duyvil Parkway, two five-story brick tenements, Mary E. Sharry, owner; Charles Kreyzaborg & Son, architects; cost, $150,000.

FACTORY FOR HARRISON.

Intertype Corporation Buys 43-Acre Site in Westchester.

The Intertype Corporation, manufacturing a typesetting machine, has bought a tract of forty-three acres in Harrison, N. Y., and will build a factroy to employ more than 1,000 persons, according to an announcement yesterday. The executive offices, now in Manhattan, and two factories in Brooklyn will be combined in the new Westchester building.

The property is near the Harrison Station, which serves both the New York, New Haven & Hartford and Boston & Westchester Railroads. It has frontages on West and Calvert Streets and the Cross County Parkway.

The new structure will be an extensive one-story brick building, and among other recreation facilities will include a 1,000-seat auditorium.

DEAL ON EIGHTH AVENUE.

L. Maldman Leases Building Opposite the Lincoln Hotel.

The four-story building at 707 Eighth Avenue, between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth Street, directly opposite the new Lincoln Hotel, has been leased to Irving Maldman for twenty years by John Knobler. The lot is 25 by 100 feet, and adjoins the site of a new building being erected by the Seventh National Bank at Forty-fourth Street.

The site is part of the holdings of James Laurens Van Alen estate, which owns the whole block front. It was leased several years ago to Louis Kovner who in turn leased 705 and 707 to John Knobler. Mr. Maldman will alter the store front and the upper three floors for business purposes.

J. P. & L. A. Kissling were the brokers.

STYLES & CASH TO MOVE.

Printers Sell Building on Fourteenth Street to Warehouse Concern.

The eight-story fireproof building at 126 West Fourteenth Street, owned and occupied by the printing firm of Styles & Cash, has been sold to William H. Bovers of the Bovers Storage and Warehouse Company. The Bovers concern will utilize the space for storage purposes in addition to its warehouse at 148 West Fourteenth Street, where the company has been for the past thirty years.

Tunney, Cahill & Co. were the brokers.

To Remodel Two Tenements Leased on Lower East Side

A long-term lease on two five-story tenement houses at 28 Second Avenue has been sold by the Robley Holding Company, Inc., to the Commercial Building Company, which plans to alter the buildings in conformity with the model tenement project for Allen Street and First Avenue, near by. The two structures are between First and Second Streets, on an irregular plot 26 by 50 by 100 feet. The house facing the street has stores on the first floor and dwelling space above.

Thoens & Flaunlacher, Inc., in conjunction with H. Brown, arranged the sale of the leasehold.

$102,500 LOAN PLACED ON BRONX APARTMENT

Five-Story House at Olinville and Mace Aves. Financed—Four Brooklyn Mortgages.

A first mortgage loan of $102,500 has been placed on the five-story apartment house at the northeast corner of Mace and Olinville Avenues, on a plot 75 by 100 feet. Quinlan & Leland arranged the financing for the Mace-Olinville Construction Company.

The Prudence Trading Corporation has placed for the Garland Holding Corporation a first mortgage of $117,500 at 6 per cent. on the north side of Mermaid Avenue, 77 feet west of East Thirty-first Street, Brooklyn, and for the Cafris Construction Company a first mortgage of $22,000 at 6 per cent. on the south side of Fifty-sixth Street, 319 feet west of Twelfth Avenue, Brooklyn.

Julius Lurie has placed a loan of $68,500 for the Avenue M Realty Corporation on thirteen two-family dwellings on the southeast corner of Avenue M and Remsen Avenue, Brooklyn.

The Prudence-Bonds Corporation has granted a $15,000 first mortgage loan on the building to be erected at 1,830 Myrtle Avenue, Ridgewood, Brooklyn.

Slawson & Hobbs, in conjunction with the Joseph D. Morris Company, have placed for the Woodside Investing Corporation, Sam A. Harris, Treasurer, a loan of $82,500 for the erection of a two-story business building on the northwest corner of Fifty-eighth Street and Roosevelt Avenue, Woodside.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company loaned $138,000 on first mortgage to the Great Northern Apartment Corporation on the six-story apartment at 960 Prospect Avenue. The mortgage is at 5½ per cent. for five years.

NEW YORKER SELLS JERSEY SHORE HOME

A. W. Bastedo Acquires West End Residence of S. M. Sternbach —Other Transactions.

The large residence with four acres of land at the southeast corner of Norwood and Hollywood avenues, West End, N. J., owned by Sydney M. Sternbach of New York, has been purchased by A. W. Bastedo for occupancy. Besides the main dwelling, the property contains a garage, bathhouses and swimming-pool. The holding price was $60,000. David S. Meyer, Inc., was the broker.

The residence at Deal owned by L. Restrepo of California, fronting on Neptune Avenue, was also sold through the David S. Meyer firm to David A. Jagger. The plot is 180 by 150 feet.

The same brokers sold for Mrs. Catherine O'Day her home at 16 Spair Avenue, Allenhurst, to Chester S. Braun of Newark. The plot is 100 by 150 feet.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

Goelet Gallitan Takes Apartment Floor on East 72d Street.

Goelet Gallitan has leased the entire eighth floor of the apartment house at 30 East Seventy-second Street. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. and Sharp & Nassoit were the brokers.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. arranged the lease of a new location on East Fifty-seventh Street for Dean's, an old Fifth Avenue catering establishment. The new store, near Madison Avenue, was taken at a rental of $1,300 a front foot.

The Physical Culture Restaurant Company leased the building at 77-79 Bleecker Street through Gus Jaritsky.

Italo Palermo, President of the Bank of Sicily Trust Company, has rented through the Greenebero Corporation a garden apartment in the Towers at Jackson Heights.

Woman Buys in Connecticut.

Daisy W. Tankoos of Brooklyn has purchased through Percy D. Adams an acre of land with a fourteen-room dwelling and garage on the Greenwich Cove waterfront at Shoreland, Round Beach, Conn. The property is known as Long Vue.

LIFE IS ENRICHED

in this newest, smartest colony

SO SMART and always cool as a frosty dawn . . . this wonderful new summer colony on Long Island's slender tip is attracting the man who has the world to choose from.

It is a glorious land of rolling hills, of woods and lakes, fringed on the three sides by crystal white beaches that slip into the sea.

Here's the place to live . . . where every sport is at your doorstep, where life is for those who know the gentle art of living.

Over the first golf course, now in perfect condition, the skill of the master is tested. Tricky fairways meander over hills to velvet greens well-guarded by traps. Smooth, springy turf tempts the player of polo. And it is planned to create a polo village around four other polo fields.

There's every water sport, swimming in quiet lakes or battling the surf, casting for fighting fish, sailing the sea or coursing over the three-mile oval course on Montauk Lake. There's tennis on the fastest courts. And miles of bridle paths lure the lover of good horseflesh.

Montauk Beach, lavishly endowed by nature, bids fair to become the finest, most exclusive resort on the Atlantic. Even now, famous sportsmen are building homes in Montauk Beach.

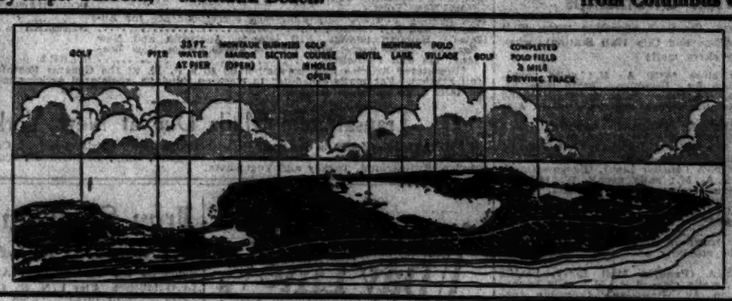
This new magnificent hotel invites you now

Designed to cater to the most discriminating, to please every taste, to surround you with every pleasure, Montauk Manor stands like a sentinel, guarding the hills of Montauk, the sea, the lakes and the Sound. It has the rich atmosphere and delightful ease which have for centuries given charm to English sporting life.

Spend happy vacation days in this paradise of sport. Montauk Manor and its manager, Mr. Berhnard Lundberg, invite you. By motor it is only a pleasant four-hour run from Columbus Circle.

MONTAUK MANOR

A noted rendezvous for fashionable folk, where matchless scenery and unsurpassed facilities for both rest and recreation make Montauk Manor the ultimate choice of those who can well afford whatever they want. Modern to the smallest detail. Excellent cuisine. 300 rooms and baths.



LONG ISLAND

Montauk Beach is just a pleasant journey from New York. De luxe express trains on the Long Island Railroad from New York to Montauk four times daily. Through trains from Washington. Only 3 hours and 45 minutes from Pennsylvania station, New York.

ENDURING FINANCIAL RECORDS.

The printing of several hundred copies of The New York Times each day on imperishable rag paper preserves financial notices, bank statements and other announcements of record for generations—for centuries, if kept in files. Advertisers who place financial announcements in The Times—the preferred newspaper for such notices—know that they are also in the newspaper of permanent record.—Advt.
